Majority leader Lyndon B. Johnson Dem. Tex. called the session an hour earlier than usual to discuss ratification of the treaty setting up the agency in which some 80 nations would participate.

This is one of the major items on the president's legislative program. The proposed agency stems from Eisenhower's "atoms-peace" speech to the United Nations in 1953.

At one time the treaty had aroused considerable opposition, but with some leading Republican senators among those expressing doubts about it.

FEELING FADES

But most of this feeling appears to have been dissipated.

Under a new interpretation of the ratification resolution, the United States would be able to quit the agency any time other member nations vote to amend its basic charter in a way not acceptable to the Senate.

Countries possessing atomic fuels would make them available to an international pool to be operated by the agency for the benefit of atom "have-not" countries. The recipients are pledged to devote these fuels to purely peaceful useful uses such as electric power production and medical research.

Lovelorn Mayor Wins Teacher He Abducted

REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy (AP)—A lovelorn mayor has won permission to marry the girl he forced school marm he carried off to the mountains last week.

Police dropped the case after Francesca Zavitieri, 28, and Pietro Serraino, 49-year-old mayor of Rosghoul village, said they made for the hills in hopes of breaking her family's resistance to their match.

Serraino and several comrades staged the "abduction" in which the co - operated. They waylaid girl as she made fled to the hills.

Police received an anonymous note Sunday saying they could find Francesca in a cave. They found her and Serraino and strolled into the Reggio police station.

rancesca's family finally gave their blessing and announced the wedding will be held soon.

Today's Chuckle

"My husband is wonderful in one respect," the woman said. "He never says 'I told you so.'"

"But of course," she added after a pause, "he reminds me very frequently that he does not."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Hot and humid weather will extend from across Southern Ontario. Widely scattered showers and thunderstorms are expected. Afternoon temperatures will be near 90.

Most of Northern Ontario will be warm and pleasant with scattered showers and thunder showers that spread into northwestern Ontario during the night will reach the northern regions of the province this afternoon.

Somewhat cooler and much drier air is pushing slowly eastward across the U. S. central plains. This air is expected to reach the lower Great Lakes regions late Tuesday.

TWENTY KILLED IN GUN BATTLE AROUND CHURCH

Voters in Lebanon Back Pro-West Govt.

BEIRUT (AP)—More than 20 persons were reported killed and 50 wounded in a gun battle around a church in north Lebanon Sunday as voters assured Premier Sami Solh's government majority backing in the new parliament for its pro-Western foreign policy.

Lebanese army units were called in to break up the battle at a Maronite Christian church in Miziara village. The fight between friends and relatives of rival candidates for parliament was the outgrowth of an old feud between rival clans.

Voting in the second round of parliamentary elections, the conservative, predominantly Christian Mount Lebanon district elected 15 candidates either on the government list or expected to back Premier Sami Solh's foreign policy. Government candidates were leading in three of the other four contests.

LEFTIST WESTERN BLOC

This brought to 34, and possibly 37, the bloc in the 66-member parliament supporting the government's foreign policy, including endorsement of the Eisenhower doctrine. Pro-Egyptian opposition candidates so far have won only three seats.

Other districts of Lebanon will fill the other 27 seats in voting next Sunday and June 30. Twenty-nine seats were decided June 9.

The army, after restoring order at Miziara put strong patrols in the village to prevent new clashes. The district does not vote until June 30.

Three American Tourists Die After Explosion

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Walter Neff, 40, died Sunday night a few hours after his son John, 10, Hospital authorities today reported the two survivors, Mrs. Neff, 31, and Dennis McQuaton, 10, are in satisfactory condition.

Police said the blast occurred when someone attempted to light a propane gas stove. The explosion ,heard severa lmiles, blew in the side of the vacationers' three-room cabin, located 30 miles north of Sudbury.

Police said a resultant blaze set the tourists' clothing and furniture afire. Provincial Cliff Sharp of Havarstel Lodge heard the blast and left the lodge before the building collapsed on them in blankets. He suffered burns to his face and arms.

Irate at Reckless Driving Charge, Girl Tackles Police With Shotgun

NEWTON, N.J. (AP)—Patrolman William Knoll looked up from his desk at the police station Sunday in time to see a pretty, attractive 20-year-old girl pointing a 12-gauge shotgun at his head.

He gave the following account: The girl, Vivian Masters, entered the police station of this northern New Jersey town while Knoll was on duty. Holding him at bay with the shotgun, she demanded that he call Patrolman Charles Young, who arrested her last month for reckless driving. Knoll complied. The police patrolman radioed in to report a safe cracking. Wm Miss Masters' permission. Knoll acknowledged the call but gave out a code signal calling the patrolmen back into the station immediately.

Patrolman Young and Deta entered the station and was confronted by the shotgun. Knoll, who knew the girl as a crack shot skilled at dper hunting, suggested that Deta drop his holster, which he did.

Meanwhile, Patrolman Clarence Friedman, looked in from the porch and realizing that the station was under attack, rushed in and grabbed Deta to run away momentarily. Knoll grabbed the gun. He said it contained no shells.

Police said the girl was not charged to violence at the station house. After her arrest for reckless driving, she had to run away from officers who were taking her to the station, they said. When Knoll finally brought her in, she poked her arm in through a window.

As they locked her up, police reported, Miss Masters told them: "If they send me up for this, I'll come back and get you. . . . I'll take the girl as a crack shot

Appears P.M. Clearing Way For PC Leader to Take Office

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent has called another cabinet meeting for this afternoon and it appeared possible he may announce soon afterwards whether his government will resign.

Meanwhile Governor - General Massey, it was learned, has cancelled all out-of-town engagements for the next few days. Mr. Massey would summon a successor and ask him to form a government should Mr. St. Laurent resign.

It appeared likely Mr. St. Laurent will terminate the Liberal administration of 22 years in office late today or within the next day or two, depending on how soon the government cleans up routine business.

John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative leader, then would be asked to form a government. Some of the men who may be invited into his cabinet are making an appearance in the capital. Some arrived late last week. Others arrived during the weekend and today.

The cabinet meeting is scheduled for 3 p.m.

Mr. St. Laurent, asked in an interview Sunday night whether there would be any announcements on the formation of another government, replied:

"I would be surprised if there wasn't something definite tomorrow."

He said any announcement would follow his second meeting with Mr. St. Laurent scheduled to be held today.

Mr. St. Laurent fended off all questions about possible developments today as newspaper men questioned him on his arrival at his East Block office at 9:50 a.m.

He was asked whether he will be seeing Mr. Diefenbaker today and replied "I can't tell you that now."

Meanwhile, Mr. Diefenbaker himself refused at his hotel and planned to go to his Centre Block office. His advisers said he would call a cabinet meeting for 3 p.m. there.

Macmillan Says Political Pact Needed to Settle Issue

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan has told Soviet Premier Bulganin that British and Russia should make "some kind of advance toward a more sensible relationship."

At the same time, the British leader said in a letter to Bulganin that there is "little prospect" of settling major East-West issues until there are free elections to reunify Germany.

Macmillan's 2,500 - word letter was delivered to Moscow Friday and published here Saturday night. It replied to Bulganin's personal letter of April 20 urging improved Anglo-Soviet relations.

Macmillan said the important question is how to dispel the threat of war. To do this, the first problem, he added, is to obtain East-West agreement on both conventional and nuclear disarmament based on a genuine system of control.

As "a step forward" to a partial disarmament agreement, Macmillan proposed that it negotiate to approve immediately a British proposal for banning nuclear tests and cessation of nuclear tests and for the presence of international observers at the tests.

The prime minister said Britain could not accept full-scale cooperation in the armed forces as proposed by Russia "without also being assured of parallel settlement on the political field." He added:

"If, as I hope, the Soviet government want to give practical evidence, of their expressed desire for peace, they can find immediate problems which beset us, the best way of doing so with both to give the German people freely to elect their own government and to decide their own future.

"Unless the Soviet government are prepared to recognize the right of self-determination to the Germans, there is, I fear, little prospect of the Baltic and Bulgaria element of the other major issues outstanding between East and West."

Macmillan said that Soviet policy in the Middle East would not be a serious obstacle to "any real improvement" in Anglo-Soviet relations, but Britain would welcome better trade and cultural relations.

Macmillan mentioned "great problems" still dividing their two countries, such as the German, Hungarian and Middle East issues.

"We have different points of view on many great issues, indeed on the most fundamental basis of life," he said. "But these differences ought not to prevent us from finding some kind of advance toward a more sensible relationship between our two countries. . . ."

10-Year-Old Boy Runs Amok Shooting Up Mining Town

CANONSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Residents of the small mining community of Canonsburg will keep their doors barred by Fathers Day, 1957, and 10-year-old Joe Coleman. He shot up the town for two hours and pinned his dad behind a telephone pole with gunfire.

Armed with two automatic pistols and an undetermined quantity of bullets, Joe terrorized the county community by shooting at anyone who moved before he fired. Only one was subdued. No one was wounded.

Wally kept running back and forth, taking a shot at anyone he saw moving. Joe's mother watched the tense drama from his home. He added: "At one time he had his dad pinned behind a telephone pole across Maple Street. His father would peek around it, then duck himself up. Joey told his dad to come out from behind the pole or he would shoot it down. The kid did and ran down the street. The boy did not shoot at him."

Joey was captured when one man cajoled the boy, saying:

"Come on, Joey, come home." Joey followed the man and was captured by two others who leaped from behind a hedge and smashed him.

Police took Joey to hospital where doctors found that he was in a highly emotional state. He will be placed over to juvenile authorities, police said.

No Relief Seen From Heat Wave For Day or So

TORONTO (CP)—The first major heat wave of the year struck Southern Ontario over the weekend. The weatherman predicted no relief for the next day or so.

The heat, combined with high humidity, sparked an exodus to beaches and swimming pools. At least 14 persons were drowned during the weekend in Ontario.

The sultry weather accounted for seven heat prostration cases treated at hospital in Toronto where the temperature reached 85 Sunday. The same temperature was forecast for today.

Sunday night was the hottest record for June 17 in Toronto. The low was a humid 72 degrees. The previous record of 70 was established in 1949.

19 Persons Die As Floods Hit St. Louis Area

ST. LOUIS (AP)— Refugees from St. Louis area floods which have killed 19 persons and caused several million dollars damage started to clean up their homes today.

In Belleville, Ill., a city of 35,000 across the Mississippi River from here where 12.75 inches of rain fell Saturday, was set at $1,000,000. Water supplies were still off today.

The storm had dumped 8.72 inches of rain on St. Louis in 24 hours, and 3,000 persons in area persons to evacuate.

But Richland creek, whose waters had triggered much of the destruction, was back in its banks today.

In Lemay, a south St. Louis county suburb, police estimated damage at $1,000,000. Belleville and Lemay were the only cities where damage figures were stated.

DR. W. G. BLAIR, NEWLY-ELECTED PC MEMBER, DIES

Slated for Cabinet Post in New Govt.

Death of the long-time - elected member, mentioned in speculation as a possible health minister should the Conservatives form the government, came as a shock to colleagues.

Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker said he had spoken to Dr. Blair Saturday and hoped to see him in a day or so to make available to him "an opportunity for even greater public service."

He could not elaborate "at this time," he told a reporter.

Dr. Blair had been in apparent good health. He campaigned actively to retain his Lanark seat in the June 10 general election.

NOW 102 PC SEATS

His death reduces Conservative membership in the 265-seat Commons to 102. The Liberals have 104, CCF 25 and Social Credit 19 seats.

There are also two Independents two Independent-Liberals, one Independent Conservative, one Conservative, one Liberal-Labor and one delerred seat—the vote in Welland-Thorold was held back to July 15 because of the death of the Liberal candidate before polling day.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Dr. Blair's "long service in Parliament, especially in matters of health and welfare, will be long remembered with the highest traditions of Parliament." He was "a man who knocked" to learn of the member's death.

CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell said the Conservative party lost "an outstanding colleague and one who deserved recognition in any cabinet that might be formed."

He said the member "commanded the affection and esteem of every member of Parliament regardless of political affiliation."

The death will necessitate a byelection in Lanark which has voted Conservative in every election but one since 1900 when the seat went to Liberal R. R. Lang. Dr. Blair replaced him as the party in 1945, his freshman year in the Commons. He was re-elected defended it in 1949 and 1953.

Dr. Blair was a native of the Perth district and served as the town's mental hospital physician. He was a graduate of Queen's University.

He served overseas in the First World War with the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, rising to lieutenant-colonel.

He is survived by his wife, a son, Dr. Robert Blair of Ottawa, and a daughter, Mrs. Erik Spicer, also of Ottawa.

Microphone Stolen From Police Car

MONTREAL (CP) — Constable Gerald Houle reached for the microphone in his squad car early today to report "all's well."

That's when he noticed the microphone had been stolen.

He said the theft must have been made by a thief "with a long arm and a pair" with a long arm and a pair" while he was out of the car answering a routine call.

Two Tweed Boys Drowned In Moira River on Sunday

One Loses Life in Vain Attempt to Save Other

TWEED (Special) — Despite the efforts of several nearby swimmers who dived repeatedly into 10 feet of water to recover their bodies within 15 minutes, two young Tweed boys drowned in the Moira River at Tweed early Sunday afternoon.

Drowned are Paul Hawkins, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hawkins, and Bernard Aikey, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Aikey, who jumped in fully clothed in a brave rescue attempt which cost him his life.

The double drowning accident took place directly in front of the Hawkins' residence on Moira St., and about two hundred yards north of the grist mill dam.

The Hawkins boy is believed to have been wading along the steep bank of the river when he got beyond his depth. Bernard Aikey, who was on his way to Tweed park, heard the lad's cry for help as he passed along the street and jumped in fully clothed in an effort to rescue him.

Michael Courtepa, 24, uncle of the Hawkins boy who was sleeping on a couch in the home of Mrs. Hawkins' home, heard the boys' call for help and running to the river saw the two boys' bodies in 10 feet of water. Unable to swim he raised the alarm and called police.

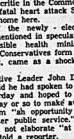
BODIES SOON RECOVERED

Swimmers on the bridge and the 200 yards away ran to his assistance and diving into the deep water were successful in recovering both bodies in about 10 feet of water and 12 feet from the bank.

Paul Lefevre, 24, of Ottawa, visiting in Tweed for the weekend, and Steve Macdonald, 24, of Tweed, recovered the bodies. Efforts at resuscitation practised for more than two hours failed to revive the boys. Resuscitators owned by the Department of Health and Welfare in Tweed and by the Belleville Fire Department who made a quick run to Tweed, were called into action without success.

Mr. Aikey said later that his boy was a good swimmer. Grief stricken, yet proud of his son's rescue attempt, Mr. Aikey said "It's one of those things that cannot be helped."

Police Chief Walter Higgins of Tweed said both boys' bodies had been recovered within 15 minutes of the accident and no other drowning possible had been done in efforts to revive them.



The bodies remained in the Hawkins boy is survived by two brothers and a sister, all younger, while the Aikey boy leaves his parents and two brothers and two sisters.

STRIKING GIRLS RETURN

BRANTFORD (CP) — A strike of 25 girls in the sewing department of the A. G. Spalding sporting goods plant was settled Saturday and the girls were to return to work today. The members of the International Ladies Garment Workers of America (CIO) went on strike because of a delay in setting a price rate for the girls' work, a union official said.

Recover Body Of Kingston Girl

KINGSTON (CP) — The body of four-year-old Susan Jean Cain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cain of Kingston, missing since about March 29, was recovered today from Lake Ontario off the Kingston Shipyards.

The girl disappeared after being seen playing with Garry Richardson, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Richardson at Macdonald Park on the shores of the lake.

When the girl was reported missing police, firemen, taxi drivers, Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs, and members of the Princess of Wales Own Regiment joined in an intensive search. A diver from Brockville, Paul Capper, was called in as well as Kingston "frogmen."

The body was spotted today floating about 15 feet off the shipyard wharf by Leslie Todd, of Odessa, a shipyard employee.

CITY and DISTRICT NEWS

CHEAPER TO BUY DOG LICENCES

It's cheaper to purchase dog licences when they are due.

Over 30 local pet owners have found this out this year after receiving summonses for failure to have a dog tag for this current year.

City pound keeper Charles Thorne says the 30 dog owners all pleaded guilty as charged and paid $5.50 fine and costs in addition to the cost of their belatedly purchased dog tag.

PETERBOROUGH BEATS LOCAL CHESS CLUB

The Canadian General Electric Chess Club of Peterborough defeated the Belleville Chess Club, 3½-2½, in a friendly match played at Peterborough yesterday. Peterborough thereby repeated its earlier victory over the local club in a match played here. Yesterday Bud Ellis and Dick Payne of the local club won their games and Vic DePaul got a draw, but Martin Hamelink, Dave Batchelor and Eric Kolters all lost.

Peterborough is enthusiastic about a proposal originally advanced by the local club to form a league next fall consisting of teams from Peterborough, Kingston, Belleville and possibly Brockville.

Grills' Plurality Over Follwell Now 2,241

With the result of the soldier vote announced Saturday, the plurality of Progressive Conservative candidate Lee Grills over Liberal Frank S. Follwell in Hastings South has been reduced to 2,241, it was revealed today.

Previous totals of the three candidates with one Trenton poll and the soldier vote still to be counted were Follwell 14,318; Grills 14,045 and Basil Luglin, Social Credit, 2,078.

The outstanding Trenton poll gave Follwell 116, Grills 99 and Luglin 12, while the soldier vote gave Follwell 698, Grills 226 and Luglin 15.

The total vote with all polls in and the soldier vote counted gives Follwell 14,129, Grills 14,370, and Luglin 599.

Unidentified Lad Nearly Drowns Off Zwick's Is.

With three drownings already reported in the Bay of Quinte district over the weekend, a young unidentified teen - ager had a narrow escape from the same fate Sunday afternoon when he became exhausted in an attempt to swim from the public pump house to Zwick's Island and return.

Midway on his return trip to the north shore the lad got in trouble and started to call for help and it was only the prompt possible drowning by some people in a motorboat which was speeded to his rescue.

The lad was hauled into the boat and brought ashore where artificial respiration was applied for a few minutes to bring him around.

Bush's Ambulance was called to the scene with its resuscitator, but the lad was apparently revived by the time it arrived. A moment later he changed his clothes and went on his way, giving chilly his name. Identity of the boy's rescuers was not learned.

Saturday's other drowning victim was drowned at Outlet Creek in Prince Edward county, while Sunday afternoon two Tweed boys drowned in the Moira. The Belleville Fire Department resuscitator was at Tweed when the call came in from the pump house there. Fire Chief Gerald Vance sent Bush's Ambulance in the emergency.

6,000 Guests Attend Ottawa Garden Party

OTTAWA (CP) — Orange juice and tea were served and ice cream cones were among the most welcome refreshments handed out Saturday at the governor-general's annual garden party.

More than 6,000 guests stuck close to the shade of refreshment tents and trees on Rideau Hall lawn as late-afternoon temperatures hit 87 degrees.

Among the record crowd—there were fewer than 4,000 last year—were about 2,000 delegates to the Conference of the Canadian Societies which ends a 12-day session here today.

John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative leader whose party gained the largest number of Commons seats in the June 10 elections, and Prime Minister St. Laurent were centres of attraction.

Hon. George Drew, whom Mr. Diefenbaker succeeded as leader on his retirement last year, and Mrs. Drew also attended the party.

Mr. Massey, in morning clothes, strolled casually among his guests, stopping often to chat.

Smith Transport Drivers Receive Safety Awards

Safe driving awards to 58 Smith Transport drivers, in the Central Ontario area, taking in terminals at Belleville, Cobourg, Picton, Peterborough and Kingston, were presented at a safe driving banquet held Saturday evening at the Hotel Quinte.

Company officials, together with drivers and their wives and other city and provincial police officials, attended the banquet. John A. Boyle, area supervisor for Smith Transport, presided over the banquet program.

Belleville with 15 drivers with accident free records dating back over the past three years, had the largest number of awards; Kingston was second with 14, Cobourg and Peterborough had 10 each and Picton two.

Cobourg drivers had a 100 per cent accident free record over the past three years, area supervisor John Boyle stated.

TRIBUTE TO WIVES

Gordon Creighton, Toronto, superintendent of maintenance, said that a happy home life had much to do with accident free operation by highway transport drivers. He paid tribute to the wives, stating that a happy home life meant careful drivers.

Police Chief W. Probert and Provincial Police Inspector A. McDougall both paid tribute to drivers receiving awards, stating that with today's congested traffic an accident free driver must be particularly safety conscious.

Inspector McDougall said that the provincial police greatly appreciated the co-operation given by transport drivers who were ever on the alert to avoid accidents.

Others heard briefly at the meeting were Stan Taylor, operators manager and Howard MacNeil, representing the Transportation Association of Ontario.

Mr. MacDonald said he was happy to see Smith Transport take on the safety driving program for its drivers. He said his association's award was not for safe driving but was difficult to earn.

"If you've won an award you've earned it," he said.

BEST IN ONTARIO

Alec Cumming, safety director for Smith's said that Mr. Boyle's Central Ontario area had the highest percentage of accident-free drivers in Smith's Ontario division. He also noted that Cobourg's record was 100 per cent.

Thanks fellows for contributing to our safety record, without your co-operation we could achieve little," he said.

Police Blotter

A Hillcrest street woman reported a country front window broken, presumably the result of children at play, while a Church street man complained of the theft of a full tank of gasoline from his auto.

Napanee police apprehended a Belleville youth on a warrant from the city police charging attempted car theft. The boy has been returned to Belleville to face trial.

4,119 Workers Soon to Receive Summer Break

Information on the summer vacation schedules of local industries has been received from the Chamber of Commerce and it reveals that 4,119 workers will either enjoy vacations during July and August, or at a more convenient time of the year.

The American Optical Co. Canada Ltd. and Bakelite Co., Division of Union Carbides, are releasing their employees from July 15 to July 29; workers at the Northern Electric plant go from July 15 to July 29, while the premises will be closed at the following industries: Bellewood Manufacturing, July 1 to August 31; Black Diamond Cheese, July 1 to Sept. 30; Bruce Manufacturing, July 1 to Nov. 30; Canadian Cement, May 1 to Nov. 30; Canadian Welding Gases, July 1 to Sept. 30; Cole Sewing, July 1 to Nov. 30; Carsquet Packers, June 1 to Sept. 30; Dow Distillery, July 1 to Aug. 19; Dussek Brothers Canada, July 1 to Sept. 2; Graham Foods, July 1 to Aug. 31; W. T. Hawkins, June 3 to Dec. 31; Lon's Stone Works, July 1 to Nov. 30; Rathbun Manufacturing, Jan. 1 to Dec.; and Wilson Concrete Products, Dec. 21 to Mar. 31.

Belleville Rinks Win Tourney At Local Club

Under ideal weather conditions the first bowling tournament of the season was held at the Trenton Bowling Club on Saturday afternoon. Twenty men's rinks competed, with six from Tweed, Brighton, Trenton, Campbellford and Kingston competing with Belleville.

Two Belleville rinks were the top winners of the tournament, Bryden Graham skipping Holland being in the first bracket with Bill Wright and Ken Johnston as lead behind. Lorne Lockwood and Keith Robin of Brighton captured the two-arrow high score, while Webb Kingston and Austin Putnam of Campbellford had the second highest score.

The greens were in excellent condition and the bowling was exceptionally keen so early in the season.

On Wednesday the tournament will be held in Stirling where the men's triples will be played and on Saturday a mixed doubles tournament will be played at Brighton.

Cherry Valley Man Drowned In Outlet Creek

Charles Elmer Magee, 28, of R. R. 1 Cherry Valley, father of two small children, was drowned in Outlet Creek, Athol township, Prince Edward county, late Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Magee, with two companions, Raymond Hudgin, 40, of Picton, and Carl McLellan, 33, also of R. R. 1 Cherry Valley, were in a boat in the Outlet Creek when the boat overturned. Mr. Hudgin and Mr. McLellan swam safely ashore, but Mr. Magee drowned.

FRANCOSE ANTONY (FRANK) LAPANNE

Resident of Belleville for the past 40 years, Francose Antony (Frank) Lapanne, of King Stokes St., died suddenly in the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday, in his 63rd year.

Born in Italy, Mr. Lapanne came to Canada many years ago and lived in Montreal and Toronto before coming to this city. He was well known in the downtown area, having been employed in the shoe shine stand at Central Barbershop on Front Street.

He leaves his wife, the former Concetta Marie Maggiacomo; one son, Angelo Lapanne, Marie, Teresa Rose, Doreen Frances, Jean Agnes, Margaret Anne and Mary Catherine, all at home, and Mrs. Nick (Betty) Caldarelli, Belleville, and Mrs. A. R. (Antoinette) Brassaur, of Montreal.

Mr. Lapanne was a member of St. Michael's Church.

MRS. REGINALD STEPHENSON

The funeral of Mrs. Reginald Stephenson was held from the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home, Victoria Avenue, on Saturday afternoon. Service in the chapel was conducted by Rev. Ronald Hunt, and the interment was in Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were Cecil and Rhoden Case, William and Robert Lewkin, Austin Cunningham and Harold Dunsieth.

MRS. ADA ROBINSON

The funeral of Mrs. Ada Robinson was held from the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home, Victoria Avenue, on Friday afternoon. Rev. Ray Rowley conducted the service in the chapel and the graveside service in Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were Arthur Joseph and Fred Ellis, James Heffernan, John Trumpour and David Mason.

ROY JOYCE
Desoronto

A lifelong resident of Desoronto, Roy Joyce, Green Street, died in the Kingston General Hospital on Tuesday after a short illness, at the age of 57 years.

He was buried in Desoronto cemetery on Thursday after Rev. Ralph Edmunds, assisted by Rev. George R. Ewald, conducted a service in Desoronto United church.

Mr. Joyce is survived by his wife, who was Gladys Toppings; a daughter, Shirley, 19, at home, and a son, John, of Toronto, and one brother, Walter, of Desoronto.

MRS. FRANK L. TYLER
Trenton

Ill for the past five weeks, Mrs. Florence Victoria Tyler, 9 Queen Street, Trenton, died on Thursday in the Trenton Memorial Hospital.

She was buried this Monday afternoon in White's Cemetery after a service was held in the Weaver Funeral Home, which was conducted by Rev. G. J. Miniielly officiated.

Members of the Order of the Eastern Star, Chapter 118, of Trenton, held a memorial service in the funeral home on Saturday evening.

Mrs. Tyler was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Cooke. She had resided in Trenton for the past eight years, before which she lived at Georgetown.

She leaves her husband, Frank L. Tyler, a daughter, Mrs. Maurice (Lena) Jones of Trenton; two sisters, Mrs. Maude Sherwood of Toronto and Miss Dorothy Cooke, both of Lucknow, and a brother, Charles of Lucknow.

Mrs. Tyler was a member of King Street United Church and was a past matron of the O.E.S., Chapter 118 and had been treasurer of the Past Matrons' club.

IN MEMORIAM

CARTER. — In loving memory of my dear dad, Wilbert Carter, who passed away suddenly on June 17th, 1934.

Sad memories never near us,
Your love remains with us yet;
You were the best of fathers,
Your loved ones will never forget.

CARTER. — In loving memory of a dear dad, Wilbert Carter, who passed away so suddenly on June 17th, 1934.

Quietly and suddenly came the call
His sorrowful summons to obey,
His memory than words can tell
The loss of a father we loved so well.

—Sadly missed by daughter Jean, son-in-law Jack Hall and granddaughter Linda, Jacqueline and Billy.

ROMBOUGH. — In loving memory of my dear husband, Ernest Rombough, who passed away June 17, 1956.

God needed a star in heaven,
A beautiful light to shine.
He took the kindest husband
Of sorrow.
He chose that dear mother of mine.

Dear God, take a message,
To mother in heaven above,
Tell her how much I miss her.
And give her all my love.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter Jessie.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Western oils moved higher but the rest of the stock market was easier today in moderate morning trading.

The western oil index gained more than three-quarters of a point while industrials lost three-quarters of a point and base metals eased more than one-half point. Golds were virtually unchanged on their index.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 1,155,000 shares compared with 956,000 at the same time Friday.

Western oil gains ranged to 20 cents among lower-priced issues and to major fractions in the higher-priced stocks. Canadian Export Gas, Cree and North Canadian were ahead 20 cents.

Falconbridge eased ¼ at 37 among senior base metals. Other price changes were smaller. Pyrotto was up 30 cents to 57 in speculative but Grandoc lost 19 cents at $2.61 in coppers.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Trade was dull on a good quality offering today at the Ontario public stockyards. Sales were too few to establish prices on slaughter steers and heifers. Baby-type yearlings were steady. Cows were in narrow demand at prices $1 a hundredweight lower. Bulls were steady.

Receipts: Cattle 4,786, including 525 stockers; calves 572; hogs 142; sheep and lambs 152.

Good heifers, a few 18-18.50; choice fed yearlings 20-21; good 19-20; good cows 13-13.50 with a few sales to 14; medium 12-12; common 11-12; canners and cutters 9-11; good heavy bologna bulls 15-15.50; common and medium lights 11-14.

Choice stockers and stock calves mostly 19, with odd lots to 19.50; medium 18-19; common 16-18.

No hog prices established.

PRODUCE MARKET

Country dealers are quoted on graded eggs, delivered Toronto: A large, cello, wooden cases, tenderable lots, 29 cents. Eggs, in fibre cases, graded: A large 38; A medium 33-34; A small 22; B 26; C 22. Wholesale to retail: A large 43; A medium 38 - 39; A small 27; B 31; C 27.

Butter prices: Canada, first grade: tenderable 58; non-tenderable 57½ in very light trading; western 58½ (nominal). The butter market was reported firm.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a deficit of 4 23-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Friday's noon rate was 95 9-32. Pound sterling 2.66, up ¼.

Merle Patterson of Queen Mary and Nancy Lasier shared first place in the girls' 13-15 section. Patterson placed first in the 75 yard dash and the relay race and second in the wheelbarrow race. Nancy Lasier took a first in the wheelbarrow race, second in the sack race and thirds in the 75 yard dash, and the standing and running broad jumps.

Trophies and ribbons were awarded the winners while all received refreshments.

Constable Shot But Prevents Store Robbery

MILTON (CP) — Provincial constable Ronald Rupert was shot in the abdomen Saturday night when he interrupted three men as they attempted to rob a store.

The constable, not on duty at the time but who lives over the store, heard noises in the store and went to investigate after asking his wife to telephone provincial police.

When Constable James Bradley arrived, he found Constable Rupert lying in front of the store.

Apparently the three men overpowered the constable, took his gun and shot him. Hospital officials said his condition was fair after an operation to remove the bullet.

Canada's Power Resources . . .

Outstanding among Canada's basic industries is the production of electric power. So rapidly is the demand for power growing, that it is estimated present generating capacity will have to be doubled in the next ten years to meet this country's energy requirements.
Our Monthly Bulletin for June discusses Canada's power resources, and contains reviews of two major hydro-electric producers. This Bulletin is now available and will, we believe, be of timely interest to investors.

SNAKES ALIVE!

Summer is here and snakes are out. They've been wiggling around for some time now and have given a number of people long enough to start in on the annual round of stories.

Every year we hear at least one good yarn about something a snake was seen definitely to do. For instance: Hoop snakes have been "seen" to grasp their tail in mouth, when frightened, and go rolling off down a hill. Glass snakes are "known" to splinter into many pieces when some foreign object touches them. And how often have we heard that some female snakes, when scared, swallow their young?

So far as we know no absolute, binding reports have ever been made to substantiate these claims.

Then there is the fable that snakes, when killed, wiggle until sunset. Science, which says they don't, has very good words on this point. Study has revealed that dead snakes, like any other creatures that die, wiggle a short while after death, purely on account of nervous reaction. True, some dead snakes may have been seen to quit their spasmodic jerks as the sun went down, but that is only coincidence.

Aside these innocent tales come snake fables so hair-raising that some folks won't enter tall grass, swamps or forests without sending an advance party of beaters through to clear the area of any and all of these reptiles.

To Canadian, ninety-nine per cent of these stories are false, for the poisonous snakes in the province are far out-numbered by the harmless and beneficial ones. A few areas are known to harbor poisonous species — Honey Harbor, the Bruce Peninsula and the Niagara district. Yet the remainder of the province, except for isolated incidents, is free from poisonous reptiles. Just recently, though, a young school boy in Yarker found a three-foot rattlesnake.

We in the Bay of Quinte district are fortunate in having a large population of non-poisonous snakes. Yes, we are fortunate. As far as we know there has never been reported a sighting of a venomous snake in the area.

The species of snakes that we do have include the garter, grass, milk, water and black, and a few others, all of which have hundred per cent harmless records.

But odd as it may seem, even in this district which is void of harmful snakes, folks prefer to kill any snake on sight and they insist that these creatures are responsible for the diminishing of their poultry and that they create a deadly threat to barefooted youngsters.

Nonsense!

Perhaps if our schools and conservation associations would embark on a program to educate the public about snakes, we would soon see the snake population start to increase and the vermin population decrease, noticeably.

Please, now that summer is here, use a little discretion and leave snakes alone. Humans create more havoc in the snake population by killing them than these reptiles do among our wildlife.

When dealing with harmless snakes, let's remember the saying: "Live and let live."

ARMY NEEDS BETTER EQUIPMENT

We noticed in the paper a few days ago where "more than 400 Western Militia and regular army personnel tried out new techniques of atomic warfare . . . The exercise ended Sunday noon with the 'repulse' of an invader from the east."

That all looks very impressive in black and white, but if the exercise had included engagements with a real enemy, we doubt, with the Canadian Army's present equipment, that it would have come off top-dog.

It's about time we stopped playing childhood games with our army. These exercises are a must, we realize that, but before sending our soldiers out to face the enemy, let's first equip them properly.

The army has a sizeable annual budget. Granted we are not militarists nor are we thoroughly conversant with army plans, but, on the surface and speaking as laymen, we feel the Canadian Army should receive more and better equipment than it has been getting over the years since the Korean War.

Unless something is done in the very near future to give our army equipment on a par with that of the U.S. Army, we might just as well give our boys a suit of armor and a fleet horse and tell them: "Here. Go and play at war. This is your equipment. We hope you come back."

If a real attack were launched today or tomorrow, Canadian soldiers would run to fill the breach, certainly, but many would die simply because they didn't have the weapons to put them on the same footing as the enemy.

MEMORY

The memory is a record book
Of all life's good and bad
Where man can take a backward look
At pleasures he has had.

There's much that's happened all forget,
That memory retains.
We think the past is dead, and yet
It lives still remains.

The joys of youth can be no more,
We've turned to pleasures new.
But memory can them restore
In words and pictures, too.

Man takes the joys that come and lets
Them fade when left behind.
But memory knows that man forgets
And keeps them all in mind.

U.S. View of Election

New York Times

Time for a change!

That cry, familiar in our own country after long periods of the 1948 and 1952, rang throughout the length and breadth of Canada in today's national election; but it alone is not enough to explain the sensational rout of the Liberal party after twenty-two years of Governmental control.

Although the Conservatives under Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, failed to win an absolute majority of the 265 seats in the Canadian House, they did succeed in more than doubling their strength to a total of 111; and in doing so they brought the Liberals down from 168 seats to a mere 103. Furthermore, in their remarkable and unexpected sweep of the country except for Quebec, the Conservatives gave indication of replacing the Liberals as the more truly national of the two major parties, even though in total popular vote the Liberals remained slightly — but very slightly — ahead. However, there is very little doubt that Canada's veteran Liberal Prime Minister, Louis St. Laurent, will resign, and that before soon is not yet certain. It is also not yet sure whether Mr. Diefenbaker will take the reins and try to govern with some support from other parties, as seems probable, or whether he will call for new elections after a short time in an effort to win a clear majority.

The question remains: why, in a period of booming prosperity, did a party which has held up so sharply from the "ins" to the "outs"? There are several reasons, internal and international, and there is no doubt that the Liberal Government contained many able, experienced and able men. The Conservatives slugged their way for a change of scene and this no doubt had its effect; but Canadians are accustomed to seeing their Governments stay long in office.

It is apparent that many voters of normally Liberal persuasion did feel that the Government had been in power so long that it had indeed become separated from the people; that it had developed a bureaucracy that had given evidence of some contempt for normal parliamentary procedures; that for their own and Canada's good the Liberals needed to undergo a defeat as a strengthening of the opposition and even a return to two-party government. The pendulum swung much further than expected, however, to strike down the Liberal majority just enough to chastise the party, the voters cut it down so far as to throw the party out.

There were important local reasons, too, for the Conservative victory. Unlike the rest of Canada, the Maritime Provinces are economically depressed, and naturally look out their resentment on the party in power. In the prairies the farmers, more troubled over wheat surpluses. In the key province of Ontario the local Conservative forces for the first time in years worked enthusiastically in a national election.

• • •

What about the effect on American relations? When the St. Laurent Government was in power the United States will suffer an almost personal loss in the departure from the Ottawa scene from his post as Secretary of State for External Affairs of the thoroughly latent anti-American, as exists in Canada playing almost no part in the election, it is simply a matter of fact to state that the Conservatives are bringing to power a somewhat tougher line vis-a-vis the United States than did the Liberals particularly on trade matters. This does not mean that there will be any significant lessening of the remarkable friendship between the two countries, and their two peoples. Change of government can have no bearing on the basic facets of our respective national policies.

Every 10 years a U. S. professor has been forming a group of his students write letters to themselves predicting what they would have accomplished by the time they were 10 years older. The purpose for having a get-together at the end of the decade to compare notes.

The professor — Sol Liptzin, who teaches Germanic and Slavic languages at City College, Long Island, U.S.A., has conducted nine times. Each time the result has been different.

The first batch of letters were written in early 1929, when the boom of the 1920's was at its peak and about to burst. Those students expected a rosy future. So few of them had failed to fulfilled their expectations by 1939 that the professor dropped the idea of a reunion for that year.

The 1939 group was anything but optimistic. These young-sters had grown up during the years of depression and saw the world war on the way. They didn't like the appearance of their prospects. Many of them were in 1949 called the turn on themselves with remarkable accuracy. One student said, for instance, that he would be married in 1957, and that he would be a successful lawyer and an unsuccessful writer. He was correct on all counts. He said he would be married, have children and be practicing law, engineering firm overseas. He is married, has children, and is working for an engineering firm overseas. One member of the group went wrong. He could hardly be expected to foresee that he would die in the Korean war.

The first decade was one of blighted optimism, the second one of unwarranted pessimism that saw modest hopes overfulfilled. The third has been a period of comparative stability in which people had realistic expectations and fulfilled them.

What will the next decade bring? What does the college class of '57 expect, and what will it get? The professor doesn't say. But if the thermonuclear war suspended over its head can be averted, perhaps another 10 years of comparative stability is not too much to hope for.

You Pay For It!

St. Catharines Standard

The fact that you cannot get anything from the Government for which you do not help pay should be borne home by the fact that old age pensions are obtained from a two percent sales tax, a two per cent personal income tax, plus a two per cent Corporation income tax. And the cost is running about $9 million a week.

Letter To The Editor

Two Letters Protest Condition of Harbor

Editor,

Ontario Intelligencer:

While everyone is busy tearing everyone apart respecting city managership, etc., etc., let's commend the Harbor Board for the wonderful job they are doing in beautifying the lick our once beautiful Queen Victoria Park. We have all seen it going from the weeds to worse, but the park is beginning to look like one of the beauty spots of the district.

The main trouble now is that the powers that be do not seem to realize the traffic problem the Park is one of the worst disgraces that could be in the north end of the inner harbor is so grown with weeds that it is practically impossible to get a boat through, let alone the accumulation of dead ends, dead fish, and weeds are slowly rotting and when the wind is right, the stench is terrific. Time to clean the park. I have heard many complaints from the citizens who live in that district and would suggest that some action be taken by the proper authorities at once.

I feel sure that if some action is not taken in this matter it would be appreciated by the general public as well as the local public.

Yours truly,

J. G. Caldwell.

Editor,

Ontario Intelligencer:

Just a line to express a hope we can see some results from the council or whoever has the power to clean up the harbor. I understand we are supposed to have a harbor commissioner but see that the harbor is kept clean. At present we have a dead dog and other forms of other refuse floating around, which is a disgrace to the city.

I've seen walking or driving down to the park goes not get a very good impression. The boat owners sure have a hard time getting their boats out to the clear water and the boat supply perfume while in the weeds, is said plenty of mosquitoes.

The harbor is a good breeding place for disease. If steady men be kept for cutting grass, surely a man could be kept to keep the harbor in a condition so that it would be a delight to boat owners as well as people who have homes along the water.

Little Late to Worry

Port Arthur News-Chronicle.

Now that Ingrid Bergman has won an Oscar she is reported as worried about what her romance with Roberto Rossellini did to her two-year-old daughter, eight years ago. It's a little late for that sort of thing, isn't it?

Frozen Meat 75 Years Ago

Manchester Guardian

It was a great day for the British Isles — though it treated the occasion with calm of a Chinese emperor receiving the kings of civilization — when the first cargo of frozen meat arrived from New Zealand 75 years ago.

This new source of cheap food, mutton at about sixpence a pound, solved at a stroke the most pressing problems in the closing decades of the century and thereby improving by each penny of Australia and New Zealand.

The first voyage in 1882 was far from uneventful. Before the Dunedin left it port the refrigeration machinery failed, and the queasy were unlucky that New Zealand's first frozen meat was eaten at home.

But the next year the barque's sails were several times set aflight by spells from the cooling plans. In the tropics the ship was for so long every one tank that the cold air did not circulate evenly and Captain John Duncan decided to crawl into the ventilation shafts to cut new openings.

This was so long that he became frozen stiff, and the mate had to crawl in behind him and tie a rope to his legs by which he could be hauled out.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

An Interesting Coincidence

"Dear Dr. Brady:

I've been eating 0.3 milligrams of iodin daily, plus calcium with vitamin D, for about 3½ years. I am 63. Before I started consuming these, I averaged 6 or 7 colds each year, with at least a couple spells in bed. I also complained of able spinal, hip and knee disability which various medics called arthritis and rheumatism. I also started losing my hearing ten years ago and was advised by two ear specialists I'd be stone deaf by 1960.

Now, I have not had a single C R I in the past two years.

My back went out on me just once in the past year, and then it was not serious — about two days of discomfort, and I worked right through it.

My joints are giving me no further trouble. I should say no trouble at all.

There has been 25% improvement in my hearing, due partly, perhaps, to systemic, but also to osteopathic physician.

I sleep well now and wake up refreshed in the morning. I don't hear the word "nerves" used by my wife and children any more.

This, Dr. Brady, is what iodin, calcium and vitamin D has done for me, and I'm grateful."

With the Connecticut cow, respondent doesn't mention iodin ration, that is the form of iodin he eats daily. I think, 0.3 cons 0.1 milligrams of iodin, the mum amount of iodin needed every man, woman or child must get daily to prevent manifestations of iodin deficiency. He feels compound "accepted" by old medical practitioners as candy-coated tablets, for prevention of goitre an school children — each tablet con tainings hundred times as much iodin as nutrition authorities now estimate the schoolchild requires.

Whether iodin, or iodid of any kind, in nutritional or medicinal dose or quantity, has anything to do with immunity to the common respiratory infections (C R I) — "colds" to the unteachable — I don't know.

All I know is that getting enough iodin (iodine) from food, plus iodin supplement to maintain optimum nutritional condition can do no harm and frequently seems to bring about a happy change for the better, both physically and mentally.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A man's brain can fall just the way his liver can, or his lungs, kidneys, stomach, or the skin on his ghlets. As far as we know, his brain is his so called "mind." For thousands of years, they have been a notion amongst us, while men, Eskimos, Zulus and so forth, that the "mind" was a sort of separate institution, apart from the body. Any sort of disembodied spirit that inhabited our bodies quite apart from any earthly organ. We thought was generally suspected of being his hiding place. This was a mistake, from the fact that if you clubbed a man on the head, the "mind" was instantly knocked out. If you stuck him with a spear in the midriff.

But though we have worked the thing out now pretty satisfactorily, and agreed that the brain is the "mind," we still are loth to admit that the "mind" is just an other organ. We like to believe that it is something mystical, occult, unseen and unknowable. It seems to offend our dignity to have to admit that it can be as easily gallstones, or the liver with its sclerosis or the stomach with its ulcers. Imagine the mind with the mumps? Or measles? Or the itch?

A sad scandal occurred in our community lately when a most respected citizen was convicted of embezzlement. The sad part about he was the personal friend of many of us, was a church-goer and active member of service clubs and other respectable activities. When some of us went to see him after the onset of the disaster, he appeared to be almost ashamed to confess that he was guilty of the crime, and he appeared to be almost as determined to conceal his guilt as a normal man would be. Some of us who visited him suspected that, others had similar conditions, some were bald, others had arthritis in their bones, all of which are agreed that we are going blind. What might have happened to him in his case was that his brain was starting to fail.

And since the brain is the mind, and the mind is the custodian of such fragile and elusive quantities as conscience and honor and all the principles of behaviour, it could be that he was suffering a little dimness of decline like the rest of us. If the clinic he went to, however, was prison.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DARE TO CHANGE

Many are the problems that face us throughout life, but one of the commonest is the reluctance to change or not from the work that we may be doing. Staying in a job long since often makes us careless and thus lowers our efficiency and hampers our progress. Dare to change is a good idea to bear in mind.

Many of those who have risen to important positions have been those who kept making changes therefor improving by each change. We ought to keep this mind of ours constantly open so that we may be ready for any new call or adventure. Don't be afraid to make a decision that we make.

The chief aim in life should not be to merely earn money, and accumulate it, but to seek enjoyment in the work we love. Love is a very valuable thing when mixed with our work. We will be happy in work that irks one, and returns only mohey. We are only a cog-wheel worker that is released over and over again is that one who has found pleasure in his endeavours and incentive, as well as compensation.

Dare to change from the unhappy to the happy. Never put off the decision. The longer you hesitate the more you will find it difficult to lessen the value of a change. The mind gets rusty the longer it is deprived of pleasure in work. It must keep stirred up and active. Fill full of hope and expectations. Dare to change from work that does not give a daily lift and ever-increasing joy to more efficient.

Work is the food of happiness and genuine success. It should dominate all our dreams and resolutions to get ahead. We should feel ourselves getting more able to be and conceived. It is up to each one of us to formulate a happy plan of life.

Religious Tolerance

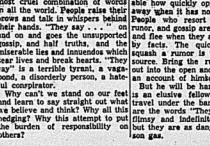
When, as happened, an Anglican bishop gives the main address at the University of Toronto convocation and when an honorary degree conferred on a Jewish rabbi, we can take some pride in the extent of religious tolerance existing in this province.

Strength for The Day



DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

AN UGLY TYRANT

"They Say."

These two words can, under certain circumstances, constitute the most cruel combination of words in the English. People raise their brows and talk in whispers behind their hands. "They say . . ." so and so and goes the unsupported gossip, and half truths, and the miserable lies and innuendos which sear lives and break hearts. "They say" is a terrible tyrant, a vagabond, a disorderly person, a baleful conjurator.

Why can't we stand on our feet and learn to say straight out what we believe and think? Why all this hedging? Why this attempt to put the burden of responsibility on others?

Bee Sting Blinds Man Two Days

TRENTON (Special) —Stung by a bee from a hive that was opened by a friend, James Paxton of R. R. 2 Brighton, nine miles west of here suffered poisoning that blinded him for two days while his head swelled to an immense size. Treated by Dr. Bartley Campbell, he was admitted to the Trenton Memorial Hospital for a number of injections before he regained his sight.

Mr. Paxton had cared for bees six years since he acquired three hives of them with the farm he bought in the vicinity of the village of Brighton.

Foot Slips, Driver Hurt

TRENTON (Special) —Royal Quick, 73, of neighboring Brighton, needed three stitches to close a cut in his head suffered in a car accident on Dundas Street East here on Saturday.

Mr. Quick was driving his car behind a vehicle operated by Margaret MacDonald, 19, of 224 Front Street. When the lead car started to turn at Herman Street, Mr. Quick tried to stop. But his foot slipped off the brake pedal onto the accelerator, causing the accident. Damage to the rear of the car ahead was estimated at $100 by police. The front of the Quick car would need $150 repairs according to the investigating officer.

Mr. Quick was injured when his head hit the dash heavily.

Hooks Big Pickerel

TRENTON (Special) — Age had to step aside for youth at the pickerel grounds below No. 1 dam on the Trent River here during the weekend.

It was a thrilling day for 15-year-old Anthony Virgilio who hooked a seven-pound beauty and landed it, with his proud father looking on. The Virgilios live on the Carrying Place Road at the south end of town.

A TOTAL ABSTAINER FOR THE MOMENT

Hundreds Crowd District Beaches

TRENTON (Special) — Hundreds of people streamed out of town yesterday, heading for beaches and picnic grounds. One of the largest crowds on record swarmed over Presqu'ile beach and one visitor reported on return that it was impossible to find a place to park a car near the popular swimming spot on the Lake Ontario side of the point.

Popular Cedarsdale, another mecca for weekend swimmers, attracted tremendous crowds while larger numbers than usual chose to find respite from the heat in the cool canal water around No. 1 bridge on the Murray canal, between Carrying Place and Trenton.

Because of pollution in the Trent below the pickerel fishing grounds and the low water in the bay this year, people who enjoy bathing are having to travel to the canals and lake beaches, the farthest within a 30-minute ride by car.

PREPARED OWN GRAVE

DYERSBURG, Tenn. (AP)—Rev. J. W. D. Mayes, who died Monday at 104, was buried Wednesday in a grave he prepared himself. The Negro minister retired at 102. He spent several days in preparing the grave in a cemetery. It has a concrete border dotted with flower pots and printing-press type embedded at the head spelling his name.

Board Accepts Insurance Rate Of Local Firm

CAMPBELLFORD — Present at the June meeting of the Campbellford Public School Board were: chairman Dendy, vice-chairman, H. L. Macmillan; Mr. Begg and Mrs. Cowell. Also attending were Mr. J. P. Archer and Mr. McClellans representing two insurance firms, and Mr. C. W. Young of Brighton.

The resignations of Mrs. Alice Potter and Mrs. Gladys Petherick were received with regret. Six applications have been received for these positions and Mrs. Jean Werner, of Scarborough, was chosen to fill the vacancy in primary department. The part-time teacher required, was not chosen at this meeting as a better arrangement might possibly be made to give the principal more time for duties of administration. The matter was laid over to be studied more carefully.

Mr. J. P. Archer who holds the fire insurance for the schools, stated that he had been unable to renew the policies at the same rate of $23.50. He had contacted another company and their representative, Mr. McClelland was present to speak on their behalf. Mr. McClelland reminded the board that the company he represented had done a great deal of work on the Board's insurance problems three years ago, and had offered insurance at the rate of 60.8. The company was offering it again at the same rate, although much insurance had risen in price. After much discussion, and consideration, the offer was accepted. The commissions from this insurance are divided among the insurance agencies of the town.

The tenders for the teachers' desks and chairs were opened and studied, and one finally accepted from a local furniture stre.

Mr. Rothwell, Public School principal, reported that one unit of the new bicycle racks had arrived for trial and inspection.

The recent trips to Ottawa and Toronto made by the Grade 7 and 8 pupils had been greatly enjoyed and the principal said that he thought much profitable experience had been gained by them.

The new desks in one of the rooms, donated by the Local Kinsmen club were reported as comfortable and well constructed and appreciation had been expressed by the teachers and the pupils.

The kindergarten classes were arranged for fall as junior and senior groups, the junior class to be held in the morning for children whose birthdays fell from June 21st to December 31st, and the senior afternoon class for children whose birthdays were from Jan. 1st to June 20th.

The July meeting will be held on the 3rd of that month at 7.30 p.m.

Weddings

McGEE — MUSCLOW

Christ Church, Belleville, was appropriately adorned on Saturday, June 1, at 3.30 p.m. with flowers and ferns for a pretty summertime wedding when Heather Marie Musclow, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Musclow, became the bride of Rodger Eugene McGee, of Harold, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGee. The Reverend Archdeacon J. B. Creegan, rector of the church, officiated.

Mr. J. B. Herdman, church organist, presided at the console of the organ, and accompanied the choir of six boys who sang, "Perfection," and "The Lord is my Shepherd."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Charles Musclow, was lovely in her waltz-length bridal gown of white Chantilly lace over satin, fashioned with fitted bodice and matching lace jacket having a Peter Pan collar trimmed with sequins and seed pearls. Her finger-tip veil was held by a matching half-pill box style headdress dotted with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Betty Graham, of Belleville, as matron of honor, wearing a waltz-length gown of pink crystalette over taffeta, with matching net stole and headdress. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink and blue mums.

Mr. Gerald McGee, of Stirling, cousin of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and Mr. Lorne MacWell, of Stirling, was usher.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the parish hall, where the bride's mother, attired in dusty rose lace over taffeta, with white accessories, and corsage of yellow roses, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, in powder blue linen, white accessories with corsage of red roses.

The bridal table was prettily appointed with white, linen damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake adorned with pink roses, and topped by a tiny vase of roses and lily-of-the-valley.

For the wedding trip around Lake Ontario, thence south to New Jersey, U.S. the bride chose a one-colored dress with matching duster, white accessories, and corsage of white roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. McGee will reside at Harold, R.R. 1.

Allan Kirk, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Kirk, Belleville, R.R. 5, obtained four gold awards at the recent Stirling Festival of Sacred Praise, in piano, vocal solo, piano hymn playing and Scripture selection reading; also the silver award in the boys, open, solo rendition, for unchanged voice. Allan is a pupil of Mr. Egerton Boyce.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at three miscellaneous showers: one given by Mrs. Ray Clarke; one by Mrs. Dan Shamick and Mrs. Al. Eros; and one by Mrs. William Mcliquhan. At the Ontario Cheese Producers, of which the bride is a member, the staff presented her with a silver meat platter.

Women's Activities

TABERNACLE E. A.

The June meeting of Tabernacle Evening Auxiliary was held Wednesday evening at the home of Jean Miller.

Edith Stanton took the devotional period, the theme, "Think on These Things." The president, Ruth Pettifor, offered prayer.

Jean Miller called the roll and gave the minutes.

It was decided to purchase the book shelf. Jean Miller was appointed to attend school for leaders.

Members and their families are looking forward to a picnic to be held at Dorothy McCullough's in July.

Refreshments were served and a friendly half hour brought the evening to a close.

Municipal Duties Talk At W.I. Meet

The June meeting of Chatterton W. I. was held at Mrs. Ben Bleeker's home with 11 members and two guests present, and Mrs. Harold Bloor, president, presiding.

The roll call was "What we can do to beautify our community" and included suggestions of beautify one's own home and garden; cutting of weeds on the roadside, and keeping the fence brush cleaned out. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Gerald Irvine, and were adopted. A financial report was given by Mrs. Bleeker, treasurer.

Mrs. C. B. Gardner, delegate, gave a report in the district convention. Mrs. Irvine told the members that applications for the W. I. holiday July 15-19 at Guelph must be in by July 6th and anyone wishing to go should apply before that date.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Bloor introduced the guest speaker, Reeve Harder. Mr Harder gave an informative talk on the township and the duties of the council. Sidney Twp. is 144 square miles approximately in area, with a low concession and 4,000 municipal voters. A municipal voter being an owner or joint owner, assessed tenant or son or daughter of legal age of such voters.

The township is divided into 13 polls with 350 voters making a poll. There are 19 public school sections; four separate school sections, and four school areas.

Sidney Council is composed of a Reeve, Deputy Reeve, and three councillors. Since there are more than 1,000 ratepayers, Sidney is entitled to a Deputy Reeve.

The council's duties include educational facilities in local schools; collection of taxes; roads and welfare. The council members appoint standing boards or committees which are appointed by-law. They also appoint officials such as the county clerk, and treasurer, assessor, road superintendent. Tax collector, welfare officer, sanitary inspector and truant officer.

Mr. Harder quoted the 1957 assessment of the township for taxes at 22.2 mills and stated that the taxes for 1957 would be approximately four and a half million dollars. The new split rate tax bill will reduce farm taxes by about 5.3 mills.

He pointed out the proposed annexation would more than take up that reduction. Belleville proposes to annex to 1,000 feet north of the new highway. A municipal board will be set up to hear both sides and decide a course of action.

Mrs. Bloor thanked Mr. Harder for his splendid talk.

There was a reading of "Ontario Countryside", a poem by Edna Jaques, and an amusing poem "I'm Sixty" read by Mrs. Irvine.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THE MISSING BOOK THE GIRL FRIENDS AND YOUR OWN JEALOUSY

Quite a lot has been said in these columns recently about jealousy.

A few weeks ago there was a letter from a woman who had been married 12 years, during all of which time she had been fighting a battle with herself—and with her husband—against her jealousy. She wanted to know what she could do about it, realizing that it was ruining her marriage.

Now comes a letter from a young wife of only a few months whose story suggests that she may already have begun to injure her marriage because of the same fault. Unlike the first wife, she's not asking what to do about her self, but what to do about her husband.

"What can a woman do," she asks, "with a husband who, after less than a year of marriage, has been seeing another girl? My husband told me himself that he had seen this girl several times and that he is sorry for her because she is an unhappy like. He's trying to conceal anything from me, but has told me he wants to do what he can to help the girl.

"I am, by nature, a very jealous person and he knows that. He says he loves me very much, and I have no doubt about that at all, but he says he can't help but be interested in this other girl. I've tried my best not to quarrel with him about it, thinking that if I kept things smooth and pleasant, the whole thing would pass, but it hasn't. It seems, too, that the rest of the time he'd much rather go out with the boys than be at home with me in the evening. I have a job, and after working all day and getting dinner for both of us, I'm either too tired to go out, or else there's housework to be done, so he goes out without me.

"What I'm inclined to suspect is that at the bottom of all the trouble here is that this young wife, with her admittedly jealous nature, may have irked her husband by trying to keep him too much to herself. I'm not by any means justifying his choosing to spend time with another girl, and for which would make the situation still more involved—it's entirely possible that he may be a man whose affections are so shallow that he has already begun to tire of married life. But I think it would be well for the young woman to examine herself very closely before deciding that the blame rests entirely upon her husband. And to make up her mind thoroughly whether or not she may have been too possessive and too demanding in their first year together.

In regard to her husband's preference for going out with the boys, rather than staying at home with her in the evening, I'm sure he may be very inconsiderate. It's at least extremely unthoughtful. But no matter how much in love two people may be, a too-concentrated diet of each other's company can become boring. So can too many evenings of too much pleasant measure of social life and companionship with friends should be included in the program of every married couple, and it more often than not seems to fall to the part of the wife to arrange these things. Then, in addition to having more outside engagements together, each of the two should have "evenings off" in which they go out with their own friends. Already, her husband is ahead of her on "evenings off" with his friends; she had better get busy and catch up. She can begin by the way to keep the social side of her life from getting dull.

So, in conclusion, I suggest that she concentrate on the above points and ignore both her husband's girl friend and her own jealousy for awhile. If she shows her husband that she's so smart a wife that she can make room in a busy life for many enjoyable companionship, too, he may discover that he can have a better time being with her than with anybody else. If he doesn't, of course, some other husband may be necessary. But I think it important for her to give the other plan a good try first.

Wife Preserves

A sauce for meat, fish or other foods need not be complicated. For baked fish, add a small amount of lemon juice to the fish and pepper with which you season the fish—and it serves as a sauce.

Super Strawberry Desserts

By Mary Moore

You old-timers will have to pardon today for there is a brand new crop of brides this month who — believe it or not — have never been to a strawberry shortcake.

I got myself all excited making one using the Biscuit Supreme recipe for the cake-part and I had phenomenal success for I had no more than had it in the oven when two old friends called out of town drove up and said: "we are hungry."

Actually they wanted to take us out to dinner but that strawberry shortcake was going to be eaten while it was at its best — so we defrosted a steak, and mixed peas and ate at home. Home's best!

"BISCUIT SUPREME" STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE:

Biscuit Dough: Sift together 2 cups sifted but not sifted all-purpose flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon each cream of tartar and salt and 2 teaspoons sugar. Cut into them ⅓ cup butter (or lard or shortening) until it is coarse crumbs. Add all at once 2/3 cups milk and quickly stir, barely to mix. Pat out into a sheet ½ inch thick and bake on ungreased layer cake tin, at 450 deg. Fahr. for about 12 to 15 minutes. Note: regular readers will recognize this as the well familiar "Ida Biscuit Supreme dough recipe.

When ready to serve, split with a long knife into two layers. Lightly spread the bottom with soft butter. Cover with 1 quart halved and sweetened strawberries — minus about ten for decorating that are perfect berries. Put on the top layer of it with ½ pint of heavy cream whipped and sweetened with 2 tablespoons icing sugar and flavored with ½ teaspoon vanilla. Decorate top with reserved perfect berries.

GLAZED STRAWBERRY PIE

One teaspoon plain gelatine, 1 tablespoon cold water, 1 quart strawberries, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch or arrowroot flour if you would like the syrup very clear), 4 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup heavy cream whipped. Have ready a baked pastry shell with fluted edges. Soak gelatine in cold water until softened. Wash berries before hulling, saving choice ones to garnish the top. Hull the remaining berries. Put half of remaining berries into saucepan with sugar and crush berries using potato masher or pastry blender. Combine cornstarch (or arrowroot) with lemon juice, add to the strawberry mixture. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture has thickened and becomes transparent in color — this last cooking may be done in double boiler if desired, so that you only have to stir frequently. Add softened gelatine to hot mixture. Stir briskly. Cool. Now stir in the remaining berries which have been cut in halves. Stir gently with fork. Pour into baked shell. Chill. Just before serving, whip cream and spread on top or around the edges of the pie. Garnish with the whole, perfect berries which were held out for this purpose.

OF COURSE, your little girl wants to make the invitations for her birthday party. Have her start them weeks in advance of the date, and keep them in their special box. Even if she makes many more than are needed, she can choose the ones to be sent at the right time. It's better to do it this way than to except her to produce them all at a last-minute session.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: YOU TELL YOUR OWN COURTESY-STORY

Every time you do or say anything that expresses your considerations for other people, you are adding a shining sentence to the story of your good manners!

WHAT TO SERVE AT WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm a widow, my husband-to-be is a widower, we are both in our late forties, and we are to be married quite soon. The ceremony will take place in the chapel of our church at 2:30 on a Sunday afternoon, and immediately following there will be an informal reception for the 30 guests who will be invited to both ceremony and reception. What do you suggest for the light refreshments to serve at this hour? — A.C.

Since 3-o'clock on a Sunday afternoon would customarily be considered a "between-meals hour," it would be quite suitable, if you wish, to serve the simplest of refreshments. This could mean serving only two 'treats': (1) the wedding cake, to be cut (the first slice, at least) by you and your bridegroom; and (2) a cold beverage (champagne or punch or whatever you choose) for the drinking of the toasts "To the Happiness of the Bride and Groom!" However, if the reception is to last for a considerable time (you didn't tell me the plan), then you might also serve small, slim sandwiches of various simple fillings and or several kinds of canapes or hors d'oeuvres; small cakes, such as petits fours, and or interesting cookies, to supplement the wedding cake; perhaps some 'nibblers,' such as potato chips, cheese straws, nuts, mints or other candies, or some of the packaged delicia nowadays as delicious; and perhaps coffee.

WHO INTRODUCES THE STRANGER?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance is in the Navy, is to have a leave soon, and during the time he expects to be here, a friend of mine is going to give a party. I have not known her very long, but I have been in two parties she has given, and they were delightful, very special. She has not met my fiance, but she asked me to bring him to her party if he happens to be at home at that time. I'd like to take him, and I'm sure he would like to go, for he is very sociable person and enjoys going in parties. If we are able to go together to this party, I'm wondering who should introduce him to the other guests.

— Janet W.

When you arrive at the party, introduce your fiance at once to the hostess . . . that is, don't make any detours to greet other friends before you go together to greet your hostess. Then she, as hostess, will introduce him to the other guests, or at least to several guests who may be nearby. However, of course, if it is a large party and she is very busy greeting many guests, and making other introductions, you should continue the introductions after the hostess has made the first introductions.

HAIR NEEDS SPECIAL CARE IN SUMMER

Warm olive oil massaged into the scalp before the shampoo will help to counteract dryness caused by over-exposure to the sun.

You've probably already let the top down on the car, or at least your friends have on theirs. So now you can sail along the roads, getting your lungs full of summer breezes. Unfortunately, your hair will collect some road dust, as well, and will go limp under that scarf or headband on a hot day. So make your summer resolutions early. Resolve not to neglect your hair just because it's such a nice sunny day. Shampoo it more frequently than you did during the winter months. After all, you can't overdo the shampoo habit—even a daily hair-washing is okay if your hair really needs it to keep from getting dull and lifeless from dust, sun, and perspiration.

If your hair is inclined to be dry even under normal conditions, you should step up your lubrication treatments during the summer months. Warm olive oil, applied to the scalp with a cotton ball and left on for a half hour before your shampoo or, if possible, allowed to remain on all night before a morning shampoo, will do wonders in counteracting the effects of wind and sun.

If swimming's your hobby, you probably know that even if you wear a cap, salt water's bound to get under it. So prepare against this eventuality, too.

Next time you go to the beach protect hair by taking four simple steps:

1. Before you go into the water "coat" your hair by applying a few drops of a pure petrolatum hair tonic such as the Vaseline brand. This prevents the salt from drying out your hair.

2. After swimming, rinse your hair under the nearest fresh water shower or tap. Then shake briskly to get rid of excess water.

3. Let the next ultra-violet rays be your outdoor hair dryer, but instead of roughing your hair with a towel, smooth it gently by hand squeeze out remaining moisture with your fingers.

4. Before combing your hair, sprinkle on a little more of the

This charcoal gray cotton yarn dress with its own bolero jacket is a good late spring-into-summer suggestion. The dress has narrow white shoulder straps and makes a happy evening number and is a fine example of the best in simple but effective clothes.

Christ Church A.B.W.A Holds Pot-Luck Supper

The Afternoon Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary met on Thursday for a "pot-luck" luncheon and business meeting.

The financial report was most gratifying, showing a substantial balance on hand after obligations and donations met.

Miss Florence Fitzgerald, who is the commandant of the Anglican Camp "Hyanto", situated at Lyndhurst, Ontario, was present to receive gifts of 20 mattress covers and 30 tea towels, which were made and donated for the camp. Miss Fitzgerald thanked the members on behalf of the camp officers, as well as herself for the articles which she assured the members would be very useful.

President Mrs. Godden, gave a resume of the season's activities and the work accomplished and announced the meetings adjourned for the summer months.

Handicapped Guild Holds 5th Convention

Miss F. Ayling and Miss Jan Kortan, delegates for the Belle Haven Rehabilitation Club attended the 5th annual convention of the United Handicapped Guild of Ontario at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, June 8th., 9th., and 10th.

Delegates came from all parts of Ontario to discuss common problems which they must face: the search for independence, and a normal social life on the part of the handicapped.

Some pictures are more reassuring than others; many having occupational therapy and solid support from various organizations. A panel of five discussed disability pensions, and the need for social activity, stressing the fact that families, the church and handicapped clubs can do a great deal to help.

The Belleville delegates were warmly greeted by members of the advisory board who had previously met the Belle Haven president, Mrs. W. R. McMurray, who, owing to an enforced stay in hospital, was unable to attend. The convention was concluded by a banquet held in the Canaught Room of the King Edward Hotel.

Women's Activities

GILEAD F. G.

The Gilead Friendship Guild met at the school house on June the 14th. The president Mr. George Clare, opened the meeting with the hymn "Fight the Good Fight."

A thank-you letter was read from Mrs. Duane Martin for flowers sent to her and baby while in hospital.

It was moved that Mr. and Mrs. Swan and Mr. and Mrs. Balcarquel take the next meeting on the 17th of July at the school.

The report on rummage sale was given; and business discussed.

Mrs. Pound took charge of the devotional. Graydon and Gordon Pound read proverbs. Mr. Harold read the Scripture from Sermon on Mount (Mat. 5) Mrs. Pound explained the examples of good fathers: reading-by Mrs. Embury: "Service Supreme"; reading by Irma Embury, "My Ship also"; one by Mrs. George Clare, "Two Prayers".

Mr. George Clare gave a reading "Going to a Picnic."

Refreshments followed with a social hour enjoyed.

Easy-Upkeep Sports' Trio

By ALICE ALDEN

It's wonderful that fine sports and casual clothes are readily available at low prices in fabrics that can easily be kept looking nice and new. Korday designs a nice trio for resort wear now, for vacation and backyard wear later. The trim cotton shirt comes in three authentic clan tartans. A matching plaid belt co-ordinates the shirt with tapered slacks, the latter treated for crease and spot resistancy. In soft khaki or black, the slacks are slit at the ankles for extra ease. The designer tells us that the garments should be dipped in a solution of liquid starch at the initial laundering to keep them permanently fresh.

Club Activities

HALLOWAY K-D CLUB

The Halloway Kum-Double Club met Wednesday evening at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. R .E. Darke for their last meeting of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Roth were in charge of the worship service, opening with "For The Beauty of the Earth."

Mrs. Ed Emerson read the Scripture, taken from Philippians. The meditation, "You Live As You Think," and an article, "Spoiling Sunny June," followed with the poem, "The Glow Within" were given by Mrs. Freddie Wellman.

Mrs. Coleman Townsend read an article, "Be Ye Transformed" and a poem, "A Strip of Blue." "Take Time to be Holy" was sung and Mr. Darke closed with prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Emerson took charge of the brief business period

Tentative plans were made for the annual summer meeting which will be held as a picnic in August.

The "Howler" was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Roth and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Emerson.

A social half hour was enjoyed as the hostess served tasty refreshments.

Wedding Trip Made in 48 Different Cars

The two young dance teachers from Edmonton hitch-hiked 5,000 miles through two provinces and eight states of the U.S. For travelling, the bride changed to pedal-pushers and a T-shirt, picked up a suitcase bearing the sign "just married," and headed for the open road.

Some of the drivers who picked them up, after depositing the min a city, returned the next day to drive them around. More than once, a full car would rearrange passengers and baggage to make room for the honeymooners and their three suitcases.

MADE FRIENDSHIPS

In Idaho, Gerry and Leah were picked up by a couple who had been married the previous day. In Oregon, where hitch-hiking is banned, a highway policeman stopped for a long chat. "Gosh, I'd better get going," he suddenly exclaimed, "or you'll never get a ride."

They dropped their "rule of thumb" only once. At the Montana border they were so sternly warned about hitch-hiking that they caught a bus through the state to Salt Lake City.

Their longest wait for a ride was 45 minutes. "Usually, we would just get out of one car into another," Gerry said.

Dancing to the music of bands in many different night clubs, the young couple said "everything was anti-climax" after the top spots at Las Vegas.

The most harrowing part of their journey was from Los Angeles to Sacramento, when they said their driver speeding along mountain roads paid closer attention to the scenery than the road.

In one part of British Columbia they were picked up by a driver who formerly performed in daredevil shows. They averaged 6 to 90 miles an hour until they met an RCMP patrol. "Then we averaged 60," said Leah.

They have kept the memor of all the persons who gave them rides, and soon will be sending them snapshots and mementos.

FASHION STORY

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Adding up to an extremely smart and wearable costume is a jacket of the casual type, the fabric red jersey and a straight skirt of navy blue jersey that is completely lined. The third member of this three-part group is a sleeveless blouse, bow necked, white with navy or red polka dots. Each part could do useful duty on its own, but combined the effect is very much of the mode.

How to leave your family
a Deed instead of a Debt

Whether you are already paying on a mortgage or just undertaking the purchase of a home, there is an important question which you should face: would your wife and children have a home "free and clear" if something should happen to you?

The answer to this question is as near as your telephone. Your Metropolitan Representative can work out a specific solution to fit your needs and your income.

For instance, a Metropolitan Mortgage Term Plan is designed to cover the usual type of home mortgage which decreases each year as payments on the principal are made. The face amount of the Mortgage Term Plan decreases in the same proportion, so that your level premium is relatively inexpensive.

A more satisfactory plan for many men is a Metropolitan Whole Life Policy. This is permanent insurance which not only assures that funds will be available for payment of the mortgage in the event of death, but also builds cash and loan values which may be used to take care of mortgage payments in the event of illness or emergency. Because the face value does not decrease, it can be used for continuing protection for you and your family after the mortgage is paid off.

Whatever plan your Metropolitan Representative suggests, you can be sure that it will be specifically designed to meet your present and future needs.

We suggest that you call him today and let him help you set the wheels in motion to help protect the continued ownership of your home by your family. He will welcome the opportunity to show that . . .

W.A. Holds Successful Spring Tea

JOHNSTOWN — The Johnstown Women's Association held a successful spring tea and sale on Wednesday afternoon at Glen Miller Club House. Thanks are tendered the Millers Bros. Co. Ltd. of Glenn Miller for the use of their club house for this event.

Mr. Everett Clapp, president, and the pastor's wife, Mrs. G. A. Puttenham, welcomed the ladies at the door with Mrs. W. S. Harry taking the ticket money. The social afternoon was opened with all singing the Doxology.

The tea tables were decorated with small spring flowers. Those serving were Mrs. Maitland Harder, Mrs. C. J. Brunt and Mrs. VanAllen Pourington were Mrs. W. Vandervoort and Mrs. J. Lamond.

The cooking table was fairly groaning with good things to eat. Mrs. Earl Stickle and Mrs. Ernest Kennedy were in charge and had a most successful afternoon.

Mrs. Clayton Curtis attended the candy table, which proved to be popular, while Mrs. Alva Meyers had the touch and take table, selling out rather early. Mrs. Glenn Stickle took charge of the farm produce table with Mrs. Alec Vandervoort, Mrs. Jack Ferguson and Mrs. Kenneth Stickle taking over the sewing table where aprons galore, in all styles for grownups and children were to be had. One lady donated a beautiful quilt. There were pillow cases, children's lovely dresses and slips as well as other items. Very few things were left over and those things will be taken to Trenton market on Saturday mornings until sold.

Will Not Rush Lake Michigan Water Diversion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Everett Dirksen Rep. Ill. said today that at the request of the Eisenhower administration he won't press for quick Senate action on the Lake Michigan water diversion bill.

The administration, he said, wants to get Canada's views on this legislation and he has agreed to go along. Government negotiations are expected to be completed in about a month.

The House of Representatives last month—over the protests of many Great Lakes states congressmen — easily passed the bill, to permit stepping up the diversion of Lake Michigan water chiefly to benefit Chicago's sewage system.

Pontecorvo Says Nuclear Tests Are Dangerous

LONDON (AP) — Professor Bruno Pontecorvo, British atomic scientist who defected to Russia in 1950, said in a broadcast from Moscow today that continued nuclear tests will have tragic consequences for the world.

The Italian-born scientist, speaking in a French-language broadcast, appealed for an end to what he called "the policy which aims at legalizing atomic war and the continuation of the tests with nuclear bombs." He added:

"The declaration by American scientists, joining their voices to those in other countries who demand the immediate end of tests of atomic and hydrogen bombs, confirms the unanimity on this point of numerous progressive scientists of the whole world."

Pontecorvo worked on Britain's secret atomic energy program before disappearing behind the Iron Curtain. He is reported working now at an advanced research station near Moscow.

Heavy Drowning List During Weekend as Residents Take To Water to Beat Heat

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

More than half Canada's 33 weekend drownings occurred in Ontario. Twenty - four highway deaths were reported in a Canadian Press survey which showed 53 violent deaths from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

Ontario's dead totalled 23, highest of any province. Children and teen-agers accounted for 11 of 12 drownings and four of seven highway deaths. Four were killed in other accidents, two in a resort cabin explosion.

Six were drowned in Quebec with nine road victims. A man was killed when a plane crashed while taking off.

Three teen-agers were drowned in the Red River in Manitoba when their car crashed through a barrier on a ferry.

Ontario deaths:

Paul Hawkins, 8, and would-be rescuer Bernard Akey, 12, drowned in the Moira River at Tweed.

Francis Thomas McFarlane, 16, of Chatham, drowned in Lake Erie at Rondeau Park.

Frank Mirosky, 74, of Hamilton, fatally injured when he walked into the side of a slow-moving car.

Cpl. Patrick George Gallagher, 30, of Toronto, killed after his car crashed west of Ottawa.

Pete Mates Coimbia, 30, of Chatham, a Portuguese farm worker, was crushed by a car against a tree.

Andrew Brunton, 2, of Aurora, killed when he ran into the path of a car.

Walter Neff, 28, and his scaffold, 10, of Muskego, Mich., fatally burned in an explosion at a summer resort on Sand Lake, Muskoka.

Mario Michalski, in his early 20's, drowned in a quarry pit under the wheels of a freight train.

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's prime minister goes to Washington next week to seek American blessing for a new, major Japanese role in Asia.

Twelve years after losing their empire, the Japanese are thinking boldly in conservative, affable Nobusuke Kishi as the man to help rebuild their fortunes in the second they once hoped to rule.

Kishi, 60, hopes to persuade the United States to make Japan a full partner in a new economic aid program to combat Communist Asia—the U.S. putting up most of the big cash, Japan the goods and technicians.

VISITED ASIAN LEADERS

The approach Kishi will use is what he often calls the "heart-to-heart talk." This is a term he used in describing his talks earlier this month with Premier Nehru of India, President Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China and other Asian leaders.

During the Second World War, Kishi was commerce minister and an expert on war economy for dictator Gen. Hideki Tojo.

General Day Editor at CP Dies in Sleep

TORONTO (CP)—Albert E. (Al) Fulford, 53, general day editor at Toronto of The Canadian Press, died in his sleep Sunday.

A native of Ottawa, he was a veteran of nearly 35 years in the service of the national news cooperative, having joined CP at Ottawa in 1922 after brief experience as a junior with The Citizen.

In the CP tradition, Mr. Fulford was an all-'round newspaper man, experienced as editor and reporter, in both general news and sport. In the general day editor's job it was his duty to be responsible for direction of news wires feeding 100 daily newspapers across the 10 provinces.

ON ROYAL TOUR

His service included some notable reporting, including coverage of the royal tour of 1939, in which he travelled from coast to coast to report the reception at city and town and railway siding of the then King and Queen. News-readers perhaps knew him best for his years of work on the Dionne quintuplets story. A close friend of Dr. Allan Dafoe, he represented the newspapers of Canada as pallbearer when the quintuplets' doctor died in 1943.

He served in CP bureaus at Ottawa, Toronto and New York, usually as a deskman but frequently detached to cover some major news event. In sport, his assignments ranged from routine coverage of football and hockey, to creation of the detailed coverage in Grey Cup game.

He is survived by his wife, the former Frances Blount of Ottawa, and four children—Mrs. Maxwell Gee and Mrs. George Gould, and Robert and Wayne, of Toronto—as well as two brothers, Marshall of Detroit and Arthur of Toronto, and two sisters, Mrs. James Cook and Mrs. Patrick Ryan, both of Ottawa.

MAYFLOWER II TO VISIT ATLANTIC PORTS

Small craft surrounded the Mayflower II after she anchored in the harbor at Provincetown, Mass., completing her historic re-enactment of the voyage of the original Pilgrim ship from Plymouth, England, in 1620. The ship will visit many Atlantic ports before returning to England to become a tourist attraction at Plymouth.

Arthur Meighen Celebrates 83rd Birthday

TORONTO (CP)—Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen celebrated his 83rd birthday Sunday, still holding a lively interest in politics but with no wish to become involved in the controversial issues of present-day government.

Twice a Conservative prime minister, in 1920 and 1921 and again in 1926, and one of Canada's most controversial figures during his 23 years in Parliament, he declines to comment on the current situation except to say:

"Of course I'm happy with the way the election went. It's time the Liberals were turned out."

Interviewed on the eve of his birthday, he declined to comment on what is going on in Ottawa now.

"I have my opinions but I think it is best they remain unsaid. Anyway I don't think people are interested in me."

PARTY WITH FRIENDS

The Conservative party's elder statesman celebrated his birthday at a party with family and old-time associates. He said he looks forward to the annual gathering "as the one time in the year I chance to get to see my closest friends all in one room."

Maxwell Meighen, one of his two sons, says father still enjoys good health although he has the occasional dizzy spell.

"His mind is still sharp. He surprises even the family with his clear understanding of what goes on around him."

Mr. Meighen is chairman of Canadian general securities and consulting engineer with an office desk every day. He still manages to drop in once a week "to keep myself occupied."

"My family, books and young people are my interests now," he says. "I make friends with young people. That's the secret of keeping away loneliness."

Richard Chiano, who hails from Oxford, England, shows off the generous growth of beard he acquired during his long voyage from England on the Mayflower II. Chiano holds the Mayflower medal presented to each man in the crew of 32 when they arrived at Provincetown, Mass.

Escapee From Dartmoor Prison Captured by Villagers

WORKINGTON, England (Reuters)—Tough little William (Foxy) Fowler, hunted by police through out Western Europe since he broke from Dartmoor prison 15 days ago, was captured near here early Sunday—after three weeks doing housework, washing diapers and wooing a pretty divorcee.

Police followed a will-o'-the-wisp trail back and forth across England for three weeks after Foxy walked away from a Dartmoor work party in southwest England May 14.

Last week, the search switched to the continent and his description—short, dapper, with scarred forehead and tattooed arms—was circulated through the international police organization.

Foxy's luck ran out in the Cumberland village of Flimby, a few miles north of here and 300 miles from Dartmoor.

Shortly after midnight, a village noticed a strange truck outside a gas station. The proprietor rounded up a local posse and Foxy walked out into the circle of village men who held him until police arrived. He was clean and neatly dressed. He had plenty of money and cigarets.

As the fugitive was led away to await a hearing, two Workington women revealed Foxy led a housetrained life with them while police scoured Europe.

To 32-year-old Mrs. Margaret Moffat and her sister, 27-year-old Jessie Tolmie, the fugitive from Britain's toughest prison—he was serving a five - year term for armed robbery — was simply "Johnnie Jackson," a merchant seaman who once knew their parents.

Posing as a seaman, he had said his ship was in drydock and he was looking up old friends. The women gave him a place to sleep in the living room.

Mrs. Moffat, whose marriage has been dissolved, said the 34-year-old convict was "a perfect gentleman" and "wonderful about the house." Sometimes Foxy donned an apron and helped wash the dishes. He washed clothing and diapers belonging to Mrs. Moffat's three children and Mrs. Tolmie's four.

Fowler, who has a wife and seven-year-old son in Barry, Wales, one night proposed to Mrs. Moffat and spoke of buying a home and settling down.

"As I am courting again I had to say I couldn't accept his offer," Mrs. Moffat said.

300 Insurgents Killed by French In Two Battles

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Over 300 insurgents were killed in Algeria during the weekend in two of the deadliest battles in the 30-month-old nationalist insurrection.

In the Nementcha Mountain region at Cheria, near the Tunisian frontier, 205 rebels were killed in a 10 - hour battle Friday. The French lost 13 killed and 42 wounded.

French bombers, fighters and reconnaissance planes attacked a rebel headquarters in an almost inaccessible mountain region of eastern Algeria. Sunday, killing about 100 insurgents.

TEST POSTPONED

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP) Unfavorable winds again have postponed the fourth shot in the United States summer nuclear test series. The Atomic Energy Commission called off the test shortly before midnight after meteorological experts predicted that radioactive fall-out would be carried over the nearby town of Alamo.

Say Russians Planted Body On British Coast

LONDON (AP) — A suspicion was voiced in two London newspapers Sunday that the Russians planted the headless, handless body of a frogman that was found Sunday on Britain's south coast as a propaganda trick.

The Labor Reynolds News suggests the body was not that of Cmdr. Lionel (Buster) Crabb, as popularly supposed, but the remains of a necessity, "a man whom never was."

For one thing, it says, the body recovered at Chichester showed no signs of being hammer-toed, a physical deformity by which the British frogman might be identified.

British security agents were represented as believing that Crabb, who vanished during a mysterious diving operation near the Soviet cruiser Ordzhonikidze in Portsmouth harbor April 19, 1956, is still alive and in Russian hands.

THREE SUBS PASSED

"Three Russian submarines were reported in the channel three days before the body was washed up," The Reynolds News notes.

The independent Sunday Express, printed a similar line of thought in the form of a letter to the editor.

A London reader wrote:

"If we can fly the Nazi Germans and the Spaniards, why shouldn't the Russians try the same stunt with us?"

London Deaths, Murder, Suicide, Thought Linked

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The strangling of a woman and the apparent suicide of her husband in the heart of downtown London Saturday was still being investigated by police Sunday.

A broken - marriage romance ended in fatal tragedy, police believed, in the death of Mrs. Edith Griffin, 47, and Michael Joseph Hall, 49, who lived alone in apartments a block apart.

A few hours later, Mrs. Griffin's body was discovered on a couch in her apartment. She was in her night dress and there was no sign of a struggle.

Coroner Dr. J. Bev. Robinson said Mrs. Griffin was "murdered." An autopsy showed she died by "manual strangulation."

BELIEVE HE KILLED HER

Police believed Hall jumped from the window of his own apartment. They said he was known as "close friends."

No inquest will be held in Hall's death, but a decision in the case of Mrs. Griffin is pending.

Mrs. Griffin was an army ordnance depot employee. She is survived by her husband, Fred, and a daughter, Gale, 22, whose enquiries led to discovery of her body.

A winemaker from Austria, Hall came to Canada 31 years ago and for many years was a local winery plant. He is survived by his wife and three children.

WASTE OF POSTAGE

PARIS, Ky. (AP)—Post cards sent out by a candidate during a recent local election resulted in the removal of 675 names from the voting list. The cards were sent to every name on the voting list, but the post office returned 675 of them, explaining that the addressees were either dead, unknown or had moved away.

THREE-WAY FLIGHT

Osie Villeneuve, 51, has been elected Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Glengarry-Prescott. He resigned his seat in the Ontario legislature and captured the federal seat in a three-way fight with two Liberal candidates, one official and one independent. (CP Photo).

Permanent Speaker May Be Named if PCs Called On to Form Government

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons may see inauguration of a new practice — a permanent Speaker who would not be changed from one Parliament to the next—if the Progressive Conservatives form a government.

Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker has proposed adoption of such a practice, similar to the tradition in the British Parliament.

However, with the Conservatives lacking an outright Commons majority and with another election likely within a year, it is possible Mr. Diefenbaker would delay implementing the change until he sees whether a new vote would give him a clear mandate.

The Canadian tradition has been to choose a new speaker at the start of each Parliament, alternating between French - speaking and English-speaking MPs. The nomination is made by the government side of the Commons from among its membership.

PIPELINE TROUBLE

During last year's pipeline debate, when an unsuccessful censure motion was made against Speaker Rene Beaudoin, both Mr. Diefenbaker and CCF Leader Coldwell proposed changes in the British system.

If the Conservatives decide to go ahead, speculation is that they might offer the permanent speakership to CCF member Stanley Knowles, whose detailed knowledge of the intricate Commons rules is generally acknowledged in all parties. He might decline; he is a busy whip, CCF assistant whip, chairman and one of the party's most effective MPs in debate. Also, if a Conservative government decides to choose a Speaker from within its ranks that would diminish by one its voting power in the House, which already is a minority. The Speaker may vote only to break a Commons tie.

The Conservatives have two recognized experts on parliamentary rules and procedure who would be eligible—Davie Fulton and Donald Fleming. But both are virtually certain to enter a cabinet-level administration.

Gaitskell Urges West to Accept Russian Offer

NEWCASTLE, England (AP) — Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell urged Britain and the West Sunday night to accept Russia's offer to suspend nuclear tests under inspection by a United Nations committee.

"Some may say that the Russians are not be trusted and don't really mean it," Gaitskell declared, "but surely the right course then is to test the Russians, and see."

The Soviet delegate at the UN disarmament subcommittee in current negotiations in London offered Friday to admit Western inspectors if agreement is reached on a nuclear test ban. He suggested a two- or three-year suspension of tests. Western sources called the offer a major step forward in disarmament negotiations but said many details must be clarified.

The opposition leader called any idea of holding up disarmament until German reunification is achieved "stupid, dangerous and absurd."

"Those who talk like this are really hinting that we might still go to war to bring about frontier changes, that disarmament would prevent us doing so and that therefore we should reject a disarmament agreement until we have forced the Russians to agree to the changes we want."

MEAT KING DIES

MELBOURNE (AP) — Sir William Anglis, Australian millionaire meat king who started as a butcher's boy in London, died today at St. Anglis was a director of Australia's meat export industry and made his millions selling meat all over the British Commonwealth. He arrived in Australia in 1924 with a few shillings in his pocket.

SAVES BABY THEN DIES

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Thomas Bennett, 45, was in his second-floor home Wednesday when he saw his three-year-old daughter suffering convulsively on a porch railing. He rushed out and pulled her down—just in the nick of time. But as he did, he lost his balance and the wooden railing gave way. He plunged to the ground and was killed.

Doctors Will Watch Operation On Two Patients

EDMONTON (CP)—A thousand doctors will watch today as Edmonton surgeons operate on two patients—on one for a hernia, the other for a faulty heart valve.

The operations will take place at the University of Alberta hospital. The doctors will be in a hotel banquet room two miles away, watching on closed-circuit television. The patients will not be identified publicly.

The television production—live and in color—will be the first of 114 such presentations at the Canadian Medical Association's annual convention. There also will be a surgical cardiac arrest—the creation of heart activity—a hysterectomy, two appendectomies and several clinical demonstrations.

LAYMEN TO LOOK

Laymen will be invited to see the two appendectomies tonight. Approximately 150 persons will watch the first operation, and about 250 the second.

"It is our belief that through lack of public education and knowledge many people — usually or unconsciously—fear surgery," the CMA said in a press statement. "By using the public behind the scenes of an operation, they should believe both they and their medical advisers will benefit."

Only convention delegates and reporters will be invited to see the other television presentations.

Service Vote Solidly Liberal Reports Show

OTTAWA (CP) — Just suppose that only the armed forces vote counted in the 1957 federal general election. The result would be a solid majority instead of the new Progressive Conservative victory on the service-plus-civilian count.

A compilation of the service vote released Saturday showed Liberals nearly won seven of the 264 seats contested.

Against the 257 Liberal majorities in the service vote, the Progressive Conservatives had four, Social Credit two and the CCF one.

Leaders of the three major parties—Prime Minister St. Laurent—John Diefenbaker of the Conservatives, M. J. Coldwell of the CCF and Solon Low of Social Credit—all trailed their liberal opponents in the service tabulation.

The Liberal majorities on the service vote includes that of William Bendickson, who ran on the Liberal ticket in Ontario's Kenora-Rainy river.

ENDS HEARINGS

OTTAWA (CP) — The Kellock royal commission Wednesday ended its Ottawa hearings on the CPR diesel firemen issue and prepared to go on the road to Toronto, Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver. Between hearings, commission members will make a first hand study of railroad yard operations.

Canada Creates Fashion Fabrics

The Canadian textile industry, which had its beginning in the homes of the early settlers nearly 300 years ago, has been steadily expanding until today its annual production is about $800 million—more than the Canadian wheat crop. Above, student at textile school checks cotton, which has been cleaned and freed of foreign matter, being condensed into a soft rope known to the trade as a "sliver".

To provide Canada's textile industry with the skilled labour it requires, the Province of Quebec established a modern textile school at St. Hyacinthe. Courses in textiles and the chemistry of dyeing comprise the curriculum.

Modern technology creates not only fibres but fabrics. To produce materials which meet the exacting standards of Canadian consumers, textile technicians devote many years to training and research.

The fabric and fashion choice offered Canadian women are the envy of many women in Europe. Above, an exhibition of Canadian textiles and women's wear at La Foire Nationale de Lausanne, in Switzerland.

Student learns how to change broken needle on a sweater-knitting machine, which has an intricate 1200 needles. All equipment at the Quebec school is of the latest design.

National Film Board of Canada Photos by Gar Lunney

Canadian fabric producers are today blending man-made fibres with each other and with natural fibres, such as cotton and wool, to create a wider variety of cloths than ever before. While Canada still depends wholly on imports for its supply of raw materials, 75% of the man-made fibre fabrics used in Canada are produced here.

2 Greatest Actors on Screen Today Are Brando, Quinn

By JAMES BACON

Called Ride, Vaquero, Ride, it starred Ava Gardner and Robert Taylor and was an expensive and wholly unsuccessful attempt by MGM to capture the slow pace of the classic High Noon.

Quinn, playing a made-to-order role of a Mexican bandido, turned in a performance so superb that one critic wrote it looked as if he had ridden in from another sound stage.

SUPPORTING OSCARS

Quinn will tell you that it's a cinch to lift such a downbeat picture. The real test is to shine in a top drawer movie with top drawer performances from great stars.

Yet that is precisely the way Tony won both his Academy Awards for best supporting actor. In 1952, he appeared with Marlon Brando in Viva Zapata, a performance which some critics have called Brando's greatest.

Douglas' van Gogh came across as a masterpiece of screen torment. Quinn played the boisterous, fun-loving artist, Gauguin, and was on screen only 7½ minutes—little more than a bit part.

TWO GREATEST

No wonder director Elia Kazan recently said the two greatest actors on the screen today are Brando and Quinn.

To Quinn, work is the most important thing in life. He seldom takes a day off and once in Italy worked on three pictures simultaneously.

He's basically a hungry actor. He says:

"Do you know what it is to starve when you're a kid? I can't honestly ever remember leaving a table with my stomach filled. I didn't have my first square meal until I was 21.

"Steady work to me is an obsession because it means that my kids will never have to go through what I did."

STUDIED IN HOSPITAL

Tony was born in Mexico of an Irish father and a Mexican mother. His father died while Tony was young and the boy went to work in a mattress factory to help his mother support the family.

An accident sent him to hospital and he spent all his time in bed studying to pass an examination for Los Angeles Polytechnic High School. There he got interested in acting, writing and directing for the high school plays.

When he left high school, he got bit work in the movies, mostly because he was a versatile type. He's believable as an Indian, a South Sea Island native, a Mexican or a Sicilian gangster.

Mayors Request Federal Aid At All Levels

MURRAY BAY, Que. (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities wound up its annual convention Sunday night with a flurry of resolutions, most of them asking the federal government for financial aid.

The four-day convention was cut short by one day when the 550 persons attending sped through the resolutions list, leaving nothing on the agenda for a session today.

The main resolutions called for a conference of Dominion, provincial and municipal officials to readjust the distribution of tax revenue; removal of the federal sales tax from machinery and equipment purchased by municipalities; establishment by the federal government of a loan fund where communities could borrow money at a low interest rate; and a bigger federal contribution to the cost of slum clearance.

KEY REQUEST

Most delegates, claiming municipalities are not getting a fair share of the tax dollar, regarded the request for a federal-provincial-municipal conference as the key resolution.

The establishment of a federal loan fund was stressed as being necessary for public works projects, particularly in view of present high interest rates.

Delegates asked the federal government to increase its contribution for clearance of slum areas to 75 from 50 per cent. The remaining 25 per cent should then be loaned to the municipalities, the resolution said.

The delegates heard C. E. Campeau, director of the Montreal planning department and president of the Community Planning Association of Canada, outline some of the problems posed by slum areas.

Gallant Man Easily Best Horse in Belmont

NEW YORK (AP) — Gallant Man, the tough little Irish-bred Belmont Stakes winner has a date with the veterinarian after which a decision will be made about his next race.

In fact Bob Ruler, who was the slight favorite in Saturday's $113,-250 mile and one half classic, also will be laid up for a brief time in care of a "vet."

Neither of them was hurt in the Belmont. Gallant Man, who set an American record with his tremendous eight-length victory, will be treated for worms, while Bold Ruler must take two shots of vaccine for sleeping sickness.

Bold Ruler tired after setting a blistering early pace and the D. and M. Stable's Inside Tract came up to take second money.

DECIDE IN A WEEK

"We won't make up our minds about the future for Gallant Man for about a week," said John Nerud, who trains the three-year-old for Ralph Lowe of Midland, Tex. "He's staked here at Belmont, and at Saratoga, as well as in Chicago."

Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons delayed the vaccine for Bold Ruler until after the Belmont, fearing the shots might upset the cold. All horses in New York must be inoculated by July 1. Gallant Man got his in Florida.

"You can see now how our horse should have won the Derby" said Nerud, referring to Jockey Willie Shoemaker's misjudging of the finish. Gallant Man lost by a nose to Iron Liege.

Gallant Man's sensational Belmont time of 2:26 ⅘ under 126 pounds clipped a full second off the track and American record set by Bolingbroke in 1940. It also mangled the Belmont Stakes mark of 2:28 1-5 set by the great Count Fleet in 1943, and equalled by another great colt, Citation, in 1948.

Lew Burdette Beaten 1-0 On One-Hitter

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—If Billy Bruton, Milwaukee Braves centre-fielder, had been the official scorer Sunday Lew Burdette would have made baseball history by pitching a no-hitter and losing in nine innings.

The Phillies beat Burdette 1-0 in the second game of a double-header even though Lou allowed only one hit. The lone safety was a double in the sixth inning by Joe Lonnett, reserve catcher, which Bruton dropped when he brushed the concrete centrefield wall after a long run. The official scorer ruled it a double. Lonnett scored the game's only run a few minutes later on a sacrifice fly.

After the game Bruton said he thought he should have been given an error. Bruton felt he played the ball badly by not racing to the wall right away.

A major league pitcher has pitched a no-hitter and lost in a nine-inning game although quite a few have pitched hitless ball the regulation distance only to lose in extra innings.

Son of Great Oarsman Wins For Argonauts

TORONTO (CP)—John Pearce, 20-year-old son of Australia's great oarsman Bobby Pearce, breezed to victory for Toronto Argonauts in the feature event at the first Central Ontario Rowing Association regatta of the season Saturday.

Argonaut Rowing Club won five of the 14 events, St. Catharines took four, Hamilton Leander three and Toronto Don two.

Pearce won by a wide margin over Bari Hildebrand of Don with C. Andreychuck of Hamilton third.

Feature of the regatta was the senior eights won by St. Catharines No. 2 crew with the No. 1 crew about a half boat length behind in second place. Argos were third and Leander fourth.

Members of the winning crew were stroke Joe Montague, Jerry Howlett, Ben Perkins, Dave Parkins, Dave Rennie, Jack Jenne, Bob Mackie, Moe Dobransky, Lew Bowman and cox Jimmy Anderson.

Other St. Catharines' winners were S. Murdza in the 145-pound singles, the crew of Mackie, D. Sheehan, Jenne, G. Girgenti, T. Peat, R. Simonds, R. Armstrong, D. Goulet and R. Reilly in the 155-pound eights and the crew of Jenne, Simpson, Girgenti and Sheehan in the 145-pound fours.

Harry Simpson Goes to Yankees For Billy Martin

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas City Athletics Saturday night traded outfielder Harry Simpson to New York Yankees for infielder Billy Martin. The players changed clubs as part of a deal involving eight players.

In addition to Simpson, the Athletics sent pitcher Ryne Duren and outfielder Jim Piasoi to the Yanks and optioned second baseman Milt Graff to Richmond of the International League. The Athletics retained title to Graff.

In return they got Martin, outfielder Bob Martyn, now with Richmond, outfielder - infielder Woody Held, now with Denver of the American Association, and pitcher Ralph Terry, who has a 1-1 record with the Yankees this year.

"This next race is for seven furlongs, George. Which furlong are you going to bet on?"

Macias Retains Title, Defeats Tommy Ursua

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Mexico City's clever Raul (Raton) Macias survived a surprising first-round knockdown Saturday night and retained his NBA world bantamweight title with an 11th round technical knockout of Tommy Ursua of the Philippines.

Macias, at 118 pounds and holding a 1½-pound edge over his stocky foe, brought the fight to an abrupt end as he battered the cut Ursua around the ring.

Although Tommy was still on his feet, referee Jack Downey called a halt after two minutes and two seconds.

The 23 - year - old challenger started the fireworks in the opening round of the scheduled 15 when he dropped a left hook to Macias' jaw and sent the 22-year-old champion to the canvas. Macias was up at four, but obviously was in trouble.

ROUNDUP

Canada Cement's entry in the Belleville and District Softball League maintained its undefeated record last week by winning from Trenton and Frankford-Bata.

The Ox Pointers top the loop with a perfect 7-0 record. Tied for second place are two Belleville squads, the Merchants and Goyer's Marines, with four and two records for a .667 percentage. Frankford-Bata is next with three and two followed by the Bobcats with one and four, Trenton Legion Juniors with one and five and Madoc, zero and five.

Claude Carr, Merchant third baseman, catcher and second sacker has taken over the leadership in the batting race. He collected two hits in as many trips to lift his average to a solid .467. Dave Jones of Point Anne, with .438, Keith MacDonald of the Merchants with .429, Gerry Goyer of Marines with .409 and Jack Elliott of the loop leaders with an even .400 are his closest rivals. Jones' 14 hits tops that department while Carr has scored ten runs to lead there. Above averages do not include games between Marines and Frankford and Madoc and Frankford. These scoresheets should arrive any day.

Plenty of games on tap this week. Tonight Point Anne meets the Merchants at CNRAA Park, to get things rolling. The Merchants visit Trenton and Bobcats go to Point Anne tomorrow while on Wednesday the Marines trek to Madoc and the Shamrocks meet the Bobcats at Madoc. Only one game on Thursday, Bobcats at Trenton, but on Friday eve the Merchants and Marines hook up while Point Anne goes to Madoc.

Turning to the Commercigial loop we find Loblaws atop the "A" section with three wins in as many games. Bakelite, Mead Johnson, Corbin Lock, Bell Telephone and Bank of Montreal follow in that order.

Ontario Hydro leads the "B" section. Plane Construction and Police are tied while Ontario Intelligencer and A. and P. share the final spot.

* * *

The B. and D. baseball loop has only four games scheduled this week. The undefeated Prince Edward McFarlands do battle with the Trenton Philcos at Bain Park tonight. Wednesday Wellington visits the Trenton Juniors while on Thursday at 6.30 p.m. the Belleville Juvenilles will play host to Trenton Juniors. Gord Bell's youngsters follow up with a game at Wellington on Friday night.

Bay of Quinte soccer suspends regular league activity after Trenton visits Campbellford on Sunday. The teams will be busy now until August fifth with Belleville Charity Cup and Trenton Challenge Cup play. Schedule play resumes on August 6th.

* * *

Minor softball and baseball leagues will be in full swing all week now that the high school exams are coming to a close.

District lawn bowlers will see action on Wednesday at Stirling with men's triples and on Saturday at Brighton with mixed doubles.

Bay of Quinte Country Club has a dance planned for Saturday night as well as the C. I. M. Morgan trophy draw for 15 hams and over on the same day. On Sunday, the mixed two-ball play for Belvedere trophy over 18 holes will be played.

* * *

Returning to baseball, briefly, we find three games in the South Hastings league on Wednesday, Cannifton in the lead, at Shannonville and Melrose at Foxboro.

Bay of Quinte Tennis League opens tomorrow with Batawa meeting Point Anne while on Wednesday Quinte teams D and Q clash in an inter-club affair.

Wren Blair is now making plans, through the Dunlop Booster Club, to take fans to Europe for the big series next February, and you have your choice of travelling by plane or ship at a special rate . . . Bay of Quinte tennis league opens on Tuesday with Batawa meeting Point Anne . . . Remember Bay Judd, Lakefield's hurling ace now in Uncle Sam's army? Word has it that he will spend his furlough in Peterborough playing exhibition games. Now there's something for the local lads to look into . . . Lightweight champion Joe Brown defends his 136-pound crown against Orlando Zulueta at the Montreal Forum on June 19 . . . Understand a couple of softball umps were peeved the other evening to find they had motored to Madoc only to find that the game had been cancelled earlier in the day and they were not notified. That gets rather tiring after it happens more than once . . . Attention minor baseball coaches! Make sure those report sheets are in early summer after game, to this editor's desk . . . There seems to be plenty of low-hit games in the BMBA this season, indicating a good year for the pitchers . . . Red Birds Swamp Brooklyn For Twin Win on Weekend; White Sox Gain Over Yanks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dicie Howell, 27-year-old relief pitcher, had never hit a home run in the majors until Sunday—then he hit two.

Howell, his bat and his strong right arm helped Chicago White Sox take the second game of a doubleheader with Washington 8-6 after Chicago had won the opener 4-1.

The double victory was important for the White Sox as they try to keep well in front of second-place New York Yankees. They picked up half a game on the world champions who played a single game against Kansas City and won it in the 10th inning, 9-8.

Chicago now has a 3½-game edge over the Yanks.

In other American League games, improving Detroit, in third place, won two games behind New York, edged Boston 2-1 on Harvey Kuenn's 12th inning single and Cleveland won twice from Baltimore 7-3 and 10-4.

WERE BEHIND 6-0

Howell hammered his home runs in successive times at bat to spark White Sox to a comeback win after trailing the game Yankees 6-0 early in the game. Four runs in the eighth inning put Chicago ahead 8-6.

A pair of two-run homers by Minnie Minoso had tied Washington, the latter's blow breaking a 2-2 tie in the sixth, won the opener for Chicago.

A three-run tenth inning, highlighted by Jim Gentile's two-run single, gave Yankees their seventh straight triumph over Kansas City.

HELPS NEW TEAM

Billy Martin, playing his first game for Kansas City after Saturday night's trade that brought Harry Simpson to New York, homered in the eighth to give his team a temporary 4-3 lead. After Enos Slaughter's ground single in the ninth put Yankees ahead 5-4, the As tied it in their half on Hal Smith's homer.

Kuenn's 10th inning homer gave Cleveland its opener. Jim Piersall's triumph and his seventh in eight decisions. Running pennant-wise since May 1, Cleveland six to take over the league leadership in strikeouts with 76. The loser was Mike Fornieles, making his first start for Boston since he was traded by Baltimore Friday for Billy Goodman.

Early Wynn won his eighth game of the season for Cleveland with a six-hitter against Baltimore that was spiced with home runs by Al Smith and Dick Williams. Jim Brown struck out for Batawa in Barb's in the eighth enabled Indians to come from behind for their first game triumph.

Quinte Soccer

Only one match remains to be played in the first half of the League schedule. In this Trenton will visit Campbellford on Tuesday evening.

Last week saw the RCAF drop their first game of the season when they only managed to tie with Belleville Northern at two goals apiece evening with a one all score being the result. Trenton polled off their second win of the season on Wednesday night when they managed to edge Batawa by the three to two count. On Saturday afternoon Belleville Northern claimed another two points when they beat Campbellford by two goals to one, this game then completing the second spot in the league standing to date.

This week the cup games commence. Belleville Northern have so many eligible players that they have entered two teams in the Trenton Challenge and the Belleville Charity Cup. The other first round game sees Batawa meeting Trenton in the Shoetown on Thursday evening. The return engagements come up next week. Belleville A meets Trenton and the lone out Batawa will entertain the second "Belleville" team in both events.

On Wednesday evening the RCAF entertain Belleville B in the first leg of their first round of the Trenton Cup. The other first round game sees Batawa meeting Trenton in the Shoetown on Thursday evening. The return engagements come up next week. Belleville A meets Trenton and the lone out Batawa will entertain the second "Belleville" team in both events.

South Hastings Baseball League

Latta gained revenge for their only defeat of the year in the South Hastings baseball loop on Saturday evening by downing Cannifton 4-2. Cannifton had beaten Latta earlier in the week.

The two clubs will four runs in the first frame and Art Wright's boys hogged the decisive markers in the fourth. Errors helped the winners' cause as Cannifton bobbled seven times.

Reid hurled the full seven innings for the victory. He was touched for four hits, striking out nine and passing five.

Foster and Cole shared mound duties in defeat, allowing eight hits. Lineups: Latta: Parks, G. Gowe, F. Ray, Sullivan, Gowe, W. Gowe, J. Hall, Keeble, Reid.

Rochester Wings Get Punch From Deal, Lovenguth

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitcher-manager Cot Deal and right-fielder Lou Lovenguth, two tireless performers have provided Rochester Red Wings with much-needed punch in the International League competition.

Deal, a 34-year-old veteran, made one of his rare mound appearances this season by hurling a neat six-hit 3-2 victory over Richmond Virginians in the second game of a doubleheader Sunday. Lovenguth, who got credit for his third victory in five days, pitched three innings of no-hit, no-run ball in relief as Red Wings came from behind for a 6-5 decision in the opener.

FOUR STRAIGHT

Montreal Royals made it four in a row under new skipper Al Campanis by taking Miami Marlins twice, 6-1 and 3-0. Columbus Jets coasted to a 9-4 victory after Buffalo Bisons had taken the opener of a doubleheader, 5-2.

Rookie right-hand Rochester starter Dick Ricketts with three runs in the first inning of the opener. Lovenguth came on the scene in the sixth, with the Vees holding a 5-3 advantage.

Billy Shantz' two-run homer in the fourth, and Frank Verdi's triple in the fifth drove home Shantz, who had singled, won the nightcap.

The second largest crowd of the season—12,134 fans—watched Torontonians Robinson and Havana on five hits to win his 10th game in 13 starts. Starter Joe Garcia, with three hits and three runs batted in, paced Havana's 13-hit attack in the nightcap.

HURLS FOUR-HITTER

Emilio Cueche, going the distance for his second victory in six decisions, silenced Leafs with four hits. Lew Burdette brought Miami's run total to 12 with a clout in each game.

The Miami run in the first game was the only run scored off Royal pitching in the three-game series. Righthander Billy Harris went the full nine innings in the opener and gave up six Miami hits for his sixth victory against three losses.

Jim Gentile's two-run homer in the first inning of the nightcap helped Rene Valdes chalk up his second victory in three decisions. Eddie O'Brien drove in Columbus' uprising in the big third inning of the second game with a grand-slam homer, his fifth hit of the day. Rip Coleman, making his first start for Buffalo since he was traded by Baltimore Friday for Billy Goodman.

Early Wynn won his eighth game of the season for Cleveland with a six-hitter against Baltimore that was spiced with home runs by Al Smith and Dick Williams. Jim Brown struck out for Batawa in Barb's in the eighth enabled Indians to come from behind for their first game triumph.

HOW TO BUY A GOOD USED CAR
ENGINE WARNING SOUNDS . . .
Sounds coming from the engine are of great importance in determining its state of wear and general condition. For example a sharp metallic knocking (called detonation) may be caused by an accumulation of carbon or spark too far advanced and isn't considered serious.
A heavy thumping sound when accelerating from low speed in high gear usually means main bearing trouble — which is expensive on remedy.
A rattling noise on deceleration stems from loose connecting rod bearings and can best be detected by taking your foot off the accelerator while driving at about 35 miles per hour.
Used car reconditioning — like the guarantee that is as good as the dealer who stands behind it. It is simple to identify QUIET warning sounds in an engine, but we find the CAUSE of the trouble and correct it . . . permanently. That's why at Pinder we are always your best value!

DISQUALIFY BYGRAVES

DORTMUND, Germany (AP)—Joe Bygraves, British Empire heavyweight champion, lost by disqualification Saturday night in the sixth round of a scheduled 15-rounder against West Germany's Joe Hein. Referee Helmz Neuhaus.

Two of Bygraves' punches, alleged to have hit the German below the belt, landed in the sixth, twice in the sixth round before the referee stopped it.

Dick Mayer Beats Defending Champion Cary Middlecoff In Playoff for U.S. Open

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Dick Mayer, a comparative but unheralded touring professional from St. Petersburg, Fla., won the 57th U.S. open golf championship Sunday by defeating defending champion Cary Middlecoff by seven strokes, 72 to 79, in an 18-hole playoff. They had tied with 36 totals in the regulation 72 holes.

Mayer took a three-stroke lead on the first nine, picking up four on the second from the 13th through the eighth.

Middlecoff took two double one-over-par holes on the back nine —when he hit a ditch on the 10th hole and when his drive landed under the low branch of a tree on the 15th.

Mayer's seven - stroke margin was a record in the scattershot 18-hole playoff.

The handsome 36-year-old journeyman pro, he said in a telephone talk, captured the event by shooting the Inverness Club course in 72, two over par.

ONLY WON TWO HOLES

Middlecoff, his game in complete shambles, was knocked to a by missing four putts of five feet and less, taking double one-over-pars on two holes and never cracking a birdie. He won only two holes—the second and the ninth—both pars.

The playoff was forced after Saturday's fourth round, played in sticky heat that sapped the strength of players, ended in a deadlock.

Three Canadians had entered the open. Gerry Kesterton of Kitchener finished the fourth round with 295, carding 74-71-75-75. Stan Leonard of Lachute, Que., was 297 on 71-76-75-75. Both scores were good for $540. Rudy Horvath of Windsor didn't reach the final round.

Mayer had 70-68-74-70—282 for the four rounds, while Middlecoff had 71-72-72-72—287.

By his playoff victory, Mayer won $7,200 while the second prize of $4,200 went to Middlecoff.

CARY WAS FAVORED

Starting off favored, Middlecoff, seeking to become the fourth man in history to win as many as three of these golf events, was an overwhelming favorite over the classcut New Englander who has never had won a major championship.

But Mayer, a blond copy of Ben Hogan, decided to play it calculatingly cool and would shoot for par and let the high-strung Middlecoff either beat him or beat himself.

Middlecoff, the rangy Memphis dentist, bucked his drive and missed an easy five-foot putt on the first hole. His confidence obviously shaken, he went from bad to worse like a Sunday duffer.

St. Thomas Elgins In First Place Tie With Oakville

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Intercounty baseball fans must wonder who is the most valuable, Johnny Ambrose the pitcher, or Johnny Ambrose the hitter. A leading contender for the league's most valuable player honors, Ambrose proved his worth in both departments Saturday night, personally shoving St. Thomas Elgins into a first place tie with Oakville Oaks.

Ambrose twirled a four-hitter and batted in the winning run as Elgins came from behind in the ninth to edge Oaks 3-2 in St. Thomas. Ambrose now has two of Elgins' five wins and stands in the top three in the league batting race, hitting close to .450. He also leads the league in runs batted in with 34.

St. Thomas and Oakville now have identical 5-2 records.

In other Intercounty games, Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen walloped Galt Terriers 15-1 and Guelph Royals 7-5 at night.

MOVE INTO FIRST

In the Great Lakes - Niagara League, London Majors took over first place from Hamilton Beavers downing Beavers 11-2 in London on the strength of Gerry Schmidt's two homers, a double and a single.

Willess Brantford Red Sox dropped two more games, losing 11-7 to North Tonawanda Title Views in St. Catharines Saturday afternoon and going down to Welland Swingers 7-3 at night.

Coniston Red Sox pounded out a 7-4 decision over Creighton Indians Saturday night and moved into first place in the Nickel Belt League.

Red Schoendienst Sparkles With Braves After Being Key Man in Trade With Giants

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Red Schoendienst sparkled in his first action with Milwaukee Braves Sunday and said: "I'm happy. It's like starting all over again."

The 34-year-old switch-hitting second baseman came to the National League leading Braves in a 4-1 deal in New York Giants completed five hours before the trading deadline Saturday night.

"That's the quickest I've ever jumped to first place," said Schoendienst, who was with the sixth-place Giants for about a year after playing 12 seasons with St. Louis Cardinals. "And it only took a phone call," he added.

Stating Braves at the third club in the business," Schoendienst said, "I feel sure they can win the pennant. I'm going to play as hard as I can to bring that about."

HAVING FUN AGAIN

Looks as though the "old pro" Braves need to keep them in first place, Sunday night is enjoying one of his better seasons. He has nine homers and 33 runs-batted-in. His batting average is .274.

In addition to fielding sharply he belted a three-run home run single and scored one run Sunday in eight trips as Braves dismantled Philadelphia Phillies 14-5. Schoendienst drove in four runs.

"In my judgment," said general manager John Quinn, "we've got the second baseman we were looking for."

RED AND DANDY"

Thomson and O'Connell had both held their own in the field for the Braves, but failed to hit especially when a hit was needed. Thomson left with a .295 batting average, O'Connell .233.

All three played Sunday as Giants dropped a doubleheader 9-6 and 4-3 to Cincinnati Reds. Crone started but was batted out in the second with the help and 3-0. Thomson banged two singles and O'Connell one for three of Giants' eight hits.

Bob Gutowski Makes Highest Leap in History

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — There's little reason to believe that Bob Gutowski, the vaulting genius from Occidental, won't have a world record soon added beside his name. He has two pending and next week may get another ready when he appears in the National AAU at Dayton, Ohio.

His greatest leap of all came here Saturday night in the NCAA meet when the slim, six-footer from the west coast soared 15 feet 9¼ inches. It bettered his own mark of 15 feet 8½ inches set April 27, which is pending approval as a world's record.

It also was the highest vault in history, both indoors and out. Cornelius Warmerdam held the previous high—15 feet 8½ inches at Chicago in 1942. That one couldn't be considered for a world's record because it was indoors but Warmerdam's best outdoor mark was 15 feet 7¼ in 1942.

There's some question about whether the prodigious leap here will be accepted as a world's record.

Wade Thompson, judge of the vaulting at the NCAA, said when Gutowski made his new record bid he pushed the pole back at the top of his run and that it was faulty in the proper direction — away from the pit—with wind cupping it and blew it toward the right. A retriever tried to catch it, fumbled the first time and recovered, then shoved—the pole toward the pit but caught it before it hit the ground.

The pole, however, had gone between the stand and sand across between the standards and across the "plane of the pit," which action is: Would the wind have against the rules. A major question is: Would the wind have blown it between the standards?

Fleet Path Wins King Edward Gold Cup Race

TORONTO (CP) — Fleet Path, owned by M. J. Boylen of Toronto, equalled the track record of 1:44 4-5 for a mile and a quarter as he won the $10,000 King Edward Gold Cup at New Woodbine Saturday.

Fleet Path, ridden by Eddie Belmonte, carried a load of 126 pounds although he hadn't scored a win in five previous races this year. However, he had been the champion of the Canadian handicap division in 1956 when he picked up almost $50,000 in purses.

Plans emerged two weeks ago in the annual Calvert golf tournament here Saturday. Both were tied with one-over-par 73s after 18 holes.

Under set prize in class B competition, handicaps 9 to 14, went to Bramalea's Jerry A. Kronis who carded 79-13—67.

Dick, 23, took a shower of blows from lightweight champion Manfred Neuke in the 10th round. He raised his hand at the end of the round as a sign that he was retiring. Then he collapsed in his corner and was carried out unconscious.

Chepstowe Boy Captures $1500 Pace at Richelieu

MONTREAL (CP) — Chepstowe boy from Maple, Ont., driven by Francois Lebeau, captured the $1,500 B and C pace at Richelieu Park Sunday, stopped the mile in 2:07 2-5.

In an $1,100 mile C pace, Mighty Cashier from Brampton was second behind Laurel Chips from Wallenstein in third place. In another $1,100 mile C pace, Teddie Rex from Ormsby picked up second money.

In a third $1,100 mile C pace, Ezra's Girl from Smiths Falls was second and Peter G. Grattan from Clinton was third.

Chinook Can from Collingwood, driven by Clarence Lockhart won the C trot for a purse of $1,100 Saturday in Class C trots. In the $1,100 C pace Albert Boucher brought Henley Wilkes from Peterborough across first in a time of 2:10 for the mile.

Penolene from Victoria Harbor with Keith Waples in the sulky was the winner of the $700 mile D pace in 2:11 3-5.

Arnprior Mare Wins Invitation Mile at Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. John Findley drove Sally Sue from Arnprior to victory Saturday, with Russell Smith in the sulky, captured a mile D trot in 2:16 1-5.

Strathcona horses captured two D paces. Brownie Bars with Harry Ingles up won the ninth race on the card in a time of 2:14 while Clarence Hilliard brought Ready Action across first in the 10th race. His time for the mile was 2:15 3-5.

Taxi C lee from Perth, driven by George Tinnuin, took a third mile D pace in 2:15. Winnie Lawrence from Ingleside, with Russell Smith in the sulky, captured a mile D trot in 2:16 1-5.

WINS ON EXTRA HOLE

BRANTFORD (CP)—Steve Garrett of Brantford North Ridge defeated Bruce Jardine of Waterloo Golf and Country Club in a one-hole playoff Saturday, title in the annual Calvert golf tournament here Saturday. Both were tied with one-over-par 73s after 18 holes.

Several Regular 'Factual' Programs Now Worthwhile

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—It seems to me that the realm of fact has been far outstripping the realm of fiction in television recently.

To be categorical about it, "fact" involves programs which report and interpret contemporary life. In literature "fiction" also reports and interprets contemporary life. On television, however, "fiction" — meaning drama both live and filmed—has seemed generally tired in recent weeks; with a few notable exceptions it has offered low-level entertainment.

To take an optimistic view of television viewing in this slack summer season, there are several regular "factual" programs worthy of attention.

CLOSER TO THE NEWS

Television has been getting closer to the news lately—and it's been making more news.

Most obvious, of course, was the televised interview with Nikita Khrushchev, secretary of the Soviet Communist party, on CBS-TV two weeks ago.

The questioning by reporters on news panel programs strikes me as being sharper and better integrated in recent months. It was obvious, for example, a week ago when Meet the Press (NBC-TV) interviewed evangelist Billy Graham.

Seasoned newspaper reporters who appear on news panels improve—not as reporters necessarily, but as TV personalities—from recurrent exposure to the camera. A similar improvement is noticeable in persons in public life who make recurrent television appearances.

When Billy Graham first began appearing on interview programs he had the unfortunate habit of watching the camera instead of his questioner, but in time he ably conquered this minor sin.

Mike Wallace's interview program on ABC-TV Sundays grows more interesting. Sunday, indeed is one of the best of viewing days this summer for viewers of a serious turn of mind. On NBC-TV there is an excellent review and analysis of the week's news, Outlook, and on CBS-TV there is Eric Sevareid's news roundup.

LEADERS MEET — For the first time since the federal election, Prime Minister St. Laurent (left) meets with Progressive Conservative leader John Diefenbaker in Ottawa. The two held a long talk about possible plans for formation of a new government. Mr. Diefenbaker said the talks were "friendly and amicable." (CP Photo.)

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

Promotion has made many masters whose reps have the duffers clamored. But masters so blessed can only do best after their hands have been played.

You hear tell that the top masters know when to overbid a hand in order to take a sacrifice loss. It sounds good until you see them fail to do it in their actual games.

Here is world championship deal number 100:

NORTH

Room one bidding went like this:

West	North	East	South
1 D	Pass	1 H	3 S
4 D	Pass	5 D	All Pass

A spade was the opening lead. Declarer stuffed a heart on it when dummy spade ace won this first trick. He then cashed ten more tricks and conceded two hearts, making his contract.

Room two bidding went like this:

West	North	East	South
1 D	Pass	1 H	2 S
2 D	3 S	3 NT	4 S
4 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

A spade was the opening lead. Declarer got spade ace trick, seven diamonds, two clubs; his ten needed tricks. Thus, in each room the east and west pair made game.

Both pairs were in the same state of vulnerability. If east and west can make game it pays south and north to take a two trick defeat doubled. But neither room did this.

Players of lesser rating may not be expected to know when such a sacrifice should be taken. But world masters are supposed to.

VICTIM OF GOLF

AVON, Ill. (AP) — Kenneth Luper, 26, took a practice swing with his club and accidentally struck and killed a four-year-old daughter, Laurie. Coroner Frank Jacobs said at an inquest Friday that Laurie darted in front of a swing by her father and was struck in the neck.

LAD, GRANDFATHER DIE

INVERNESS, N.S. (CP)—Hugh MacInnis, 80, and his seven-year-old grandson, Donald, were burned to death Friday in a fire that destroyed their home at nearby Campbell's Road.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I can't imagine that Marilyn Monroe wanted to do this role. If she did, why wouldn't the studio have moved heaven and earth to sign her?"

This was the incredulous comment f Maria Schell, the lovely Viennese — Swiss actress who is playing Grushenka in The Brothers Karamazov. Nearly everyone knows that MM long desired to do the role.

Everyone but Maria. I assured her I had heard Marilyn express the desire.

"Then I am amazed," Maria sighed. "I must write her and tell her how sorry I am."

SHE BRINGS SUCH FUN

"She brings such fun to the screen," the actress commented. "Often when I look for a picture to see, I think I can't face a Kazan picture or something equally dramatic. Most of my own pictures have been so dramatic that I cannot enjoy them.

Marilyn and Maria have little in common outside of Grushenka. Marilyn is introverted, ponders each word when she answers, exudes a smoldering kind of sex. Maria is outgoing, talks openly about everything and has an outdoor kind of beauty and appeal.

Her selection as Grushenka is one of those happy accidents that make stars. She can thank the Motion Picture Academy for it all.

OSCAR NIGHT VISIT

She was one of the foreign stars brought here last March for the Oscar night. Gervaise in which she starred, was one of the nominees for best foreign language film. La Strada won the award, but Maria was awarded the part in The Brothers Karamazov.

During her stay there she attended many receptions. At one, she met Pandro Berman, producer of the MGM film. Then she met Yul Brynner, who was to play one of the brothers, briefly outside her hotel.

Both men told each other later at the studios: "I just saw Grushenka." They sent for a print of Gervaise from the academy, liked her and started negotiations.

"I guess I looked especially good that day," Maria said. "I never would have gotten the part if they had looked at the pictures first.

AT THE BELLE—Gordon MacRae, and bright and fresh Shirley Jones is "Laurey", the girl whose love Gordon MacRae and Rod Steiger rival each other in Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Oklahoma!" in CinemaScope, Technicolor and complete enjoyment with the magic of Stereophonic Sound. "Oklahoma!" has been held over tonight and Tuesday, at the air conditioned Belle Theatre.

brings remorse and memories of the past. And, in spite of the fact that they know they are trapped by their way of life, each, in her way, dreams of escaping and never going back. In this way, Valentina Cortese answers a blind advertisement inserted by a man seeking a wife to accompany him to Venezuela. Academy Award winner Anthony Quinn, with his usual flair for superb characterization, portrays the mysterious man.

What happens as a result of the meeting and the strange love that develops is revealed on the screens with deep poignancy and heartbreak.

Miss Darnell, as the most tyrannical of the three women, delivers a performance that ranks high for emotional power and human understanding.

Photographed on locations in Rome and other Italian cities, "Forbidden Women" is considerably enhanced by a variety of attractive backgrounds, so that the film stacks up as entertainment as unforgettable as it is different.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, June 18, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A mixed but interesting day, with Venus and Neptune auspicious and some fine influences from the Sun. However, the Moon and Mercury, in somewhat restrictive aspect, suggest care in all things.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — An inspiring, perhaps exciting, day in spots; your ambition and aims should be high. A time for real accomplishment, seeking and gaining new goals, establishing yourself more strongly in your present position.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Your Mercury's aspect now stresses caution in written matters, signing contracts, legal documents, all important papers. Routine matters should run smoothly, however.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Personal interests and confidential work will need care and good judgment now. You can advance in your occupation, however; gain new ground if you use common-sense and have faith in yourself.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — A friendly period. It won't do to be careless, however, or expect things to happen without your cooperation. Don't fear new tasks; go forward wherever possible.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Day sponsors familiar matters if you apply your innate artistry and deftness with skill and patience. Don't worry and don't be offended by constructive criticism; it may prove helpful.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra)— Like Taurus now. Help to make this a prosperous period. Be creative; heed sound advice, also your intuition. You can accomplish much, acquire advantaged, cultivate new friendships.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — An amenable period for intelligent and patient work in business or any other activities designed to bring good and lasting benefits. Don't seek the unreasonable, but aim high.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Patience and clear judgment will be essential now. You may have to seek advice or suggestions and, if you refer to the right source — persons who really can advise — you will gain much and prevent errors.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn)— Do not aim for the moon now. Good work can be done, however, and improvements made which will prove valuable. Do not be unreasonable in your demands.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Good rays going to better as the day advances; the next two days will be excellent. These stimulating aspects, however, may tempt you to engage in too many activities; use common sense.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — The slogan, "where there's a will there's a way" never more applicable than this week, this month, this year. Good intentions must be backed by strong, positive action, however. You can reap rewards if you try.

You born today are endowed with energy, ambition, inventiveness, adaptability, clean-cutness, a capacity for large-scale endeavors and love of life. You can reach the top rung of the ladder quickly, but be careful not to be satisfied with superficial knowledge. Neither brush aside those who are not so quick, keen and active as yourself.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop was smoking comfortable in his private room while my mother was still bizzy in the kitchin after dinner, and I said, Hay pop, I bet you'll think me a big sucker when you hear what I'm going to tell you.

I assure you I've never felt so thankful in advance, pop said. Now what am I thankful for? he said, and I said, For this swell new green neckty with yellow stripes. Didn't you ever wonder what ever became of it? I said.

Heh? No, I meen yes, pop said. Yee gods, how did you ever uncarth it? he said, and I said, I was hunting for old useless rags to make a tail for my kite, and I found a whole buntch of them in an old paper box in the storeroom, and there was this tie, down at the very bottom. Aint you glad, pop? I said.

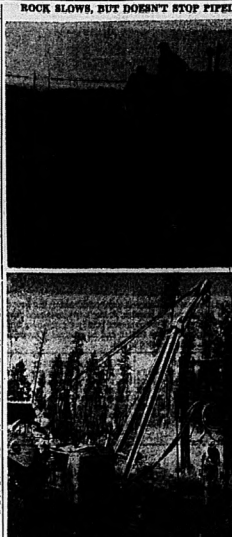
You bet, pop said. Your mother gave me that tie yeany years ago when I was mutch younger and my berthdays didn't come as close together as they do now. Anyway, I put it away in a safe place under those same old rags where you found it. I still cant think of a safer place where I could put it without being ungentlemanly, so will you please put it back again and consider the whole incident a secret by a gentlemen's agreement? he said, and I said, Sure, pop. It's plenimiles.

And I hurry up quick went and put it back under where it was left and the rags while ma was still putting dishes away and singing to herself unconscious.

FATAL DASH

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Richard Kolbuc, 14, was drowned Friday when trying to swim from a 200-foot Welland ship canal weir with a companion. Don Armstrong, 15, said they were about half way across when Kolbuc shouted that he couldn't make it. Armstrong said he grasped Kolbuc but had to let go when the victim pulled him under several times.

BITTEN BY RATTLER



LITTLE CURRENT (CP)—Ernest Peiller, an employee at Okeechanee Fish lodge on Island in McGregor Bay, Manitoulin Island, was brought to hospital-here Friday after being bitten by a rattlesnake. Hospital officials said his leg is in bad condition. He was given anti-venoen vaccine.

ROCK SLOWS, BUT DOESN'T STOP PIPELINE

Underneath this section of farmland near Fense, Sask., is the 34-inch trans-Canada pipeline. As soon as the contracting crews lay the pipe across prairie farms, the dirt is thrown back and planing, seeding and harvesting goes on as before.

Hard-rock miners are needed in the installation of the trans-Canada pipeline in areas where the Canadian shield is encountered and the surface is granite rock instead of soil. The hard-rock hands use jack hammers and wagon drills to prepare holes for high explosive which blast a ditch for the pipe. The manually operated jack hammers are in foreground in this scene from the Manitoba-Ontario borders where the contracting crews have to dig the ditch in solid rock.

COAL MINE EXPLOSION

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — An explosion in a coal mine in this anthracite region killed one miner and severely burned four others Friday. Leonard Woltaz, 40, of Nanticoke, died after being trapped by an underground blast at the Glen Alden Corporation's Loomis colliery in nearby Hanover Township.

WANTED

The Children's Aid Society is in urgent need of foster homes for children in the 13-16 year old age group. Some of these children, because of their past experiences, are seriously disturbed and require a great deal of understanding. The Society has ample facilities to help these children adjust to family living and the foster parents should be prepared to actively participate in the program. Clothing provided at the level of the other occupants of the home, plus medical and dental care, spending allowance, etc. The Society is prepared to pay reasonable remuneration to suitable applicants. For further information phone or write to the Children's Aid Society at 63 Moira St. West, Belleville — WO 8-5704.

NOTICE TO CATTLE OWNERS

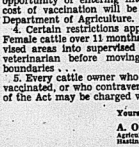
The County of Hastings has been designated a supervised area as of April 1st, 1957, under the provisions of the Brucellosis Act, 1956. As a result:

1. Every female calf, except those listed herds, must be vaccinated after reaching the age of four months but before attaining the age of 11 months.



2. Cattle owners may have their calves vaccinated by the veterinarian of their own choice.

3. If the veterinarian chosen has an agreement with the Minister, and every practitioner has had an opportunity of entering into such agreement, the cost of vaccination will be borne by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

4. Certain restrictions apply to the movement of Female cattle over 11 months of age from non-supervised areas into supervised areas; so consult your veterinarian before moving cattle across county boundaries . . .

5. Every cattle owner who fails to have his calves vaccinated, or who contravenes any other provisions of the Act may be charged with an offence.

Yours very truly,
A. O. Dalrymple,
Agriculture Representative
Hastings County.

Scientists Setting Out To Explore Mysterious, Unknown Oceans of World

Editor's note: This year a unique ocean fleet carrying scientists from dozens of countries will set out to explore the mysterious, unknown oceans that cover 70 per cent of the earth's surface. Here is a preview of what they hope to learn in that fantastic underwater world of towering mountains, deep, restless currents, broad canyons and flat plateaus.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP)—Sleeping under cold dark waters is a world more magnificent than man has ever beheld.

It boasts towering mountains, one higher than Everest . . . huge canyons, one which could hold seven Grand Canyons, and stretches for 1,200 miles . . . vast plains, flat-plateaus and domes, astonishingly sheer cliffs. . . .

Seventy per cent of our world lies buried under the oceans. And, as one scientist remarks, "We know less about it than the surface of the moon."

The salty seas, the home of earthly life by scientific evidence, plunge at points seven to eight miles deep. They teem with strange fish, plant and animal life.

Their waters stir with the winds and tides and great currents. From the seas comes life-giving rain. From the seas come powerful, little -understood influences upon weather and climate from seashore to far inland farms and cities.

UNIQUE EXPLORATION

Without the sea, human life on earth would falter and fail. Yet the oceans are largely still a book of mystery.

This ocean fleet is unique in history—planned voyages by ships of more than a dozen nations to learn facts which no one nation could learn alone. The trips are part of ocean studies during the International Geophysical Year (IGY).

IGY scientists will also be investigating worldwide weather, cosmic rays, earthquakes, glaciers, all the major phenomena and forces affecting our planet earth, and sharing the knowledge learned.

Roaming the Pacific, Atlantic and polar waters, many of these ships will use accurate echo sounders to map more of the unseen world beneath their keels.

LARGEST MOUNTAIN RANGE

Echo findings already have traced out some of the awesome scenery. They've mapped much of the mid - Atlantic ridge, the world's largest single mountain system shaming the Andes, about 10,000 miles long and 500 miles wide.

In the Pacific, soundings discovered the Tonga - Kermadec trench between Samoa and New Zealand, seven miles deep. Soundings showed that Mauna Kea in Hawaii is the world's highest mountain, rising 31,000 feet from the ocean bed, with only its final 13,823 feet thrusting a dry head toward the open sky.

Fissuring the ocean floor around the world runs a great crack 20 miles wide, two miles deep. Lamont Geological Observatory scientists believe it was caused by a pulling apart of the earth's crust by great earthquakes.

STUDY CURRENTS

But a main target of the voyages is to study the little-known deep currents in the oceans, and particularly to learn how fast the ocean turns over, how fast deep bottom waters come to the surface and surface waters sink below.

Scientists aren't sure whether this kind of turn-over takes 100 years or 10,000.

The answer could be vitally important in several ways.

Deep currents and a turnover bringing cold waters to the top could be profoundly vital in long-range weather forecasting.

Fertility of the sea and the consequent abundance of marine life depends upon inter-exchange of waters and their nutrients.

ATOMIC GARBAGE PAIL?

And the sea might solve a most pressing problem of the coming atomic power age. Are deep holes in the oceans a safe place to dump the dangerous and long-lived radioactive atomic ashes produced in atomic power plants?

The sea would be a safe garbage dump if the bottom waters remain stable for many hundreds of thousands of years. But if the waters turn over in a short time, the radioactivity could spread to poison marine life and ultimately man himself. . . .

Studies by L. V. Worthington of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution indicate that the turnover may not be gradual, but could happen suddenly. He finds evidence that cold bottom water of the North Atlantic was formed about 150 years ago during a so-called Little Ice Age.

Analysis of thousands of samples of water taken at various depths in different parts of the ocean could spell out the answer. The samples of water can be analyzed for chemical and physical properties to determine the age of the water, how long it's been where it is. Deep, slow ocean currents can be measured by other techniques.

Great surface currents are far better known, but even here knowledge is far from complete. Another target is to track some of the branches of the Gulf stream more accurately.

Higher Than Normal Marks Expected for 30 Days

TORONTO (CP) — Relief from the record - breaking heat wave that has scorched Southern Ontario and Quebec for the last two days was forecast today by the Dominion public weather office here.

Cooler, drier air, preceded by thunderstorms, is expected to push into the hot, humid air mass bringing relief to Southern Ontario late Wednesday, but not to Quebec for at least another day.

Continuation of the weather was forecast for the rest of the country, but the heat will still be on today and Wednesday in Ontario and Quebec.

A broiling 95 degrees was forecast for Windsor today, 90 for Toronto and Hamilton, Only Montreal, at the edge of the warm air belt, was expected to be drier and cooler at 85 again.

The early heat wave was restricted to the two central provinces. It was cloudy Monday in British Columbia and Manitoba. The Prairies had a comfortable 70 to 75 degrees, as had parts of the Maritimes. St. John's, Nfld., experienced a cool high of 44.

But at Sudbury, 180 miles north of Toronto, th. wet ff. and near North Bay the heat expanded railway tracks so much they spread apart and a CNR freight dropped onto the ties and buckled 250 feet of rail.

DOWN TO SHORTS

Toronto's sweltering 86 degrees yesterday—the hottest June 17 on record—caused a few truck drivers and their swampers to wear fashionable Bermuda shorts, and police blamed the weather for the heart attack which killed a 56-year-old man.

In some suburban areas a domestic water shortage left taps dry for five hours—on washday. Many trucks limited residential areas warning of water restrictions; in the metropolitan area consumption p a s s e d 200,000,000 gallons, or 150 gallons a person.

In the evening families with tents drove out of Toronto to sleep outdoors—the overnight low was forecast at 70, only four degrees below the normal daytime temperature. Others slept in parks and on beaches.

Gangland Guns Blast 'Big Shot'

Two assassins pumped four bullets into Frank Scalise, 55, and fled in a black sedan.

Police described Scalise as an associate of Gaetano "Tommy" Lucchese and Charles (Lucky) Luciano, deported vice lord.

Federal authorities suspected Scalise of being involved in international narcotics smuggling. He had been sought for more than a year for questioning in three murders.

Today's Chuckle

Said the frustrated young mother as she heard her children crying and looked over their dirty house: "Sometimes I wish I had owned and lost."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synoptic — Hot humid weather covers most of eastern United States, the Great Lakes area of Ontario and Southern Quebec. Temperatures will be above 90 over this area again today. A few isolated thundershowers will occur across Ontario today.

Cooler air is pushing eastward into Wisconsin this morning and is expected to reach Southern Ontario Wednesday. Thunderstorms are along the leading edge of the cooler air.

NEW YORK (AP)—A heat wave has taxed New Yorkers' tempers and their electrical power system.

Consolidated Edison has asked Monday's 90-degree heat for the third day in a row. The city's sweltering millions fared more of the same Tuesday.

Thousands of air conditioners were switched on as the temperature soared. That helped boost the power load toward the breaking point.

Consolidated Edison Co., the private utility that supplies the city, ran into what it called "a multitude of little blackouts" Monday. The utility appealed for voluntary cutbacks in homes, offices, stores and factories. It said some of its regular equipment was caught out of commission during overhauls.

A similar power crisis developed in Chicago. Household voltage dropped from the standard of 120 volts to 110.

The situation here improved by evening, however, and a spokesman for the company said: "We think we're out of the woods." Stand-by power units were in operation today to help ease the burden.

ELEVATORS, LIGHTING, HIT

Earlier, the appeal for a power curtailment led to a shutdown of escalators and some elevators in Rockefeller Center, the midtown showplace with an estimated daily population of 150,000 workers and visitors. Display lighting was trimmed.

Section of Brooklyn and the Bronx suffered power failures varying from 15 minutes to an hour. More than 20,000 homes were affected in Brooklyn.

The Empire State Building stopped—non-essential motors and pumps, and elevator service and asked tenants to switch off as many office lights as possible.

The temperature reached 93 in the late afternoon. That made it the hottest day of the year. The previous record for the date was 92.4 in 1891.

Hundreds of persons phoned police headquarters to complain that they could also were in a heightening restlessness because of shortages of water from their taps. They blamed the pressure drop on neighborhood fire hydrants for a cooling shower.

Immigrant Drowns

OTTAWA (CP)—Celestino Zanon, 24-year-old Italian immigrant, was drowned in the Ottawa River in Ottawa's Dows Lake before the eyes of evening strollers on shore when a boat in which he was paddling overturned.

London Newspaper Insists Britons Can Holiday in Canada for $265

LONDON (CP)—The photograph accompanying the story shows the Chateau Dows Lake Louise. But The Financial Times insists nonetheless that $265 can go a long way in Canada.

Ever since the treasury announced the new eight-by-pound allowance for pleasure travel to North America, the press has been full of descriptions of ways of stooging on how fast the bankroll would disappear in a New York nightclub. The Financial Times is the first to explore the possibilities of Canada.

The writer concedes that transportation would be the biggest trip to be paid in sterling, put a Canadian vacation beyond the reach of most Britons unless a business trip takes them across the Atlantic.

He also notes that the $265 the traveller gets for his £100 in Canada is five per cent less than what he can get in the United States. But he adds that "if you pick your holiday wisely, it will go a great deal farther."

"You will not be tempted to leave much of it in the hands of what the Americans would call the entertainment industry and you can get good food, good accommodation and uncrowded beauty spots much more cheaply."

The only way to see Canada, he says, is to travel from Montreal to Vancouver by train, making frequent stops along the way. He recommends the use of sleeping accommodation but suggests saving on meals by eating in the train buffet at half the price of the dining car.

Alternatively, if the tourists muscles are in good shape, the writer suggests a canoe trip "through the wilds of Northern Ontario" or a week's fishing at a "remote cabin unless a business trip takes them across the Atlantic.

He also notes that the $265 the traveller gets for his £100 in Canada is five per cent less than what he can get in the United States. But he adds that "if you pick your holiday wisely, it will go a great deal farther."

TROOPS, POLICE READY TO SHOOT ALL ARSONISTS

Threats Made to Burn Down Port au Prince

PORT au PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Haiti's military junta today deployed troops and police with orders to shoot in reply to threats by followers of ousted President Daniel Fignole to burn down this Caribbean capital.

Worker and peasant followers of Fignole vowed Monday to use the torch unless Fignole is returned from exile in New York. Workers began evacuating their huts near the harbor as they made the threats.

The three-man junta refused to consider the demand for Fignole's return. It countered with orders to shoot arsonists on the spot and to arrest any slum owners who tried to close down in protest against Fignole's exile and military rule.

ISSUES DECREE

The junta issued a decree forbidding any general strike. It also curbed electioneering by the eight remaining presidential candidates by banning political broadcasts.

The ruling military group banned all political activity except operation of essential services and food supply lines. Commercial airline operations Monday ran into trouble only in the first time since the junta's violence erupted Saturday.

The junta made it plain that it stood ready to use again the armed force which quelled the weekend riots. At least 50 Haitians were killed and 200 injured in that violence, which followed Fignole's overthrow by army leaders Friday.

About 1,000 rioters were reported jamming the city's already crowded jails, but army sources said many prisoners were being released after questioning.

STARTS FROM RUMORS

The wave of looting and burning that destroyed part of the capital's was touched off by rumors that Fignole had been executed. It took the government hours to convince the people that Fignole had been sent to New York.

Fignole told reporters in New York Monday that four army officers had attempted his life at one point. He said he and his wife were shot at from a Haitian Army plane bound for the United States. They left behind seven children.

Fignole said he still considers himself president and that "the presidential elections are held." He was bitter about charges that he had encouraged violence by refusing to be a candidate while holding the post of provisional president.

27 COWS KILLED

NORWICH, N.Y. (AP)—A herd of 27 cows, valued at an estimated $20,000, was destroyed Monday by a bolt of lightning at a farm near here. Alois Denz, owner of the herd, said the cows were huddled under a tree when the lightning struck. Six cows escaped injury.

NEW PRIME MINISTER MEETS GOVERNOR-GENERAL

New French Govt. Is Forced To Reimpose Import Quotas

PARIS (Reuters)—France today reimposed import quotas on a wide range of goods—the first drastic step by the young government of Premier Maurice Bourgès-Maunoury.

Felix Gaillard, 37-year-old Radical finance minister, told a press conference Monday night that the coalition cabinet formed six days ago had been forced to reimpose import quotas, starting today, because France's foreign exchange reserves were exhausted.

This means a temporary retreat from the easing of trade restrictions agreed with other members of the 17-country Organization for European Economic Co-operation over the last few years.

1. A debate on new financial measures immediately after their approval by a further cabinet session Wednesday.

2. A call for renewal of special powers granted with the Moslem nationalist uprising in Algeria. The mere introduction of a bill to this effect automatically extends these powers, subject to assembly approval.

3. Ratification of the common market and European atomic pool treaties before July 8. This common market will be the economic union of France with those of West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

43 Go to Toronto Hospitals After Streetcars Collide

TORONTO (CP) — A rear-end collision of two streetcars in east-end Toronto today sent 43 persons to hospital.

Passengers were flung headlong on top of one another when a car operated by a student driver crashed into the rear of a standing westbound car.

It was the second collision of streetcars here within a week. Last Wednesday a rear-end collision between two streetcars at St. Clair Avenue and Yonge Street left 19 persons.

Buses were put into service to handle rush-hour patrons in the area. Traffic westbound into downtown Toronto was tied up for 30 minutes.

TTC officials said, they do not know what caused the accident.

John Murray, one of the passengers, said: "I was reading my paper when there was a tremendous crash. The next thing I knew I was sailing through the air. I banged my head against a handrail and broke my glasses."

Patrick O'Connor, 21, a standing passenger, injured his neck when he was thrown over the railing beside the rear exit doors.

"I went head first through the air and landed on the street," he said. "When I looked back to see what happened people were lying all over the aisle."

Hospital officials expected to release most of the injured after treatment. "Most of them are suffering from cuts, face and scalp lacerations and bruises," an official at St. Michael's Hospital said.

U.S. Circles Show Optimism Over Latest Red Proposal

LONDON (AP) — American circles at the United Nations disarmament talks reflect tempered optimism over the Soviet Union's proposal for an internationally supervised ban on nuclear weapon tests.

A United States spokesman today in Russian proposals could be a "major break-through of the disarmament log jam, but then again maybe not."

The five - power disarmament subcommittee talks are in recess until Thursday to allow delegates to consult with their governments on the new developments.

The American spokesman termed Russia's agreement the new principle of mutual inspection to enforce a ban on tests a "very significant development."

It is very important that the Russians, who still think any sort of inspection is unnecessary should have agreed to allow it in a limited matter."

"But," he emphasized, "there are other very important problems, and many questions involving complicated detail, before there could be a partial agreement on a first step toward disarmament."

The Soviet subcommittee delegate, Valerian Zorin, last Friday proposed a two- or three-year suspension of all nuclear tests and said the Soviet Union would admit international teams of inspectors to ensure that the moratorium was respected.

Accepts Formal Invitation To Form New Government After St. Laurent Resigns

Now Busy Working on Cabinet Nucleus; Leaves Monday for Commonwealth Meet

OTTAWA (CP) — John Diefenbaker, confirmed as Canada's next prime minister but not quite in office, today worked on the makeup of a cabinet nucleus that will take over the federal government Friday.

The tall prairie lawyer, who Monday night accepted Governor-General Massey's invitation to form a government after the resignation of Prime Minitser St. Laurent, was shaping up Canada's first Conservative administration in 22 years. And the Liberals were leaving office after a record- breaking tenure.

The 61-year-old Progressive Conservative leader from Saskatchewan, who put out the long-entrenched Liberals after less than six months at the head-of his party, will be prime minister in three days as the leader of a minority group in the Commons.

The 75-year-old Mr. St. Laurent, government chief since 1948, will become Opposition leader.

LONDON CONFERENCE

One of Mr. Diefenbaker's first major jobs as prime minister, he said Monday night, will be to head for London Monday for the Commonwealth conference of prime ministers starting June 26. There he intends to press for a Commonwealth conference on trade.

During the campaign for the June 10 general election, in which his party won the most Commons seats but not enough for a majority, he pledged efforts for such a conference to help in putting Canadian trade within the Commonwealth.

Meanwhile, he was concentrating efforts today on building up the core of a cabinet to be submitted for the governor-general Friday, and there were some indications he might reach outside the list of elected Conservatives for some ministers.

Until Friday, Mr. St. Laurent will head a caretaker administration so that at no time will Canada be without a federal government.

The prime minister tendered his resignation late Monday. When the governor - general promptly called on Mr. Diefenbaker to form a new administration, the Conservative leader accepted.

But he held off setting up the new government immediately pending time to choose a cabinet. Thus Mr. St. Laurent and his ministers remain in charge for the time being.

LUNCHING IN HOUSE

Neither he nor Mr. Diefenbaker has an over-all majority in the 265-seat Commons. Their party standing now is: Progressive Conservatives 109; Liberals 104; CCF 25; Social Credit 15; independent 2; Independent-Liberal 1; Independent-Progressive Conservative 1; Liberal-Labor 1; vacant 1; deferred 1.

Boating Trip Ends in Tragedy, Five Drowned

ST. FERDINAND - de - HALIFAX, Que. (CP)—A summer's day boating trip turned to tragedy Monday when five persons—two of them children—were drowned in Lake William near this Megantic County town.

The accident occurred about 4 p.m. when the outboard - motor craft capsized on a sharp turn, police said.

Eyewitnesses said they hurried to the spot but while the pair of the children was recovered, he did not respond to artificial respiration. The search for the other bodies took about an hour.

Police listed the dead as Mrs. Marcel Hubert, 38, her son, Paul, 6, Nazaire Arsenault, 30, Mrs. Jean-Louis Arsenault, 25, and her son, Louis, 2, all of nearby Plessisville.

Driver of the boat was Mr. Arsenault.

St. Ferdinand - de - Halifax is about 35 miles south of Quebec City. The bodies were taken to Plessisville where an inquest will be held.

The last big Quebec drowning tragedy occurred several years ago when the motorized ferry Bluebird, with 12 children lost their lives in a boat accident.

Much-Postponed Atomic Device Is Detonated

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP) — The much-postponed fourth shot in the current United States atomic test series was exploded here today by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The device was detonated at 4.45 a.m. 500 feet above the desert floor from beneath a balloon 67 feet in diameter.

Unofficial observers estimated the bomb at 10 kilotons — about half the force of the weapon used in the Second World War.

It was visible as far away as Los Angeles and lit up a large portion of the northwest sky at Las Vegas, approximately 80 miles away. Observers on Angel's Peak, closest spot reporters were allowed to the test area, said that they could feel the heat and expect that the explosion had kicked up dust on the floor of the desert.

The AEC said witnesses estimated that the mushroom cloud rose to a height of 30,000 feet.

HEAT WAVE FATALITIES

BONN (Reuters) — At least 16 swimmers have drowned in West Germany's hard wave in the last two days, police reported today.

Three Spend Two Harrowing Hrs. Clinging to Rock in Niagara River

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Three men were rescued by helicopter and private boat late Monday night after a harrowing two hours in the Niagara River a mile above the cataract.

Two of the men were clinging to a rock. The third was in a 16-foot outboard motorboat.

Authorities said Dennis Miller, 36, and Thomas Sterling, 50, both of Niagara Falls, Ont., were cruising in the motorboat when the engine failed.

Miller fell overboard as the two were trying to fix it but was able to swim to a rock about 150 yards off shore.

The third man, Robert Bryan of this city, heard Miller's cries from the shore. He swam to Miller's rock while other workers at the Carborundum plant nearby called police.

Miller and Bryan said they clung to the rock for nearly two hours. Later Miller told authorities it would have let go long ago if it hadn't been for him comforting me."

Sterling, in the boat, was thrown by a jolt from the motorboat while a two-place helicopter from the air force base here settled down near the rock to pick up Miller.

Bryan held on a while longer until the motorboat, with Sterling in tow, came by to pick him up.

Miller was taken to hospital with exposure and his condition was reported as not serious. The others were unhurt.

Three Killed In 2-Car Crash At Parry Sound

PARRY SOUND (CP)—A two-car collision on a highway through Parry Sound area Monday claimed death to three persons and injured les to five others.

Killed Monday night were two American tourists, an elderly woman travelling north to visit her son; Howard Berilla, 27, and Loretta Hupp, 20, both of Cleveland Ohio, and Mrs. Mary Lankhe, 65, of Collingwood, Ont.

Injured were two other tourists from Cleveland: Francis Horoupil, 21, and Eleanor Verbliz, 19, and Mr. and Mrs. William Hoggard of Sudbury, both 34, and Richard Lanktree, 4, of Carson, near Sudbury. Hoggard was Mrs. Lanktree's brother.

Provincial police Canadian and southbound American cars—each carrying four persons — crashed near MacTier, 17 miles north of Orillia and 18 miles south of here, on Highway 69. The highway, only a few years old, travels through the French River tourist area north to Sudbury.

RAY McKINNON TAKES TOP SPOT IN TRAP SHOOT

Ray McKinnon of North Front Street scored with 23 of 25 shots over the weekend to take top spot in the weekly shoot at the Belleville Trap and Gun Club.

STUDENT BODY OF ST. MICHAEL'S GIVEN HOLIDAY

There were 650 Belleville citizens who did not mind Monday's heat wave.

The student body at St. Michael's Academy was released from school at 3 p.m. yesterday because of the torrid heat.

Public school students, though, sweated it out until time for dismissal at the regular time.

VACATION TIME COMING UP

Employees at the Swift Canadian Co., Ltd., in Belleville will go on two weeks' vacation beginning on July 29 and ending August 12, the Chamber of Commerce announced today.

Berry Prices Now Believed Low as Going

Although the general price asked was 49 cents per berry box, one or two vendors on the local produce market today quoted as low as two boxes for 75 cents for strawberries from older patches.

Vendors doubted that the price would go much lower despite the fact there had been considerable rain. Late spring frosts nipped some of the blossoms while blistering heat of the past few days is expected to shorten the crop.

All agreed that picking berries in the afternoon temperature ing 90 degrees was hot work but facing heat waves rising from the market square basement was equally as uncomfortable.

Frank Murray Vice-President Of Ad Clubs

Three delegates, William Mashinter, Frank Murray and William Holway have returned home from Minaki, where they attended the Federation of Canadian Sales and Ad Clubs and they report a wonderful time. The entertainment was superb, the accommodation and service excellent and the convention one of the best that has been held in years. As one delegate put it, "We had a fine time but also a considerable amount of business was transacted.

GIFT CAUSES STABBING

NEW YORK (AP) — A Bronx woman was stabbed to death by her husband Sunday for giving a father's day gift to another man, police reported. Police said Raphael Montanez, 37, a meat clerk, stabbed his wife, Marlina, 23, after an argument about the gift. He was booked on a charge of homicide.

Local Blood Clinic Planned To Aid City Girl's Recovery

Thanks to modern medical science and special care at St. Michael's Hospital in Toronto, a 17-year-old Belleville girl, Miss Marie Malloy, Cannifton Road, will soon be virtually healed of the burns she received eight months ago.

Doctors state still more skin grafts will be required and that at least 30 pints of blood will be needed before the girl is completely recovered. Marie is the daughter of Mrs. Florence Malloy.

Blood required in transfusions for the Belleville girl has been supplied by the Catholic Blood Bank, a Toronto organization formed five years ago to provide free blood for needy patients in Toronto hospitals. Marie's case will continue to supply the blood required for completion of the girl's treatment.

WANT DOUBLE REPLACEMENT

Blood used in transfusions, however, is not given back to replaced double and the blood bank officials in Toronto estimate a total of 60 pints will be required to replace the blood used in Miss Malloy's treatment.

To fill this requirement an appeal is being made to the people of Belleville to donate blood for this purpose and a special blood clinic will be set up in the city this Saturday. One of the officials in charge of the clinic is Mrs. Stewart Brown of Toronto who married a Belleville boy.

The clinic will be held at the Knights of Columbus hall from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and persons willing to donate blood to assist in the Belleville girl's recovery are asked to phone WOodland 2-3438 to make appointment for convenient time for the clinic. A doctor will be in attendance at the clinic to make the necessary tests.

Diefenbaker Will Submit Cabinet On Friday

OTTAWA (CP) — John Diefenbaker reached his Commons office at 10:25 a.m. today and said he planned to spend most of his first day as prime minister designate at the job of choosing a Progressive Conservative cabinet.

The party leader, invited to form a government by Governor-General Massey, has until Friday, to submit a cabinet to the governor general Friday.

Mr. Diefenbaker told reporters he has no plans for the day except to work at the complex task of picking his ministers from among his 109 supporters in the Commons.

He said that after a sound night's sleep following his meeting with Mr. Massey he started work in his hotel suite at 6:15 a.m., going through correspondence and making notes for replies.

SEVERAL VISITORS

By the time he arrived at his office several visitors were waiting for him.

Cabinet Secretary R. B. Bryce had arrived early carrying a bulky portfolio. Mr. Bryce will accompany Mr. Diefenbaker to [illegible] next week for the Commonwealth prime minister's conference June 26.

Also on hand were Donald F. Ing, Commons member for Toronto-Eglinton and a certain cabinet appointee, and C. A. Cathers, new Conservative member for York-North. Mr. Fleming, runnerup to Mr. Diefenbaker for the leadership last December, has been working to assist with the leader on the cabinet makeup.

It was learned that Mr. Bryce conferred with Mr. Diefenbaker at the suggestion of retiring Prime Minister St. Laurent. It was understood he was briefing Mr. Diefenbaker on cabinet business and on arrangements which have been made for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference.

Mr. Diefenbaker is scheduled to leave for London Monday.

LONDON (AP)—Aneurin Bevan confirmed today he is going to the United States this fall, after visiting Russia and Poland. The foreign affairs spokesman for the Labor party said he plans a fact-finding tour in the interests of peace.

P.T.A. Officers Elected by Acclamation

The monthly meeting of the Parent Teacher Association of St. Michael's High School was held in the assembly room on June 10th, Mr. Kenny Martin presided, Very Rev. L. B. Garvin gave the meeting with a prayer. Mr. Harry O'Neil gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Black, historian, gave a concise summation of the year's events and received the commendation of the president and members for her year's work.

Rev. Sister Mary Justina reported on the recent convention of the Ontario Educational Association in Toronto, which the Sister attended as representative of the Separate Schools.

She gave an interesting account of the diverse activities of such a convention and reported on the addresses of several speakers and said that the words of Bishop Ryan, Catholic Education University, Windsor, were of particular encouragement to the teacher; Bishop Neilly-gan lauded all P.T.A.'s for the part they played in encouraging the teacher; in preventing misunderstanding between parent and teacher, and in fact promoting a spirit of harmonious cooperation in the whole community.

Mr. Cook expressed his gratitude to all the executive and to the members collectively for all the help and cooperation given to him in his year as president.

SLATE OF OFFICERS

Rev. Sister Mary Lenore presented a slate of officers for the coming year prepared by the nominating committee.

The following officers were elected by acclamation:

Hon. President, Rev. Sister Mary Lenore; past president, Mr. H. Cook; president, Mrs. Ernest Cook; vice - president, Mrs. Arthur Black; secretary, Mrs. H. Ryan; treasurer, Mr. Harry O'Neil; historian, Mrs. G. Donoghue.

A film was shown by Sister M. Lenore regarding the plight of typical Hungarian refugees, fleeing from Hungary during the recent uprising. Very Rev. L. B. Garvin suggested that the association provide a social evening for new Canadians some time in the fall. The idea was well received by the members.

Police Blotter

The hot humid weather of the last few days is getting most of us down but at least some benefit is given Indication by a look in the looking for work.

While Hardware on Front St. yesterday afternoon complained that two power lawn mowers had been stolen from the store, apparently some time during the noon hour. Investigation revealed the mowers had been in a rear warehouse.

Otherwise police, both at the city and provincial police offices, reported a quiet night with no motor accidents and only a few occurrences of a minor nature.

ASKS INVESTIGATION

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Asian-African delegates asked Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold Monday to arrange an international investigation of the Melouza massacre, the slaughter of more than 300 Arab men in a village south of Algiers May 30. The French blame Algerian rebels for the massacre, saying it was the work of the National Liberation Front. The National Liberation Front contends French troops slew the villagers.

Trying to Stamp Out Anti-Soviet Feeling in Army

WARSAW (AP) — The defence ministry has ordered for a broad political offensive to stamp out widespread anti - Communist and anti - Soviet feeling in the Polish army.

The call was made in an article by Vice Defence Minister Zarzycki in the Polish army journal. Zarzycki is chief of the army political board which controls party groups in army units.

The article says "The prevailing atmosphere in the army . . . is depressing and greatly." It clearly indicates that the feeling in the army is as widespread as in the rest of Poland.

Zarzycki says the ideological campaign must also involve all with the anti-Soviet attitude."

"We notice doubts in the purposefulness of our alliance with the Soviet Union, of the importance of Soviet aid for our economy, and of Soviet support for our national interests."

Zarzycki says Communists in the army should stop living the life of "offended virgins" and actively push the official line or leave the party.

Poles, Germans Trying to Mend Bitter Feud

BERLIN (AP) — Polish leader Wladyslaw Gomulka today opened talks with East Germany's Stalinist rulers aimed at working out an end to one of the bitterest feuds inside the Soviet bloc.

The party and government delegations of the two Red satellites opened a three-day closed-door conference shortly after the Polish visitors got a red-carpet welcome by East Berlin's Walter Ulbricht.

Gomulka told his hosts "we believe in co-operation among all countries regardless of the order of their societies, and we believe that of co-operation is of importance for the future of Germany and Europe."

MUTUAL SNIPING

Since the independent - minded Gomulka broke away from rigid Moscow control last October, Polish and East German politicos have never stopped sniping at each other. Apparently only Russian intervention has prevented the two from flaring into an open rift in relations.

Local Man Hurt When Thrown From Auto

Frank Reynolds, about 30, of Corbyville, is in the Belleville General Hospital suffering head injuries he received shortly after midnight on Tuesday when his car rolled over on Highway No. 14 north of Belleville, and threw him in the ditch.

An unknown passer-by found Mr. Reynolds in the ditch and called the O.P.P.

Cancer Study Courses Will Be Set Up

EDMONTON (CP) — Canadian medical men are preparing for them on hospital — diagnostic check. Doctors are anxious to increase the supply of laboratory technologists. They will set up cancer refresher courses, and soon will have one for scholars of the veterans.

But all these decisions at Monday's opening of the Canadian Medical Association's annual convention were overshadowed by the experiment of giving two groups of 400 laymen closed-circuit of appendectomies via color television.

During each televised operation, beamed from the University of Alberta hospital, eight nurses and the aides for one at CMA officials said—"atmosphere." During one operation a dozen persons left the hall for reasons unknown but association spokesmen later described the audience response as "favorable, and what we had hoped for."

SHOW YEARBOOK

The CMA had hoped, they said, to eliminate some of the misconception and fear of surgery that arises from lack of public knowledge and education. It also wanted to portray the importance of the operation room. Medical color television by now routine for the CMA. But never before had the public been invited.

Of major importance Monday was a decision to split from the Joint Canada-United States commission on hospital accreditation, on which the CMA is the only Canadian representative. The Joint group has handled hospital standards in both countries since 1952 and previously it was the sole chore of the American College of Surgeons.

The all-Canadian program, toward which the CMA has been working for the last several years, is scheduled to become effective Jan. 1, 1959.

RAISE CIGARET PRICES

MONTREAL (CP) — Several major tobacco companies Monday raised the wholesale price of their cheaper cigaret brands 25 cents per thousand, effective immediately. Company officials said costs have increased. The companies were American Tobacco Company, Imperial Tobacco Limited and Morris Inc. The boost amounts to about one cent a pack at retail.

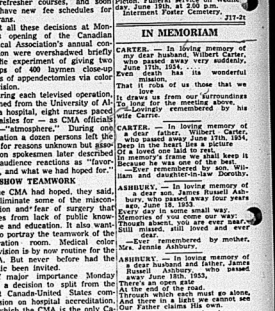
IN MEMORIAM

CARTER. — In loving memory of our dear father, Wilbert Carter, who passed away very suddenly, June 17th, 1953.
Even death has its wonderful power
That it robs of us those that we love
But it cannot
Destroy us from our memories
To long for the meeting above.
—Ever remembered by his wife Arlene and family.

CARTER. — In loving memory of our dear father, Wilbert Carter, who passed away very suddenly, June 17th, 1953.
Deep in the heart lies a picture
Of a loved one true and dear
In memory's frame we shall keep it
And memories are dear.
—Ever remembered by son, Russell and daughter-in-law Dorothy.



ASHBURY. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Lloyd Ashbury, who passed away four years ago, June 17th, 1953.
Every day in some small way
Memories of you come to stay
Thinking of you we shed a tear
Sad and lonely all the year.
—Ever remembered by mother, Nora Ashbury.

ASHBURY. — In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Russell Ashbury, who passed away June 17th, 1953.
There's an open gate
And a road that leads
Through which no one must go alone,
For Father dear, tonight we cannot see
Our Father waiting there.
Beyond the gate our loved one
Finds new friends and rest.
And there is comfort
In the thought
That a loving God knows best.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by his wife Arlene and family.

Gross National Product Seems Levelling Off

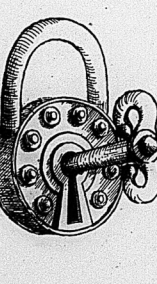
OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's economy showed some signs of levelling off in the first three months of 1957 after a prolonged period of continuing rises, the bureau of statistics reported today.

An indicator was the gross national product—value of all goods and services produced—which stood at an annual rate of $30,910,000,000 for the three months.

While sharply higher than the annual rate of $28,726,000,000 in the corresponding period of 1956 the rise was just slightly below the record $30,960,000,000 in the October-December period of last year.

Canada, for the year as a whole, had a gross national product of $29,866,000,000 for 1956 and the government earlier this year forecast an increase to $31,250,000,000 for 1957.

Labor income rose to a record annual rate of $15,016,000,000, compared with $14,822,000,000 in the last quarter of 1956 and $13,636,000,000 in the first quarter.



Consumer spending increased to a peak annual rate of $19,492,000,000 from $19,196,000,000 last quarter and $17,926,000,000 in the first quarter of 1956.

Fanfani Asked To Be Premier

Cesare Merzagora, president of the Italian senate, announced earlier that he had given up exploratory talks with party leaders aimed at forming a new government.

Gronchi on Saturday had asked Merzagora, a 58-year-old former banker and political independent, to explore the possibilities of forming a government.

No Taxes Paid On Fund to Buy Unionist Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman John L. McClellan (Dem., Ark.), said today the Senate rackets investigating committee has discovered no one paid federal income taxes on about $60,000 raised at a 1956 dinner to buy a new home for Max Kralstein, New York boss of the Bakers Union.

McClellan said investigators also learned John D. Nelson, another Bakers Union official, filed no income tax returns for the years 1952 and 1953, "And only filed his income tax for the years 1954, 1955 and 1956 since he was served with a subpoena by this committee."

Nelson is trustee of Local 37 of Los Angeles.

McClellan's statements were made as the committee resumed public hearings on alleged improper practices within the union.

The committee heard June 7 that $60,000 was raised at a dinner Kralstein at a New York dinner financed by what some witnesses said whom the union bargained to buy tickets and ads in a souvenir program.

McClellan said a staff inquiry since this testimony has shown "those who contributed charged it off as a business expense." He said Kralstein reported it as a gift in filing his tax return.

Under the tax laws, recipients of a gift are not liable for taxes on the gift. The donor is liable for a "gift tax" on gifts above certain exemptions.

Identify Teeth Found in Home Of Slain Woman

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Police said a set of false teeth found in the burned home of Mrs. Edith Griffin, 46, who was strangled Saturday morning, were identified today as those of Michael J. Hall, 49, who is believed to have killed her and then jumped to his death.

Detectives said Hall's dentist confirmed the set was made for him.

While the fingerprint does not definitely tie Hall's presence in the Griffin apartment to the time she was murdered, Det. Sgt. Herb Jeffrey said it apparently had been made recently.

PLEAS IGNORED

BARGAINTOWN, N.J. (AP)—A 15-year-old boy drowned Monday in a crowded mill pond while two unidentified girls frantically tried to tell lifeguards of the boy's plight. All laughed and were unbelieving until John Dilks, who operates a refreshment stand, heard their story. Authorities were notified and the body of Floyd Reid was recovered.

RED LUXURY LINER

LONDON (Reuters)—A 16,000-ton ocean-going tanker, the Moskovsky (Moscow) Festival, equipped with a swimming pool and a sports deck, has been launched at the Black Sea port of Kherson, Tass news agency reported today.

ANNOUNCES HONORS

OTTAWA (CP)—Governor-General Massey Monday announced that the Queen has sanctioned 113 honors in the Order of St. John of Jerusalem. Officials of the order said an official investiture will probably be held at Government House late in October.

HIS 25th WIFE WAS THE CAUSE OF HIS ARREST

"Brigadier General" Franklin Mills is under arrest in Los Angeles, Calif., on suspicion of marrying 25 women. FBI officers doubted the authenticity of Mills' military title but everyone agreed with his statement that he is a "marrying fool." Police records show the self-styled general has served five sentences for bigamy and marriage bunco and several more for impersonating an officer. Mills was arrested at the Los Angeles honeymoon cottage of bride number 25 after bride number 24 complained that Mills' vow to love, honor and cherish, was directed at her bank account.

Egypt Buys 3 Submarines From Russia

CAIRO (AP) — The controlled Egyptian press for the first time broke out today in big red headlines announcing "Egypt Buys Three Submarines From Russia."

The headlines ran over a London story published abroad four days ago, quoting a British admiralty spokesman as saying that the subs had passed through the English Channel and were expected to reach Egypt Monday.

Egypt's semi - official Middle East News Agency distributed the story, which also incorporated reports from abroad that Israeli authorities had "expressed their anxiety" about the submarines.

The agency said "it is also stated by the responsible Israeli authorities that the real objective of Egypt is buying these submarines is to tighten the blockade on Israel."

The Egyptian press carried the story without comment. There was no confirmation that the subs had arrived in Alexandria.

Marilyn Bell Engaged to Wed U.S. Life Guard

TORONTO (CP)—Marilyn Bell, first swimmer to conquer Lake Ontario, is engaged to Joseph (Chipper) Lascio, 22, of Atlantic City, N.J., her father announced today.

Syd Bell, father of the 19-year-old swim star, said the two are engaged "but wedding plans are indefinite."

Marilyn met her fiance in 1954 when she won the women's title at the 26-mile Atlantic City swim. Lascio, then 18 and employed as a life guard during the summer at the beach, was attending La Salle University in Philadelphia. The two have been writing each other letters ever since.

Marilyn rose to prominence in 1954 when at the age of 16 she swam from Youngstown, N.Y., to Toronto's waterfront, a distance of 20 miles, in 21 hours and 53 minutes.

In 1955 she swam the English Channel and the following year swam the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Bonhomie Wins Ascot Stakes

LONDON (AP) — Bonhomie, a 25-to-1 shot, opened Britain's most fashionable day of racing when he won the Ascot Stakes today before the Queen, other members of the Royal Family and thousands of top-hatted race goers.

More than 100,000 fans, many of them decked out in morning suits and flowing dresses, thronged the ancient racing grounds southwest of London.

The Ascot Stakes, over a 2½ mile turf course, was raced by 15 runners. Closebeck was second by four lengths and Chaseaway was third by half a length. Time was 4:21⅖.

The Queen did not have an entry. Bonhomie was entered by British owner J.E. Wood.

The races are the high point of the London social season. Minutes earlier the crowd had watched the Queen, Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret drive up in "royal mile" and take their places in the royal enclosure.

Queen Anne established Ascot in 1711.

Gould Plans To Visit Russia Again Next Year

TORONTO (CP)—Glenn Gould, 24-year-old Toronto pianist just returned from a successful tour of Russia and other European countries, said today he is looking forward to another tour next year.

"I've been invited back and I intend to go," he said. "I would like to see other Canadian musicians do the same thing and I would like to see Russian musicians come to Canada for concerts."

Of Russian audiences, Mr. Gould said they were "terribly enthusiastic and extremely attentive." Berliners, however, were "terribly dull, staid and respectable—just like Torontonians."

After his first performance in Russia he said he was disappointed because none of the audience greeted him back-stage as they did in Western countries.

"I was a bit disappointed until I learned it was the custom there to hold back until the last concert. Then I was greeted like a movie star; they threw flowers and shouted just like any other audience. It was overwhelming and just a bit frightening."

GYPSY KING DIES

LITTLEHAMPTON, Eng. (CP) Gypsy Petulengro, king of Britain's wandering Romany people, died Sunday at his home in this Sussex seaside town. Petulengro's age was unrecorded, but he was known to be more than 90. He had ruled the gypsies of Britain since he was crowned in 1927 at traditional rites on Baildon Moor, Yorkshire.

School Teachers Criticized for Vacation Work

BIGWIN INN, Ont. (CP) School teachers who work at other jobs during summer vacations were criticized Monday at the annual convention of the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees Association. They were advised to save their energies for teaching the following year.

William Davies, secretary of the Ontario Public School Men Teachers Federation, recommended travel and summer courses as suitable pastime for teachers during July and August.

He said teacher organizations must improve the professional outlook of their members by encouraging them to use the summer months for something other than earning money.

Delegates criticized Ontario's emergency teacher training program. Mr. Davies said the men's federation was not satisfied with the quality of emergency teachers.

F. D. Rendall, superintendent of secondary education for the province, said while the department of education is not entirely satisfied with the program, the emergency courses have filled a need.

FLOODS TAKE 17 LIVES

MILAN (AP)—Floods, fist-sized hailstones and a tornado have taken at least 17 lives in the Alpine sectors of four countries. Sixty or more persons are in hospital with injuries. Flooding has smashed homes, ruined crops and dead livestock was estimated by day at $150,000,000. Italy was hardest hit, with the weather also lashing France, Switzerland and Germany.

Minor Baseball

Deacon Quakers were forced to play an extra inning last night before edging Team Four 5-4, thus remaining undefeated in the newsee baseball league.

Peter Whitney banged a single to score the deciding run in the top of the eighth inning in the evenly fought contest.

Bob Jeffery stopped the losers on four hits over the route. He nipped ten on strikes while walking six. Fred Hagerman of Team Four also hurled a fine game, allowing nine hits[,] striking out ten and passing but two.

Peter Whitney banged three hits to pace Deacon's attack. Peter Carver slammed a double and single while Jim Hurst had a brace of singles. One each went to Bob Jeffery and Don Devereaux.

Wayne Wood had a triple and single in a losing cause with Lorne Fitzpatrick connecting for a two-bagger. George Tanner singled once.

LAST LAUGH?

Wednesday's edition of The Telegram printed a story which chuckled at the editorial page in the latest issue of Maclean's magazine.

The Tely chortled over this paragraph in Ralph Allen's editorial: "For better or for worse, we Canadians have once more elected one of the most powerful governments ever created by the free will of a free electorate. We have given that government an almost unexampled vote of confidence, considering the length of its term in office. It could easily be forgiven for accepting this as a mandate to resume the kindly tyranny it has exercised over parliament and the people for more than twenty years."

But to rub it in, The Tely quipped: "This puts Maclean's into the same boat with the Chicago Tribune and its classic 1948 American election headline Dewey Defeats Truman."

There is an old saying which we can twist slightly to make it applicable to The Telegram.

"He who laughs last, sometimes doesn't get the last laugh."

Due to the body of its story appears a short paragraph - - "And Mr. Diefenbaker is indulging in a few chuckles as he shows reporters the editorial from an advance copy, before placing it away with his memoirs."

Huh?

We thought it was George Hees who was grinning at the editorial. He is in the picture, or has Mr. Diefenbaker been to a plastic surgeon?

Congratulations to Burton Richardson, editor of The Telegram, and to the boys credited with the story.

PICKNICKING FEE JUSTIFIABLE

Picknickers who use the facilities of three Tweed district parks, at Black Lake, Mazinaw Lake and Lake St. Peter, will this year be charged a season's fee of $1. For this sum a windshield sticker can be obtained at any park entrance office, entitling the occupants of the car to free use of all facilities provided in every park picnic area throughout the province.

There ought to be no objection to this fee. There is no reason why picknickers should not pay for the facilities they enjoy, no reason why these should be provided free out of taxes paid by all the residents of the province while only some of these residents use the facilities.

Nor should there be any objection to camping fees, 75 cents per night and $4 per week, with a two-week time limit.

We must make a note, though, to take a close look at these camping areas the first time we pass one. If we discover that Ontario residents are still limited to two weeks' use, while those from outside the province can stay longer, we shall be able to resurrect what could easily become an annual editorial denouncing this unwarranted discrimination against those who foot the bills for such areas.

TWO PEARSONS?

An Associated Press despatch from Washington says that officials there expect a Progressive Conservative victory on Monday's election to mean "development of a harder line (by Canada) toward the United States on some controversial issues."

The despatch adds: "External Affairs Minister Pearson - - has been regarded in official quarters here (in Washington) as a strong advocate of the closest possible American-Canadian co-operation in all fields."

The same day The Associated Press also carried a despatch outlining comment by U.S. newspapers on the election. The New York Mirror said: "We hope this election is a repudiation of the anti-Americanism of Lester Pearson, the minister for external affairs."

Wonder which Pearson the people in Algoma East were voting for - - and against - - on Monday, the 'phile or the 'phobe.

THE UMPIRE

The umpire stands with mask in hand,
And calmly lets the players shout,
But if he'd upwards raised his ball,
Despite the row, the man is out.

The crowd may boo and loudly say
A robber and a thief is he.
But if palm down he'd called the play
The runner safe at home will be.

The umpire in his suit of blue
And yellow pad upon his chest,
Has much to see and much to do,
Though calls all managers protest.

And when he calls a strike a ball,
With him though many disagree,
That will not change the score at all,
That perfect pitch a ball will be.

An umpire I have never known;
I've only seen him, base or plate,
To him is little friendship shown;
I'm sure his need for it is great.

There have been times I thought him wrong,
For baseball is a game I like;
But I don't join the howling throng
Because he calls a ball a strike.

Easter Island Mystery

By Alfred Metraux in UNESCO Features

On of the most irritating riddles of history, for ethnographers in any rate, is that of the mysterious engraved stones of Easter Island. Ever since the voyages of Cook and La Perouse in the 18th century, the colossal statues which stand like sentinels on this barren isle have intrigued scientists and the world at large. Many theories have been put forward at various times to explain the presence of such imposing remains on this tiny volcanic speck of land in the middle of the Pacific Ocean between America and Polynesia.

The mystery deepened around 1860 when the first missionaries landed on Easter Island and discovered tablets covered with symbols resembling hieroglyphics. They questioned the islanders about these strange objects trying to discover the meaning of the symbols which were obviously some sort of script or system of writing. But instead of "reading" the tablets, the islanders began to intone long mythic chants, and the missionaries were unable to establish a link between the sounds of words of the songs and the signs on the tablets.

Discouraged by these unsuccessful "attempts, the missionaries soon left the island. But the Bishop of Tahiti, Monseigneur Jaussen, was more persevering. In Tahiti, on the Easter Island boat, he called Metoro, who was said to have learned the mysteries of the tablets. He asked him to "read" the script to him, and as Metoro recited the words he wrote down sentences or parts of sentences corresponding to the signs of the tablets. Later study revealed, however, that there was no logical connection between the signs and Metoro's chant or recital. The phrases taken down by Bishop Jaussen were in fact disjointed descriptions of the symbols and series of symbols represented by these symbols. Monseigneur Jaussen himself ended by losing heart and thinking he was on the wrong track, finally abandoned his efforts.

In 1941, when the English archaeologist, Mrs. C. Routledge, visited the Island there was only one very old man left who in his youth had learned the mysteries of the tablets. He was dying of leprosy, but scarcely had a strength to answer the archaeologist's questions. All he could do was to trace a few signs in a trembling hand, explaining that "several years ago" he learned each symbol. He died taking with him the secret of the strange script.

Later research was aimed not so much at trying to decipher the tablets as at relating the Easter Island script to other undeciphered writings. In 1932, a Hungarian linguist, Count de Hevesy, published tables in which he noted close resemblances between the Easter Island script and the writing discovered among the ruins of ancient Mohenjo-Daro in the Indus valley where a brilliant civilization flourished between 3,000 and 1,500 B.C. Another scholar, the Austrian professor H. Von Heine-Geldern, put forward the theory that the script was first introduced in the Pacific by a migration of the Neo-Hittites, a people from Southern China whose system of writing must have originated somewhere in Central Asia or Northern Iran.

Such parallels between the Easter Island script and other writings were not merely "memory aids" and enabled the scholars to analyze the symbols and isolate groups of signs corresponding to whole sentences. It would be too long to describe the patient research undertaken by the Russian scientists, but their conclusion can be briefly indicated. They believe that the mysterious signs inscribed on the Easter Island tablets really correspond to a hieroglyphic system of writing, a distinctive type of Egyptian writing in include a number of ideograms or "key words" — which help in interpreting the symbol, and also a few signs which have a sound value. Working on this basis, Butinov and Kosrevov believe they have isolated the geneologies of kings and lists of sacrificial victims.

While the Russian scientists were engaged in this research, a young German anthropologist, Dr. Thomas S. Barthel, was also trying to solve the riddle of the Easter Island script and the conclusions he reached may well provide a key to this mystery. He was helped in his work by the discovery at Grotta Ferrets, in Italy, of the original manuscripts of Monseigneur Jaussen containing notes taken during his interviews with Metoro.

Barthel, like his predecessors that the Easter Island script consists predominantly of ideograms — signs representing ideas — with a partial suggestion of sound. And a great deal of chants, or pictures-puzzles, was used to convey certain ideas. The basic type of writing, at the words of a sentence were not written down, but only those keywords which were essential to the general sense of the phrase. It was up to the reader to supply the rest from memory from memory. In this sense, the Easter Island script has a lot in relation to the ancient pictographs and mnemonic systems. Whoever "read" the text — and a tablet had to know the poem or hymn which had been transcribed.

Dr. Barthel has tried to reconstitute the meaning of the more important tablets. He believes that most of the texts have religious themes and refer to deities and to ritual practices. There is not surprising to anyone familiar with the rich sacred literature of Polynesia. The texts often refer to human sacrifices and cannibalism, and the interpretations appear to be prayers designed to promote the fertility of human beings, animals and plants.

* * *

Unfortunately, the texts contain few references to the giant statues of Easter Island and it seems unlikely that the decipherers of the tablets will throw much light on their significance and the manner in which they were brought to the top of mountains.

But the words that Dr. Barthel has succeeded in deciphering support the theory which I put forward earlier of close links between the civilization of Easter Island and that which once flourished in the area of the Spanish Islands. It was from these islands that the people who subsequently settled in New Zealand, Hawaii, Mangareva and the Marquesas set out, probably in the 14th century A.D. Barthel seems likely that the Easter Island script was invented in the Spanish Archipelago, and later developed and perfected on Easter Island itself.

Plane Helps Feed Infant

Windsor Star

Aircraft perform miracles in speed conquering distance. A very human example of the most modern transportation bringing comfort to the most ancient of practices has come to our attention.

A young Toronto mother had to come to Windsor for a couple of appointments and lunch and luncheon. Her infant was so young she thought it unwise to bring it along. This presented a problem, as she breast-feeds her baby.

She nursed it in the morning, caught a fast T.C.A. plane to Windsor; flew to Toronto at noon plane back to Toronto — in time for the baby's feeding.

She had travelled about 460 miles, kept her two appointments and a good lunch in addition. Her grandmother never would have considered any such thing ever possible.

Natural feeding of infants is returning in favor. One reason many mothers abandoned the practice was that it tied them closely to home. They couldn't go far without taking their babies with them. Bottle-fed babies will.

Judging by the fast of the T.C.A., young mothers now can go a long way between the nursing of their infants. If aerial progress maintains its pace who knows but some day a mother may hop overseas and back without her baby at home missing a meal.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Iodin and Coryza

Iodin is modern spelling of iodine.

Coryza, says Webster, is "an acute inflammation of the mucous membrane of the nasal cavities; nasal catarrh; cold in the head."

Iodism is a state of the body caused by iodin (iodine) or iodid (iodide), such as potassium iodide or sodium iodide, taken in excessive quantities or overdoses.

In former days iodism was a common occurrence. Iodid of potash, potassium iodide) was the favorite remedy for syphilis in the third stage. I gather from correspondence with elder readers that many of them still use KI on their own, as a remedy for various chronic ailments, such as rheumatism, asthma, arteriosclerosis; but I regret to say I doubt whether medicinal doses of iodin or iodid are remedial for any of these ailment. That is, if I had third stage syphilis, chronic joint disease, hardening of the arteries, or asthma, I wouldn't take iodin or iodid in medicinal quantity; but I'd make sure to get an optimum daily ration of nutritional iodin.

The most familiar indications of iodism is coryza, with profuse nasal discharge, watering of the eyes, watering of the mouth (salivation), maybe frontal headache, and a peculiar metallic taste early in the morning.

For emphasis I repeat, iodism is due to excessive intake of iodin or iodid, as medicine, by inhalation of fumes, by ingestion of iodin, by swallowing it by mistake or with intent to poison (it is seldom if ever fatal) or by absorbing it from abscess or cystic cavity where it has been injected for X-ray diagnosis or as a form of treatment. But in my judgment it is always a mistake to sterilize an skin eruption (such as pimples, boils, hives) to regular intake of the amount of iodin required to maintain good nutrition. It is conceivable, of course — but we rarely find a mouse's nest in the cat's ear.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FRIEND TO ONESELF

One reason why there are so many unhappy people in the world is that they have never cultivated the joy of self acquaintanceship. We live with ourselves all the time day and night. We ought to know ourselves better than anyone else, yet I do not believe that we do.

We can do so many things that we think we are perfectly happy content without depending upon others if we are thrown entirely alone, but we make the self-sufficient. We must have respect for our tastes and must enjoy cultivating means for mental and spiritual growth. The cultivation of interests we have the happier we are sure to be.

It is not strange that so many of our friends do not understand us fully, for we are often strangers of greatness to it.

to ourselves. This is largely because we lighten ourselves within, keeping it inside between ourselves, and keeping the expression of ourselves all locked up! People with enjoyable and useful interests do little complaining of their lot in life. We ought to live full, four-square lives, thereby making life meaningful.

We ought not to expect outside applause, for so much of it often becomes insincere, without genuineness. Doing something for ourself that we wanted much to do is one of the most satisfactory experiences when we can share that expression. The American Humorist Kends its "outgrown shell." So should we. We need many a new birth, each one "nobler than the last"! Our best, and safest, ego should be ourself. There is a todo us fully, for we are often strangers of greatness to it.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Those who lose in politics are inclined to bemoan the publicity given to them. Those who win are satisfied that the public is alert, alive. But there is a widespread impression that the public does not take the interest it should in the affairs of public life. Elections are always recalling the olden days when politics was a matter of universal interest and concern.

Being elderly myself, I can recall the days when one of the very few public diversions, along with cockfights, were the local meetings and minstrel shows.

Politics, even as recently as fifty years ago, was a form of entertainment, and many of our leading statesmen were natural funners. Sir John A. with his incomparable platform talent, his wit and humor, his genius that stately man with his white plume and his big nose, the pugnacious, the equal of any of the great contemporary Shakespearians — he, too, had the gift of raising a laugh.

Politics was quite much a spectator sport as baseball is today.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

BANNOCKBURN - ELDORADO W.I.

ELDORADO — The Eldorado and Bannockburn Women's Institute held its June meeting at the home of Mrs. James Bailey with a fair crowd in attendance.

The President, Mrs. C. Pigden, opened the meeting.

The secretary, Mrs. Harold Chambers, read the minutes of the last meeting. Business was discussed. It was decided that the society cater to the Empire reunion on August 4th. It was also decided that the society take a bus trip to the seaway in August.

Mr. Harold Comerford was asked to give a talk and explained the new laws concerning Fox's Cemetery.

Program convener, Mrs. John Thompson took charge as this was on Home Economics and Health. She gave a splendid report on how to entertain guests, making them feel welcome.

Mrs. L. Carman gave a reading on "Spring Cleaning."

Mrs. Thompson held a contest on "Basaker Cooking" by dry heat.

Miss Carol Bailey had charge of the motto "Men Make Houses —Women Make Homes". A demonstration was given by two boys and two girls from Blakley's School. The boys talked on the 'Making of Houses' and the girls the 'Making of Homes', which was much enjoyed.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and assistants and a social half hour enjoyed by all. A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Bailey.

MARMORA W.I.

MARMORA — Marmora Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Madgett on Wednesday evening with an attendance of 15 and one visitor.

Miss Grace Warren, president, presided. Correspondence was read. A letter of appreciation was received from Marmora Public Library for the donation of $75.

Marmora Legion requested prices for catering to their 25th anniversary. Current events were discussed, each member giving one or two items. The report of the district annual was given by delegates Mesdames P. Gordon and G. Empey. Each Institute had been requested to bring one or more pieces of handicraft for a display and the result showed knitted apparel, rugs, aluminum and copper etching, etc.

Three layettes entered the tea contest. Mrs. Tindell gave a paper on New Brunswick which stated the size, cities and towns. Its tourist attractions are varied such as the reversing falls and the magnetic hill. Its inlets and bays abound in fish, thus drawing many Americans. Each month a different province will be dealt with. The meeting closed with singing God Save the Queen and the hostesses served lunch.

MOUNTAIN VIEW W.I.

MOUNTAIN VIEW — Mrs. Stanley Bayberr opened her home on Wednesday evening for the June meeting of Mountain View Women's Institute. There was also several visitors present, large attendance of members. The president, Mrs. Neal, presided.

A number of business details were discussed. Mrs. Clark Sprung was elected alternate delegate.

This meeting was the grandmothers' meeting and was turned over to them under the leadership of Mrs. Jay Sprague. The responses from the grandmothers were interesting and many were amusing.

Mrs. Sprague presented prizes to three grandmothers: the oldest; one with the most grandchildren and one with the newest grandchild. These were presented to Mrs. Cretney, Mrs. E. Wallbridge and Mrs. E. Hall.

Mrs. W. Burkitt gave an interesting report from the district annual convention which had been held at Hilliier.

Mrs. R. Wallbridge thanked the hostess for her hospitality. The meeting was brought to a close, after which the hostess, Mrs. Barber, assisted by her co-hostess Mrs. B. Anderson and granddaughter, Carol, served refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed by everyone.

The July meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. Nighingale, in the evening.

QUEEN ELIZABETH TAKES THE SALUTE

Club Activities

SUNBEAM M.B.

RAWDON — Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Sunbeam Mission Band convened at the church hall Sunday morning with 23 in attendance.

The president, Kenneth Smith, opened with, "Little Sunbeams." Miss Carol Sharpe gave her report. The program was prepared by Diane McAdam and Allen Wrightman.

The president read "Thoughts at Mealtime."

Mrs. Stanley Williams synopsized the study chapter entitled "The Story of Sookney Lee." The worship theme was: "The Church — A fellowship of Love," based on the commandment, "Love One Another." All sang "Jesus Tender Shepherd Hear Me" and "The Lord's Prayer" followed.

Judy Cooney and Shirley Potts sang "Jesus Loves The Little Children," and Diane McAdam read the Bible lesson.

Howard Jeffs and Ralph Reid gathered the offering which was dedicated by Barbara Williams. Freddie and Diane McAdam sang "The Church's One Foundation." The service closed with "Jesus Bids Us Shine" and the benediction.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

W. M. S.

WELLINGTON — On the afternoon of June 11th Mrs. Barton Cronk was hostess for the monthly W. M. S. meeting. Mrs. Hamel chaired the meeting and Mrs. Mayhew was pianist.

Following the usual introduction, thanks to the hostess and a welcome to members and guests, Mrs. Hicks called the roll, members answering with number of calls made and number of books read.

A sum of money was voted for extra expenses.

Norah Hamel received the offering and it was dedicated by the President.

Mrs. Cronk gave the financial report and Mrs. Bishop read a letter from church headquarters acknowledging the sale. Report of table box donations was laid over till next meeting.

Mrs. Tayler advised members to read Leslie Robert's books, his father was minister here in the Rawdon Church some years ago.

Mrs. Nash reported for Christian Stewardship. Mrs. Yeart announced the program. Mrs. Harris gave a thought provoking devotional on the topic, "Four Anchors".

Mrs. Leonard Palmer gave a most interesting paper, a few gems from her missionary work in Nuvada and Sudbury. After the benediction, a social half hour was enjoyed over a cup of tea.

TRINITY W.M.S.

MADOC — The members of Trinity United Women's Missionary Society held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Joe Rollins, on Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance.

In the absence of the president Miss Annie Holmes was in charge, and opened with all reading hymn 686 followed with prayer by Mrs. Holmes.

During the business period, Mrs. Fred Fleming, community friendship convener reported that 33 house calls and 64 hospital calls had been made. Miss Holmes, convener of supplies, had a complete layette on exhibit, this to be forwarded at a later date.

She also read a letter from the port worker at Halifax, thanking the Madoc society for the gift of men's sweaters which had been sent. Plans for packing a bale were also made.

A sale of fancy work and home cooking was announced for a Saturday in July. A patchwork quilt was donated by Mrs. E. Moore.

Mrs. Bennett conducted the worship period, the theme "To Live and to Give". She gave a reading on "Joy and Friends", Mrs. B. Tanner read the Bible story from 2nd Corinthians translated "Letters to Young Churches", with Mrs. Bennett giving the meditation.

The program, with Mrs. Bennett as leader, presented a skit, "We Must Share", which was informative, telling how the givings of the missionary members were used, and explaining what officers of the Dominion Board received, salaries and why.

She was assisted by Mrs. J. Storrings, Mrs. Naylor, Mrs. Moore and Mrs. W. McCoy.

Mrs. F. H. Dreyer and Mrs. Tanner assisted the hostess in serving refreshments.

Mrs. Hugh MacIntosh and Mrs. G. Alvey left on Monday for Montreal, leaving by boat on Tuesday to visit relatives in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Mr. R. T. Graham, of Tweed, visited Mr. F. E. Brown on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Noble and children, of Toronto, spent the weekend with Mrs. Walter Whytock.

ST. JOHN'S W.A.

MADOC — On Tuesday evening the regular meeting of St. John's W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. Roy Bronson, Marmora Rd. The president opened the meeting.

Plans were made for a pot-luck supper to be held on June 18 at 6.30 p.m. The guest speaker will be the Rev. H. C. Secker of Stirling.

Each member is to invite a guest and to charge admission.

The W. A. had made some improvements at the rectory recently: three floors have been tiled.

After business discussion, the rector closed the meeting and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed with the hostess serving refreshments.

"You say the telephone is an extra partner?"

Yes! — the telephone IS a partner in that card party . . . a helpful "partner" which brought everyone together! Without telephones, arranging such simple social gatherings would take endless time and effort.

As Canadians, most of us tend to take such long-accepted uses of the telephone pretty much for granted. Yet, when you consider the countless ways in which the telephone makes YOUR daily life more pleasant, you may well agree that this extra "partner" goes far more in terms of convenience and security than the little it costs.

Kirk Douglas' own amazing story! "THE ACTOR IN ME"

When Kirk Douglas starts to talk, he's as frank and direct as any character he ever portrayed. And in his own life story, Douglas lifts the curtain all the way — not only on himself and his own fantastic starvation-to-stardom story — but on acting and the world of movie stars and Hollywood as well!

Uninhibited and zingy, Kirk tells • the truth about his so-called "ego" • about his sojourn as a bum in New York's infamous Bowery • how an unknown actress named Lauren Bacall was responsible for his first Hollywood break.

LADIES' NIGHT

The annual Ladies' Night of the Quinte District Veterinary Association was held recently at the Trenton Country Club.

Thirty-five veterinarians attended with their wives, and were welcomed by Mr. Alex Wilson, president of the club.

Seated at the head table were Dr. H. C. Moorhouse, Cobourg hospital superintendent, and Mrs. Moorhouse; Dr. W. Moynihan, Ottawa, assistant to the Veterinary Director General, and Mrs. Moynihan; Dr. T. W. Hawke, president of the Quinte District Association, and Mrs. Hawke; Dr. Keith Harrison, secretary of Q. D. V. A. and Miss Nancy Porrit, Tweed.

Dr. Moorhouse was guest speaker and gave an interesting address on today and tomorrow's mental health.

Dancing rounded out the evening.

Indian History Of Reservation Heard at N. Aid

The June meeting of the Avonlea Neighbors' Aid was well attended on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ruth Ackerman.

Mrs. Bird opened the meeting with a poem on "Leisure."

Mrs. Holmes had charge of the devotional period and read a poem entitled, "Appreciation for Others". Mrs. Chambers read the Scripture.

Mrs. Cameron introduced the speaker Mrs. Claus, who gave a reading on the history of the "Mohawk Reservation". Mrs. Leween sang a hymn in Mohawk accompanied by Mrs. Bird, which was appreciated.

Several articles made by various Indian tribes were on display. The roll call was answered with something historical about Indians.

After thanking the hostess and lunch and program committee, the meeting closed by singing "Auld Lang Syne".

Women's Institute

BAY OF QUINTE INSTITUTE MEETING

The Bay of Quinte Institute met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Yateman, on Wednesday evening, with a nice attendance. The roll-call was answered by telling where "They attended their first W.I. meeting." Some of the ladies had belonged to the W.I. for some 40 years, so it was hard to remember all about what took place that long ago but could remember where it had been held.

Several sent thank-you notes for flowers and cards when in hospital, Mrs. Verna Waldron, Mrs. Westover and Mrs. Floyd Sandercock.

I was decided after this when giving money to the Salvation Army to also send cards and a half to Trenton S.A. and the rest to Belleville branch of the organization.

It was moved that the 'delegates be paid their expenses.

Mrs. Donald Sandercock and Mrs. Alva Meyers were appointed to go as delegates to Stirling at the district annual but circumstances would not allow Mrs. Meyers to attend. Mrs. Sandercock took the notes for the day and presented a fine report.

Mrs. John Reid gave an item on "Historical Research"; Mrs. A. Meyers an item on "Citizenship".

Mrs. Reid thanked the hostess for opening her home and also thanked Mrs. Sandercock for her fine report.

The next meeting to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Curtis, on July 10th, with the roll call being a favorite recipe and a sample. There will be a demonstration of smocking. Mrs. Casey Ketcheson, the convener of Home Economics and Health will be in charge of the program.

A social half hour was enjoyed.

St. Michael's C.W.L. Names Conveners

The regular monthly meeting of St. Michael's sub-division of the Catholic Women's League was held last Wednesday evening in the Michael's High School with 30 members present.

Mrs. E. Logan opened with the league prayer.

Mrs. J. E. Boyd read the treasurer's report announcing a substantial balance.

Mrs. G. Bell, corresponding secretary, read her report of two sympathy cards being sent out and receiving "thank you" notes from three sympathy cards and one baby congratulations.

Mrs. M. F. Kelley reported on the success of the tag day and thanked so many enthusiastic workers.

Mrs. P. Cleary, in the absence of Mrs. J. Walsh reported on a most successful year for the Brownies and Girl Guides. This year ended with a mother and daughter communion breakfast which was well attended.

Mrs. Logan attended the convention in Kingston, and the installation extends sincere congratulations to Mrs. B. E. Burley, past president, who was elected diocesan president, and to another past president, Mrs. J. E. Boyd who has been elected diocesan treasurer.

Mrs. Logan attended the Communion breakfast at Holy Rosary, and also the Communion breakfast for the Brownies and Guides.

There was a round table discussion with the conveners, on all phases of their work and questions were answered.

CONVENERS NAMED

The following conveners were announced: Red Cross — Mrs. E. Blake; Scroll — Mrs. A. Marmon; Morrell; Register Subscriptions — Mrs. J. Whalen; Immigration — Mrs. J. A. Orr.

New Councillors by appointment were Eileen Ward — Mrs. H. Henderson, Mrs. F. Smith; Coleman Ward — Mrs. F. H. Short. Mrs. Logan created a new position of receptionists for the parish, Miss appointed Mary J. Belanger and Mrs. M. F. Kelley to fill this post. Their duties are to meet people, introduce them, and to contact new parishioners and make them welcome. They commenced their duties at the door of the meeting room.

Mrs. R. Ackerman spoke on the "Blue Army of Mary." There are 16 million enrolled with the small- est number in Canada. The object is to promote the family rosary and Scripture prayers.

Mrs. Logan gave Mrs. Ackerman commission to go ahead and get literature from Washington to be given out in September.

LEAGUE MAGAZINE

Mrs. Logan spoke on the league magazine and thanked Dean Carrin for the advertising he gave the C.W.L. in the bulletin.

Mrs. Belanger, as councillor, is having a "help-ful" to get acquainted with those on her list. She also suggested everyone bring her favorite recipe to the pot-luck supper and sell it for 10 cents each.

Mrs. George Bell asked people to call her about the sick so she could send cards.

Mrs. Logan wished everyone a good summer.

Things you should know about your league: Save cancelled stamps and give to Mrs. Rorabeck. Save clothes for missions, and send to Mrs. J. E. Boyd.

The rosary is offered for all deceased holy parishioners at 8 o'clock the night prior to the funeral.

Meetings are held the 2nd Monday of every month; Communion Sunday is the 3rd Sunday of every month.

Mrs. Boyd has league pins and by-laws. These by-laws should be read by all members. Everyone should be enrolled to benefit spiritually even though they cannot be active members.

Mrs. J. R. Kelley and her committee served refreshments at the social hour following.

Women's Activities

Mrs. H. Farnham introduced Mrs. C. Brintnell, who showed some beautiful colored slides and told something about the "Word of Life" youth camp on Schroon Lake, in Adirondacks Mountains. It is held in the summer and is for the whole family. There they receive religious instruction, well supervised recreations of all kinds, both for small children and older children and a great fellowship prevails. The leader of the camp is a grand Christian man.

Mrs. H. Farnham and Mrs. C. Brintnell sang with a lovely duet. Benediction was given by Mrs. R. Pound. A social half hour was spent.

STONE CHURCH WMS-WA

4th SIDNEY — The Stone Church Women's Missionary Society held its June meeting at the home of Mrs. W. J. Tufts on Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance.

Mrs. J. A. Detlor was in charge of the meeting and used as the theme, "Think on These Things."

Mrs. H. Tweddy read the Scripture from John. Mrs. F. Jeffrey, who had prepared the study book, was unable to be present so Mrs. Detlor told the story of a missionary book, "The Exile," which she had recently read.

Mr. Ed Phillips read Psalm 16.

A quiz on Baby Band. Mission Band and other groups in the missionary field was enjoyed and well discussed.

A few outstanding accounts were paid and other items discussed which were to be held over for the next meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. H. Twiddy.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and the committee in charge.

C.G.I.T. Holds Rally at Picton United

A rally of affiliated CGIT groups of Belleville Presbyterial of the United Church of Canada was held in Picton United Church.

A lively sing song, led by Jean Scott, Loreen Wilkes and Margaret Hillis of Belleville, got everyone in the right mood and the rally was off to a good start. The CGIT from Bath led in a Negro spiritual the group from Halloway conducted a "round of song" and the girls from Springbrook led in an "action" song."

Mrs. Pierce Jones of Picton, secretary for Affiliated CGIT groups of Belleville Presbyterial, introduced the mistress of ceremonies. Miss Carol Pearsoll of Wellington. Carol received her graduation diploma from CGIT at the Wellington "Mother and Daughter" banquet and plans to carry on this work.

The CGIT Purpose was repeated in unison, followed by a most inspirational worship service, conducted by the girls of Tabernacle CGIT, Belleville.

Mrs. Jones gave a perpetratory talk on the film, "On This Rock" which shows the part the United Church plays in the frontiers of Canada. The film was taken at Knob Lake. The questions following the showing of the film were: Why can't we get along without the church? What made the hero e the story finally decide to bring his wife and family, to Knob Lake? How does the work shown on the film apply to CGIT?

The girls showed a lively interest in the film and the questionaire. The morning session was brought to a close by all singing "We've a Story to Tell to the Nations."

LUNCHEON HOUR

A delectable luncheon was served in the dining hall by the Picton CGIT hostess group, the ladies of group four, W.A., and ladies of the Afternoon and Evening Missionary Auxiliaries providing the meal.

During the noon hour, greetings were extended by Mrs. E. Tucker, on behalf of the W.M.S. Auxiliaries of Picton United Church.

Mrs. Clarence Holmes, 1st vice-president of Belleville Presbyterial, brought greetings and spoke briefly to the girls. "Always do the hard things first, and the easy task will seem even more so," was her advice.

In the afternoon the leader's workshop, conducted while Wellington CGIT led the girls in a recreation period, was most profitable. Several questions were discussed and solutions offered. A gracious invitation from Wellington UNCH plays in the

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

PRETTY ROOMS INSTILL CLEANLINESS HABITS

We had to laugh at a young friend of ours, age six. She's a little girl with plenty of energy and definite ideas. She'll willingly wash her doll clothes, help vacuum, and polish the silver. She'd gladly shampoo her mother's hair and that of all the neighbors, if anybody would stand behind for it. But lately she's applied at cleaning up her room. It doesn't look pretty, when she's through, she maintains.

Well, she's got a point there. Why should a little girl puff and sigh, cleaning up a room that isn't going to look pretty anyway? Her mother finally got wise. She bought a beautiful pink tufted bedspread for her little girl's bed — so the little girl could put into the washer and dryer herself. The draperies was repainted, according to order. Outgrown toys on the open toy shelves were taken out, so that shelves could actually be dusted clean for a change! Other cleaned out the clothes closet and made a special place for the "dress-up" clothes.

All this remodeling, so to speak, had a profound effect on the little girl. Everything looked so nice she decided to keep it that way! It just occurred us that many a child would find the daily housekeeping details more fun if things looked nice when the job was finished.

Probably the greatest incentive to good housekeeping is to have an attractive house to start with. It exerts the same influence on grown-ups as it does on children. There are so many pretty, inexpensive fabrics, floor coverings, washable wall paints, there isn't any reason why our homes shouldn't always look pretty.

If you're in the same doldrums as this little girl friend of ours, then give your own home a beauty treatment. See that everything you live with is easy to wash, inexpensive to maintain. Then if it's pretty to start with, you'll enjoy the easy sudsing and mopping that your furnishings deserve.

Who Will Be Home First?

By Mary Moore

In this day and age, so many of our couples are working long hours — erratic hours. They may be a newly married couple. They may be a couple who have recently purchased a new home and the wife wants to help with the finances.

I know a young couple and admire them very much who fall in just this category. Their hours vary; expect to make Johnny to be kept in for throwing spit-balls—Tommy may have to wait for a consignment of stock—or a delivery that has gone astray. They have had to work at, with and for a system of feeding the inner man. I know that many of our readers are in just the same spot, so these will help I am sure.

The best way and in the long run the simplest, is to plan menus for the week — maybe while the wax is drying or the clothes are washing. The shopping list can be made out and you can work the shopping list into the menus.

Dinner Menus

TUESDAY

Baked Pork Chops, Cranberry Sauce, Scalloped Potatoes, Buttered Spinach, Shredded Cabbage with Spanish Onion Rings and Oil-Vinegar Dressing, Glazed Strawberry Pie (see Monday), Coffee.

Individual Chicken Casseroles
Head Lettuce with Thousand Island Dressing
Fruit with Cheese and Crackers
Coffee
Muffins (made from Basic Mix —write me for it.)

INDIVIDUAL CHICKEN CASSEROLES

One 6-oz. can boned chicken, ½ cup cooked or canned, diced carrots, 2 onions cut into large dice, 1 cup cooked diced potato, 3 tablespoons fat, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 1 chicken bouillon cube, ¾ cup vegetable stock, ½ cup milk, 1 tablespoon melted margarine or butter, 1 cup fine bread crumbs. Put equal amounts of chicken, carrot, onion and potatoes into two individual casseroles. Melt fat, stir in flour, salt and pepper. Dissolve bouillon cube in hot vegetable stock (liquid from cooked carrots or whatever stock you have). Add slowly with the milk to the melted fat mixture. Cook till thickened. Pour over chicken and vegetables. Mix bread crumbs with melted butter or margarine and sprinkle on tops of casseroles. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. until crumbs are nicely browned and the chicken is heated through.

Individual Corned Beef Loaves*
Fresh, Frozen Peas
Harvard Beets
Salad Greens with Carrot Slices
Tarts
Coffee

INDIVIDUAL CORNED BEEF LOAVES

When you first come into the house, pare two medium sized potatoes, cut up small and put on to boil. When done mash as usual and while hot combine with one 12-oz. can corned beef mixing well. Form into two loaves. Roll in 1 cup of crushed ready-to-eat cereal or potato chips and dribble ¼ cup margarine over two loaves. Place on greased baking sheet and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 15 to 20 minutes till done.

When you do your baking for the week, make some extra tart shells. These can be filled quickly with different fillings, put in the ice box till ready to serve. 1. Instant pudding mixes, 2 Drained fruits, 3 That special jam such as strawberry that you have been saving. 4 Whipped cream with fruits or nuts folded in.

Mother's Helper

FOR a good all-down musical game at your child's party, try Ring Round. The children sit on the floor, holding onto a clothesline circle over which a wooden or bone curtain ring has been strung. While music plays, the children push the ring from one to the other. A player is out when he's caught with the ring as the music stops. The "survivor" wins.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MAYBE HE'S NOT AS MARRIAGE MINDED AS YOU THINK

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

What do you think of neighbors who seem to have nothing to do but watch what goes on with other people?

I'm a widow of 55, have two married daughters and one married son, and for about two years have been friendly with a widower who lives with his mother. We hope to get married some day, but because of his mother, we felt it wiser to wait awhile.

This man has a business of his own and often works very late so that he doesn't get to my house until 9 or 9:30. Consequently, he may stay until midnight and sometimes later, depending on when he arrives. I've been told by friends that my neighbors are talking about this, and I want to know if I should pay any attention. — Mrs. R.A.

Dear Mrs. R.A.:

If you're going to do anything as unconventional as entertain a man until so late at night, you must expect that your neighbors are going to gossip even though the whole thing may be perfectly harmless. I think you'll simply have to decide which means the most to you—your friendship, with this man, or what other people think—and be guided accordingly.

Since this man wishes to marry you, however, why can't he do so and take you to his home to live? Of course that would make it necessary for you to do considerable adjusting, because it's rarely easy for a wife to live with a mother-in-law. But it seems to me that would be preferable to having a man and woman as old as you put off marriage indefinitely and by doing so place themselves in a position which causes gossip.

Perhaps you two have a complete understanding on this matter so that your plans for the future are definite and mutually agreeable. But if not, you might well give some thought to whether or not your friend really does have eventual marriage in mind. Sometimes an older man finds it very comfortable and convenient to have a good friend in a woman whose companionship he can enjoy and still remain a bachelor.

So, if, as you think it over, you see any reason to wonder if this man might be perfectly content with the situation as it now exists perhaps you had better consider whether or not it might be wiser for you not to concentrate exclusively on him.

'Buccaneer' Beach Style

By ALICE ALDEN

Store stylists are busy augmenting summer wardrobes with such items as special beach costumes, cabana outfits and patio pretties. Well, here we have something novel and nice in a new beach-cabana outfit that has quite an air. It's done in sprarkling white lace. Designer Great Plaitry calls it a "Buccaneer" costume. The boxy jacket-top fastens down the back. A red silk sash tops the high-tisted waistband of the buccaneer pants. Yo-ho for a pretty pirate!

REPLYING TO FORMAL RECEPTION-INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please settle a discussion we are having in our family? A girl who is a very dear and close friend of my sister's and mine is to be married, and we each received a formal invitation to the church ceremony and hotel reception. The bride's mother and father are very close and long-time friends of my mother and father, and they too of course have received an invitation to the ceremony and reception. I maintain that my sister and I and our mother and father should send the traditional third-person reply to the bride's parents. But my sister and my father insist that such a formal reply to this invitation from a family who are such intimate friends of ours is not only not expected by the hosts but really looks a bit ridiculous. Who is right about this? — R.H.

You are right. You should write your formal acceptance of this formal invitation to the reception. Your sister and father insist that such a formal reply to this invitation from a family who are such intimate friends of ours is not only not expected by the hosts but really looks a bit ridiculous. Who is right about this? — R.H.

Your sister and father insist that such a formal reply to this invitation from a family who are such intimate friends of ours is not only not expected by the hosts but really looks a bit ridiculous. Who is right about this? — R.H.

Even though the bride-to-be and her parents are such intimate friends of your family, this is not only the 'polite thing to do, but it is also the practical thing to do. For the bride and her mother, as the replies arrive, file the acceptances under "Acceptances," and the regrets under "Regrets," and this makes it comparatively easy for the bride's mother to know how many guests to provide for. It's "ridiculous" to think that the bride's family will take for granted that your family will "just naturally" come to the reception.

AIR AGE REACHES MOOSE FACTORY

The Moose River, Ont., air cadet squadron have a girl drummer, Carol Mawhinney, attached to it but that is not the only way in which the squadron is unique. When a three-man inspection team from the RCAF station at Trenton arrived, they found that most of the Indian members of the squadron had never seen a train but were well acquainted with air travel. They fly from their homes every year to attend school at Moose Factory and all the squadron's equipment is transported by air. Drummer Mawhinney is a stenographer at the Moose Factory Indian hospital. Boys in this photo are James Rickard, Alan Corston, Roy Turner and Wilmer Rodrickey.

Four-Minute Miles May Be Run on Grass

LONDON (AP)—Four-minute miles are so commonplace these speedy days that the athletes are talking about running them on grass.

The first big chance to find out if it can be done will come next Monday when three of the world's eight active four-minute milers meet on a turf track in Dublin, Ireland.

The trio includes the hottest miler at the moment, Derek Ibbotson, the flying Yorkshireman who said Monday, "I think I can do a mile in 3:57 flat."

That would be a full second faster than the record held by retired Australian miler John Landy and one second, four-tenths better than the world's second best time Ibbotson put on Saturday in Glasgow.

Ibbotson, a jolly and talkative fellow, would not go as far as to predict that Ireland's Ron Delany, Britain's Brian Hewson or himself would run a record breaker in Dublin.

Delany said flatly, however, that he expected a four-minute mile Monday.

Grass tracks are little known in the United States and they are not as fast as composition or powdered brick tracks.

Tweed

TWEED — Mr. Harvey Austin, Sloco hotel operator, has been elected councillor in Hungerford township, by acclamation. He succeeds Edward Rivers, who resigned to accept another post in the same municipality. There were two nominated but the other, Mr. Bernard Hunt, withdrew his name, saying he did not wish to go to an election. Mr. Austin will complete the balance of the current term of Mayor.

Mr. Ken Fisher, local electrician, is completely re-wiring the Havelock Hotel which was recently taken over by one of our Tweed residents, Mr. Gerry Quinlan. The hotel is undergoing a complete renovation, following the procurement of a beverage room and dining room licence recently.

Sympathy is extended to the family of the Rev. J. F. Everson of Belleville who passed away on June 3rd. He had many friends in Tweed and in the parts north of here where he had a charge some years ago. He had filled the pulpit at St. John's United Church here even since his retirement.

Miss Helen Myers who has been employed at the Hydro office in Oshawa for a short while has returned to Tweed for this past week to again be in the office here as town clerk.

Miss Lottie Silver and Miss Mary Raddon will be on the teaching staff at Tweed Consolidated school this coming term. The former has been teaching in Bellleville, previously, and the latter in Peterborough.

Miss Adelaide Burtchael, who for the past year was on the Consolidated School staff, will be joining the staff of the Tweed High School.

Last Tuesday evening the Madoc Chamber of Commerce held its meeting. Mr. S. J. Anderson of Tweed assisted Mr. Harold Knapp of Sulphide, and both being on the staff of the Nichols Chemical Co, plant at Sulphide, gave a talk and demonstration on the manufacture of sulphuric acid. It was the last meeting of the Madoc C of C until September.

On June 7th, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Lutz and Miss Dora Riggan, attended the 50th anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Francis of Clarendon. The reception was held at Sharbot Lake.

Friends of Mr. Noah Bosley will be sorry to learn that he found it necessary to undergo surgery at the Belleville General Hospital last Friday. He has been there for some days previous to the operation. His wide host of friends wish him a speedy get-well.

Mr. Vernon Cournyea visited his mother and other relatives in Tweed one day last week. Vernon is now residing at Point Alexander, and he is the son of Mrs. E. J. Cournyea.

Tweed friends are sorry to hear that Mr. Claude Masters was suddenly stricken at work on Monday at the Tweed Steel Works and was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital. He was able to return to his home in Tweed on Saturday.

The appreciation weekly draw winner on Saturday was Mrs. Sam Jones, McGowan Street, with a 10 per cent ticket on the "kitty" of $333 so she won the even dollars to the amount of $33.00.

Mr. and Mrs. "Bob" Davidson and family will be moving to Tweed in the near future and will be occupying the home recently built by Mr. J. Robinson on Victoria Street North. Mr. Davidson is on the Department of Game and Fisheries and has previously resided in Flinton. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson will be taking a trip to the western provinces.

Pleased to hear from Mrs. Ed Goulah that her husband who has been critically ill in Niagara Falls, following the wedding of her son, in that city, is on the gain, and Mrs. Goulah had quite encouraging words in regards to her husband's condition at this time. His wide host of friends in his home town are trusting he will soon be well again.

The new service manager at the Attwood garage is to be Mr. Richard LaMoury. He is married and his wife and four children will be coming to Tweed soon. There are at present residing at Grimsby.

Two of Tweed's oldest citizens, Mrs. William Porter, 93 years young, and Mrs. Calvin Bowen, 92 years, cast their ballots on Monday last in the federal election. They were transported to the polls but dispite their advanced age both came through comparatively well and take a keen interest in current events and the election was no exception.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the family of Mrs. Daniel G. Hinchey who passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Spratt, Tweed, on Wednesday, June 12th. She rested at the Bush Funeral Home until 2 p.m. Friday and service was held in Christ Church, Tamworth, with burial in Tamworth cemetery. Mrs. Hinchey was in her 83rd year.

The June meeting of the evening Auxiliary was in the form of a pot-luck supper and the ladies of the group entertained the M.S. ladies. Mrs. H. Keenan's son's group was in charge of the program and the president, Mrs. W. Conroy, presided.

Mrs. Elias Wright was the guest speaker for the occasion, and her talk was enlightening and much appreciated. Mrs. L. Jackson opened the ladies with a solo during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred LaBerge were pleasantly surprised last Sunday when relatives gathered at the home of Mr. Gerald Johnston to honor them on the occasion of their 35th anniversary. A turkey dinner was served and an address read by Mrs. Don Quinn. The couple were presented with many gifts.

Mrs. P. C. Barnett gave an inspiring talk based on Revelations 3:8 "Behold I Have Set Before You an Open Door and No Man Can Shut It," at the C.G.I.T. Thomasburg banquet where the group entertained their mothers, Mr. and Mrs. Dyson, the pastor and his wife), Mrs. Barnett and Mrs. Hodgins. The ladies of the W.A. of that church served at the tables.

Enrolment for Tweed Co-operative Nursing School will be held in Tweed on Saturday, June 29th.

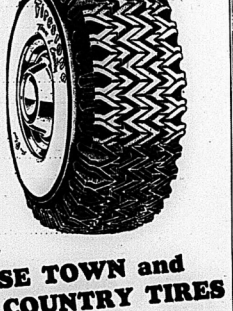
If you pride yourself on getting the sleekest beauty for the slimmest price ... the highest power for the lowest cost ... the most new advances for the least expense—then make a special note of the names PLAZA and SAVOY! When you check prices, you'll be pleasantly surprised at the low cost of the new Thrill-Power Plymouth Plaza or Savoy you like best.

Thrifty? ... You bet! Yet Plymouth is the eye-catcher of them all — the slim, trim, terrific beauty with the jaunty tail fins ... the sparkling glamour grille ... the "double-header" lights ... and the sports-car look of luxury that many a high-priced car can't match.

Plymouth is the car that gives you your choice of the biggest standard V-8 in the low-price field (a peppery 215 h.p.) or the silkiest Six that ever answered your toe.

And what a honey of a highway-handler this car is with its new snug-to-the-road centre of gravity, and revolutionary Torsion-Aire suspension! Old humpety-bump crossings are levelled out. You cling to curves like you're part of them. And when you stop, there's never a trace of "nose-dive"—even though Plymouth's all-new Total-Contact brakes are the quickest stopping ever.

These are just a few of the most obvious reasons why the Thrill-Power Plymouth has more folks eyeing ::: trying and buying this year than ever before. There are scores of other features, and we'd love a chance to show them to you. When are you free to go for a demonstration ride?



Plymouth's priced low ... and rarin' to GO!
Dial for a demonstration soon!

It'll open your eyes! For Plymouth's the lowest priced car with V-8 or 6 Thrill-Power GO ::: Flight-Sweep styling ::: Torsion-Aire Ride ::: Total-Contact brakes ::: and all the other new Chrysler-engineered advances. Its low price makes extra conveniences like push-button automatic drive ... power steering, power brakes, power seats and window lifts easier to own, too!

Apparent Ideological Break With Russia Disclosed in Peiping Radio Broadcast

GENERAL NOW HAITI TOP MAN

Gen. Antonio Kebreau (above) army chief of staff, overthrew Provisional President Daniel Fignole of Haiti in a bloodless coup and set up a military junta to rule the country and hold presidential elections. Gen. Kebreau heads the junta. Fignole went into exile. It was the sixth time that rule of Haiti has been switched since President Magloire was ousted.

LONDON (AP) — Communist China's boss, Mao Tse-tung, has rejected the Russian doctrine of a Communist society and said it "would be naive" to believe otherwise, Peiping radio said today.

Peiping Radio broadcast the text of Mao's hitherto - secret speech of Feb. 27 putting Mao in ideological conflict with Soviet leaders. The Soviet party chief, Nikita Khrushchev, and other Russian leaders claim no such conflicts exist under communism.

Mao made his statement in a 17,000-word speech delivered in February at the 11th session of Red China's supreme state conference.

Peiping Radio broadcast the speech today with the announcement that Mao had spoken over the verbatim text and made certain additions.

LEAKED EARLIER

Portions of the speech which apparently put Mao in ideological conflict with Soviet leaders had previously been leaked to Polish Communists.

Mao said "contradictions among the working people are non-antagonistic"—an apparent reference to his belief that such differences will not blow up into anti-Communist revolutionary movements.

"Contradictions among the people have always existed in each period of the revolution and during the building of socialism," he said.

In present-day China contradictions among the people included the following, he said:

"Contradictions within the working class constituted mainly the peasantry, contradictions within the intelligentsia, contradictions between the working class and the peasantry on the one hand and the intelligentsia on the other, contradictions between the working class and other sections of the working people on the one hand and the national bourgeoisie on the other, contradictions within the national bourgeoisie, and so forth.

"TRULY REPRESENTS"

"Our peoples' government is a government which truly represents the interests of the people and because it relies on the support of the masses. In our country, the contradictions between the working class and the national bourgeoisie is a contradiction among the people. The class nature of the bourgeoisie with the two its, by and large, a class struggle within the ranks of the people."

Then Mao made what for the Communist bloc amounts to an odd distinction between the national bourgeoisie of China on the one hand and "the imperialists, the landlords and the bureaucrat-capitalists" on the other.

The national bourgeoisie in China, he said, has a dual character.

"On the character. It developed a revolutionary character and also a tendency to compromise with the enemy. It showed a "willingness to accept Socialist transformation," he brought about by the Communist victory but it also engaged in "exploitation of the working class to make profits."

The contradiction between exploiter and exploited, which exists between the national bourgeoisie and the working class, is non-antagonistic one."

Engineer Sues Union for $4,050 In Lost Wages

OTTAWA (CP) — Melvin A. Rowat, 39, an unsuccessful Social Credit candidate in the June 10 general election, is suing a union official for alleged unlawful interference in his work on the St. Lawrence power project two years ago.

In an action begun Monday at Ontario Supreme Court sittings here he is claiming $4,000 in lost wages and $10,000 in punitive damages from Rowland C. Hill of Toronto, Canadian director of the International Union of Operating Engineers whose Local 793 covers St. Lawrence power workers.

The union was suspended last month from the Canadian Labor Congress for allegedly raiding members from other unions.

Rowat claims he was laid off for nine months from his job with the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission because of statements he made about the union's "dictatorial attitudes" in its dealings with its members. Rowat was laid off in May, 1955, and returned to work in February, 1956.

SAYS 1,000 EXECUTED

LONDON (AP) — Maj. - Gen. Bela Kiraly, a leader of the Hungarian rebels in the anti-Soviet uprisings last October, says the Communists have executed 1,000 persons who took part in the revolt. He told a press conference Thursday that the Russians deported "more than 35,000 boys and girls, men and women, in circumstances that were highly brutal."

Denies Giving False Information About Property

TORONTO (CP)—Lyle Francis Smith, 36, of Gooderham, Ont., Monday pleaded not guilty through his counsel, G. Arthur Martin, to a charge of furnishing false information about a uranium property to induce sales of its stock.

Smith, a former president of Canadian All-Metals Explorations Limited, elected trial by judge without a jury when he appeared before Magistrate C. A. Thoburn in a preliminary hearing.

The charge was laid following an investigation into the company by the Ontario Securities Commission.

Eric Duff Scott, a senior partner of J. H. Crang Company, stockbrokers, said in court that as a result of articles in two Toronto financial and mining newspapers early in 1955 the company's stock had risen to 60 cents from 35 cents.

A memo issued by him shortly after about the company boosted the stock to 80 cents a share. He said that since clients of his firm then held 400,000 shares in the company he decided to employ a consulting engineer to inspect the property.

The engineer's report was "rather disturbing," Mr. Scott said. It showed that drilling on the property had been done on one plane and the lengths couldn't be correlated with the result that the commercial value of the property couldn't be known until much work was done.

He said he advised his clients to hold the stock since he considered the market soft but the stock continued to fall until it finally sold at 19 cents a share.

New Supreme Court Rulings On Subversion Irk Congress

WASHINGTON (CP) — Lawyers throughout the United States today were studying the possible effects of three new U.S. Supreme Court rulings on subversive activities. The rulings resulted in fresh congressional criticism of the high court, and the House of Representatives subcommittee on un-American activities planned to discuss it as well with investigations.

In a busy session Monday the court:

1. Ruled that state legislatures may not delegate to their state attorneys general sweeping powers to investigate subversion.

2. Struck down a contempt of Congress conviction of a labor union official, John T. Watkins, on grounds that the subcommittee on un-American activities took unfair advantage of him.

3. Freed five of 14 California "second strike" Communist leaders convicted under the Smith Anti-Subversion Act, and ordered new trials for the other nine.

INVALIDATES FIRING

In another major decision, the court invalidated the 1952 firing of China expert John Stewart Service as a state department foreign service officer. It held that he then secretary of state, Dean Acheson, had no authority to fire Service after he was cleared of security-risk charges by a department loyalty security board.

In Congress Representative Howard W. Smith (Dem. Va.) said the 1940 anti-subversive law which bears his name is "perfectly clear" in its intent, and suggested that there is no use trying to amend the statute as long as the law turns into "whatever the present court interprets it to be."

Representative F. Zenner (Rep Ind.) said the court has "put us back where we were 20 years ago" on the legal battle against Communists.

The subcommittee on un-American activities, opening hearings in San Francisco today, apparently was undeterred by the decisions—which may effect congressional investigations.

Chairman Francis E. Walter (Dem. Pa.) and committee member Gordon H. Scherer (Rep. Ohio) agreed that if the high court decision stands, "the FBI and the investigating committees may as well close up shop."

Walter further turned the country back over to the Communists with these decisions," Scherer said.

Chairman Walter meanwhile vehemently denied that his sub-committee was in any way responsible for the suicide of a California research scientist, William K. Sherwood, 41, who left a note saying he was following a policy of harassing people and punishing them for past mistakes. "Is there no redemption for there people unless they grovel before the subcommittee?" he asked.

Sherwood, who leaves a wife and four children, was found dying in his laboratory late Sunday night by his wife, Barbara, who had not believed the statement when he left the house that he was going "to end it all."

Walter said from what he read Sherwood killed himself because he was afraid he would have to go to jail."

"I don't know why he reached that decision unless he had an idea that we knew what we were regarding his activities.

"It's certainly unfortunate that we couldn't subpoena him, because we have every reason to believe that he had valuable information on the operations of the tax-exempt foundations and how they operate and affect their grants."

In the Watkins case, Chief Justice Earl Warren said the un-American activities group dealt with matters "far afield" when Joseph Point Warren said there is no congressional power to "expose for the sake of exposure." And he criticized as loosely worded the resolution under which the un-American activities committee was set up.

End of Biggest Guessing Game in Year Comes in Heat

OTTAWA (CP) — The end of Canada's biggest political guessing game in years, 22 years perhaps, came in sweat and heat by sundown Monday the pieces of the puzzle began to fit together.

Prime Minister St. Laurent arrived at Rideau Hall to resign, Governor - General Massey then promptly summoned to his ranshaped residence John Diefenbaker. The Progressive Conservative leader accepted Mr. Massey's invitation to form a new government, ending 22 years of Liberal rule.

As he was leaving—the sun had disappeared behind the trees; the spacious lawns were deep in shadow—a happy Mr. Diefenbaker mused:

But it was no holiday Monday. It was hot and sweaty. It was frequently frantic. It was also, however, history.

The temperature on the shady side of a portfolio pillar at Rideau Hall read 90 degrees when Mr. St. Laurent arrived at 6:16 p.m. EDT to tender his resignation. It had crept down to 84 when Mr. Diefenbaker showed up two hours and nine minutes later.

But most of the heat and sweat was concentrated in the second-floor corridor outside the Privy Council offices in the east block of the Parliament Buildings.

There the Liberal cabinet met to quit office. There Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Diefenbaker had their 40-minute late — for reporters — while the nation awaited the final outcome.

Earlier, as cabinet ministers passed through the crowd for their decisive meeting, Finance Minister Harris, 7:30 p.m. he said that was when he received the governor - general's letter at his hotel.

After the meetings on Parliament Hill, Prime Minister St. Laurent rode off alone to Rideau Hall and the end of his nine-year regime.

The streets weren't lined. There were no tears or cheers. His car—and Mr. Diefenbaker's later—were just two more cars on capital streets.

Two Drowned In Plane Crash At Belwood Lake

FERGUS (CP) — A twin-engined amphibious plane hit a downdraft while descending for a landing and crashed into nearby Belwood Lake Monday. A five-year-old boy and his father were drowned and the pilot and three other passengers injured.

Dead are Alex J. Thomas, 49, of Port Credit, Toronto suburb whose body was recovered two hours after the crash, and his son, Gregory, Mr. Thomas leaves a wife and three other children.

The boy's body was not found immediately.

In hospital with multiple injuries are Pilot Bob McLean, 28, of Edmonton, Claude Walker, 23, of Dunnville, Jerry Overman, 32, of Yellowknife, N.W.T., and Guy Mills, 42, of Toronto.

Thomas was president of Geotex Exploration and Developments, Ltd., which owned the imported Italian plane. The party was on a sightseeing trip and was landing at Belwood Lake for a stopover when the plane crashed. It sank in a few minutes in 60 feet of water.

McLean was quoted as telling police the aircraft "made a hard landing, then bounced." He said the plane appeared to have hit a downdraft and its nose failed to come up.

Two witnesses said all six occupants escaped from the cabin but the boy fell into the water and his father dived in after him. Both were swept away.

The other four were rescued by lakeside residents who raced out to the pline in two powerboats. Belwood Lake is Ontario's largest artificial lake, a mile wide at the scene of the crash and 12 miles long. It is 17 miles north of Guelph.

GOVERNMENT GUESTS

PARIS (Reuters) — Toronto Mayor Nathan Phillips and Mrs. Phillips will be the guests of the French government during a visit here, a foreign ministry spokesman said Saturday. They are scheduled to leave here June 20.

New Govt. Will Have to Plan On Hefty Program to Make Good Promises of Campaign

OTTAWA (CP)—The new Progressive Conservative government of Prime Minister John Diefenbaker will have to plan on a hefty spending program to make good on its election campaign promises.

The promises cover a wide range of subjects—from social security to agriculture, from resource development to fiscal policy, from parliamentary rights to international trade.

Some can be implemented immediately—Mr. Diefenbaker promised a September session of Parliament—others will take longer because they are long-term efforts.

But as Mr. Diefenbaker said at one point in his 100-speech campaign:

"My idea of politics is that promises should only be made that can be effectuated."

Later he said his party's promises would cost no more than $300,000,000 for current expenditures, excluding spending on self-liquidating projects which would pay themselves off over the years.

That would be about half the $1,500,000,000-price tag the Liberals placed on the Conservative pledges.

He also promised to reduce "unnecessary" taxes, including a 10-per-cent excise tax on automobiles.

INCREASED PENSIONS

Mr. Diefenbaker promised a September session to increase old age and other pensions to "fair and reasonable" figure tied to cost-of-living increases.

Social assistance measures would be maintained at "a high standard and to keep pace with rising productivity."

A large section of Mr. Diefenbaker's election platform was filled with planks aimed at agriculture.

There would be flexible price supports; cash advances on farm-stored grain; crop insurance; improved crop insurance plan in co-operation with the provincesl; co-operation against dumping of U.S. agricultural products in Canada; extension of farm credit; support for producer marketing boards; soil and water conservation measures and payments covering losses on wheat exported at below domestic prices to certain "good customers" in the Commonwealth.

He pledged the appointment of a royal commission to investigate the spread between the price paid producers for farm products and the price charged consumers.

The Conservative government also would approach Britain to take wheat instead of some $17,000,000 in interest payments due last year on a postwar loan to the U.K. The present arrangement calls for deferment of the interest payment until after the year 2001.

EXPANSION PLANS

Development of natural resources and encouragement of more processing in Canada of raw materials now being exported to the U.S. was promised.

A development program would be a 10-year effort and would include the development of the south highways to encourage northern development. Canadians would be encouraged to assume a greater role in development of the country's natural resources.

Provincial and municipal governments would receive a bigger share of the national income. A new federal-provincial tax conference would be called to give the provinces a better deal.

A Conservative government would end what Mr. Diefenbaker described as federal encroachment with the rights of the provinces and would take steps to relieve municipalities which find themselves hard hit by federal tight-money policies.

WORLD ANGLISH CLOSED

The question of parliamentary supremacy drew from Mr. Diefenbaker the pledge to abolish the so-called time-limiting closure. He also supported the idea of appointing a permanent Commons Speaker. At present, the Speaker is changed at every new Parliament.

Mr. Diefenbaker also made a number of other promises including:

1. Establishment of a semi-judicial board to adjudicate disputes between the publicly-owned CBC and private broadcasting stations.

2. Establishment of a special government branch to help small businesses with loans.

3. An immigration policy that would be "expansive rather than restrictive," but geared to the country's economic capacity to absorb immigrants without interfering with those who already are in the country.

AT SHAKESPEARE SHRINE

SHOT BY BURGLARS CONSTABLE'S LIFE SAVED BY HIS WIFE

Provincial policeman Ronald Scott of Milton, Ont., was shot with his own pistol when he broke up a burglary attempt, and was saved from death by bleeding by his own wife, graduate nurse and mother of a 13-day-old baby. Rupert heard suspicious noises shortly after he went to bed above a Simpsons-Sears branch store and, taking his service revolver, he chased three men, firing several shots at them. Two of the men answered back with his revolver, and shot him in the abdomen. He staggered to his apartment where his wife stemmed the flow of blood until a doctor arrived.

Two Statements Issued in Rapid Order

OTTAWA (CP) — Two brief statements issued in rapid succession by Government House Monday night told the tale of Canada's change from Liberal to Progressive Conservative government:

The first one, after Prime Minister St. Laurent visited Governor-General Massey, said:

"On Monday afternoon, the governor - general received the Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent who tendered for His Excellency's consideration on behalf of Her Majesty the Queen his resignation as prime minister."

Then second, after Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker called at Government House, said:

"The governor-general received Mr. John Diefenbaker at Government House on Monday evening and asked him if he would proceed with the formation of a government. Mr. Diefenbaker accepted his excellency's invitation."

BARRIE MAN GRADUATES

SACKVILLE, N.B. (CP)—John M. Coak of Barrie, Ont., was one of 13 graduates ordained into the ministry of the United Church of Canada at the closing ordination of the church's maritime conference.

Diefenbaker Not Approached by Coldwell, Low

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker says he has not tried to arrange any meeting with CCF Leader Coldwell or Social Credit Low.

Speaking to reporters Monday after being asked by Governor-General Massey to form a new government, Mr. Diefenbaker added that neither Mr. Coldwell nor Mr. Low has approached him.

Mr. Diefenbaker, with 109 Commons seats and no over-all majority in the 265-member House will require support from other parties to remain in office. The CCF and Social Credit parties, with 25 and 19 members respectively, hold the balance of power.

WEST COOL, EAST WARM FOR NEXT THREE WEEKS

Anyone west of Port Arthur can expect cooler than normal temperatures for the next three weeks according to the U.S. weather bureau forecast. Easterners will get hot weather—and it has already begun with new records for this time of year. Rains throughout the country are expected to be light.

Johnstown

SUNDAY MESSAGE

JOHNSTOWN — Sunday School and church were held on Sunday afternoon at Johnstown. Rev. C. A. Puttenham's lesson was found in Acts 1st and 2nd. The text, "And they were all filled with the Holy Spirit". It was the story from the Resurrection until the day of Pentecost. There was a period of preparation for the Holy Spirit, which came as a mighty rushing wind and it filled all the houses where they were sitting and there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them.

"It first came to a little group of poor fishermen; people we would not associate with such things happening to them. They began to speak about Jesus in languages that all tongues could understand. Jesus speaks in all ways to individuals and crowds."

"Peter performed many miracles of healing, for the crowds brought their sick and maimed to him. Stephen was so zealous for his cause that in the end he was stoned to death. Phillip was a great worker for Jesus and Paul the great organizer of the early church was a very humble man. Those kind of people have been agents of Christ because they were imbued with the Holy Spirit; men that people would not expect to be in such positions, also the people realized that God was speaking through these men."

"In later days Dwight L. Moody was one of these evangelists. Billy Graham today, the ex-ball player has changed the life of many people across the U.S. We would never have picked him when he was a boy to be such a man as he is today. Mr. Graham is a very humble and sincere man and we pray much good will be done in New York.

If we want the Holy Spirit we must be wholly His, and the more we use, the more we get.

How much the church needs the Holy Spirit at this time! May we be more dedicated and filled with this Holy Spirit."

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Hart were callers of her mother and brother, Mrs. Grace Blackman, and Will of Wellington, on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rupert, of Stirling, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Curtis on Sunday evening for supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiersma, of the English Settlement, were Sunday afternoon callers of the Hart family.

Mr. Arnold Meyers entertained his art class and some of their husbands, of the airport, at his home on Thursday evening, showing his beautiful slides and movies of Mexico and Gautemala, where he spent the winter in 1956.

Mr. Jolie VanSchepen is ill in Trenton Memorial Hospital. All are wishing that Jolie soon regains his health.

Master Cyril Southwell, of Trenton, spent the weekend with his school friend, Master Evan McEwen.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Blackman, of Bloomfield, were callers of his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hart, on Friday evening.

FINDS $11,000

LONDON (Reuters) — A gray-haired woman picked up a diamond bracelet from the street and handed it to jeweler Arthur Christie. "I think this is yours," she said quietly and walked on. The bracelet, worth about $11,000, had been dropped by a thief making a getaway with thousands of dollars worth of less valuable jewels. Christie said he would "very much" like to learn the identity of the woman to thank her.

Mr., Mrs. J. W. Sprague Honored On 50th Wedding Anniversary

WELLINGTON — Friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Colin Lane, Wellington, on June 11th, to honor Mr. and Mrs. James W. Sprague, on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

The couple was married in Picton on June 11th, 1907, by the Rev. Mr. Shearer. The bride was the former Ruby Eleanor Kelly, daughter of Kathryn MacGregor and George Kelly.

The bridegroom was born on Dec. 8th, 1874, the son of Jane Badgley and George Sprague. Both were residents of the county before their marriage. The former living in Picton, and the latter at Big Island.

After their marriage, they lived at Winnipeg and Brandon, Man., and then moved to Wellington where they have resided since.

BRIDAL ATTENDANTS

The couple spent their honeymoon on a trip on the "Alatha" S.S. to the 1000 Islands.

During his active business life Mr. Sprague was associated with the T. Eaton Co.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Sprague were members of the United Church, and Mrs. Sprague has been a devoted member of the W.M.S.

The couple have two children, Mrs. David MacMillan, Reg. N. (Ellen), of Guelph and Mrs. Colin Shane (Lenora), of Wellington.

Mr. Sprague's two brothers and sister, Stanley Sprague, Charles Sprague and Mrs. Hiram Ellis, all predeceased him.

His oldest sister, Mrs. Richard Stafford, is still living at the age of 93 in Syracuse, N.Y.

Mrs. Sprague has two sisters living; Mrs. E. S. Theaker and Miss Blanche Kelly. Her brother, Charles Kelly, is no longer living.

RECEPTION HELD

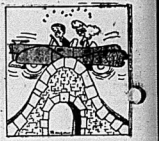
A small reception was held for the couple from 7-9 p.m. and beautiful flowers decked the rooms. A table covered with a hand-crocheted cloth held a lovely wedding cake and yellow candles. Mrs. Sprague's sisters, Mrs. Theaker and Miss Kelly poured the tea and Mrs. J. L. Ross.

Mrs. Frank Brimley, Jr., Mrs. Gerald Stoneburg, Mrs. W. A. Davern, Mrs. Tom Boyle and Nancy Lane served the guests.

Many lovely gifts were received and messages read from Winnipeg, Scotland and Ireland.

GUESTS PRESENT

Out of town guests came from Trenton, Picton, Milford, and Mountain View.



Although Mrs. Sprague has been in poor health for some time, she looked lovely with her corsage made of flowers from Scotland.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Sprague thanked all their friends for renembering them.

enjoyed the happy occasion, and

ACCEPTS FORMAL

Voting in Ontario's Wellington South was deferred until July 15 because of the death before election day of the Liberal candidate there. The vacancy resulted from the death Sunday of Dr. William Blair, Conservative - elected June 10 in Ontario's Lanark constituency.

The armed services vote announced Saturday, which saw one turnover from the civilian result in favor of the Liberals at the expense of the Conservatives, was pondered at a Liberal cabinet meeting Monday before Mr. St. Laurent tendered his resignation. The service vote was heavily Liberal and opened the way for recounts by tightening already-close races.

Informants said that at this meeting there were still some strong misgivings among the number of the re-elected cabinet ministers—nine others were defeated June 10—over giving up power to the Conservatives, especially as both major parties were so close in numbers on the views of the others, including Mr. St. Laurent, prevailed.

'NO LARGEST'

As he said later in a statement, the Conservatives appeared to be the largest number of elected members.

"In the circumstances, I reached the conclusion that the proper course for me to take was to submit the resignation of the Liberal administration."

As he turned in his resignation, Mr. St. Laurent said in his statement that he had informed Mr. Diefenbaker he was prepared to carry on if the former Opposition leader wanted it, but was ready to co-operate otherwise.

The outgoing chief of government said he feels the Liberal MPs will not "attempt by obstruction to prevent the new government from carrying through Parliament the program it has placed before the people."

However, he said, the Liberals will "exercise our right to express our views freely on the measures introduced in Parliament."

They feel that the growth and prosperity of the country should not be endangered by instability of government which would come from irresponsible obstruction."

Later, Mr. Diefenbaker said he is approaching his new job in a spirit of "tremendous responsibility."

WANTS SPECIAL SESSION

He did not elaborate on previously-enunciated policies after a meeting with the governor-general Monday night, but made it clear he still is figuring on a special session of Parliament in the fall.

During his campaign, Mr. Diefenbaker promised to call such a session to undertake tax-cutting and such measures as boosting old age pensions and other social security measures.

He planned to call the session in September. However, Queen Elizabeth is to be in Ottawa in October, and the Liberals figured she would open a fall session. Mr. Diefenbaker said it could be that she might be asked to prorogue a short session called before her arrival.

The 22-year Liberal government finally toppled in a day of swift-moving developments after days of uncertainty following the close result of the general election.

Mr. St. Laurent phoned Mr. Diefenbaker in the morning and told him there was to be a cabinet meeting later in the day, but—according to Mr. Diefenbaker—without telling him whether or not he would be resigning.

Meanwhile, the Conservative leader and a group of colleagues got down to shirtsleeves in 86 degree heat in Mr. Diefenbaker's office suite in Parliament Hill's centre block to draw up the new moves and, apparently, to work on the new cabinet's makeup.

CABINET MATERIAL

Among them were several prospective ministers.

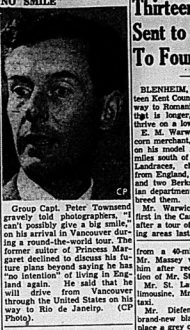
The group included Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, Esquimalt-Saanich, Donald Fleming, Toronto Eglinton, Gordon Churchill, Winnipeg South Centre, George Nowlan, Digby - Annapolis - Kings and George Hees, Toronto Broadview, all regarded as cabinet material.

Mr. Diefenbaker was asked later how many ministers he might prepare sent to the governor-general Friday as a cabinet. He indicated it would not be a full quorum—that some would be holding temporary double portfolios. It was a good bet that the group with him Monday would be among the originals.

The prime minister-designate—the ninth Conservative government chief since Confederation and first from that party since the 1930-35 leadership of the late R. B. Bennett—said he did not expect to fill out his cabinet completely until his return from the London prime ministers conference.

Creation of a cabinet involves a whole gamut of difficulties, taking in political, geographical and religious problems. For instance, Quebec province will look for six ministers, though it gave the Conservatives only eight members of whom only two were in the last Parliament.

Another problem arises in British Columbia. This province normally has two cabinet ministers. But the Conservatives returned three veterans all with strong claims to cabinet posts.



PONDERS KEY POST

Before taking over the leadership, he was the party's chief foreign policy spokesman. He was asked Monday night whether he might retain that portfolio with the prime ministership for a time, as former prime minister Mackenzie King did several years ago.

"That's within the realm of possibility, but nothing more," Mr. Diefenbaker replied.

The beaming Conservative chief spoke to reporters outside Government House—home of the governor-general — after emerging

He said that he will drive from Vancouver through the United States on his way to Rio de Janeiro. (CP Photo).

Thirteen Hogs Sent to Romania To Found Breed

BLENHEIM, Ont. (CP)—Thirteen Kent County hogs are on their way to Romania to found a breed that is longer, meatier and will thrive on a low-protein diet.

E. M. Warwick, Blenheim seed corn merchant, raised the animals on his model farm near here, 10 miles south of Chatham. Nine are Landraces, champions imported from England, two are Yorkshires and two Berkshires. The Romanian department of agriculture will breed them.

Mr. Warwick made the deal, first in the Canadian hog industry, after a tour of Russian corn-growing areas last fall.

From a 40-minute meeting with Mr. Massey he was summoned him after receiving the resignation of Mr. St. Laurent.

Mr. St. Laurent arrived in a limousine, Mr. Diefenbaker in a taxi.

Mr. Diefenbaker, wearing a brand-new black bombora in replace a grey one battered in 20,000 miles of campaign travel, was grey suit.

"I'm in the same position as I was before I came in here," he said. "I'm not a Privy Councillor yet. But on Friday I'll present myself to be sworn in."

FRIDAY PROTOCOL

On Friday, Mr. St. Laurent will present Mr. Diefenbaker to Government House, where Mr. Massey will swear in the new Liberal prime minister's resignation.

Then Mr. Diefenbaker will arrive with his new cabinet to be sworn in as Privy Councillors by Robert B. Bryce, clerk of the Privy Council. The oath will be administered to Mr. Mr. Diefenbaker, alone, then to the other ministers in a group.

At that moment, Canada will have a new government.

Mr. St. Laurent indicated to reporters that he will remain in the Commons, as Opposition leader and member for Quebec East. He said he had been re-elected by his constituents and felt it was his duty to represent them in the House.

No member of the current Liberal group has served before in opposition in the Commons. But Agriculture Minister Gardiner and Transport Minister Marler both served as Opposition leaders in the provincial-legislatures of Saskatchewan and Quebec respectively.

ANSWERS QUESTIONS

On emerging from Government House, Mr. Diefenbaker answered a variety of questions from reporters, who were close on his heels throughout the momentous day.

He would like to take with him to London a couple of his new ministers, but he could not name them immediately.

Who had been asked to join his cabinet? Well, an invitation with out an acceptance could not be revealed.

Would the apparent parliamentary political deadlock result in a second general election this year? He had not given any considera tion to that.

Was any consideration being given to inviting into the cabinet persons not now in the Commons? He was not in a position to discuss this.

NO HURRY TO MOVE

When would the Diefenbakers move into 22 Sussex Street, official home of the prime minister? There was no hurry; any time the St. Laurents cared to move out would be fine with him.

What about published reports that he might propose that the Commons Speaker (presiding officer) be chosen from a party other than the Conservatives? That would be dealt with after the cabinet had been set up.

Mr. Diefenbaker is on record as favoring a permanent Commons Speaker, instead of continuing the present practice where Speakers are changed after each Parliament. It has been speculated the choice could be CCF member Stanley R. Knowles of Winnipeg North Centre, acknowledged expert on parliamentary rules.

Another question mark is the filling of vacancies in the 102-seat Senate, where Conservative strength has dwindled to five members against 78 Liberals, one Independent-Liberal and two Independents. Mr. Diefenbaker, who has called for reform of the Senate, made no mention Monday of when he proposes to fill the 16 vacancies there.

WON'T RESIGN

Elsewhere, it was learned that none of the present deputy ministers, ambassadors, high commissioners or other top government officials plan to resign. All are part of the civil service. However, some may be switched to other posts if the new government so desires.

One big appointment expected to be made soon is that of high commissioner to London. It has been speculated that Hon. George Drew, who stepped down from the Conservative leadership last fall because of illness, may be tickled for this post. Mr. Drew also has been mentioned as a possible successor next summer to Mr. Massey, or as the new government leader in the Senate.

Robber Suspect Arrested in Wooded Area

PRESCOTT (CP)—A 34-year-old man was arrested Monday night in a wooded area near this town and charged with "robbery while armed" in connection with a daring daylight holdup by a bandit carrying a sawed-off shotgun.

Provincial police, who organized the search of the bush near this town 10 miles north of Brockville with a force of some 100 policemen and volunteers, identified the suspect as Gordon Orville Smith. He is believed to be from Ottawa.

Roadblocks were set up across Eastern Ontario to the Quebec border in an effort to head off a man who fired a shotgun at an Ottawa bakery firm representative after robbing him of $800 earlier in the day.

GRABS AT GUNMAN

Stewart Swan, 32, ducked as the bandit fired at him, and grabbed at the man as he sat in a car. The bandit leaped from the car and fled into the bush carrying two sawed-off shotguns. His overcoat was found near the railroad tracks to the west of the scene of the holdup and police cordoned off the area before beating the bush. The incident was the third armed holdup in this area in which a shotgun was used since the theft of shotguns and ammunition from a Brockville hardware store earlier this month.

OPP Inspector T.W. Cowan said the man's identity was known.

"We know who he is and we'll get him," he said. "We've been keeping our fingers crossed that there won't be any more shooting."

Says Quebec Bill Could Prevent Jesus Preaching

QUEBEC (CP)—Witnesses of Jehovah lawyer Samuel Bard said Monday in Quebec Superior Court that application of a provincial bill could prevent Jesus from preaching in Quebec province today.

Bard, of Quebec, is appearing with Glen How of Toronto in a case seeking annulment of a provincial bill they term as discriminatory.

The Witnesses are asking annulment of Bill 38, which prohibits distribution of publications containing abusive or insulting attacks against religious beliefs or practices of any section of Quebec's population. The bill was passed three years ago.

The Witnesses object to the terms "abusive" and "insulting" which they claim are vague and subjective. Mr. Bard said under certain conditions the bill could be used to keep Jesus from preaching, as he did 2,000 years ago, if He wished to do so today.

Freedom of religion entails freedom to criticize other religions, Mr. Bard said.

The case is continuing.

Man Electrocuted

East Germany Not Forgotten On Anniversary

BERLIN (AP) —The restive people of Communist East Germany, who four years ago Monday rioted against Soviet rule, got new U.S. and West German pledges of eventual liberation on this anniversary.

Huge bonfires blazed along the borders to tell the East Germans the West had not forgotten the 1953 uprising.

Inside East Germany police barred demonstrations. But June 17 was remembered—especially by the thousands of workers who vainly fought with rocks against Russian tanks.

U.S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles sent an anniversary message pledging the United States and its partners "to intensify our efforts to restore Germany as a free and united state."

Dulles' message was addressed to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and broadcast over East Germany by powerful transmitters in the American sector of Berlin.

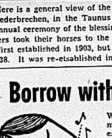
Adenauer led West Germany in memorial services. Speaking in the Bonn Parliament from a rostrum draped with the banners of the West German states and the eastern provinces, the 81-year-old chancellor said:

"The dead remind us of the freedom we do not possess. They remind us also of the thousands who are still in Soviet prisons. They remind us never to give up the fight for freedom. They remind us we must stand together in all decisive German questions."

The city.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour closed a delightful evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Hubble and friends spent the weekend in Toronto with relatives.



Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Carlisle, Hamilton, visited relatives in Rawdon over the weekend.

FIGHTS FOR LIFE WITH WOUNDED BEAR

Tom Kelly, 18, left of Mara Township, Ont., fought a mother bear with his fists and managed to come out of the fight alive. He had first fired a 12-gauge shotgun blast at the bear, wounding her, but the bear, with cubs whimpering close by, closed in on him and pushed him to the ground, clawing and biting. Young Kelly struck at the bear with the gun and when she knocked it out of his hands, he hit as hard as he could with his fists. The bear suddenly went limp on top of Kelly, who, shaking and covered with blood, made his way home. Right, Tom Kelly, Sr., shows the claw marks on the shotgun made by the bear as she struck it.

Getting a beautiful new Brantford Roof for your home isn't half the trouble you might think. And it costs a lot less than you think too. A beautiful new Brantford Roof on your average suburban home costs less than $200. That includes labour.

HERE'S HOW EASY IT IS...

Then drop in to see him. Select the style of shingle you like best. Choose your favourite colour.

That's all. And your dealer will probably arrange a time payment plan too.

Now here's something that only Brantford can offer to help you with your new roof. Brantford has a new exclusive "Check List". This Check List is your guide to a really snug roof. Ask your dealer for a FREE copy. Even if you don't know a thing about roofing, Brantford's exclusive Check List will show you all the points to watch. You can keep right on top of the job without even getting off the ground. And you'll be able to talk to your roofer in the same language. You'll know why he pays special attention to "laps" and "valleys" and "starter strips", etc.

ALL-STAR CARD

They've gone and done it, they've created a monster. Walt Gerow has announced that Hardboiled Haggerty, boisterous matman from California, has joined forces with Frits Von Erich, strutting German matman, and will go against the alliance of Farmer Boy and Pat O'Connor in the tag team headliner at the Memorial Arena next Friday night.

FRITZ VON ERICH

Haggerty and Von Erich are probably two of the toughest grapplers that have formed a partnership. Both men have run roughshod over all opposition in single matches — as a team one doesn't know what to expect.

For sure they can expect tough opposition. O'Connor is one of the leading contenders for Lou Thez' world title and his versatile partner, Farmer Boy, not only can put an opponent to sleep with a crushing grip but also with a sweetly sung lullaby.

Another pair of main-eventers will tangle in the preliminary. Two gentlemen with plenty of hair on their noggins, Prince Malava and Baron Gationi, will attempt to dismantle each other.

TENNIS LOOP OPENS

The Bay of Quinte Tennis League opens tonight what is expected to be another banner season when last year's champions, Point Anne, meets the Batawa-Trenton Combines at Batawa.

Four teams will compete in a home and home series this season. They are Batawa-Trenton, Point Anne, Quinte D and Quinte Q.

The Quinte teams will play their games at the Quinte tennis courts, opening tomorrow evening when D meets Q. All loop contests are slated to begin at 7.00 p.m.

The Quinte Tennis Club has obtained services of Doug Grant as club pro in hope of stimulating interest among district players and fans alike. The club executive is extending an invitation to players on other clubs of the district to make use of this accommodation.

With the added advantage of a pro as well as new lights and resurfaced courts, the Quinte club is looking for new members. The work, just completed last week, has delayed play but the courts will be a hive of activity from now on. Membership, both for beginners and experienced players, is now available and may be obtained any evening from officials at the club house.

New club players will have an opportunity to catch one of the Bay of Quinte league teams providing they join soon. So, tennis enthusiasts, hop to it.

HOCKEY, NO LESS

While the temps climb near the 90 degree mark one longs for the cool, cool, cool of the evenings in B.M.A. And while on the subject, here's a little more from Mr. Chick Appel of the Stratford Beacon-Herald on the northern senior "A" picture:

"The Northern Ontario Hockey Association executive may have put the hoax to Maxie Silverman but they failed to muffle the Sudbury hockey impressario, who has some more suggestions for the senior clubs which he believes should benefit all concerned, and, frankly, there is merit in some things he says. One of his suggestions has come from other sources previously, because it is recalled that a member of the senior OHA council favored an all-Ontario circuit that would play a longer schedule and ignore the Allan Cup playdowns.

"From 'de nort countree' comes the report that 'the current lull in hockey activity hasn't numbed the thinking power of one of Sudbury's most controversial figures—Max Silverman. He still spends much of his time thinking of ways and means to jack up the waning interest. Max's latest brain wave is an international senior playoff between the champions of an Ontario grouping and the International Hockey League across the creek.

"Max now has the platform: 'Everybody knows that the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association is dying on its feet. The Allan Cup series is a joke. In another couple of years there won't be any teams around to play for it.' He illustrated his point that senior hockey was being strangled to death by the fact that Fort William Beavers moved directly into the Western Canada final round last winter after playing a few exhibition games. Enlarging on the subject, Max makes sense when he says: 'If Fort William had beaten Spokane, they'd have been in the Allan Cup final, yet they never played a league game.

"And look at the teams that did go all the way. They all spent money. Pete Palangio lost $11,000 in North Bay, but the 'NOHA still could afford to send two delegates out west to a CAHA meeting. How much did that holiday cost? They didn't even have a vote at that meeting.' Max thinks the Northern Ontario senior league should promote an all-Ontario circuit and forget about the Allan Cup. 'They could have a longer schedule, write their own rules and quit being hamstrung with all this silly CAHA legislation. If a playoff was arranged with the International League, I think it would create a lot of interest,' he concludes."

Danny McDevitt, Kid Lefty, Defeats Cincinnati Redlegs To Move Team up to Fourth

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Brooklyn's pitching staff, trouble free just a couple of weeks ago but a battered bundle of late, may have found an added starter to take up the slack in Danny McDevitt — a kid southpaw who couldn't make the grade in class A ball a year ago.

The Dodgers, who skidded from the National League lead to fifth place while winning only two of their last 10 games, threw the 21-year-old lefty against Cincinnati Monday night and came off with a 7-2 victory as they started their second western invasion of the season.

McDevitt, fresh from St. Paul, struck out 11, spaced seven hits and had only infrequent troubles while gaining a complete game in his major league debut.

The victory pushed the Brooks up to fourth, while Redlegs slipped from third to fifth, a point ago being Pittsburgh Pirates defeated first-place Milwaukee 7-5 with four ninth-inning runs in the only other game scheduled in the majors.

Milwaukee now has but a single game lead over St. Louis, with Philadelphia, Brooklyn and Cincinnati all two games back. There is a two-point gap between the latter two Phils and Dodgers, and Dodgers and Redlegs.

McDevitt, 6-3, 175-pounder, started out with Macon in the Sally League but was farmed out soon down to Cedar Rapids of the Class B Three-I League with a 1-4 record and a 7.46 earned run average. At Cedar Rapids he was 5-8 with a 2.53 ERA. He had 183 strikeouts for the year, but walked 135.

This year he was 6-4, striking out 73 in 87 innings, and had 1.85 ERA at Spokane of the American Association. He was called up last weekend.

The only runs McDevitt allowed came in the second and sixth innings on single-double combinations. He walked five, but left nine runners stranded, apparently unaffected by a 70-minute delay before the finish inning.

Dodgers tagged Johnny Klippstein for three runs in the second inning, opened by Gino Cimoli's home run and keyed by McDevitt's sequence bunt. Brooks Lawrence, fourth Redleg pitcher, was touched for three runs in the ninth as Cincinnati continued its skid with a 12th defeat in the last 13 games.

STARTS RALLY

Gene Freese was four-for-four for Pirates and scored the tying run after sucking his second double play ball. The ensuing rally under way against losing reliever Dave Jolly. The Bucs, what 17-10, had 12 extra base hunts in the game.

Gene Baker homered for Pirates, their first since June 1. The seventh-place Bucs had just lost three in a row to last place Chicago Cubs—after sweeping four from Cincinnati. Bob Purkey won it in relief.

Braves, who were making up an earlier rainout with Pirates, open a three-game set with the sixth-place New York Giants tonight while Pittsburgh gets started on a three-game series at St. Louis. Brooklyn continues at Cincinnati with Philadelphia at Chicago.

The American League race finds the first-place Chicago White Sox carrying their 3½-game lead into Baltimore tonight. New York's second-place Yankees, who made up a game and a half on White Sox with a 5-4 record on their eastern trip, are home to the third-place Detroit Tigers. Cleveland's at Boston, Kansas City at Washington.

CHICK MOVES DOWN

Cementmen Whip Merchants 15-2 For Eighth Win

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Point Anne widened the gap between themselves and the rest of the Belleville and District league softball games last night by swamping the Belleville Merchants 15-2 in a loosely played game at CNRAA Park.

The Cementmen ran wild with six in the opening frame and coasted the rest of the way for their eighth triumph without a loss. They played good ball all the way, hitting and fielding well behind the six-hit hurling of Bobby Hull. Meanwhile the Merchants booted the ball on six occasions and failed to hit when they had men on base early in the game.

Hull picked up his second victory of the year while going the route. He gave up six hits and never allowed more than one per frame. He walked a pair and struck while walking five, three of these in the first, and hit two batters.

Bob Green was the loser in six innings. He gave up 11 runs on five hits, framed seven but walked 11. Five wild pitches added to his troubles. Reg Guilchrist completed the chore, tagged for seven hits and four runs in three frames. He walked one and struck another.

Seven of the Cementmen shared in the hitting with Doug Hoel showing the way. The slugging shortstop belted a double and two singles to drive in Elliott Sr. had two safeties, three walks and four runs batted in. John Batchelor had a double and single and a theft of home while Jackie Wardhaugh collected two hits, scored two and three runs. Sam Mulholland doubled while Pat Gilmur and Bob Hull had singles.

Bep Guidolin drove in his club's second safety with a long triple in the sixth. Keith MacDonald doubled in with Claude Carr, Wiener Brown, Floyd Crawford and Denny Hayden also hitting safely.

Two errors, Wardhaugh's infield single, four walks, John Batchelor's base knock plus his steal of home and his wild pitches all came in the top of the first. The Merchants got one back on three walks and a hit batter in their half of the frame but from then on it was no contest.

Bill Skowron Hottest Hitter In Either Loop Records Show

Not Mickey Mantle or Ted Williams, who are deadlocked for the American League batting lead . . . Ed Bolger and Stan Musial, running one-two in the National League competition.

He's Bill Skowron, 26-year-old first baseman of New York Yankees. In 24 games, Skowron was hitting a meagre .236. Since then he has, for 10-round native of Chicago has cracked out 42 hits in 94 times at bat, a sizzling .447 mark.

In last week's games alone, Skowron had 14 safeties in 26 tries (.538) to boost his average 30 points to .333. This output enabled him to move into sixth place among the American League hitters.

Skowron, a righthanded batter, drove in nine runs last week to move into second place in this department with 43. Washington's Roy Sievers has the most RBIs, 52.

25-POINT BOOST

Mantle increased his average 25 points in last week's action and his surge, coupled with a loss of 12 points by Williams, the Boston slugger, resulted in a tie after games of June 16. Each is hitting .379.

Mantle also walloped five home runs, raising his league - leading total to 19. Batman slammed four circuit blows and is second with 17.

Musial clored in on Hodges in the National League. The St. Louis Cardinal first baseman climbed seven points to .365 while Brooklyn's Hodges picked up three points to .358 to be was sidelined with a rib injury last Friday.

Dee Fondy of Pittsburgh moved up one notch to third place at .359. He had 11 hits in 26 at bats for a 10-point increase.

Hank Aaron of Milwaukee is the National League leader in home runs and runs batted in. He hit three home runs and sent home 21 runners in last week's games, putting his season's record at 18 homers and 71 RBIs. Musial is runnerup in both of these categories with 14 circuit wallops and 56 runs batted in.

Vince Martinez Quite Sharp In Victory Over Kid Gavilan

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP)—Vince Martinez had his second straight victory over ex-welter weight champion Kid Gavilan today and a sharper desire to joust with the current ruler, Carmen Basilio, in September.

He'll probably have to settle for an outdoor fight in Newark, N.J., in August against either Peter Waterman, Chicago, left-handed utilist or Ralph Dupas, the New Orleans speedboy.

"That $100,000 offer to Basilio for a title shot in Ruppert Stadium in Newark still goes," said Bill Daly, Martinez' manager, after his masticket wheeled out a decisive 10-round decision over Gavilan Monday night.

Basilio, a spectator at the Roosevelt Stadium fight on a steaming, hot night, said the Jersey offer would have to go behind bids by the International Boxing Club.

Carmen said he has set a Monday deadline for middleweight champ Sugar Ray Robinson to sign for a fight with him in September.

FIFTH STRAIGHT LOSS

"No more fights for me in New Jersey," wailed Gavilan, loser of five straight and headed for the end of the trail. "I win fight and lose decision. I win one round. I hurt him bad in fifth and seventh rounds. He not hurt me."

The kid, now 31 and with 14 years of pro battling behind, did hurt Martinez in the fifth and seventh. But he was shaken on a couple of occasions himself and was generally outclassed by the counter - punching, backpedaling Martinez.

Referee Paul Cavalier, the only official to see the fight, gave the winner 7-3 in rounds. He awarded the Cuban the first, fifth and seventh.

Gavilan, 147, had to chase Martinez, 150½, in the 80-degree heat and missed more punches than in this one than in any 10 fights during his better days.

The four-benefit card drew 7,200 fans and approximately $34,000 according to the promoters. The fighters each earned about $6,000.

Pembroke Horse Wins Feature At Richelieu

MONTREAL (CP) — Roman Brodie, a six-year-old owned by T. E. McCool of Pembroke, won the feature at $1,800 trot Monday night as Blue Bonnets Raceway opened its spring program.

Wavin Wagler drove the trotter over the mile in 2:06. It paid $7.10, $4.00 and $2.80.

Fitzgerald placed and Pageant was third.

Percy Hohlfard drove Silver Percy from Aultsville, Ont., across in front in a $900 C pace. The time was 2:09.

In a $600 D pace, Turnabout from Spencerville, Ont., with Russ Caldwell in the sulky, was the winner in 2:10.8.

In another $600 mile D pace, Tim Blackjack from Kingston was second and Stewart's Silver from Peterborough third. Thor Grattan from Cobourg was third in another $600 mile D pace.

WON'T DEFEND TITLE

TORONTO (CP)—Cliff Lumsdon of suburban New Toronto says he will not defend his Atlantic City marathon swim title this year. Lumsdon, who narrowly beat Tom Park of Lakewood, Calif., in last year's 25-mile race, feels he is not in shape for the June 25 event.

Clarmercoy, 22-year-old Muriel Ferguson, suburban Scarborough schoolteacher, is a sure starter. Last year she placed second behind Greta Anderson of Denmark among the women entries.

Toronto Leafs Only Two Games Off Top Spot

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seven, the perennial lucky number, came through for Columbus, Texas and the Buffalo Bisons Monday and started front-running Richmond Virginians and fourth-place Rochester Red Wings looking closer over their collection of shutters. These were the only teams scheduled.

Jets moved to within a half game of the first division with a four-run seventh inning to down Rochester, the current occupant of that spot, 4-1. At Richmond, Bisons combined seven—seven runs in the seventh inning—to wallop the league leaders, 10-6. This shaved the Vees advantage to two games over idle Toronto.

Columbus won its 13th game in the last 18 as Ron Blackburn hung up his fifth win against two losses. Gary Blaylock, who had hurled one-hit ball, and held a 1-0 lead till the fatal seventh, was the loser.

SACRIFICE TIES IT

Two walks and a bunt single loaded the bases for Jim Lee, and Howie Goss' sacrifice fly tied it. Eddie O'Brien singled with one out to send home the clincher, and a wild pitch and another single sent the other two across.

Buffalo used economy in its 10-0 rout of Richmond, getting only 10 hits to send Vees to their third loss in a row—tieing their longest losing streak of the season.

Bob Wiesler started and lost for Vees, though reliever Wimpy Nardella was touched for a three-run homer by Mike Baxes and a solo shot by Lou Ortiz in the big seventh.

Karl Drews, who has been completing of a new arm all season, was the winner, making his record 4-4 with his first shutout of the year. He was also backed up by a triple and a pair of doubles, in addition to the two homers, as forced Richmond to strand a dozen men on the base paths.

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) Prime Minister Nehru of India Monday celebrated the victory of the Danish wartime resistance movement. On a goodwill visit to Denmark, he also toured Denmark's atomic research centre.

Marlene Clips Four Strokes off Women's Record

The icy-nerved little shotmaker from Penhill fired a three-under-par 73 at the Weston Golf and Country Club Monday to win qualifying medal honors in the Ontario Ladies golf championship.

She clipped four strokes off the women's record for the 6,079-yard course set by Mrs. H. B. Armstrong of Weston and consolidated her position as favorite to retain the title she won last year.

Marlene, who holds the Canadian and U.S. amateur championships and who is a former British champion, is playing in her first major tournament of the year.

While she plays well in medal competition, she is an even more deadly opponent in match play which began today when she met Mrs. Jack Lee of Toronto Essa Monday.

FIVE STROKES BEHIND

Mrs. Streit was two under par at 35 on the outgoing nine and came in with a one-under-par 37. Her round included three birdies and an eagle.

The top 32 players in the medal play entered the championship match flight today.

Third were two other former champions, Mrs. Norman Ada Mackenzie of Toronto with 41-38—79, and Anne Sharpe, Marlene's redmond team-mate at London Point, with 40-39—79.

Players who failed to qualify were in other flights of match play today. Losers of first-round matches drop into consolation flights in their respective classes.

Vitamin E, Used in Feeding Race Horses

TORONTO (CP)—The manager of E. P. Taylor's stud farm says the Taylor racehorses are turning in record-breaking performances because they are being fed Vitamin E.

F. G. Darlington, manager of the National Stud Farm at Oshawa, said Monday Colonel Cay's record time of 2:02.6 for a mile and a quarter in the Queen's Plate was directly attributable to doses of the vitamin. So was Cenator's record clocking for the Vintage run in 1:16.8 two days later.

Three years of a five-year research project involving $00 thoughbreds have been completed by Darlington, Dr. J. B. Chassels and W. J. Guttercon, president of Weber Pharmaceuticals, which supplies the Vitamin E compound used in the studies. Their report says:

"On Alpha Tocopherol the performance of our sires was put on a sound basis throughout the year. Feeding habits were easy to control. The very favorable records of our sires and broodmares at an advanced age were a good and in some cases better than their records of previous years."

In an interview Darlington said at least five major breeding farms in Kentucky have included Vitamin E in the diet of their horses and it is being used by breeders in Australia, France, England, Ireland and France.

"We're going to continue keeping records as somebody told me that an absolutely conclusive report should go over a five-year period, but personally I don't need any further evidence."

INSIDE BASEBALL for Future Stars

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major Leagues Direct
Line Instructor

Every infield-play is a race between the ball and the base runner. Since this is the case, infielders must learn to field and throw in one continuous motion.

Being in position to get the ball in the shortest possible time also is important, and having their feet pointed outward at about a 45-degree angle will help fielders to make a quick break to either side to field batted balls.

If the fielder has time to get set to field the ball, he should have his left foot ahead of his right foot and the ball. Hands and arms his left foot ahead of his right foot and the ball. Hands and arms should move backward toward the throwing position as the ball is should move backward toward the throwing position as the ball is fielded and the weight is shifted to the right foot. The fielder pushes off the right foot as he strides with the left foot in the direction he is throwing.

When charging in to field balls hit in front or to the left, the throw is a snap throw with a good amount of follow-through furnishing the power to get it to the target.

To insure this continuous motion in getting rid of the ball, the arms and particularly the elbows should be kept away from the body.

Marathon Swim Will Be Staged On Georgian Bay

OWEN SOUND (CP)—The site of an international marathon swim has been switched from Lake Simcoe to Georgian Bay the Owen Sound Centennial Committee announced Monday.

A committee spokesman said the swim will be held Aug. 5 in connection with the centennial celebrations and will be 25 miles—from around a 13-mile triangular course in the Sound.

The original plan, proposed by Steve Mellors, vice-president of the Canadian Swim Guide Association, called for a 30-mile swim across Lake Simcoe from Beaverton to Barrie. Officials of the committee Owen Sound has facilities for spectators while Barrie and Beaverton lack.

Mellors said he already has applications from Cliff Lumsdon of Toronto, Tom Park of Marineland, Calif., Brenda Father of Grimsby, England, Ali Mustapha of Egypt and Jimmy Woods of Candler, N.C.

SEEK TAX RELIEF

NEW YORK (AP)—The Jockey's Guild will attempt to have jockeys included in a proposed "athlete's relief" for income taxes, Eddie Arcaro, president of the guild, announced Monday.

The proposed bill, set up to include professional baseball and hockey players and boxers, would give the athletes tax consideration because of their limited years of earning power.

Arcaro contends the average jockey years for a jockey are fewer than those in any other bracket of sports and the hazards are also a jockey's weight problem make him eligible for inclusion in the proposed bill.

Both Fighters Await Bell for Title Contest

DENVER (AP)—Champion Joe Brown and Orlando Zulueta, both superbly conditioned, loafed today after three weeks of stiff training for their lightweight title fight Wednesday night.

The scheduled 15-round bout in the Denver Coliseum will be televised nationally at 10 p.m. EDT.

"I'm not ready now I'll never be," Zulueta said. "This is the chance I've been waiting for." The slender Cuban holds victories over four champions but none was a title match.

"Brown never has been sharper than he is right now," said trainer Bill Gore, who handled ex-featherweight champion Willie Pep for 18 years.

Three Americans Help Dutchmen In Intercounty

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The addition of three versatile Americans was all Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen needed to become real contenders for top spot in the Senior Intercounty baseball game.

Monday night, two of them, Jack Sealby and Dean Finkbeiner, combined their talents to push the Dutchies within 14 percentage points of the leading Oakville Oaks.

Finkbeiner, making his first start of the season, pitched four-hit ball over six innings and Sealby hit a grand-slam homer to spark the rampaging Dutchmen to a 17-4 win over visiting Guelph Tymonds. Saturday, the two Dutchmen native pitched Dutchies to a win over Galt.

Kitchener jumped on three Plymouth hurlers for 14 hits, including two homers and doubled. The second homer was a baseless empty blow by Shorty Miller.

No games were scheduled in the Great Lakes-Niagara loop.

FOUR OUT OF FIVE

In the Nickel Belt League, Copper Cliff Red Sox jumped into their fourth win in five starts with an 8-4 decision over tailend Garson Shamrocks. Frood Tigers stayed close to the league-leading Sox with a 4-3 victory over Copper Cliff Redmen. Tigers now boast three wins in four games.

Clay Malone went the route for Coniston to earn his third victory against one defeat. His mates helped him to five runs in the first three innings off Doug Climpsteps.

Nick Sostarich pitched hitless relief ball in the third frame to protect Malone's victory. The 20-year-old right-hander, rejected pitcher in the league, now has hurled better than his innings without giving up an earned run.

Tonight in the Nickel Belt loop Copper Cliff will meet the Tigers in Frood. In Great Lakes-Niagara play Niagara Falls Cubs move over to Welland to play the Sunsons. St. Thomas Elgins visit Listowel Legionnaires in the Intercounty League.

Charley Joseph Getting Chance Against Webb

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The middleweight division, one of boxing's most popular and crowded with promising contenders, lures another big gate tonight when third-ranked Spider Webb of Chicago meets Charley Joseph of New Orleans.

Matchmaker Bonny Geigerman said he expects a capacity crowd of slightly more than 9,000 and a gate of $20,000 for the 10-rounder. It will not be televised or broadcast.

The 23-year-old Webb, former NCAA champion and a member of Uncle Sam's Olympic team in 1952 has won 22 of 23 fights, 12 by knockouts. His only loss came in his third professional outing to Red Elby.

For the 24-year-old Joseph, the bout tonight is a make or break affair since the fancy-boxing New Orleans native has been somewhat inconsistent in his recent outings.

Joseph shows 18 victories, five losses and two draws in a career that dates back to 1951, with time out for spending the Korean conflict. But two of the losses came in the last seven months on setbacks to Red Rivers and Al Tiger Williams.

Track Record Beaten in Win By Akbar Khan

He was clocked in 2:30 3-5 while winning the 1⅛ miles by nine lengths. The old mark was 2:31 3-5 by Maharajah, who finished second. The winner's stablemate, Spin placed third. Akbar Khan earned $18,600.

Decimal won the $22,450 Tobogan Handicap at Belmont Park. The five-year-old scored by a length over Jovial Jove in 1:05 3-5. Gay Warrior was third.

At Illinois' Arlington Park, Romanita won the $16,665 Cleopatra Handicap, picking up $9,750 of the purse. Woodlawn was second and Love Doll was third.

WINS MONTHLY AWARD

NEW YORK (AP)—Sam Hanks, who scored a record-breaking victory in the 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway auto classic, Monday was named winner of the May award in the S. Rae Hickok pro athlete of the year poll.

The 43-year-old driver from Pacific Palisades, Calif., became the first auto racing driver to win the monthly award and thus qualify for the annual prize in the eight years of the pro athlete poll.

Half of Infield Signs Contract For Major Ball

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Half of the infield of Michigan's infield was signed to major league baseball contracts Monday.

Steve Boros, who played shortstop in the 1957 season for the Wolverines, was inked to a Detroit Tiger pact for a reported $25,000 bonus. Boros was signed as a third baseman, his 1956 position at Michigan. The Tigers must carry him on their roster for two seasons before they can send him to the minors.

Baltimore Orioles, meanwhile, signed second baseman Ken Tipperey for a reported $4,000. Tipperey was assigned to Orioles' Class A farm team at Knoxville in the Sally League.

Conduct Probe Into Canadian Summer Ball

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association said Monday it is conducting an investigation into U.S. and Canadian summer baseball leagues to determine whether participating college athletes are violating NCAA regulations.

Walter Byers, executive director, said the investigation was begun about eight months ago by the committee of infractions.

Among leagues being investigated, Byers said, are the Southern Minnesota Baseball League, the Western Canada League, and the Nova Scotia Baseball Association.

He said the investigations to date have taken the form of questionnaires and interviews with club operators, collegiate officials and coaches, student-athletes and their parents.

"The approach of the council," Byers said, "is not to dig up past history so much as to clean up any unwholesome situation which now may exist and assure future conformity."

Ontario Horses Capture Four Ottawa Races

OTTAWA (CP)—Ontario horses captured four mile D paces Monday night at Connaught Park.

The best mile time, 2:18.5, was recorded by J. W. L. from Stratford driven by Elmer Hallman. Vernon E. Hal from Glencoe handled by Ken Macdonald won his event in 2:14 3-5 while Ed Cline brought Stewart from Smiths Falls across in a winning 2:15 1-5.

The fourth winning pacer was Katay B from Cornwall with Bill Fyke up who paced the mile in 2:18 1-5.

In a D trot Harry Zeron drove Lorne Todd from Morrisburg to victory in 2:15. Maybe C from Pembroke was second and Goodwill Rose from Smiths Falls was third.

Manager Alston Fined, Suspended For Three Days

CINCINNATI (AP) — Manager Walt Alston of Brooklyn Dodgers was fined $75 and suspended for three days by National League President Warren Giles as the result of a dispute with umpire Frank Secory.

Pee Wee Reese, who also was involved in the argument, was fined $50 but was not suspended.

The pair argued with Secory in Brooklyn Sunday after Reese had been called out on strikes in a game with St. Louis Cardinals.

Fred Bun Cook New Coach of Kingston Entry

KINGSTON (CP)—Fred (Bun) Cook, former star with New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, has been named coach of his native Kingston entry for next season in the Senior A division of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Cook coached Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League for several seasons and also at one time was coach of the Providence Reds of the AHL.

Last season he was at the helm of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Greyhounds of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Southern Group.

Leafs Defeat Detroit Tigers

TORONTO (CP)—A 12-run barrage in the sixth inning, featuring three-run homers by Russ Rac, Stan Jok and Lew Morton, carried Toronto Maple Leafs to a 16-4 run romp over Detroit Tigers in an exhibition game Monday night.

A crowd of 6,981 fans saw the International League Leafs, behind 2-0 going into the bottom of the sixth, send 16 men to the plate in the uprising. Leafs added another four runs in the eighth.

Southpaw Miles Jordan went the route for Toronto, giving Tigers, who are in third place in the American League, nine hits. Don Lee, who started for Tigers, had a one-hitter until the sixth when he was combed for seven more. He was relieved by John Tsitouris who also racked another six hits and the last six runs.

Superior Programming Plan For Wide Wide World in Fall

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Although Wide Wide World has just begun its summer vacation from NBC-TV, its creative minds already are percolating with ideas for its Sunday afternoon return next fall.

After talking with executive producer Barry Wood you come away with the feeling that next season will see a good deal of superior programming on Wide Wide World.

"We plan to concentrate fewer locations," Wood says. "Where this year we went to 10 or 12 places, we plan in general to concentrate on five or six spots next season. The result, we feel, will be greater depth."

Historical drama, live on location, is one of the planned uses of Wide Wide World. One of these is the story of John Brown, done live from the actual locations where the abolitionist performed some of his significant acts before the U.S. civil war: Kansas, Harper's Ferry and Charleston, W.Va., and Elba, N.Y.

Other dramas the program is considering include a dramatization of Nathaniel Hawthorne's House of the Seven Gables in the Salem, Mass., house which still stands; a dramatization of The Scarlet Letter by Hawthorne done live from the reconstructed pioneer village in North Salem, Mass.; and a western drama from actual Arizona ghost town.

Wide Wide World also would like to do a live dramatization of Huckleberry Finn, made on a raft floating down the Mississippi.

In the last season Wide Wide World has been gradually shifting its emphasis from electronics feats to creativity. It also was a year which saw the show mark up such live TV "firsts" as a pick-up of a maximum security prison and action shots of a free-falling sky diver.

The program's producers, assigned on a rotating basis, have filled a total of 150,000 miles to survey sites for the season's 20 programs.

Connee Boswell Started Stunt Of Singing Perched on Stool

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Connee Boswell, who has been ringing up from a stool for umpteen years, laughs when she comments, "This all started ago."

And surely it is. It may have started when Mary Martin and Ethel Merman did their famous duet on the Ford golden anniversary spectacular. Now they all use them on TV — Dinah Shore, Perry Como, Frankie Laine, Pat Boone, Eddie Fisher, etc.

Connee can afford to laugh now. But there were times when selling the stool was a tough and often lonely job.

"People don't realize how tough it is to learn to make your way in show business with something like this," she remarked.

MANY HANDICAPPED

She pointed out that many entertainers have handicaps, but most are not noticeable while they are performing. Some like Arthur Froman, who was incapacitated for years after a plane crash, were handicapped after they made names for themselves.

Connee has to make allowances for her inability to walk from the start of her career. Then she was singing with her two sisters. There was no problem when they appeared on radio. For theatre dates, they could open the act with the curtains closed and work out plans with her sisters around her.

Eighteen years ago, the Boswell sisters split up.

"With me, it was a real thrill to get out and sing," Connee recalled. "My sisters were never like that. They were just as happy to settle down and get married."

MARRIED AGENT

"It wasn't always easy," she commented. "There was an immediate resistance of many night club owners the minute they saw the wheelchair. They just wouldn't book me. But there were some comedians who wouldn't have me on their shows."

The stool was the solution to her problem. If she worked from a wheelchair in a nightclub, she couldn't be seen in the back rows. But the stool put her up high enough to be seen. Then she is mounted on a platform with wheels, so she can be brought on-stage during a blackout and placed in position quickly.

LAUNCH IS RELUCTANT

GODERICH (CP) — A 35-ton steel-welded launch, built here for research work in the Arctic, succeeded in launching after days during ill launching Saturday. The $50,000 Soyuz left here at 2 p.m. Moody of Manitouwaning, would not slide down the ways when pushed by the launch started launching procedure. The reluctant vessel was finally hauled into water Sunday by the tug Ian Mac.

PREPARE 'FLU VACCINE

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's chief medical officer of health, Dr. W. G. Brown, said Friday the Connaught Laboratories of Toronto has been ordered to start producing a new vaccine for use in Ontario against an influenza epidemic now prevailing in a number of Asiatic countries. The disease has not been spotted in Ontario yet.

Toronto Best Place Norris Tells Fighters

NEW YORK (CP) — James Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, said Monday night: heavyweight champion Archie Moore wants to fight Tony Anthony or Canadian champion Yvon Durelle.

"I said if he wanted to fight Durelle that Toronto seemed the best place for it," said Norris.

Moore has been told by the world boxing committee that he will lose his crown if he does not sign with Anthony, No. 1 contender, by July 7. Durelle, of Baie St. Anne, N.B., held Anthony to a draw last Friday in Detroit.

PLOT DIES IN FLIGHT

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP)—Capt. Horton Hale, 53, Transworld Airlines pilot, suffered a heart attack while piloting a TWA Constellation Saturday night and was dead on arrival at Grand Island. Hale and Capt. L. A. Girard were piloting TWA flight 13 from New York to San Francisco. The plane landed here after Hale was stricken.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

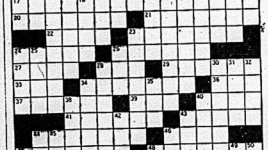
By FRANCES DRAKE

Let the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

For Wednesday, June 19, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Where can you improve, even in little ways? Think about it today, and work on at least one improvement. Many good "little" things make up a grand whole.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Some adverse influences now suggest that you carefully separate the chaff from the wheat, stay with your duties and keep to the straightest road.



May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Systematic methods will help activities greatly. The day offers opportunities that will have to be taken quickly, so be ready.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Talk matters over calmly, reason out difficulties or differences rather than get upset and have heated discussions. You may meet an old acquaintance.

July 24 to August 21 (Leo) — Here is a day in which to become better acquainted with yourself and your family; enjoy solitude, company, help others to smile and be happier. Your attitude will set an example.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Make up your mind you are going to remain calm no matter what comes up. In this way you will handle things with less trouble, and not become overtired.

September 24 to October 23— (Libra) — Plans not completely formulated can be made more efficient now. Private matters may require delicate handling, but can be successful. Bolster hope and confidence in others, and October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Wishing isn't doing as you people well realize. But anxiety, haste are also ineffective. Strike that steady, progressive happy medium, and take time off for relaxation occasionally.

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — The outlook may seem to read "inactive, nonproductive." But you can turn the tide to achievement with faith, consistent endeavor and optimism; give generously of Sagittarius' self-reliance and enterprising spirit.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Rays so-so. Pitch in, don't let a pessimistic note dominate your day or you may be swamped. Your own attitude will greatly govern results — as it so often does.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Uranus in excellent aspect now. Activities highly favored: outdoor pursuits, electronics, aeronautics, experiments, the initiation of new methods.

February 20 to March 20— (Pisces) — This day's influences are more suspicious than you may surmise at first. Your knack for making good deductions will help stick-to-it-iveness.

You born today: Still under Gemini, this birthdate is also under the rising influence of Cancer. You are a cuspal native, born at the change of Signs. The combination makes for a highly sensitive, intelligent, artistic, imaginative, inventive nature —one who loves family dearly, but also likes travel, new things, finds interest in the workings of other minds. Associate with healthy, happy individuals. You are very energetic, but do try to cultivate consistency in your activities. Birthdate of: Blaise Pascal, Fr. philosopher, mathematician.

RAWDON

Mt. Pleasant Rawdon WMS Hears Reports

RAWDON — Mrs. Roy Thrasher was hostess on Wednesday for Mount Pleasant Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society. There were 13 members and two visitors in attendance.

Mrs. Milford Weightman opened with a poem entitled, "The Power in the Hand of the Living God." All sang "Heavenly Love Abiding" and repeated in unison the 23rd Psalm. Mrs. J. Holmes officiated at the piano.

The meditation was based on "Our Senior Citizens," and Mrs. Frank Jeffs read the message from the June monthly on the theme, "He Is Shepherd s Me." This included the story of the shepherd leading his sheep over hot, dusty plains and down deep gorges, always the sheep follow in the shepherd's footsteps, and he leads them in a safe path.

The correspondence included a letter of thanks for message of sympathy and an invitation to St. Paul's W.M.S. spring tea in aid of their supply department.

The president expressed personal thanks for cards of sympathy and voiced thanks for hospitality.

A letter on "School for Leaders" was presented.

The July meeting will be held at the church hall. The Rawdon Band and Baby Band will provide the program and the W.M.S. will serve refreshments.

The treasurer's report was read with total receipts for May $18.40 and total to date, $85.35.

The stewardship secretary read an article by Estelle H. Watts, stressing the necessity of tithing. God in everything, ever remembering that "Perfect Love Casteth out Fear."

The citizenship secretary gave the story of Rawdon across Canada for senior citizens.

Mrs. Eric Summers gave a resume of the book, "Wide Windows," written by Jean Gordon Forbes.

Mrs. Roy Thrasher read an article by Helen M. Parsons on the theme, "Friendly Visiting of Our Elderly Citizens."

Mrs. Will Potts, community friendship secretary, recorded calls made in homes and hospitals.

NEWCOMERS TO CANADA

Mrs. Frank Spencer, Jr., read "Newcomers to Canada" and Mrs. Carleton Potts read "Return to Living." Both of these articles stressed the need of helping senior citizens feel at home.

The president concluded this study with a brief outline of what older people from 79 to 95 years of age had been able to accomplish. This included Stokowski, who conducted the New York Philharmonic Orchestra until he was 84, Bishop Brent, who had brought her and her farm animals to settle at Metcalfe, Ont., near Ottawa. She said she left Cape Breton after two years because she was "non-existent." Cape Bretoners were "bedrock hospitality was "non-existent." Cape Bretoners were "bedrock hospitality and their pasture a "lake." With her she brought 15 dogs, one donkey, a pony, four horses and a tractor. (CP Photo).

Mrs. Ernest Spencer opened the devotional with "O God Our Help in Ages Past," and gave a paper on the theme, "The God of Hope."

Mrs. Don Johnson read the Bible lesson which stressed "The Cross of Christ."

Mrs. W. G. Fletcher offered an appropriate prayer on this theme and Mrs. Marguerite McMullen sang, "My Hope is Built on Christ."

Mrs. Herbert Smith read an article written by Padre Young which stressed the theme, "Where there are no children the crib is clean."

The service closed with "Blest Be the Tie that Binds" and prayer by the president.

The hostess served ice cream and cookies.

The crib quilts for the supply bale were displayed and flannelette pieces will be welcomed by the supply department. There was also a large array of knitted articles for the supply bale.

Canadian Custom Jewellery
The Ultimate in Good Grooming

Custom-made jewellery, as every pampered poodle and their fashionable mistresses know, is the final elegant touch which marks the ultimate in good grooming.

National Film Board of Canada Photos by Gar Lunney.

Once the unique distinction of emperors and kings, tailor-made jewellery is finding increasing favour with discriminating Canadian women. Montrealer Gabriel Lucas designed this delicate brooch of diamonds and pearls.

The indestructible diamond rose to eminence as the world's most popular jewel with the opening up of the rich diamond mines in South Africa during the latter part of the 19th century.

The urge to adorn oneself is one of the first steps of barbaric man towards civilization. Stone age matrons had to be content with necklets of animals' teeth. Today, diamonds are a girl's best friend.

Jewellery may be sought for reasons other than personal adornment. Many people regard the purchase of jewels as a form of investment in addition to being a source of delight and pleasure. Jewels are a kind of universal currency, for they can be readily converted into cash in any country in the world where there are men who love beautiful women and women who love beautiful things.

At the rear of Gabriel Lucas' fashionable Sherbrooke Street shop in downtown Montreal, master craftsmen transfer the designer's sketch into an exquisite setting of precious gems for m'lady's jewel-box. Many of these highly skilled workers have been brought to Canada from such European countries as France and Belgium where the ancient jeweller's art is still taught under a strict apprenticeship system.

WELLINGTON

W.I. School Holds Season's Last Meeting

WELLINGTON — The student body and staff of Wellington Consolidated School gathered in the gym on June 7th for their final assembly. The school song opened the assembly followed by the Scripture reading and the Lord's Prayer by Carol Marvin.

Mr. Snider introduced the guests, the students of grade VIII: Linda McKenzie, Garry Burr and Larry Greenfield who favored with some popular piano selections, receiving great ovations.

Following this, the presentations were made to the teachers by the form representatives. Miss Kincade received a set of jewellery and a white cardigan; Miss Martineau, a travelling case; Mr. Scott, a pair of water skis; Miss Quinn, a dresser set; Mrs. Jack McNeill, an oil painting, one of Miss Martineau's paintings.

MOCK WEDDING

TEST RESCHEDULED

MONTREAL (CP) — Exercise Ciel Clair, designed to test Eastern Canada's ground observer corps and rained out last Wednesday in the Quebec sector, has been rescheduled for Wednesday, air defence command announced Sunday.

Little Benny's Notebook

Us fellows were talking and argewing, and Dopey Shortly Judge came up with one finger in his mouth and Puds Simkins said, What's you doing, Dopey, holding a tooth in or something?

Yeah, Shorty said.

Saying it without taking his finger out of his mouth and I said, Well what's a matter, are you afraid it will fall out if you leave go of it?

Yeah, that's how loose it is, Shorty said.

Still talking through his finger, and Sid Hunt said, Well heck, why dont you let it fall out if it wants to?

Sure, Dopey, if you spend the rest of your life holding that tooth back, how do you expect to have time for anything else? Skinny Martin said, and I said, And anyways, Dopey if you keep that tooth from coming out when it feels like it, the new tooth wont be able to grow down to fill up the hole, and it's libel to get discouraged and grow up instead, and the next thing you know you'll feel it stabbing you behind your nose and you'll wish you had took our advice and let the old one drop.

I'll take a chance till tonight, Shorty said. My father always gives me a doller if I let him pull out a loose tooth without yelling or anything, and he wont be home till dinner time, he said.

Saying it through his finger and proving you never know who's got more sense than you thought.

OTTAWA (CP)—John Diefenbaker today continued conferences with prospective cabinet ministers as he worked out the makeup of a Progressive Conservative government to be sworn in Friday.

The party leader spent much of the morning in meetings and was to resume them, later in the day after a quick automobile trip to Perth, Ont., for the funeral of Dr. W. G. Blair, Conservative member for Lanark who died Sunday.

Gen Pearkes is expected to be his defence minister. Mr. Nowlan is probable trade or transport minister. Mr. Fulton—who arrived by plane today from British Columbia—may be minister of justice or possibly Speaker of the Commons.

A portfolio is planned for Mr. Churchill, one of Mr. Diefenbaker's chief campaign strategists, but he has been no information as to on what will be allocated to him.

LEAVES MONDAY

Later today Mr. Diefenbaker was to meet Howard Green of Vancouver-Quadra, flying here from Vancouver. Mr. Green said at Vancouver Tuesday he may be the new transport minister.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who is to present a cabinet nucleus to be sworn in by Governor-General Massey Friday, flies to London Monday for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference, starting June 26.

He told reporters today he will be back in Canada Saturday July 6.

Tuesday, the prospective government chief spent the day meeting through names among his 109 Commons supporters for a satisfactory cabinet lineup.

He was still at it at the end of the working day that ended for him at 6:15 a.m. EDT. He did little else Tuesday and Tuesday night he retired early in his Chateau Laurier suite.

However, Mr. Diefenbaker did have two conferences during the day with R. B. Bryce, secretary of the cabinet, who will be accompanying him to London for the Commonwealth prime ministers' meeting opening June 26.

GETS BRIEFING

Mr. Bryce briefed him on government thinking up to now, at the request of Prime Minister St. Laurent, who was to have attended the conference for Canada until the June 10 general election left Liberal forces with only 104 seats compared to 109 for the Conservatives.

Other membership in the 265-port Commons is CCF 25; Social Credit 19; Independent 2; Independent-Liberal 2; Independent-Progressive Conservative 1; and Liberal-Labor 1.

Today Mr. Diefenbaker will get back to the job of cabinet-making, interrupting it at noon to drive the 35 miles to Perth to attend the funeral of Dr. William Blair. Dr. Blair, re-elected June 10 in Lanark and mentioned for the post of health minister in a Conservative government, died suddenly from a heart attack Sunday.

It is expected Mr. Diefenbaker will call a by-election as soon as possible in Lanark. There also is the deferred election in Ontario's Wellington South caused by the death of the Liberal candidate before polling day. It will be held July 15.

LIBERAL RESIGNATION

Meanwhile, 76-year-old Mr. St. Laurent turned in his resignation to the governor-general Monday evening. He then promptly asked Mr. Diefenbaker to form a government and the 11-year-old Commons member for Prince Albert, Sask., accepted.

However, Mr. St. Laurent will remain at the head of a caretaker government until Friday to give Mr. Diefenbaker time to form a government and the latter may never bow in the Commons.

Asks Diefenbaker To Exempt Food From Sales Tax

TORONTO (CP)—The new Diefenbaker administration was urged today by Thomas G. McCormack, president of Dominion Stores Ltd., to lower the retail food price index by exempting all foodstuffs from direct sales tax and to widen the hidden taxes on foods.

Addressing the grocery chain's annual meeting here, Mr. McCormack said high good prices inevitably follow the greatest hardship on those in the lower income bracket and those with large families.

He suggested the new government also make a study of indirect taxation of food. "Most foods, even those supposedly exempt from sales tax, carry some element of sales tax representing a portion of the tax collected in what has been used in distributing it." Removal of such taxes, he said, would represent a substantial saving to the public.

Today's Chuckle

"There are two reasons why that fellow doesn't mind his own business: a businessman and his friend. "One is that he doesn't have any friend, and the other is that he has no business."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Cooler, less humid air reached the western sections of Ontario early today. By this afternoon the heat wave will be broken in all parts of the province with afternoon temperatures expected to settle back to the mid-70s in southern regions and the 60s in the north.

Sabrina Crashes Royal Enclosure Peers Peer at Her Bust Exposure

ASCOT, England (AP) — The gal with the biggest bust in Britain shoved the peeress gate-crasher the hallowed royal enclosure at the Ascot Races Tuesday. It was seen-second visit and the place may never be the same again.

The girl with the bust is Sabrina, Christine Sykes, known the length and breadth of the British Isles as "Sabrina of the Big Boobs." She has become famous by the simple process of standing in front of the cameras and breathing. The vital statistic is 41 inches.

Sabrina's appearance before the Royal Family and among the peers of the realm created a big-ger shock than the victory of an eight-year-old gelding named Tomahomie in the day's feature race, and Bonhomie paid 76 to 1 on the nose.

Dressed in a low-necked flow-ing white gown with a diamond necklace without a ticket while the gate man was groping around the royal turf for his eye-balls.

"Scandalous!" hissed 17 duch-esses and 23 lords have been 18.

"Shocking!" muttered six vis-counteses and 14 peeresses.

"Yes, m'dear," murmured their titled escorts as they kept on look-ing.

A reporter who encountered the show first asked her what in the world she was doing in the royal enclosure.

After a 15-minute search Sa-brina departed as thousands peered, including a rare assort-ment of pop-eyed dukes, viscounts, lords, barons and earls.

The Queen and the other mem-bers of the Royal Family did not appear to notice.

HUNDREDS FLEE PORT AU PRINCE FEARING RIOTS

Junta Starts Jailing Political Partisans

PORT au PRINCE, Haiti (AP) Hundreds of workers and peas-ants have fled this seething Carib-bean capital city in fear that fresh violence may erupt.

Loaded with personal belong-ings, they began streaming out of Port au Prince Tuesday as mili-tary authorities started jail-ing political partisans on a wide scale.

Those fleeing to the countryside included supporters of both presi-dential candidates, Louis Dejoie and his arch-rival, the ousted provi-sional president Franck Pignol who now is in New York.

De Joie himself was in hiding. Six of his chief advisers and scores of his followers were among those arrested.

SEEK TO STALL STRIKES

The military rulers apparently were concerned on Dejoie's backers to keep them from again organiz-ing general strikes. Most business firms in the city followed or-ders from Dejoie in the recurrent strikes staged during the political turmoil that has unseated six gov-ernments since December.

The ruling junta has outlawed strikes. Heavily-armed troops and police patrolled the streets early Tuesday forcing stores and shops to re-main open.

The junta also pushed a wide-spread shakeup of the army com-mands. The junta announced Brig. Gen. Antonio Keebreau, named new commanders for northern and southern Haiti and announced a long list of promotions of junior officers.

CHECK ON EX-OFFICERS

The junta also kept a sharp eye on 47 former army officers, most of them Dejoie supporters. The of-ficers were ousted by Pignole be-fore he was deposed last month, and there have been persistent ru-mors that they might try to topple the junta.

The number of persons arrested followed by the military ap-peared to be near 2,000 but scores were released after being ques-tioned.

Official reports on the death toll still were vague, but hospital sources insisted that several hun-dred Pignole supporters had died. The best available estimates were that at least 100 persons were killed and 200 wounded. Many of the wounded were said to have died later in hospitals.

Eisenhower Eager to Agree To Ban on Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he would be delighted to make a satisfac-tory agreement against atomic tests while negotiating with Rus-sia for some permanent program.

Under questioning at a press conference, Eisenhower said he believes—although he does not want to commit himself finally at the moment—that a prohibition on the manufacture of atomic weap-ons might not necessarily have to be a part of the package four-sure pending tests.

His tentative comment on this point was contrary to what state department officials have been saying privately since negotiator Harold Stassen returned to Lon-don.

Their line has been that the United States would only agree to suspend tests as part of a first-step agreement which also pro-vided for halting manufacture of weapons and is carefully in-spected program.

Eisenhower said a three-point proposal put forward by Russia in the United Nations talks at Lon-don a few days ago deserves the most earnest and sympathetic study although he could not yet say how it would work out.

The Soviets called for a two-to-three-year moratorium on atomic tests, for a commission to super-vise the agreement and for inspec-tion posts within the territories of Russia, the United States and Brit-ain.

Three Teachers Suffer Shocks From Lightning

BRANTFORD (CP) — Three school teachers received shocks Tuesday when a bolt of lightning tripped into the Graham Bell School. The 300 pupils were un-hurt.

A chimney was wrecked, plaster torn off ceilings and windows cracked. Fluorescent lights were stirred completely around in their sockets like oversized compass needles.

When the bolt struck, Pat Smith of Mapleton was putting a needle on a record player for a base-ball musical education class. Madeline Sugden was operating a film projector in an adjacent classroom and Florence Adams of Etherprise was closing a window to keep the rain out. All three women teachers were numbed.

Dawn Parris of Fenelon Falls received a panic among her Grade 3 and 4 pupils by leading them in songs.

Carrier Finds Small Body in Mail

GRAND HAVEN, Mich. (AP)—A baby boy abandoned in a mail-box may have a home with the same parcel mail carrier Wednesday.

Mrs. Bethke, 41, said he and his family will confer with Ottawa County probate court officials in hopes of being granted temporary custody.

Dr. Peter McArthur, who exam-ined the baby here, 20 miles north west of the tip of the Brittany Peninsula and 15 miles west of the island of Ushant.

The French tug Jean Bart left Dunkerque to render assistance and a French freighter, the Dutch destroyer Hertzberg said the warship Chevreville all ra-dioed they were on their way.

The U.S. Air Force sent two amphibious air-sea rescue planes from Germany and England to join in the effort.

Brockville Girl Killed in Car

TORONTO (CP)—Doris Chant, 18, of Lyn, near Brockville, was killed and Tony Lesser, 24, of To-ronto, died of injuries in hos-pital Tuesday night after a two-car highway crash near here. Three others were severely in-jured in the crash two miles east here.

Miss Chant and Jesson were passengers in a westbound car driven by Cecil Chant, 29, of To-ronto, reported in critical condi-tion in hospital at Lyn with a crushed chest.

Police said the Chant car shot across the centre strip of the four-lane, divided highway and crashed headside into a car driven by John R. Haggit, 39, of suburban Pickering Township.

Haggit is in serious condition with head injuries and severed right arm. A passenger who was not named regularly with him from Toronto, suffered a broken leg and multiple face cuts.

TANKERS COLLIDE THEN CATCH FIRE OFF BRITTANY

8 Dead, One Missing, Rescue Work Perilous

BREST, France (AP) — Two ocean-going tankers collided in darkness and heavy fog off the French Atlantic coast early today. The Radio station at Brest said rescue ships on the scene reported eight sailors dead and one miss-ing.

The number of survivors could not be determined exactly.

The tanker, identified as the Liberian-registered Stony Point, which previously was the Ionis Sands, was lying low in the water and burning but had not gone down at last report.

French maritime authorities said the other vessel was the Greek tanker Ionis.

FIRE BREAKS OUT

The Brest station reported one man missing from the Stony Point and said eight men of the Ionis had lost their lives in the collision or the subsequent fire.

Thick flames from spreading oil slicks made rescue operations perilous as the crews attempted to abandond the two burning ships.

The Panamanian ship Eric Reck-mann was on the scene but ra-dioed it was extremely dangerous to approach the two burning ves-sels.

SHIPS CONVERGE

The Stony Point was reported to be a 15,000-ton ship while the Ionis was 19,000 tons.

The liner America altered her westbound course 20 miles north-west of the tip of the Brittany Peninsula and 15 miles west of the island of Ushant.

The French tug Jean Bart left Dunkerque to render assistance and a French freighter, the Dutch destroyer Hertzberg said the warship Chevreville all ra-dioed they were on their way.

The U.S. Air Force sent two amphibious air-sea rescue planes from Germany and England to join in the effort.

Duplessis in Witness Box As Sect Fights Quebec Law

QUEBEC (CP) — A three-hour stint in the witness box by Que-bec's Premier Duplessis has pro-duced technical wrangling and sharp tempers as the Witnesses of Jehovah continue their attack against a provincial anti-sect bill.

Mr. Duplessis, as Quebec's at-torney-general, was called to the stand Tuesday by the religious group. They are seeking annul-ment of Bill 38 which prohibits distribution of pamphlets without obtaining abusive or insulting at-tacks against religious beliefs or practices of any section of Que-bec's population.

Mr. Duplessis labelled tactics by counsel for the Witnesses as a "propaganda campaign" and an attempt to "create sensational publicity."

Supreme Court Judge Louis-Philippe Lizotte is hearing the ac-tion, which resumed Monday after a one-month adjournment.

"The activities of any and all religious groups are treated equally," Mr. Duplessis testified.

"If someone breaks the law then I, as attorney-general, must take action," he replied later when asked if he personally drafted the law, which is objected to on the grounds the terms "abusive" and "insult-ing" are so vague as to be ineffec-tive.

There were several sharp ex-changes between the premier and lawyer Glen How of Toronto, who is appearing with Samuel Bard of Quebec for the religious group.

Mr. How asked Mr. Duplessis if he was prejudiced against a mem-ber of the Witnesses' sect. "I have no prejudices against anybody, not even you. I'm very patient," answered the premier.

Mr. How asked if the law was passed to have Jehovah's Witnesses prosecuted. Mr. Duplessis replied before his coun-sel could raise an objection. "If it was, I'm a decent lawyer would do."

Much of the technical tangle in-volved questions based on state-ments alleged made by Premier Duplessis during the legislature debate on the bill three years ago. These questions were constantly ob-jected to by Noel Dorion of the attorney-general's department.

Mr. Lizotte, sustaining a de-fence objection, said such re-marks "could be of no interest unless they were supported by witnesses. Duplessis replied to questions by claiming parliamentary immunity for what he might have said in the house.

Mr. How argued he was trying to prove that Mr. Duplessis was the creator of Mr. Duplessis concern-ing the bill.

"I don't have to wait until we are in jail before we find out what the intentions of Bill 38 are," Mr. How said.

When Judge Lizotte said he re-served the right to make pro-based on the parliamentary de-bate, Mr. How replied under no circumstances he felt his client was being "denied a full, fair hearing."

Judge Lizotte asked Mr. How to withdraw. The lawyer then said: "With respect, the result of Your Lordship's view . . . is to violate due process of law."

Judge Lizotte adjourned the court after Mr. How said he had no more questions to ask Mr. Du-plessis.

The hearing continues.

Three-Day Heat Wave Ends, Huge Storm Damage

Lightning Kills Two, Winds Uproot Trees, Upset Boats

CHICAGO (AP) — The year's first big heat wave in the United States ended today in the Atlantic coast areas, shrinking be-fore an eastward moving cool air front that finally brought respite to the midwest states.

Since Saturday the weather—in-cluding floods and storms as well as broiling temperatures — has taken at least 225 lives in the U.S.

The heat was blamed for the largest toll—197. Deaths occured from heat prostration, but the greatest number were recorded in drownings as people sought to find some relief.

Floods took at least 28 lives.

A mass of cool air from Canada broke the torrid heat wave in the Midwest Tuesday and early today the cold air front extended along a line from Lake Erie through the southwest Ohio and down to south-east Arkansas.

FOR EIGHTH DAY

Another day of 90-degree read-ings would be the eighth straight day of such weather in many areas.

In the two principal flood areas, residents of Marshall, Minn., waited for a further rise in the swollen Redwood River, but the flood seemed to wane in east-ern Nebraska.

The Big Sioux River, now as wide as a mile in some places in-stead of its normal 60 feet, caused millions of dollars damage along the 100-mile line in South Dakota. There were three dead and two missing.

But in Minnesota the Redwood River at flooded Marshall still was three feet above flood stage, and down - river towns braced themselves for an expected de-crease of .of-11 to 11½ feet was predicted by forecasters who said that more water was due from small upriver tributaries.

The property damage in Mar-shall was estimated at $1,000,000. Farm experts said crop damage would be three times as great.

Two Convicts Flee Kingston Penitentiary

KINGSTON (CP) — Two men, working in the prison garden out-side the wall of Kingston penitentiary, broke a wired fence, escaped today.

Thomas Edward Jillings, 34, and Edward Harold Brooker, 32, were noticed missing when guards made a routine count as they headed into the prison for lunch.

Jillings was serving a nine-year radio theft sentence imposed in Lindsay Sept. 21 and Oct. 1 last year on charges of breaking and entering.

Brooker was sentenced at Sud-bury April 4, 1956, to serve three years and four months for escap-ing jail there in Sudbury.

Road blocks were set up in the area.

Adjourn Hearing On Application To Supply Gas

CORNWALL (CP)—The Ontario fuel board Tuesday adjourned until July 8 its hearing on an application by Lakeland Natural Gas Company to supply the city of Cornwall.

A counter-application by Consumers' Gas Company will be heard at the next sitting, either here or in Toronto.

The board, under chairman A.R. Crozier, heard a letter from city council stating that should both companies be found eligible as suppliers of natural gas, the city would prefer the Lakeland company.

Consumers' Gas representatives attended the hearing with their counsel, Senator S. A. Hayden, but said they would prefer to wait until July 8 before making any definite statements.

Many Birds Seen By Naturalists At Deer Lake

In spite of the 80-degree weather the Quinte Field naturalists found their trip to Deer Lake as guests of Dr. G. Hammond the most enjoyable of the season. The lake, nestled in the beautiful spot by the side of Deer River, brilliant black and orange orioles kept flying overhead, a pair of cedar waxwings were busily feeding in the trees close by, little chipping sparrows kept up a steady chatter, and across the river could be heard the northern waterthrush with its twit, twit, twit, twee, twee, wee, chee, chee, chee accompanied at times by the scream of a bluejay. Not discovered until departure time was a whip-poor-will, the protective coloring so much a part of the rock on which she was sitting that only the sharp eyes spotted her. She remained as though frozen to the spot as the party moved by, which gathered around her.

Four burr oak trees growing out of one big old oak, which had fallen to the ground attracted a great deal of attention.

Botanists in the group under Dr. Hammond's guidance, identified among the trees such plants and ferns, among them quite a number of Pennsylvanium illum, or tiger lily, which seemed very plentiful in that area but is not seen around here in the wild state.

Dragon flies large and small, were doing their best to lower the mosquito population. There were many damsel flies and numerous ichneumon flies which are parasites and aid greatly in the destruction of harmful insects.

TRAP-DOOR SPIDER SEEN

Another interesting and unusual sight was the trap-door spider in its nest. It is a large, ugly looking spider which sits at the bottom of a hole about an inch in diameter and four inches in depth and waits for unsuspecting insects to fall into its open jaws.

A trip to Deer Lake dam and fish hatchery by the Department of Lands and Forests was also very enjoyable. A great deal of work has been done by this department to make it a beauty spot. The dam controls the water level in the lake. It is fascinating to watch the water boiling down over the rocks like a giant bubble bath. A flume carries water to the hatchery where in several ponds lunge are developing from the eggs stage to fish large enough to stock other lakes. Tiny shiners caught in nets are licensed for food for the baby lunge. Blue spruce and other trees have been set out along the paths beside the ponds and with the river below it is really a lovely spot.

Supper, again by the river, wound up a very successful day. Thanks were extended to Dr. Hammond.

Widespread Damage Caused By Short But Vicious Gale Outdoing Hurricane Hazel

Tuesday night's short and vicious thunderstorm was believed to have been responsible for the crash of a light airplane at the Mohawk Airport in Deseronto, heavy damage to a car on which a tree fell and widespread damage to property and trees.

A meteorological office at RCAF Station, Trenton, Ken Storey, who lives at Consecon, said he heard several residents of the village say the storm was the worst ever to hit that area —worse, even, than Hurricane Hazel in the fall of 1954.

He and his family were swimming at North Bay on the Lake Ontario side of Prince Edward county when the storm struck.

"I watched the storm building up over the lake," he said. "The base was about 2,500 feet and the storm blew down on us at high speed. When it neared the shore, small clouds broke away from the main body and swept over us like fog. With this cloud came wind at about 50 miles per hour. Then the rain came—almost horizontally.

"I could see the beach dashed for their cars and headed for home. The route from North Bay to Consecon was choked with headlights as people sought shelter."

TREES LITTER STREETS

—After the storm had swept past Consecon, almost every village turned out. You couldn't walk across the square near George Millen's store without stepping on fallen tree limbs," said Mr. Storey.

One man in the village climbed into his car, intending to put it in the garage. As he backed up a short distance, a large tree in the garden fell on the spot where the car had just been.

One telegraph pole was knocked down near Consecon and many trees were uprooted.

The RCAF weather office at Trenton this morning said that at 6:10 p.m. Tuesday evening it was southwest at 15 mph, gusting to 22 mph. The maximum gust recorded at the air station was 22 mph.

The weather office does not keep a constant watch on the velocity at which gusts reach much higher than 22 mph may have been felt at the air station.

CUT LONG SWATH

Rainfall at RCAF Station, Trenton, measured 0.40 inch and visibility was reduced to one-quarter mile. The storm cut a path about three-quarters of a mile in width from Consecon somewhere northeast of Belleville.

The filtration plant in Belleville recorded a rainfall of 0.38 inch. Temperature fell from 87 degrees at 6 p.m. to 70 by midnight. The low overnight temperature was 68 degrees in Belleville and the expected high on Wednesday is about 88 or 90.

An observer at the filtration plant said thunder was heard there at 6:30 p.m. and the first lightning bolt was seen at 7:00 p.m.; heavy rain began to fall at 7:10 and stopped at about 10:10 p.m. A light rainfall was recorded in Belleville between 4:45 and 5:30 on Wednesday morning.

REACH SAFETY

Fears for the safety of three men in a boat caught in the middle of the Bay of Quinte during the storm caused consternation on the part of police and others aware of their plight.

The men, who are unidentified, apparently put off from shore in the vicinity of Houston's and after the passing of the fast-breaking storm the craft had vanished.

Everything turned out well, however, as police learned that the boat had safely anchored further down the bay.

A Belleville commercial pilot was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital when his light aircraft, "Sandershot" the runway at the Mohawk Airport at Deseronto just as the storm struck. Stephen Gerzja, Dundas St., is in satisfactory condition this morning suffering from facial cuts and possible internal and back injuries and shock.

William Bunnett, 55 George St., bought an English car five days ago. Last night, while the vehicle was parked in the driveway at home, a heavy maple tree fell and caused heavy damage to the car.

FAMILY RESCUED

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Burley, of Belleville, and their 12-year-old son, Bill, were dunked in Lake Ontario when the storm swept across the lake. The family were out on the lake fishing when the storm developed and overturned their boat.

Mrs. Burley and son, Bill, were rescued by Douglas Harrington, who saw the party in distress and called Police Chief Earl Marvin, of Wellington. The chief and Ralph Moore launched a boat and made one sweep around the lake without finding the Burley family. Fearing the worst had happened to the anglers, the rescue vessel made a second search of the lake. This time the chief and Mr. Moore found the Burleys clinging to their upset boat.

The drenched family were taken to the police chief's home where they were given dry clothing and warmth. Meanwhile, Chief Marvin and Cory Moore went back on the lake and pulled the spilled boat to shore. They found Mr. Burley's wallet floating in a bait pail. Other contents of the boat were lost.

Gerald Scully and Bill Gardiner, who live on Bay Drive, drifted from behind the Belleville General Hospital to Moira Lake in a short time when branches fell across wires. A maple break-down was tended to on Church Street when part of a tree blew down in front of Ritz Hall and straddled some wires. The cut-off was felt from Bridge Street to Victoria Ave., and from Church Street to Front Street. Radio Station CJBQ was off the air for a short while.

Workers in the city and in some rural areas minor electrical failures were felt, but the Hydro officer reported today all circuits were repaired by dawn.

The flag pole on the post office was snapped by the wind and numerous heavy tree branches were felled at the Ontario School for the Deaf.

A party heading for a dip in Oak Lake cut short its drive when a large maple tree fell across the Foxboro Road near Canada Packers and tied up traffic for some time. The tree fell right in front of the car.

Four large, expensive plate glass windows at Loblaw's on Pinnacle Street were broken by the wind.

Lions Sponsor Circus

Beginning in June, fresh from its triumph overseas, Gardan, Bros. will play 100 cities and towns in Ontario and Quebec. In each case the circus will be under the auspices of a local service organization and it is hoped that the record breaking job of raising funds for such an organization will be repeated in every town and city it plays in Canada.

Outstanding features of the show this year are the magnificent new Big Top, the herd of elephants, the unique Royal Canadian Llamas as well as a host of clowns and aerialists and 20 other exciting displays.

Be sure and see the all new Garden Bros. Circus under the auspices of the Belleville Lions Club, corner of Sidney and College streets on Thursday, June 20th.

Obituaries

FRANK E. SIMMONS
Visit Anne

In ill health in the past two years, Frank E. Simmons, highly respected employee of the Canada Cement Company at Fort Anne for years, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday morning.

He was born in Sidney township, Hastings county, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Simmons and had resided in that community all his life. At an early age he entered employment with the Cement Company and continued with them all his working life. When he retired in 1952 he was employed by the Dept. of Department of the Company. Mr. Simmons was highly regarded by management and fellow employees.

In the community life of Point Anne Mr. Simmons took an active part. When a Catholic church was to build a Catholic Church in the community, he worked hard and faithfully for its success and took a leading part in the formation of the parish.

He was a member of St. Anne's Church at Point Anne and was also a member of the C.W.O.B.A. Society. Surviving are his wife, the former Mary Campbell, daughter Miss Gertrude Catherine and Miss Hazel Marie both at home, and one son, Mr. Henry Ernest Simmons of Thorold. Two brothers, Lester and Fred Simmons of Thorold are also surviving.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Western oils and senior base metals were higher today but industrials lost ground as the stock market traded irregularly during morning activity.

The western oil index gained more than three-quarters of a point. Feature of the section was Security's 50-cent climb to $5.30, a 1957 high. Pacific Pete was up ¼ to 22 while Canadian Husky added ¼ at 20½ and Canadian Atlantic 32 cents to $9.

The industrial index lost one-quarter of a point. Most price changes were fractional, although Toronto Iron Works gained 1½ points at 30. Union Gas, Canada Iron Foundries, and Algoma Steel were leading fractional winners.

Canada Cement lost ¾ while Canadian Bank of Commerce, Royal Bank and Trans-Mountain Pipe Line lost ½ each.

Base metals gained a few decimal points on their index, mainly because of Noranda's ¼-point gain to 51 and Opemiska's ¼-point rise to 12¾.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 1,042,000 shares compared with Tuesday's 949,000 at the same time.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—The offering of slaughter cattle at the Ontario public stockyards today was made up mostly of steers, yearling heifers and replacements. Cooler weather had a bolstering effect on trade with sales made more actively at steady prices on cattle and calves.

Choice steers 29-20.50; good 19-15.50; medium 16-18.50; common 14-16; good heifers 18, with some rales to 18.50; medium 16-17.50; common 14-16; choice fed yearlings 20-21; good 19-20; medium 17-19; good cows 13-13.50, with sales to 14; medium 12-13; common 11-12; canners and cutters 9-11; good heavy bologna bulls 15-15.50; common and medium lights 11-14.

Choice vealers to a top of 22.30; good 19-21; medium 16-19; common 12-16.

Grade A hogs 32.50; sows 24, with one light at 26; stags 15 hundredweight or dressed-weight basis.

Good spring lambs 26; common down to 20; good light sheep 11-13; common down to 9⅝ hundredweight.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 4 23-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Tuesday's noon rate was 95¼. Pound sterling 2.66 1-16, unchanged.

Heavy Damage Caused by Storm, Wind at Consecon

TRENTON (Special) — A violent thunderstorm accompanied by a high wind estimated at 60 m.p.h., dumped sailing craft over at the Trenton Air Station and left a path of fallen trees and debris in the village of Consecon 13 miles south of here last evening.

The RCAF crash boat on the alert rescued the eight occupants of the capsized boats and then pulled the damaged sailing craft to shore.

The storm which struck with only minutes warning, cut through Consecon on a three-quarter mile front. Scores of bathers at North Bay near the village were chased out of the water by the torrential downpour from low clouds that accompanied the furious winds. Hundreds seeking relief from the sweltering heat at beaches all along the lakeshore south of Trenton were also sent scurrying for shelter by the rain and fierce bolts of lightning. In Consecon the main thoroughfare was littered with smashed trees, heaps of twigs and foliage.

West of Trenton highway traffic at times was forced to a standstill by the storm. Water in low lying places on the roadway was five inches deep. Big transport crept along at a snail's pace while passenger cars pulled off the highway to wait out the storm.

25th Anniversary Of Ordination Is Observed

TRENTON (Special) — Grace United Church has honored their minister the Rev. G. A. Putterham, B.A., B.D., who was the recipient of many congratulations on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of his ordination.

The congregation of the church at a social gathering on Monday took the opportunity to express hearty good wishes and presented him with a plaque prepared by church treasurer, Harold Burke, on which was attached 25 silver dollars circling the official seal of the United Church.

The address of presentation was read by Lorne Myles, superintendent of the church Sunday school.

Mr. Herb Gibson a member of the session made the presentation to Mr. Puttenham completely surprised by the presentation thanked the congregation for their expression of goodwill and appreciation. He has now served the members of Grace United Church for 14 years. He was ordained at Lindsay conference in 1932.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. C. Snider formerly residents of Smithfield now living in Brighton with their daughter, Mrs. Morgan Baker are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary today. Their only son Ted Snider is a popular radio announcer here while another daughter, Mrs. Frank Hamilton, is also a resident of Brighton.

Local Merchant Pays $50 Fine

David's Electric Ltd., 312 Front St., was fined $50 and costs $15 in magistrate's court on Tuesday for violating city by-law No. 6411 on May 15, 16 and 17. Two more charges against the firm for ignoring two other by-laws were withdrawn.

The store remained open for business from 9 a.m. on May 15 to 6 a.m. on May 18.

By-law No. 6411 requires that all stores in Belleville, which keep electrical appliances for sale, must close and remain closed between 6 p.m. and 5 a.m. of the day following on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, and between 9 p.m. on Fridays and 6 a.m. on the day following during the part of the year between January 1 and December 13 and December 25 to December 31.

City Solicitor Robert Pringle told Magistrate T. Y. Wills that Mayor Jane Forrester and city police had asked Mr. Enos David not to keep his store open for 72 hours as advertised. He refused. Mr. Pringle then went to Judge J. C. Anderson on May 16, who issued an interim injunction against the firm, which Mr. David ignored. The city solicitor then applied to Osgoode Hall in Toronto for a permanent injunction to be entered against the firm. Such an injunction has been entered against the store, prohibiting it from again violating by-law No. 6411 and two others which were not dealt with in court.

Magistrate Wills levied the maximum fine because Mr. David "advertised his intention in complete defiance of the city by-law."

Douglas Spencer, Tweed, Suffers Fractured Neck

TWEED (Special) — Douglas Spencer, 27, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Spencer of Tweed, was seriously injured on Monday evening at McGregor's Lodge at Harlowe, when he suffered a fractured neck after diving into shallow water. He was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital, where he has been placed in a cast and is resting comfortably.

Mr. Spencer is a member of the Tweed council, is an insurance agent and a member of the Kinsmen Club. He, with others, accompanied the community children to the lodge for their annual picnic, and after the work had been completed, he with other members of the club, decided to have a swim before proceeding home. In diving he apparently struck some object He was quickly taken from the water and rushed to hospital and Xray on Tuesday disclosed the fractured neck.

Mr. Spencer is married with four children.

JUNE MUSINGS

Men don't really appreciate the fleetness of time until they "pop the question" to that woman in their lives. It is amazing how fast time seems to fly by from the day a man proposes until the week before the wedding, then it seems to pass at an unbearably slow pace.

There are a number of reasons why the hands of the clock seem to spin, but we shall only deal with a few of them here.

Man has always been the aggressor (well usually, that is) when it comes to the other sex and we hope he continues to be a lion.

Both go through a period of infatuation until before long he finds himself on his knees pleading with his sweetheart to be his for ever. In other words, man chases woman until she catches him.

After the engagement wedding plans take up a lot of time yet both are not really aware of it because they are so happy making plans, discussing their future and ogling each other.

Then the week before the big day arrives and sometimes it is spent arguing with each other because their nerves have almost reached the breaking point. But when the groom-to-be bids adieu to his bride-elect on the night before the wedding, all is forgotten.

As the organist plays appropriate music and the bride-to-be walks slowly up the aisle on the arm of her father, the husband-to-be sees nothing but her and (we hope) vice versa. Time is forgotten.

But time doesn't seem to really flit by at a normal pace until husband and wife return from their honeymoon and settle down to enjoy that traditional long haul and enjoy life together. Then the water pipes freeze, a baby arrives, the sewer plugs, Junior starts to kindergarten, the roof leaks, Dad loses his job, the cellar floods, Junior starts to high school, Mother's hair starts turning grey and Dad's starts falling out, Junior proposes and there's another arrival and another wedding.

There just hasn't been any time to sit back and enjoy that happy married life. And then, suddenly, as the wedding march is played again, comes the realization that, frozen pipes, babies, leaking roofs and lost jobs notwithstanding, the years have been good.

POLIO DROP IS SHARP

If anybody doubted the effectiveness of the Salk polio vaccine, his misgivings should be erased by figures just released by the Federal bureau of statistics. The bureau says that in 1956 the number of epidemic polio cases dropped by 40 per cent from the 1955 figure and by 93 per cent from the all-time high of 8,878 cases reported in 1953.

More impressive, we suggest, because it was not the result of the discovery of a preventive vaccine, is the decline in the number of cases of tuberculosis. The 9,377 cases reported last year represented a decrease of 8.1 per cent from the 1955 total and, most significant, a drop of 38.7 per cent from the all-time high of 15,292 cases in 1944.

Canadians enjoyed better health with respect to a number of other diseases, too, venereal disease cases, infectious hepatitis and jaundice, influenza, whooping cough, erysipelas, dysentry, measles and diphtheria. But, just so we still have something to worry about there were more cases of rubella, (that's German measles to you and us), encephalo-myelitis, scarlet fever and septic sore throat, typhoid and paratyphoid, undulant fever, chickenpox and mumps.

THEY DESERVE A MEDAL

If we had a medal to hand out we'd likely split it down the middle and give half to 74-year-old Jack Thorndike and the remainder to his 36-year-old son, Jack.

Late last week the Thorndike home in Oakville was besieged by three hooded gunmen. Lesser men would have fled but the Thorndikes grabbed for a shotgun and a rifle and took the defensive, firing 29 shots at the raiders who rapidly retreated.

We were beginning to believe that men were relaxing behind a cloak of security because they live in a democratic country with plenty of police protection. However, when police help was too far away the two-some rallied and put on such a grand account of themselves that, if he could, General Custer would have jumped up and cried: "Bully! for the Thorndikes. Well done, men."

Mr. Truman says he is "just a tired farmer from Missouri." Come, come, Harry, don't let one grandchild get you down! (Windsor Star).

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright 1957, Edgar A. Guest)
By EDGAR A. GUEST

FOOLISH

A foolish boy there used to be
Who grew to be a foolish man.
And what he is resembles me,
Although I hide it when I can.

To be a foolish man he grew,
But now where'er alone I sup
I wonder, and I wish I knew,
Do foolish little boys grow up?

With time the body taller grows,
With this or that new fashion goes,
But in the mind the boy still knows
The things he used to do.

He still delights in fishing poles
And in the things that boys enjoy,
And though he has a million goals
He's still a little boy.

With time black hair is changed to gray,
But no one sees, and no one knows,
That foolish boy of yesterday.

And yet, that boy is part of me;
Has never left or suffered change.
I'm still as foolish as was he,
And that I think, is rather strange.

Queen Flies Two Roles

New York Times

The Queen of England, which is not her correct or complete title, is an institution as well as a person, and the institution it is difficult for her to travel to a country outside her Dominions. Such a trip is no full of protocol, ceremony, of fuss and feathers, of speeches and acknowledgements, that it makes an ordinary person tired just to think of it. That is the job of being a Queen, which this second Elizabeth has performed with courage, dignity and grace.

We know from previous experience and from what we read and hear that she will give her visit to this country next October, now officially confirmed, the institutional meaning it ought to have. She will make it, we can be sure, an occasion for confirming the ancient and lasting friendship between our two countries. She is visiting her masters and servants in Parliament desire of her, and this, as a constitutional monarch, she will faithfully perform.

But for us she is not merely a constitutional monarch performing a severe and exacting duty. She will come also as a person. If in October, as now scheduled, she opens Parliament in the absence of a Prime Minister, she will open no Parliament here — not even in Jamestown, Va., where a legislative body sanctioned by her predecessor set up long ago. What happens here, in Jamestown, Washington and New York, will have no standing in law, will result in no treaty and will not need to be signed.

The Queen of England, no matter what sort of person she were, would arouse our curiosity in the same way. It is quite true that the race of man loves a lord — or a lady — a little. It is the same impulse perhaps not as true as it was which made pilgrimages to Canterbury made. But for this Queen most of us have an affection because of what we think she inwardly is. She has charmed us with her modesty and her evident sense of duty. Cast by destiny the great director, in a more difficult role than Shakespeare ever imagined, she has learned her lines and spoken them well, a number of historical accidents made her Queen. If she were not Queen she would still be the kind of British widow we would say of some hero, as a gracious human being.

Since the Queen acts on the advice of her Ministers, we will take this visit as another sign that the Government of the United Kingdom wishes to make us a friendly gesture. We will warmly return the clasp of the hand. Even the "official" part of her visit will be Washington will have a heart in it. No temporary disagreement or misunderstanding of ways can break the essential harmony between the United States and all the members of the British Commonwealth of Nations — of Nations — of which the United Kingdom is but one part.

As for the Queen, we welcome him, too. We are glad the young Queen has that strong arm to lean on.

Rain Needed

Calgary Albertan

Perhaps the grain surplus problem will be taken care of instead this year in a manner the farmers would rather not see. Seeding is not seriously damaged yet and two well-timed rains in the next six weeks could produce bumper yields, the outlook at the moment is not the best.

Rainfall, quite spotty, has generally been well below normal in most Saskatchewan and Alberta. Since seeding commenced there has been next to none over large areas of the grain belt.

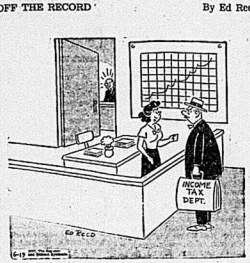
TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SILENCE

Most of these talks are written late at night when it is silent and ready for communication. And though there is no talk or outward noise, for the night itself is silent, the thoughts that come to me in this room are thoughts of peace and thankfulness to God for blessings that stream about me and comfort me in this silence.

In silence we are most to ourselves. Then it is that we self-examine ourselves, and grow in spiritual power. Alone in silence. We think of our loved ones in silence. We pray in silence, when the noises and confusions of the day are hushed.



I love the country, the silent waters of the lake and sea, early in the morning, when all is quiet and full of mystery. How often in the Summer time I, awake early and catch the first beautiful rays of the rising sun! Always an inspiring sight, as well as that of the moon as it seems to climb from the forest and hills and spread a path across the silvery waters.

I am no expert fisherman but I have loved the early days when a companion and myself reached a place far fishing, even before the light had spread its arms about the earth. The silence and beauty of the earth are its greatest glory. This silence is spiritual medicine. Each ache of the heart, I would like to sit with a friend in silence. Each joy, I would like to share in silence.

The silence of the sea when it is calm is an inspiring experience It brings out the bigness of God, who rules the sea as He does the land. In my heart the song of the mocking bird in the Southland is memories that come to me time and again. There is relaxation in silence. And there is hope.

40 YEARS AGO

At the closing session of the Hastings County Council a resolution was passed and ordered to be sent to the Hon. Mr. Burrell, Minister of Agriculture, Ottawa, requesting that the rules with regards to the purchase of binder twine be so altered so as to permit of the appointment of an inspector for Belleville with an office in Belleville so that all cheese made in the Bay of Quinte District may be passed upon by the inspector before being shipped to Montreal, and by so doing payment can be made immediately by the local buyers. The motion was moved by Thomas Montgomery and seconded by R. G. Gray.

A memorial service under the auspices of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen in this city and division will be conducted in St. Thomas' Church Sunday afternoon. The rector, Archdeacon Allen, will preside G. R. Beamish will conduct the service and deliver the address. The service will be in memory of the members of the Brotherhood who have made the supreme sacrifice in the present war.

Died at rge one hundred and three, John Pymer, Prince Edward County's grand old man, was celebrated on April 12th of this year the 103rd. anniversary of his birth, died yesterday. He was born near London, England, in the year 1804 and in the early thirties he came to Canada with his wife; she died eighteen years ago. He was engaged in farming in Prince Edward County for many years. He took part in the Battle of the Windmill near Prescott. He is survived by one son, Mrs. James Cecil

At a meeting of the Bricklayers and Plasters' Union on Sat. in this city the following officers were elected: president, J. Rose, jr., vice president, J. Boyce, corresponding secretary, J. Braiden; financial secretary, P. Byrne; treasurer, J. F. Patrick; trustees, J. Ashbury, J. Rowe, jr., J. Fitzgerald; tyler, P. Carter; deputy tyler, J.

How Kindness Was Repaid

Ottawa Journal

A sad story about mistaken kindness comes from Ireland. Patrick Nelson, a farmer in that area, has a lake on his land, and a couple of years ago he had the idea of stocking it with trout and in the kindness of his heart opened fishing to the public. What happened then is told by the Calmary Herald:

"People came in their hundreds to enjoy the sport but . . . they acted so badly that the lake was crowded from dawn to after dusk with fishermen, who carelessly threw bottles and even their dogs. It is a simple matter to pick up a trout in a picnic lunches and to gather up empty bottles and take them back home to the city to throw in the garbage. However, many people found it more convenient to leave the dregs lying around. Someone among the visitors shot a two-year-old heifer. It had to be destroyed later. Others, through carelessness or malice, started fires, some of which were expensive to the Nelsons."

The outcome? Mr. Neilsen has closed his lake to the public and has a precautionary measure the Alberta Fish and Game officers are recommending: a mesh fish as survived the invasion. Mr. Neilsen is a wiser man today than he evidently envisioned that with such bad manners rampant the world is in a bad state.

Orgy of Lectures

Ottawa Citizen

Annual meetings of 23 learned societies, are bringing several thousand visitors to Ottawa for an orgy of lectures and discussions. At host, the University of Ottawa is exerting itself to the utmost to provide accommodations for visiting guests. Coming at one of the pleasantest times of year, they see Ottawa at its best and from building plans can imagine the still more impressive Capital of the future.

Spruce Gum In Demand

St. John's, Nfld., News

We mentioned here the other day that many small industries might result from a study of local resources of all kinds. We are reminded of the possibilities by the news of a venture in New Brunswick in the production and marketing of what is known as "red spruce chewing gum." This, of course, is made from what we call in Newfoundland — and we can't be sure of the spelling — "frankum."

Well, frankum, if that is right, is also known as frankincense but the name has been applied to the resinous exudation of spruce and various species of fir. It is from frankincense that the name frankum has obviously been derived.

The New Brunswick industry has been a going concern for some years. It has never found an American market and is chokin after additional sources of supply. Last year it employed twenty people to collect 50,000 pounds of green Nova Scotian spruce stands and to anyone who has ever chewed spruce gum at a tree with a pocket knife, that is a lot of hard work.

Experts estimate that $12 a day for gathering the gum which is subsequently refined is a secret process that lasts three days.

We commend the enterprise of this New Brunswick company and suggest that it might be the incentive in Newfoundland to look at neglected resources with a view to determining whether some of them can become the basis of small and profitable industries.

New Silver Off Savings

(Hamilton Spectator)

It is a symptom of our apathetic times that we can accept an increase in the cost of living indeed figure without any extra pulse-throb.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics' announcement that index figure has reached a post-war high of 121.1 apparently means very little to most people. It ought to mean a great deal to the people of Canada. But in practical terms it is another nibble at the pocket, a further whittled from savings and pensions and an extra mimim of cent in the dollar.

There was a time when inflation was a matter of terms as defined by the simple tag that it was "too much money chasing too few goods." We know better now. In the midst of abundance we have an inflation that wreaks war-time, when everyone expects business to be pulled out of shape.

But now it has become a matter of routine when the consumer's bag squawks plaintively and the rent cupboard is left a little more bare in the pay packet. And so the sinister merry-go-round whirls around and the point which was once a reliable yardstick of values is now a meaningless one. It is more than most people think.

The present dollar is worth only 96 cents in terms of what it would buy at this time last year and solong as our imports continue high and foreign capital continues to flood in, "right money" of the past can expect further price increases, followed by higher wage demands and a more watery dollar.

Even a levelling off to a modest inflation of, say, about one percent, would be a boon. And that would only be accomplished by, a relaxation of expansion, combined with stricter control of imports, concentration on Canadian manufacturers to meet modest public appetites. But that prospect is generally distasteful and no government could endure that attempted it.

Unhappily, inflation is the way of life. The classic example of Germany in the twenties, which bombarded the ordinary process to produce disaster, is ignored. But the process is the same . . . only it takes longer to achieve the result.

They Liked This Melon

Cincinnati Enquirer

At a church picnic some of the no good men decided to fix themselves a watermelon after melons, so they plugged it beforehand and filled it with bourbon whisky.

To their horror, they saw one of the ladies taking the melon to the parson over to the table where the pasters and elders were sitting. They looked at each other and they asked him: "Did they eat the watermelon?"

"Yes," he said, "and put the seeds in their pockets."

Chronic Arthritis Is The Bunk

If all this puzzles one with chronic joint disability, let me say again that in my judgment the trouble in the great majority of cases is not inflammation at all, not arthr-itis, but general degeneration of joint tissues which I shall Rheumatic not rheumatism! And I am convinced that the cause is nutritional deficiency of these elements: Calcium, phosphorus, iodin, thiamin, riboflavin, vitamin D and Vitamin B12.

Other than analgesics (painkillers), the medicines formerly used in the treatment of chronic rheumatism and the medicines used today in the treatment of "chronic arthritis" have proved valueless in my judgment. Or perhaps I should say no old or new medicine has improved remedial. As the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation put it: "Besides, the various drugs in use today have not shown that they can stop the natural course of the disease or prevent crippling."

By "the drugs" I suppose, the Foundation means chronic disability may reverse its degeneration process and achieve regeneration.

Maintain lifelong good nutrition and you will prevent Rheumatic fever. Maintain it after and you will retard or arrest the degeneration. Make sure to get adequate daily intake of the nutritional elements mentioned above and you may reverse the degeneration process and achieve regeneration.

Strength for The Day

HOW MUST WE PRAY?

So often we pray as if we were afraid God would be offended by our much asking. Precisely the opposite is true. The Reverend Morton K. Kelley, Rector of St. Luke's Church, Monrovia, California, has written:

"This is the-way God works. He does the most fantastic things according to man's standards. His trouble is that we have God all figured out, and we have Him figured out all wrong. We can't really believe that God could be interested in any of us creatures. We aren't worthy of his attention. He couldn't be bothered with so much, if indeed anything at all, so we ask for the very least we can get on with, fearful all the time He won't give us that. This is what we think, and it is the most insolent way we could treat Him. Indeed we never offend God by asking too much, only when we ask too little. Then, we insult Him!

"This is the whole point of Christianity: to tell us that God longs to empty the very treasure house of heaven on one who asks for it. That is why He sent his Son Jesus down to live and die and preach this truth."

It's hard for us to get it into our minds that God wants us to ask Him for much, not to restrain our prayers to what we think we ourselves and ask for little.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the smoking room of the sleeping car a couple of nights ago, a wry, withered man who must have been in his eighties confessed to the rest of us that he was running away from home.

He was a garrulous old boy, full of humor.

"Since my wife died, twenty years ago," he confessed, "I've had to live with my daughter and her husband and the two grandchildren, in turn. Their own children have all grown up, you see. They all live and fight and quarrel with each other, so that they are entitled to a little help themselves now and then. And can tell I am not entirely welcome. So they've landed together and found me a nice professional old folks' home. And that is where I'm heading in the morning. I'm a boy running away from home."

After he had tottered merrily to his berth, the rest of us continued to talk about the problem of old age.

"I'll tell you one thing," said one of us whom I learned was a professional economist. "The notice that old boy is pretty well-dressed. I imagine his family is well-heeled. Now, I have all sorts of relations, some of them with plenty of money, either their own or their wives', but I've never seen one of them who was not a bit of a problem when he got old. They've all been with us. She is the happiest, pleasantest dear old lady I ever knew. Around seventy-six now. She's been with us for years. We are all as happy as can be. She

26 Editors From 26 States Visit City on Ontario Tour

Twenty-six U.S. newspaper editors, from 26 different states of the union, arrived in Belleville by bus yesterday evening from Kingston, spent the night at the town's hotel here, inspected the Federal Entomological Laboratory this morning and then left for Toronto.

The editors were nearing the end of a two-week tour which had taken them through much of Northern and Southern Ontario. They were the guests of the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity, which for several years past has annually arranged such tours of the province to publicize Ontario's tourist attractions and industrial possibilities. When the tour started at Windsor on Monday, June 10, there were 28 editors, each selected by the press association of his state. Two of them, however, had to return home before the tour reached Belleville. It will conclude at Niagara Falls. Nearly all the editors were from weekly newspapers.

From Windsor the editors had travelled the Blue Water Highway up the shore of Lake Huron to the Georgian Bay and thence to North Bay. Leaving their bus there, they had gone by train to Timmins. After viewing the mines of the north, they had proceeded down the Ottawa Valley to Canada's capital and from there had turned westward on the last leg of their trip.

ENTERTAINED HERE

Yesterday evening the editors were entertained by the Belleville Industrial Commission and the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity. They arrived in oppressive heat, but while they were enjoying cocktails at the Belleville Club a violent storm broke, cooling the air.

"If this were home, everybody would be hunting the storm cellars," exclaimed Mr. Russ Bryant of Italy, Texas, as he watched the empty garbage cans being blown like tumbleweeds across the street. He then proceeded to tell a Texas-sized yarn about the ravages of a baby tornado in his home state.

After cocktails, dinner was served to the visitors at the Quinte Hotel. Mr. Ed. Bernstein, chairman of the Belleville Industrial Commission, presided over the brief program, introducing Mayor Jane Forrester with the boast that he was sure of one thing the visitors would remember, that this city has best looking mayor in the province. After Mayor Forrester's welcome, Mr. Colin McDonald of the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity spoke briefly. The thanks of the visitors were then voiced by Mr. Frank Hornstein of North Dakota in one of those addresses always described as humorous, with the description, for once, being apt.

After the dinner Chef. H. E. Boyall received a menu card signed by the U.S. editors with the following inscription: "Besides having the prettiest mayor in Ontario, you also serve the best beef Prince Edward strawberries were we have eaten in Canada, and the perfection."

LIST OF VISITORS

George Joplin, The Commonwealth, Somerset, Kentucky; Wm. S. Gibson, Vermillion Plain Talk, Vermillion, South Dakota; C. Arthur McDaniel, The Federalsburg Times, Federalsburg, Maryland; Paul W. Manns, Tidewater Weeklies Inc., Bowling Green, Virginia; L. "Pappy" Scheuter, The Park Forest Reporter, Park Forest, Illinois; James J. Craddock, Weatherford News, Wetherford, Oklahoma; Elton Carter, Norton, Telegram, Norton, Kansas; Les W. Simpson, Holden Progress, Holden, Missouri.

Frank C. Carpenter, Coopers-town Otsego Farmer, Cooperstown, New York; Lewis H. Shattuck, The Gazette, Hardwick, Vermont; Richard Van Valzer, The Johnson County News, Greenwood, Indiana; Frank Hornstein, The Pierce County Tribune, Rugby, North Dakota; Sam Gearhart, Northwest Arkansas Times, Fayetville, Arkansas; Leslie Houston, Tennessee Valley Appeal, Adamsville, Tennessee; Stanton E. Tennant, The Colfax Tribune, Colfax, Iowa; Ed Apking, Ord Nebraska "Quiz", Ord Nebraska.

Fred M. Kidd, Ionia Sentinel-Standard, Ionia, Michigan; Arthur J. Suel, New Prague Times, New Prague, Minnesota; Victor D. Shanahan, Ocean County Leader, Point Pleasant, New Jersey; James N. Harper, Star Post Pilot, Southport, North Carolina; Russell W. Bryant, News Herald, Italy, Texas; Ralph E. Fisher, Moorefield Examiner, Moorefield, West Virginia; Duane McCall, Oronto County Reporter, Oronto, Wisconsin; Allen J. Tenny, The Chicago Valley Herald, Chagrin Falls, Ohio; Herman S. Reifsnyder, Altoona Mirror, Altoona, Pennsylvania; Maurice Leckenby, Steamboat Pilot, Steamboat Springs, Colorado.

Sudden Storm Washes Out All District Games

Last night's sudden storm washed out all district ball games but one was rushed before the rain came, by no less than a "sand storm."

At Point Anne, the Belleville Bobcats and Point Anne Centennemen of the Belleville and District softball league had just completed the third inning when a strong wind whipped sand from the beach and ball diamond across the area in true desert style.

The game was halted at this point with the sand storm lasting several minutes before the rain arrived. Most of the sand on the ball diamond was carried away.

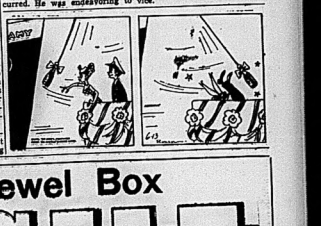
The game itself promised to be a good one while it lasted. Neither team had scored as pitchers Pat Maracle of Point Anne and Vic Allen of the Bobcats got off to flying starts.

Allen had allowed two hits, a double by Davy Jones and Doug Hall's infield single. He had fanned none and walked none. Maracle was touched for one double, a blow by Junior Day down the third base line. He whiffed four in the brief period while walking none.

The Goyer's Marines-Trenton Juniors game scheduled for Trenton was postponed also.

Stephen Geneja, 29, of City Injured in Plane Crash

After crash landing his Cessna aircraft in a field near the Mohawk airport near Deseronto when he attempted to get in to escape a storm, Stephen Geneja, 29, of 115 Dundas street, east, is in satisfactory condition in Belleville General Hospital today.



Geneja, flying to get in extra hours after passing his commercial pilot's licence, suffered head and facial lacerations and possible internal and back injuries, when his plane crash landed 300 yards short of the runway at Mohawk air station.

The accident occurred about 8 o'clock last night as the sudden storm broke over the Deseronto area.

Claude Sero of the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve told provincial police that he was walking home prior to the storm, when he saw a Harvard aircraft land at the field. Then the storm broke, a cloud of dust obscured his vision and he turned around to see the second aircraft crash - land and bounce 50 feet.

With Clare Sero he ran to the aircraft and pulled the injured man from the wreckage, then notified Anson Lord, Deseronto garage operator, who turned in the alarm. The injured man was attended by Dr. D. C. McVicker and the scene was taken to Belleville hospital where he was attended by Dr. F. R. Ross.

A surveyor with a local surveying firm, Mr. Geneja is past president of the Picton Flying Club which owned the plane he was flying when the crash occurred. He was endeavoring to get in extra flying hours and had plans of establishing a flying service.

PAY BILLS BY CHEQUE with a Bank of Nova Scotia PERSONAL CHEQUING ACCOUNT simple • safe • convenient • inexpensive

What a Personal Chequing Account is

A Personal Chequing Account is a new BNS service that can save you money if you pay bills the convenient way—by cheque. To open an account you deposit money in advance—then write as many cheques as you need, up to the amount you have on deposit. Low cost!—The prepaid service charge is just 10c a cheque. There are no other service charges when using these cheques.

Shop, Order by Mail, or Pay Bills With a Personal Chequing Account

Pay for your major purchases by cheque, when you shop or order by mail. Then there's no need to carry or risk sending cash . . . and you save time and C.O.D. charges.

Pay Bills by Cheque. No waiting for change. When you pay bills by mail, your cancelled cheque is kept safe at the bank—always available—in case of need to serve as a receipt. By recording all deposits and withdrawals you can always tell at a glance just how your account stands.

How to Open a Personal Chequing Account

Simply go, phone or write your nearest BNS branch, state the amount you wish to deposit, and whether you need a book of 10 or 20 cheques. (The prepaid service charge of 10c a cheque can be charged to your account). Personal Chequing Accounts are easy to operate, for all deposits, withdrawals and current balances may be entered in the cheque book itself . . . providing an accurate record at all times. If not convenient to come personally, you can deposit by mail. JOINT ACCOUNTS WELCOMED.

SMITH—BREDEFELD

A quiet but pretty spring wedding was solemnized on board H.M.C.S. "Naden," in the chapel, at Esquimalt, B.C., by Padre H. Pike, when Elfrieda H. Bredefeld, of Victoria, B.C., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bredefeld, of Kelowna, B.C., became the bride of Leading Seaman Bruce H. Smith, of H.M.C.S. Naden, Esquimalt, B.C., formerly of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith, of Belleville, Ontario.

The bride was attractively attired in a sky blue suit, with white accessories and shoulder corsage of American Beauty roses.

She was attended by Miss Joyce Stobbart, of Victoria, B.C., who wore a beige colored suit with pink accessories and corsage of white carnations.

Mr. Harold Hopkinson, of H.M.C.S. "Naden," of Esquimalt, B.C., was groomsman.

Weddings

ADAMS — MOFFAT

MARMORA—A pretty doublering ceremony took place on Saturday June 15th at 2.30 in Marmora Methodist church when Donna Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moffatt, of Marmora, became the bride of Robert Carl Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Durland Adams of Madoc. The ceremony was performed by Reverend P. O. Miller, before a background of pink and white roses, and other summer flowers.

The wedding music was provided by Mrs. Harry Mawer and Mrs. Roy Frost sang "Because", as guests gathered, and during the signing of the register, "I'll Walk Beside You".

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in a white chantilly lace and nylon net over taffeta gown of floor-length. The bolero of lace with long lily-point sleeves was trimmed with seed pearls and opalescent sequins. Her finger-tip veil of nylon illusion was held by a coronet of seed pearls and sequins and she carried a cascade of American Beauty Roses.

Miss Carol Moffatt, sister of the bride, was maid of honor gowned in a ballerina-length dress of blue lace and net over taffeta with matching lace mitts. She carried a cascade of Queen Elizabeth Roses in yellow with ribbon streamers knotted with rosebuds.

Miss Marlene Adams was bridesmaid and wore a yellow gown of lace and net over taffeta, similar to that of maid of honor, with yellow lace mittens and carried a nose gay of yellow roses.

Miss Mildred Moffatt, cousin of the bride, was gowned in mauve in similar style and materials with mauve mittens. She carried a yellow nose gay. All wore headdresses of net and pearls carrying out the color of the gowns.

Miss Bonnie Adams, sister of bridegroom, was flower girl, in blue organdy with ribbon trim, blue mittens, and matching floral headdress. She carried a basket of yellow roses. All the attendants wore white slippers.

Mr. Kenneth Adams, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and Messrs. Ivan McCoy, of Norwood, cousin of the bride and Ivan Bronson, of Tweed, were ushers.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents with the floral arrangements the same as in the church.

Miss Moffatt received the guests, wearing a two-piece dress of navy blue and white figured acetate with white accessories and corsage of white carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in bronze peau de soie with white accessories, and corsage of yellow roses.

The young couple left for a motor trip to Lake Placid; the bride wearing a coral dress and duster in brocade with white accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

Guests were present from Michigan, Niagara Falls, Ont., Belleville, Trenton, Tweed, Peterborough, Norwood and Madoc.

On their return they will reside in Madoc.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Going shopping?

Now that summer is really here—with a vengeance, fall buying for wearing apparel and millinery is taking place. It is a fact that last week when a shopper was looking for a summery hat, she was told that the best were now gone, and that no more would be coming in as fall buying had started. Time, that no respecter of persons, marches on. You know what the hard said of time: "Time travels in divers paces with divers persons.

I'll tell you who Time ambles withal, who Time trots withal, who Time gallops withal, and who he stands still withal."

Well, with this diversion for summer millinery to fall buying and Time, let's return to shopping.

You see, fall buying now or in spring buying in zero weather has its advantages. The merchants are well stocked and prepared for the coming season - - for example, summer sales in July - - so that shoppers really benefit in the long run. In a recent bulletin from New Zealand there is a two-page picture story of your sister Dominion's dairy industry. It is entitled "New Zealand butter from clover to you." Currently, we in Canada are celebrating Dairy Days, and pay tribute through out the Dominion to the men and women who provide us with our dairy products "from clover to the table." This period which is set aside each year has particular significance for the Bay of Quinte district.

Our dairy products are unsurpassed. Interestingly enough and quite coincidental to Dairy Days, the man who will represent South Hastings in Ottawa has literally devoted a lifetime in this industry which produces dairy products "from clover to the table." Maybe in honor to an important primary industry we can be especially conscious and proud of the fine butter, cheese, cream and milk native to the Bay of Quinte. If charity starts at home, it is a natural corollary to suggest that support of our local farmers and the dairy industry is quite in order. T & T salutes Dairy Days.

More shopping chit chat from here and there about this and that.

Meat is still a shopper's problem. Pork is high, as is beef with a few specials to be had at times. There are good quantities of veal, but the better cuts are expensive. Chicken is reasonable, particularly small chickens and boiling fowl. Eggs are still low in price and are an especially useful protein food in summer.

It is always a sorry day when the fresh asparagus season is over. Time, the time we talked about at the beginning of the columns, is taking its seasonal bow and asparagus supplies are dwindling. Our own local berries should be good quality and quantity this year, with the qualification that a prolonged heat wave may shorten the growing period. It is said that for freezing and canning, early in the second week of production is the best time. Smaller berries later may be used for jam. And so with the canning season upon us—

Good shopping!

Those of you who were reading T & T last summer may recall our little story about the tiny little birds that annexed, took over and moved into an oil can hanging at the back of the house. We explained that the oil can had a goose neck attachment. From the June 20, 1956, column we quote: "We are quite certain that the thrush species has gone modern or at least has been reading modern air-conditioning advertising a council of peace, drafted a non-interference pact and declared a state of neutrality to protect our new neighbors and establish good relations."

This spring we cleaned the oil can, replaced a cloth, hung it in the same place and at the same angle. We are very happy to report that the state of friendly co-existence established one year ago is a success. Our feathered friends have returned. They are re-established and busy raising a new family. Do you suppose there could be a moral in this?

Young Mother Bakes A Cake

By Mary Moore

So many of you girls write to me saying you do the baking in the evening after the kiddies are in bed. Mercifully I have forgotten how distracting little hands and little people can be — and I suppose you will too in the years to come.

WEDNESDAY

Tongue with Cranberry Glaze, Buttered Noodles, Asparagus, Liver-Pate-stuffed Celery, Fresh Strawberry Ice Cream, Coffee.

I understood what one writer meant when she described the frantic antics one mother went through in attempting to bake a cake. I was in the Morgan's kitchen when Mark tried one—with 18 months-old Billy underfoot.

Blithely light oven, still blithely, grease cake pans after reading over Billy in the cupboard drawer for them. Get out bowl, coax Billy to give up measuring spoons, sweep blocks and toys from kitchen table into toy box. Sift flour on to wax paper. Reach for measuring cup. Remove Billy's hand from flour and flour from floor. Measure flour — sift more. Measure remainder. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. After you have stopped sifting—sweep up pieces of bowl from floor which Billy has just knocked from table. Get out a steel bowl this time and start all over again. Answer doorbell. Ask magazine salesman to wait while you lift Billy from kitchen table.

Look for measuring cup to measure shortening. Two minutes later discover it in the toilet bowl. Wash it well, scald it, then measure shortening. Answer telephone. Excuse yourself for a moment to grab Billy and hold him under your arm while you try to hear. Give up. Hang up. Call back this evening.

Break two more eggs to get whites and store the left - over yolks in covered jar for tomorrow's scrambled eggs.

Glory Hallelujah — is that Daddy turning into the drive? Yes! Hand him Billy — new shirt-tea, wash your face, comb your hair, put on lipstick. Shut kitchen doors. Cover up all half filled bowls of cake ingredients, with foil and put them away for another day and make this—

QUICKIE CAKE

Combine 4 tablespoons shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1/2 cup milk, 1/3 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 cups sifted flour, 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder and 1 teaspoon vanilla in order given. Beat with heavy spoon until light and smooth. Pour into a deep buttered cake pan. Mix 1/2 cup grated sweet chocolate and 1/2 cup chopped almonds and spread evenly over batter in cake pan. Bake in moderate oven at 350 deg. Fahr. for 35 to 40 minutes. Alternative topping: 2/3 cups each of brown sugar and cocoanut.

A DOCTOR AND A BABY AND THEIR BIRTHDAY-ANNIVERSARY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A year ago this month our baby was born, and several weeks later we were told that our son was born on our doctor's birthday-anniversary. My husband and I have been thinking about sending our doctor and his wife flowers on that day, as we like him very much indeed and deeply appreciated him so much last year. Do you think it would be proper for us to do this? If so, please suggest something we could write on the card to be enclosed. — A.

A charming idea, very thoughtful . . . and I'm sure your fine doctor and his wife will be delighted at your remembrance of the Twosome-birthday. On the card enclosed with the flowers, you might write: "Friendliest greetings to Doctor and Mrs. Allen. And on this special day Birthday Salutations to Doctor Allen from another birthday-er, one-year-old John Peter Hill. From Robert and Anne Hill."

A NEW KIND OF PLOW BREAKS THE PLAINS

way through the wheat stubble between Regina and Saskatchewan-Manitoba border making a ditch for the Trans-Canada natural gas pipeline. To the right are the lengths of pipe which will be wrapped in insulating material, welded and placed in the ditch. Four thousand men are racing to meet a deadline to bring Alberta and natural gas to Winnipeg by the fall. (CP Photo).

Thousands of Men Racing To Bring Alta. Natural Gas Near Lakehead by Winter

REGINA (CP)—Four thousand men, working from dawn to dusk seven days a week, are racing to bring Alberta natural gas to Winnipeg by the fall and to the Lakehead by winter.

For 746 miles from Regina to Fort Arthur, ditches are being dug, rivers forded and pipe laid to meet the second year construction objective of the projected 2,294-mile Trans - Canada natural gas pipeline.

After a five-month winter layoff, the pipe-laying went into high gear in mid-May. Starting at Pense, 15 miles west of Regina, contractors are extending the 230 miles of pipe laid last summer from the Saskatchewan - Alberta border at the rate of more than a mile a day.

85-MILE SECTIONS

But due to its great length, the pipeline is being built in 85-mile sections. Work is progressing simultaneously all the way across farmlands of southern Saskatchewan and Manitoba and forests and lakes of northwestern Ontario. Surveys also are planned this summer on the Port Arthur-Kapuskasing leg north of Lake Superior, and a start is to be made on the Toronto - Montreal section.

Meanwhile, work is well ahead in Regina, Brandon, Portage la Prairie, Winnipeg and other towns on distribution systems to take gas from Trans-Canada.

During the winter contractors fought snow and sub-zero temperatures to clear and grade the right-of-way and installed two crossings on the Assiniboine River at Miniota and Portage la Prairie in Manitoba.

Travellers between Regina and Winnipeg see the line taking shape as the 34-inch brownish-looking pipe is strung along the 356-mile right-of-way, which often parallels the mainline CPR tracks and the trans-Canada highway.

When work started just east of the village of Pense, heavy ditching machines dug up earth in advance of the pipe-layers. Less than 100 yards to the west, a farmer did his spring seeding on ground through which the pipe had been laid last summer.

LITTLE INCONVENIENCE

"We guarantee to leave the farmer land in as good if not in better condition than when we came in," said R. P. (Mutt) Hutchison, Trans-Canada's chief inspector for the Regina section.

Despite spells of rainy weather late in May, the contractor's 250-man crew made rapid progress across the soggy gumbo of the Regina plains.

Specially - designed machines bent the pipe to make it fit land contours; welders joined the 40-foot-long sections of pipe; other machines literally rode the pipe town to the pipeline along roads, graded and maintained by the contractor.

WELDING CAME FIRST

On this section, skilled welders joined two sections of pipe before other work began. Side - boom tractors lined up the 24-ton sections, internal pneumatic clamps held them in place, the joints were made and then inspected by a portable x-ray machine.

Further east, at Miniota, 85 miles northwest of Brandon, heavy equipment was unloaded at a siding beside the pipeline right-of-way and close to the first Assiniboine crossing. Here a 45-degree, 300-foot embankment on the east side posed additional problems.

A unique, automatic welding operation was used in this 98-mile section, which stretches from the Saskatchewan border to Austin, just west of Portage la Prairie. Through an assembly line process, sections of pipe were lined up, welded and x-rayed in a single operation, lasting about seven minutes, in "double-jointing" yards at various stages along the line.

Near Starbuck, 20 miles southwest of Winnipeg, a different type of automatic "double - jointing" process was carried out by another contractor.

"The automatic process cuts work on the pipeline in half and requires fewer men. But it also means that other phases of construction have to be done faster if they are to keep up with the welding."

UNDER RED RIVER

Except for sandhills near Carberry, 20 miles east of Brandon, most of the western Manitoba section is fairly easy going up to the Red River crossing close to St. Norbert, just south of Winnipeg.

The crossing is classed as a marine operation. After three huge dredges dug a channel under the 65-foot-wide river, the pipe, covered with 6,000 - pound weights to keep it down, was launched from the east bank like a ship.

The pipe was laid across the river in two sections. The first was sealed at its front end and then launched; the rear end was then atatched to the second section and the pipe floated across the river and sunk into place. After the first pipe was laid, a second pipeline was put across to act as an emergency outlet as to provide for the possibility of a second line later on.

The most difficult work of all is still to be done east of Winnipeg between the Manitoba - Ontario border and Port Arthur. The swift-flowing Winnipeg River is being crossed near Kenora, while engineers dynamite and drill their way across the Canadian shield.

But Trans - Canada Pipe Line Company officials are confident they will meet their fall deadline. Said Ken Britain, project manager:

"Only the weather can stop us now."

Radioactive Fallout Risk Small Says Top Defence Scientist, Dr. Zimmerman

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's top defence scientist says the risk from radioactive fallout is so small that it is much less than that involved in moving from a wooden into a brick house.

Dr. A. H. Zimmerman, chairman of the Defence Research Board, says that moving from a frame house into one of brick or cement blocks increases the amount of natural radiation received by the individual by .025 roentgens a year.

This is almost precisely the same amount, he adds, as the estimated fallout hazard over a 30-to year period from nuclear test explosions, assuming that the tests will be continued at the same rate as in the past.

In other words, says Dr. Zimmerman, living in a brick house is 30 times more risky, as far as radioactivity is concerned, than world - wide radioactive fallout from nuclear weapons tests.

In light of recent conflicting statements by world scientists on the possible effects of radioactivity from nuclear tests, The Canadian Press requested an interview with Dr. Zimmerman on the subject.

SENSE OF PROPORTION

Dr. Zimmerman stressed in the interview that he was not taking sides in the dispute. He merely wished to present some figures gathered by the board in order to bring about a better sense of proportion in the public mind of the degree of risk involved.

The question was: "How much real danger is there?" Dr. Zimmerman said he feels that a comparison with natural radiation hazards puts fallout hazards in better perspective and indicates that the risk is small.

A lethal dose of radioactivity, over the whole body, is calculated to be between 400 and 600 roentgens. Of a given number of persons exposed to such a dose, it is estimated that half would die in 30 days.

The dose from nuclear weapons tests, taking into account all "shots" so far and future ones made at the current rate, is calculated at only .025 roentgens throughout a period of 30 years. That would be a dose of .001 roentgens a year.

NATURAL DOSE

The natural dose—from rocks, space and so on—is calculated at .01 roentgens a year. By way of minerals in bricks or cement blocks in a house is calculated at .025 roentgens a year—that is, 30 times greater than from the dose caused by nuclear tests.

He said radioactivity or fallout decays at one-tenth its original level for each sevenfold increase in days. If radioactivity is 100 per cent on the first day, it would be 10 per cent after seven days and one per cent after 49 days. However, certain constituents have long lives—for example, strontium 90.

In summing up, DRB's chairman said he feels it is better to accept a slight risk from nuclear tests now than to run the chance of a much greater risk to the preservation of Western democracy and Christianity which would arise if the West had no atomic weapons. The great hope was to build a deterrent which would prevent war altogether and eventually lead to general disarmament agreements.

"Jest a Second"

"Doctor's had to postpone your operation, Mrs. Jones. You'll have to talk about your last one for a few more days."

RMC Staff Member Critical Of Officers Training Plan

BIGWIN INN, Ont. (CP)—A member of the staff of Royal Military College, Kingston, has criticized the armed services regular officers training plan and said it turned out low-quality graduates at great expense.

Dr. Percy Lowe, mathematics professor at RMC and a member of the Kingston board of education told the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees' Association convention Tuesday that the scheme —by which the government pays for a boy's college education in return for three years' service in the armed forces—has "undoubtedly attracted hundreds who would not otherwise be able to take a college education."

"But what do the services gain from it?" he said. "Nothing except poor quality at greater expense."

He said those who accept the Queen's bounty value education far less than if they paid for it. Their interest and motivation are slight, their attitude is poor and those who can afford to pay for their education prefer not to take the plan which restricts their freedom of choice.

Dr. Lowe said the same contrariness of human nature applied in the teaching profession.

"What incentive is there for anyone to do better than his colleagues if he gets the same pay, credit, security and annual increments?" he asked. "There are too many who are content to be just like their neighbors, to seek a dead level of mediocrity."

He is speaking to a discussion group earlier, Dr. Lowe said psychologists and their theories are partly responsible for the breakdown of discipline in schools.

He said psychologists have created the impression that it is better to keep a child happy than well-mannered.

"The remedy is simple—swift and certain punishment for misdemeanors and strong support by everybody concerned, principal, parents and trustees when the occasion arises."

Needed Red Help To Win Vote

PARIS (Reuters) — Premier Maurice Bourges - Maunoury needed Communist help Tuesday to gain a narrow majority in his first test vote since taking office last Wednesday.

The 42-year-old premier won by only 27 votes in a proposal to give top priority to his stiff financial program.

The victory means he will stake the life of his government in a confidence vote following a four-day debate to begin in the National Assembly Friday.

He will present a stringent austerity program featuring new taxes and tighter controls.

Tuesday's voting was explained by the fact that the Conservatives again sought inclusion in the agenda of their proposal to ban the Communist party and exclude Communists from a variety of posts.

BAN GATHERINGS

BOMBAY (AP) — Police today banned assembly of more than four persons and the carrying of weapons, including sticks, in the 3,000-square-mile territory of Amravati district near Nagpur. The ban is a sequel to tension between Hindus and untouchables who have embraced Buddhism and indulge in demonstrations against gods and leaders.

Works Minister Winters To Become Boss of Rio Tinto Company at $60,000 a Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Works Minister Robert H. Winters, who lost his Commons seat in the June 10 election, is going to a job in private industry that will pay him about $60,000 a year.

The 46-year-old Nova Scotia cabinet member, it was learned Tuesday, will become boss of the Canadian operations of Britain's huge Rio Tinto Company, a corporation that specializes in development of natural resources in many countries.

Mr. Winters, due to go out of office with the remainder of the cabinet when John Diefenbaker's Progressive Conservative cabinet takes over Friday, will become president of Rio Tinto Mining Company of Canada.

FIRST OF NINE

He is the first defeated minister —among nine—known to have quickly picked up a big-paying job in private business.

Mr. Winters declined to comment on the information that he is going to one of the highest-paying industrial jobs in the country, but informants said he will be taking over the Rio Tinto job a few weeks after leaving office as a cabinet minister Friday.

Before that the minister—an engineering graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology—plans a trip to London. He would likely confer there with Rio Tinto heads.

On the financial side, the shift will be to the good for Mr. Winters first elected to the Comons in 1945.

DOUBLES SALARY

As a cabinet minister, he has been getting $27,000 a year. Information is that his new salary will be more than $60 000.

With Rio Tinto, Mr. Winters will be engaged in the development of such undertakings as uranium, iron ore and oil. The Canadian subsidiary of Rio Tinto that he will head was set up only last year and he will be its first permanent president.

The Rio Tinto Company's major activity in Canada is near Blind River, a uranium area. It has substantial interests there in the Pronto, Algorn, Northspan and Milliken mines.

These companies have an aggregate capacity of 19,600 tons of ore a day. Together, they control about 60 per cent of Blind River's predicted capacity.

Collectively, they hold contracts worth $614,800,000 for the sale of uranium to Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd., the federal government's purchasing agency for atomic material.

St. Thomas Elgins Beat Listowel Legionnaires 8-7

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

With a little luck Listowel Legionnaires could be strong contenders in the Senior Intercounty baseball league. Tuesday night they came within an ace of tripping up St. Thomas Elgins, outhitting them 11-8, but old reliable Johnny Ambrose soon dampened any hopes Legionnaires had of picking up their third win.

Ted Bogal's 10th-inning double scored Bill Winegarten from first base with the winning run to give St. Thomas an 8-7 victory. Legionnaires almost tied it up in the bottom of the 10th when they worked runners to first and third with one out, but relief hurler Ambrose forced Ed Barrinton and Red Dubrick to ground out.

St. Thomas coach Ray Upper broke a 5-5 deadlock in the eighth when he tripled in Winegarten and Russ Evon. Legionnaires tied it up on hits by pinch-hitters Don Sarrish and Murray Bender and Jerry Binkle.

MAY BE RECORD

Is the Nickel Belt Senior Hop. Len McKenney set a possible league record, batting in eight runs on two homers and two singles to lead Copper Cliff Redmen to a 16-8 trimming of Frood Tigers.

Gord Dyment went the route to pick up credit for the win. Nick Sestarich, first of three Frood hurlers was tagged with the loss.

No games were played in the Great Lakes-Niagara league. Niagara Falls at Welland being rained out. Tonight Welland Swiftsons will be in St. Catharines to meet North Tonawanda Isle Views. In the Intercounty the top two teams, Oakville Oaks and Kitchener-Waterloo, meet in Oakville.

$75,000 Damage Suit Filed Against Snider

CINCINNATI (AP) — Duke Snider, Brooklyn Dodger outfielder Tuesday was served notice of a $75,000 damage suit in which a Cincinnati woman claimed she was hit by a foul ball because Snider "wobbled and swayed his body in such a manner as to cause the ball to take a wild course other than a home run."

The suit was filed originally by Mrs. Dovie Green in October, 1955. She was hit by a foul ball in a game here June 13, 1954.

In the suit, Mrs. Green charged she was hit on the left arm. She claimed her arm was broken and she suffered shock.

CONFIRM SUSPENSION

ROME (AP)—The government Tuesday confirmed a decision taken by the Italian Automobile Club to suspend all open road racing after the ill-fated Mille Miglia automobile race earlier this year.

The announcement said, "All kinds of automobile and motorcycle races on open roads are suspended indefinitely." It added that the decision "might be reconsidered at a later date."

Bobo Olson Wins Over Joey Maxim In Easy Style

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — An oversized Carl Bobo Olson looked like something of his old self Tuesday night in clubbing out a 10-round split decision over Joey Maxim of Cleveland, Ohio.

Olson, former middleweight king now managing a Vancouver, Wash., night club, weighed 167 to Maxim's 158½.

The extra weight did not seem to bother Olson. He swarmed over the clever Maxim, a former light-heavyweight champion, from opening bell to the end. And although he never had his opponent in trouble, he seemed to have things well in hand all the way.

Referee Ralph Grumas apparently did not agree with this, however, giving Maxim the bout 56 points to 54. The judges swung it to Olson's favor. Eddie Volk voted 57½ for Olson, 53½ for Maxim. Judge Dick Wagner had it 56-54 for Olson.

Olson, fighting for the first time since he attempted to retain his middleweight title from Sugar Ray Robinson in 1956, relied mainly on a slashing body attack to slow up Maxim. He took command in the first round with several flurries to Maxim's body.

Brown Predicts Knockout Win Over Zulueta

DENVER (AP)—Champion Joe Brown, flatly predicting a knockout victory, is an 8-to-5 favorite over Cuba's Orlando Zulueta for their lightweight championship fight tonight.

"I'll knock him out," said the 30-year-old champion.

Neither Brown nor his slick-boxing opponent was expected to have any weight difficulty. The champion hit the 135-pound limit on the nose and Zulueta weighed 134½ after their final workouts Monday.

The scheduled 15-round fight, starting at 10 p.m. EDT, will be televised and broadcast.

Tale of Tape

DENVER (AP) —Tale of the tape for tonight's lightweight championship 15-round match between champion Joe Brown of Houston, Tex., and Orlando Zulueta of Havana, Cuba (10 p.m. EDT):

SIGN SIXTH IMPORT

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — London Lords have announced the signing of a Negro defensive tackle, William Pullins, their sixth United States import.

Pullins stands six foot two inches and weighs 245 pounds. He is 23 years old and just out of the United States Army Air Force where he played service football.

Budget Passed Favors Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — City council Tuesday passed a $184,622,491 budget recommended by Mayor Norris Poulson, leaving intact a $2,000,000 appropriation designed to find favor with Brooklyn Dodgers.

Council president John S. Gibson, Jr., said Walter O'Malley, Dodger president, would want a 99-year lease on the land with concession rights and extensive automobile parking areas.

According to Gibson, O'Malley also told Mayor Poulson and other city officials that if he decides to move the Dodgers here he does not want to pay any admission taxes to the city on the new stadium, expected to seat between 40,000 and 50,000 persons.

Decision Booed At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Lulu Perez of Brooklyn, N.Y., was awarded a split decision over Bobby Courcheine of Holyoke, Mass., in a 10-round lightweight bout Tuesday night at the Forum. The decision was booed by the 3,000 fans who turned out in hot, humid weather to see the fight.

Each weighed 134½ pounds.

There were no knockdowns, but Perez had Courcheine hanging on the ropes twice in the eighth round with a vicious body attack.

It was the Brooklyn boy's second victory over Courcheine. He defeated the Holyoke fighter by the same verdict in New York City two years ago.

The fight was scored under the five-point system. Judges Jim Regan and Johnny Gow had Perez ahead 47-44 and 47-42 respectively while Judge George Leithan gave Courcheine the edge 46-44.

Canadians Score Surprise Win In Golf Tourney

FLINT, Mich. (CP)—Canadian golfers scored a surprise 7½-4½ win over U.S. opponents Tuesday in a series of pro-amateur matches held in conjunction with Thursday's $37,000 open tournament.

One point was awarded for the best-ball score on each nine and an additional point for the 18-hole best-ball score. The Canadians were awarded the Carling Cup.

Results:

Al Balding, Bigwin Inn, and Eric Hannon, Toronto, defeated Jimmy Demaret and Doug Bloom 3-0; Gerry Kesselring, Toronto, and Gary Cowan, Kitchener defeated Dow Finsterwald and Bob Shave 3-0; Doug Ford and Glen Johnson defeated Stan Leonard, Lachute, Que., and Don Doe, Granby, Que., 2-0; Gord Brydson, Toronto and Nick Weslock, Windsor, tied Julius Boros and Chuck Kocsis, 1½-1½; best-ball score, Kesselring-Cowag, Ford and Johnson, tied with 84.

NEW KINGSTON COACH

Kingston CKLC's of the Eastern Ontario Senior "A" hockey league recently announced the signing of Fred "Bun" Cook as coach for the 1957-58 campaign.

Veteran hockey writers and observers of the loop voiced the opinion last winter when the CKLC's were losing regularly that the same thing would not happen "next year." The Kingston management, somewhat like the Pembroke Lumber Kings, underrated the brand of senior "A" hockey this loop would produce.

They did not, at the beginning of the season at least, stock enough players of senior "A" calibre to keep pace with the top clubs over the first half of the schedule.

Coach Les Douglas was given the gate and defenceman Joe Levandoski was the new playing coach. The move did little to help the cause until new players of the right calibre were obtained. A winning streak and slumps by Pembroke and Belleville near the end of the season gave the Kingston crew the final playoff berth, close behind the McFarlands.

* * *

While the CKLC's were a much improved club by the close of the campaign, they were still not a top senior "A" club as Mr. Rodden has admitted. But the improvements headed them in the right direction. It was surmised that Levandoski's appointment as coach was temporary and the naming of Cook as the new guiding light came as no surprise.

"Bun" Cook was more prominent as a player than as a coach. He had a long career with the New York Rangers of the NHL along with brother Bill. They were star performers on the Stanley Cup winning Rangers in the 1927-28 season and the 1932-33 season. "Bun" was an NHL all-star and finished among the top ten scorers a number of times.

Cook has previous coaching experience in the American Hockey League, handling the Cleveland Barons for a number of years as well as the Providence Reds.

He will be working out of his home town where the fans will expect a winning team in his first year. The attendance dropped down east during the past season and it will continue to do so unless a top contender, for group honors at least, is present.

* * *

One of Cook's first chores will be in lining up a capable goalie, unless the executive has done so on the Q.T. Bert Brooks is reported to have left for distant fields and it is doubtful if Ken Johnson will return to the pipes. There is little doubt the management would be happy with another hometowner, netminder Bob Senior, but to bring him home would be a lengthy and likely expensive chore, if it could be done. Defencemen are another necessary need as well as goal scorers, such as George McGregor and Don Murray, in their heyday.

Only time will decide the answer and to hazard a guess at this time would be sheer foolishness.

Cook coached the Sault (Ontario) Greyhounds last year in the NOHA, finishing third in the four-team grouping.

According to Paul Patton of the Sudbury Star, Cook is a fine gentleman but lacks the fight and fire many feel is necessary for a winning coach. Here then, is the story in the NOHA writer's own words:

"From a sportswriter's standpoint, Bun Cook was as nice a guy as you could ever run into. But he ran the team the same way. When a player needed a bawling out, Bun was reluctant to give it to him. Once a player quit during the middle of a game. That was going too far. Cook fined him $100. Later Bun admitted it was the first time he had ever fined a player in his 20 years of coaching."

Like we said before, only time will tell.

CLEAR THE DECK

What will likely be a record crowd for the season is expected to jam-pack Memorial Arena come Friday evening for one of the top wrestling cards of the summer.

Frits Von Erich has teamed up with the man who claims he is the world's greatest wrestler, (another one?), Hard-boiled Haggerty. They will meet the combo of Patrick O'Connor and Farmer Boy. Now, these four names on one card is enough to pack the house. But when you put them in the same ring at the same time and add a couple more headliners, such as Prince Malava and Baron Gattoni in the preliminary, man you're loaded.

Then of course there's the handsome lad, Ronnie Etchison, going against long Jack Pesek, who's not a bad looker himself. And besides, both these boys are good grapplers.

But the big deal is definitely the main go. Erich has been sneering more than ever since his old sidekick Von Schober departed. He's tried new partners aplenty but it looks like he may have the right block in Haggerty to form another Murder Incorporated.

Not in the least frightened by the new partnership, Farmer Boy and O'Connor will dish out as much as they receive. In fact we understand the Farmer enlisted and sang a chorus of "He?" when told that Haggerty was the world's greatest.

Bodies will be flying from the start at 9.00 p.m. Friday night.

DROP TRACK MEET PLAN two-fold:

1. The Russians refused to go along with the U.S. proposal that each country defray in full the expenses of the visiting team.

2. The refusal of the Russians to enter the U.S. under immigration chief Dan Ferris said the reason ties laws prevailing at the time of the meets would not be held was entry.

NEW YORK, (AP)—The American Athletic Union Tuesday dropped plans for a proposed series of track meets between the United States and Russia. AAU chief Dan Ferris said the reason ties laws prevailing at the time of the meets would not be held was entry.

Braves Maintain One-Game Lead As Pirates Belt Birds; Yanks Gain Game on Chicago

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bobby Shantz, well on his way in what may be the comeback of the year in the American League, is just what Casey Stengel had him pegged for—the little guy who could knock off the big guys for his New York Yankees.

The Yankees were chest high in pitchers and confidence when they picked off Art Ditmar and Shantz from Kansas City in that February deal. Ditmar figured the key man —but ol' Case wore a wink when he talked of "that little feller" with the sore arm.

Sore arm or no, Shantz had a winning lifetime record against Chicago (11-9) and Detroit (10-4), and was a respectable 8-13 vs Cleveland considering he was working for the second-division Athletics. These line-up figured to be the most likely to give the Yankees trouble.

So now Shantz is the Yankee ace, replacing the ailing Whitey Ford, leads the league in percentage with an 8-1 record, and has a rumoured 1.91 earned run average.

To top it off, the stubby 31-year-old southpaw has one of the Yankees' three shutouts over Detroit, two of their four against Cleveland and two of their five vs Chicago.

He got his first start at the Tigers Tuesday night and cut their winning string at five games with a 2-1 victory as the streaking New York won its fifth in a row and edged within 2½ games of first-place Chicago, beaten 2-1 at Baltimore.

Cleveland replaced Detroit in third place, beating Boston 7-6. And Kansas City gained its first shutout victory, 5-0, as Ralph Terry, acquired in the most recent Yankee deal, and Virgil Trucks beat Washington 2-0.

Shantz, now 9-2 on Detroit since 1950, tossed a seven-hitter, struck out six and walked only two in winning his seventh in a row. Rookie second baseman Bobby Richardson, given a vote of confidence when Casey brushed off Billy Martin to the As last weekend, drove in both runs off Billy Hoeft, who lost his fourth. The 25-year-old southpaw, a 20 - game winner last year, defeated Yankees 4-1 for his only 1957 success.

GETS BOTH RBIs

Jim Busby, acquired in a trade with Cleveland last week, was credited with both Oriole RBIs and had two of Baltimore's eight singles given up by loser Billy Pierce, now 10-4 with his second successive defeat. Pierce's wild pitch in the second on a force out try setup Busby's RBI single in the first inning, and Billy then walked Busby with the bases loaded in the seventh. George Zuverink won his seventh in relief as White Sox lost their sixth in the last 10. They led by six when the skid started.

Chico Carrasquel, Vic Wertz, Rocky Colavito and Roger Maris homered for Indians, who won their eighth in the last 11 games. Jackie Jensen smacked a three-run homer in the ninth for Red Sox, who have lost four in a row, as Ray Narleski saved a fourth victory for Bob Lemon, making his first start since a May 24 leg injury.

Lou Skizas and Vic Power homered for the As and Trucks came on in the ninth to save Terry's second victory — fanning Art Schult with the bases loaded for the final out.

SIGNS WITH ROUGHIES

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Michigan tackle Al Sigman announced Tuesday he has signed a pro football contract with Ottawa Roughriders of the Big Four Football League.

Sigman said he would report for practice July 6. No terms were announced.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With one-third of the 1957 season in the record books the National League pennant race continues to be one of the tightest in years.

Usually by this time the battle for the flag, which marks league supremacy and entry into the world series, has become a two- or three-team affair.

But all is confusion this year as no less than five teams are bunched within two games of the top.

And even those teams which appear to be definite second-division material are having their innings.

Tuesday night, Eddie Stanky of Cone beat his ex - Milwaukee mates 3-4 with a neat relief job for six-innings ace Ryne Duren. Braves maintained a one-game lead, having been severely-beaten Pittsburgh belted St. Louis 8-1.

THREE POINTS BACK

Philadelphia gained a share of second with Cards defeating Chicago Cubs 7-2. Brooklyn Dodgers also moved within a-game of Milwaukee, three pervert-ers pulling back of Cards and Phils, by swamping Cincinnati 7-0. Redlegs are four games behind the leaders.

Braves managed only three hits in Crone's six-inning shutout job. Warren Spahn lost his fourth in a row as Giant Hoyt Wilhelm limited Walks to ex-Brave Danny O'Connell, Bobby Thomson and Wes Covington. Ellen Buhl Bruton's error enabled one run to score. Daryl Spencer's single, the only hit of the frame, counted the other two.

WINS HIS FIRST

Righthander Art Swanson, who had worked only 2½ innings after signing a minor contract with Pirates in 1955, had a two-hit shutout for eight innings and finished with a four-single job on Cards for his first major league start and victory. Virdon drove in three runs with his homers, both off loser Larry Jackson. Stan Musial, who had one of the Card singles, tied Washington's Ed Yost for fourth place in the all-time consecutive-games-played list with 825.

Phils got all their runs on Bip Repulski's three-run homer and rookie Harry Anderson's first major league grand-slammer. Jim Hearn won it—his 160th in the majors, but first since last August —in relief of rookie ace Jack Sanford.

Don Newcombe had himself a night at Cincinnati, gaining his sixth victory against a defeat with a five-hitter—while driving in two runs with three of Dodgers' six and swatting his first 1957 homer. Gil Hodges drove in three runs for Dodgers, who battered loser Hal Jeffcoat and four relievers as the Redlegs lost their eighth in the last nine.

REDARD LOSES

LONDON, (CP)—Canada's Bob Bedard Tuesday was defeated in the London lawn tennis championships by Australia's Ashley Cooper a favorite for Wimbledon next week.

Cooper advanced to the third round of the Queen's Club tournament by defeating Bedard, from Sherbrooke, Que., 6-1, 6-3. Sven Davidson moved into the third round when Bob Howe of Australia scratched because of an inflamed hand.

New York Club Will Not Pay Players' Fines

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees said Tuesday night the club would not reimburse three players fined by the American League last week until co-owner Dan Topping discusses the matter with league president Will Harridge.

In a one - sentence statement made prior to the Yankee-Detroit game at Yankee Stadium, the club neither confirmed nor denied that it planned to pay the fines, assessed for a free-for-all during last Thursday's game at Chicago.

It was disclosed, however, that Pitcher Art Ditmar, fined $100, had mailed a cheque to league headquarters Monday night and Enos Slaughter, fined $150, had forwarded his cheque Tuesday.

The third Yankee player involved, Billy Martin, since has been traded to the Kansas City Athletics. Martin was fined $150.

Two Chicago White Sox players also were hit—Larry Doby for $150 and Walt Dropo for $100.

Harridge earlier Tuesday denied that he has threatened to fine the Yankee organization $5,000 if it pays the fines, as reported by the New York World-Telegram and Sun.

Harridge said he had merely reminded the New York club of a rule prohibiting a club from reimbursing players for league-imposed fines. The rule, adopted in 1952, empowers the league president to charge a club $5,000 in case of violation.

Columbus Jets In Fourth Place Of Loop Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Columbus Jets, seventh - place doormats in the International League since entering the circuit in 1955, today occupied fourth place by a half game — thanks to a drizzle.

Jets edged into the first division Tuesday night when Jet righthander Charles (Whammy) Davis beat Rochester 1-0 in a game cut back to six innings by rain. Davis won his fourth straight against Rochester, who dropped to fifth place.

Rain interrupted the game in the seventh inning after Rochester had tied the score 1-1. Umpires called the match after waiting an hour. The tying run was washed out.

Richmond Virginians managed a late rally to whip Buffalo Bisons 7-4. The victory ended a three-game Vee losing string and sided the Richmond first-place lead at two games.

TWO CLOSE ONES

Jim Constantine Toronto trumped Miami 3-2 in 10 innings and Jim Williams hit a two-out home run in the ninth inning to power Montreal to a 4-3 decision over Havana Sugar Kings.

Columbus scored its run in the last of the sixth—minutes before the rain came. Catcher Danny Kravitz doubled and scored on Ken Toothman's grounder between first and second.

Allie Clark, Tony Alomar and Bill Shantz singled for Rochester next inning to tie it. Then splash.

Richmond trailed 4-0 after five and a half innings. Vees belted out Buffalo starter Fred Hahn with a four-run eighth. They took the lead 5-4 on Bob Kline's two-run ringle. Reliever Ray Herbert took the loss. Johnny James, in relief of starter Bill Bethel, was the winner.

Toronto handed aged Satchel Paige his third defeat (he's won three) at Miami when Bob Roselli hit a home run in the 10th inning. Williams' game winner followed a two-run Havana rally in the eighth which tied the score. Pitcher Joe Hatten allowed the homer, the first he's been tagged for this season.

ACES FOR SALE

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Aces, whose management announced Friday the club would withdraw from the professional Quebec Hockey League for a year, were put up for sale Tuesday.

Main shareholders J. R. Latter and C. H. Smith announced that they consider it time for younger and more energetic men to take over.

Financial difficulties prompted the decision to withdraw from the QHL for a year. Poor home gates were blamed.

14-Year-Old Girl Surprise Package in Golf Tourney

Miss Hervey, the youngest entry in the 32 - player field, played sparkling golf to defeat a seasoned opponent, Mrs. J. C. Whitelaw.

It was in this same tournament that Marlene Stewart first made her mark when 16. The first year she lost out in the first round. The next year she won the title.

Sixteen players are left in the running as second-round play begins today. Tuesday four ex-champions scored solid victories to continue to set the pace at the suburban Weston par-72 for women course.

Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit, defending champ, went two over par to defeat Mrs. W. E. Hanna of Toronto St. George's 5 and 4.

Rae Williams of Jasper, Alta., winner in 1955, turned in the best score of the day with a three-over 72, defeating Mrs. A. C. Watt of Toronto St. George's 4 and 3.

Veteran Ada Mackenzie, seven-time winner, started off with an eagle and a birdie for a two-hole lead against Mrs. P. Culhane of Napanee and never surrendered the lead, winning 4 and 2.

Mrs. Anne Sharpe of Lookout Point, winner in 1953 and 1954, and Mrs. J. H. Carruthers of Lambton were square after four holes but the Lookout Point player drew away to win 6 and 5.

Mrs. Streit holds a commanding lead in the contest for places on the Ontario team for interprovincial matches this summer. Her three-under-par score is the qualifying round gives her 47 points in the four test matches played so far.

Other leaders are Mrs. J. L. McCarter of Lambton, Noreen Laing of Mississuagua and Mrs. [illegible].

Jockey Gomez On 3 Winners At Woodbine

TORONTO (CP)—Cuban jockey Avelino Gomez had three more winners at New Woodbine Tuesday to dominate the show. Gomez scored with four mounts on Monday. In 14 days of racing at the New Woodbine meeting he has ridden 30 winners.

The first race of the season over the grass course was held. The turf race at 1¼ miles, eighth of the afternoon's card, was won by Mr. Jet, who defeated Martha Ann in a thrilling finish ending with Realm of Fancy in third position.

Retford covered the mile and one furlong in 1:52 1-5.

Gomez started his day by scoring with Cayenne. He won the fourth with Shining Girl and the seventh with Mikeady.

Veteran racing enthusiasts had a thrill-in the second race when 12-year-old Joey Bomber closed with a tremendous rush to beat Vidi. It was the 36th win for Joey Bomber who now has won more races than any other horse now campaigning in Canada.

Kosse Johnson, Bob Fiveash In Argo Fold

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union have announced the signing of two imports, halfbacks David (Kosse) Johnson and Bob Fiveash.

Johnson, 24, formerly with Rice University, was picked on the Associated Press all - American team in 1953. After serving two years in the American armed forces he signed with Argos in 1956 but then decided to work in Texas.

The six-foot-one, 190-pound Johnson, an exceptional kicker, led the Southwest Conference scoring in 1953.

Fiveash, who played formerly with Florida State University, is having another try at Canadian football. He signed with Argos in '56 but was hurt in a pre-season game and then ran into a block-ing machine. The 24-year-old back-fielder weighs 195 and is 5 feet, 10 inches tall.

Big Dutchman Saves Another Game for Orioles

"He has a faculty of oblivion to the result," said Richards Tuesday night after the big Dutchman had saved another game for the Birds.

The right hander also got credit for the 2-1 victory over the American League - leading Chicago White Sox. It was his seventh, which puts him among the most successful in the league, although he pitches only when Orioles are in trouble.

Zuverink took over with the tie-breaking run for the Sox on base and one out in the seventh inning. He put out the fire without turning a hair.

"Does Zuverink realize what he's doing out there?" Richards was asked afterward.

"No, and don't tell him," replied Richards.

It was the 24th time in 56 Oriole games this season that Zuverink has stalked in from the bull pen right into hot water. He's been cool as a cucumber, giving up only nine earned runs in 50 innings.

Mel Parnell Quits Baseball, Has Sore Arm

BOSTON (AP)—Southpaw Mel Parnell has made arrangements with Boston Red Sox general manager Joe Cronin to quit baseball after a brief extension of his disabled-list status.

The 35-year-old pitcher informed Cronin by telephone from New Orleans Tuesday he was told by a doctor not to throw again this year.

The Red Sox announced Parnell had asked for and received permission to remain on the disabled list until July 11—the date he will have completed 10 years of major league competition.

After that, Parnell will request he be put on the voluntary retired list, the team announced.

Parnell came up from Louisville to Boston in 1947 and had his greatest years in 1949 (25-7) and 1953 (21-8). In 1956, he achieved every hurler's dream — a major league no-hitter. Mel beat Chicago 4-0 July 14 while walking two men.

Rocky Marciano Breaks All Ties With Al Weill

NEW YORK (AP)—Rocky Marciano says he and his manager, Al Weill, have ended their association amicably—but there was a broad hint that now Rocky is free to do the things he was never permitted to do before.

"Now I'm doing lots of nice things," he said. "I'm interested in the Boy's Town of Italy, the March of Dimes, just a lot of nice things and nothing commercial. I'm lucky enough to be wanted at these affairs."

Weill rigidly limited the public appearances of the former heavyweight boxing champion. His appearances were few and mostly on a cash basis.

Marciano, who retired undefeated in 1956, reiterated he had no intention to try a comeback. Although he carries it well, he now weighs 220 pounds as against 184 in fighting trim.

"I assured Al I wasn't going to fight again," he said. "If I fought he would be my manager. I guess Al thought I would come back.

"Al and I never have been mad at each other. But I wanted to make my own decisions. When I was fighting I was willing to take Al's word for everything. We respected each other. There never has been any argument, but he has agreed to give me my release. My contract with Al would have terminated July 31 anyway."

Brilliant End, Kramer, Signs With Green Bay

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—A three-way tug-of-war for the services of Ron Kramer ended Tuesday when the University of Michigan all-America player signed a contract with Green Bay Packers of the National Football League.

Kramer was signed to a one-year contract by Packer coach Lisle Blackbourn His salary will be reported $15,000 one of the highest ever paid an NFL rookie.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Canadian Football Union and the Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association also were eagerly seeking Kramer's signature.

Since May 25, when Kramer's college eligibility expired, the Tiger-Cats had matched the Packers bid for bid for his services.

Kramer, also a star basketball player at Michigan, left the door open for the Pistons. He said he has not definitely decided about playing basketball after the NFL season ends in mid-December.

Guess by three teams for the six-foot-three, 220-pound end had taken almost a month before the Packers snared him. Blackburn and Hamilton coach Jim Trimble camped on Kramer's doorstep as soon as his college eligibility ran out. Kramer visited Green Bay and Hamilton before making his final decision last week.

Pro Football Player Killed In Shooting Fray

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—A professional football player was killed and another severely injured in a tavern shooting near here Monday night.

Police said Schenodorf, Mooney and three companions went to a nearby tavern where an argument developed between Schenodorf and the bartender, Gerald Bryant, 22. Schenodorf allegedly had refused to pay for two long distance telephone calls.

A fight developed and Bryant grabbed a .32 calibre revolver belonging to the tavern. In the ensuing scuffle, Mooney was shot in the mouth and Schenodorf hit in the chest and stomach, police said.

Writer Plugs Mary McBride For Regular TV Program

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—It's time that Mary Margaret McBride had her own regular interview program on network television. She demonstrated this fact when Mike Wallace interviewed her Sunday on his excellent show (ABC-TV).

After 20 years as a radio interviewer, Miss McBride has been reluctant to switch to television under the ground rules laid down by the medium.

Before the advent of Wallace, TV interviewing was highly gimmicked. The sharp young men who largely determine program forms were enamored of the nervous camera, the trick devices to switch a viewer's attention here, there and almost everywhere.

FAVORS SIMPLE TECHNIQUE

For years Miss McBride has been saying that she would like to do a straight interview program in which she and a subject simply talked face to face. "Me!" cried the sharp young men, in effect, "that's merely radio with a camera turned on it. That's not television."

Then came Wallace with his eminently successful program which uses the simple technique Miss McBride has been advocating. Now some of the young men don't look so sharp.

To some of the so-called sophisticated, simple modesty is viewed with mild suspicion. Miss McBride is an extremely modest woman, and Wallace, to give his interview the cutting edge which typifies his technique tried to fathom her modesty.

He succeeded in revealing her lack of guile, her absolute candor. Under his questioning Miss McBride demonstrated that she speaks lucidly and interestingly to a mature audience. She has a depth of emotional feeling that is rarely communicated on television; therefore, she is able to say many things to many people who would not find them acceptable from one of lesser emotional tone.

One who appreciates the rare personality of Miss McBride and sees its television potential is Sylvester (Pat) Weaver, former NBC executive who now is attempting to organize live programs for a "network" of independent stations throughout the country. The stage of negotiation between Weaver and Miss McBride is not clear at this writing.

END ADVANCE FOR JUNE 19 PMS

At The Belle

Era of Young People Re-lived in Warner's "The Spirit of St. Louis"

"The Spirit of St. Louis," a dramatization of Charles A. Lindberg's historic transatlantic flight, opens today at the Air Conditioned Belle Theatre, after almost two years in the making. In WarnerColor and CinemaScope the Leland Hayward-Billy Wilder production for Warner Bros. is based on the Pulitzer prize book by Lindbergh, who spent more than 14 years in preparing his fantastic adventure story for publication.

With James Stewart in the starring role, the picture was filmed over half the world on a location tour that took the company almost 20,000 miles for air and ground shots. It tells the story of the Lindbergh's daring flight, alone and nonstop from New York to Paris in 1927, an achievement that opened up the skyways for modern aviation.

The company filmed scenes in New York, New England, Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, France, England, Ireland, Italy, Spain, Egypt and Greenland. Exact replicas of the famous Lindbergh monoplane were built especially for the production and flown on Lindbergh's route.

For Stewart, the role of Lindbergh is a high spot in his distinguished career. A combat and World War II flier himself, he was especially qualified to enact the man who has been called the world's greatest, and certainly most famous, aviator.

Does Not Think the Stage Greatest Medium for Actor

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Believe it or not, here's a young dramatic actor who doesn't think the stage is the greatest medium for an actor, has a healthy respect for film actors and never attended the Actor's Studio.

He's John Cassavetes, darkly handsome young New Yorker who is one of the most-sought of young performers. You may have seen him recently as the F. Scott Fitzgerald hero in Winter Dreams with Dana Wynter on Playhouse 90.

Right now he's making a movie, his first for a major studio. He's doing a western with Robert Taylor and Julie London, Saddle the Wind, and he's signed for a picture a year at MGM.

Like James Dean, Ben Gazzara, Anthony Franciosa, Paul Newman, John is an independent lad. But he differs from the others in not rising from the actor's Studio. He was schooled at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, along with Grace Kelly, Hope Ericson, Anne Bancroft and others.

NO BROADWAY BOARDS

He has never done a Broadway play. What's more, he doesn't care if he ever does.

"It doesn't appeal to me," he said. "I suppose it's great to get the applause and the immediate reaction. But that isn't enough to compensate.

"The same actors are used over and over on the stage. Most of the directors aren't very good. The stage methods are simply old fashioned.

"It would be great to work with someone like Carson Kanin, who's a great director, or with Josh Logan or Elia Kazan or in a play by Arthur Miller. But how often do you get those opportunities?"

BY HIS MEDIUM

John's seasoning came in TV, in which he has done "between 60 and 80" dramatic shows. TV he likes.

"TV has the best directors," he remarked. "They are young men with new ideas who know how to get things done in a hurry.

"TV is an actor's medium. Once you get on camera, you're on your own. If something unforeseen happens, you've got to solve it yourself. Nobody can help you."

After the whirlwind of TV, movies are a breeze. "I don't know what to do with my spare time," he said. But he admitted that films take a vast amount of concentration.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find that your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, June 20, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Fine days predominate, so point your efforts accordingly and make the most of the day. Once the over-all picture is clarified, attention to supporting details will reap results. Tolerance, patience help.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Guard against fraud and deception — not only in financial matters but in other ways. Your self-confidence may be bolstered by the May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Excellent indications, as in the case of Ariens. Make a middle-of-the-road effort to eliminate errors. Try to finish incompleted tasks.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Advice to Taurus applies here now. Try to differentiate between true quality and "window-dressing" in the product that interests you. Tension prevails; do not become a party to it. Relax!

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Virgo! — Vigorous methods can enhance your effectiveness. Employ your innate talents to advance more quickly toward your

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Vigorous methods can enhance your effectiveness. Employ your innate talents to advance more quickly toward your September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — A sensible, calm approach will be important now. Excitability leads to mistakes. Harmonious discussions can elicit much information.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Stimulating vibrations! Positive and soundly energetic action will produce substantial gain. Quiz yourself to ascertain weak points, then take steps to increase all-round effectiveness.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Use your fertile imagination to expand your activities. Don't underestimate the strength of your competition, however. Accept day's offerings with calmness and turn them to your advantage.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Aspects akin to Scorpio. Be solicitous of family's needs, others' problems. Your fine mind and exuberant nature can help put you in the lead. Keep sensibly within your budget.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Benefic influences now. Be alert to opportunities, quick to take advantage of the best. Your progress will be de-

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — While looking for the "silver lining" don't relax to the point of counter-activity. You must work consistently for advancement. Give due consideration to the rights of others.

You born today are among the highly artistic; can be very intellectual. Varied in talents, and efficient, you are, nevertheless, reckless (at times to a point where you could defeat the high aims you wish to achieve). Curb impatience and a desire for new efforts. But it must be sensibly controlled and directed.

BARGAIN ! — BARGAIN!
$950. DOWN

QUITE FRANKLY — this one just has to be sold — or else. We have sold homes of this type for as low as $1,000 down, but on a stunted half-acre lot. Complete with inside toilet, with dinette, modern kitchen, full basement, oil furnace. Complete with 4 bedrooms, and all screens. The monthly payments will be $65.00 and you could pay the whole lot as a down payment. Payments would be less, if you could afford to pay up to about $8,000. One man's misfortune could be your opportunity.

GOOD TWO-STOREY 4-BEDROOM HOME on choice Art. Soc. Quiet street but this is one that has been cared for and the buyer could move right in and enjoy living in this location and the grounds would be a comfort to you in this hot weather with the trees and cool breezes. There's a 2-car garage.

CHARLES ST.

A STATELY HOME with all kinds of room. Two baths. The kitchen has a good set of cupboards and there is room for a real large dining room in all down stairs. This fine home is has been well kept and is ready for the specious buyer. Located close to schools. If you need a big home—it would dare to use this one as a duplex then you should inspect it. $13,500.

WELLINGTON CRESC.

DO YOU ENJOY LIVING in this pleasant area, homes in this area do sell fast. Here is a good solid brick home with 3 bedrooms. The basement is finished off and has extra bedroom and a recreation room. A home for you at $15,900.

BUNGALOW
WITH EVERYTHING

IT'S A PLEASURE TO HAVE this one for sale at $12,900. It's just as a pin. Looks like an "Open House" on display but no one has been lived in for a few years by the owner who now resides over Ottawa. We would enjoy showing it to prospective purchasers. Full basement is fit to live in. $2,000. down.

READ ABOUT THIS HOME and you will consider it a bargain. Situated on Bridge St. East on a treed half-acre lot is a 4-room well-built unit. The family would take pride in. There are two bedrooms and a sunporch that would do as a fourth room. In the living room there is an open fireplace and a built-in bookcase. Kitchen has a modern 3-piece bath and a brand new forced air furnace will see all in the basement. There are screens, storms, awnings, and there is a garage. Reasonably priced at $10,900. Reasonable terms to suit the purchaser can be arranged. Call us and have a look at it.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this new healing substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or embarrassing delay.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of rectal ailments and conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, over 2 million have used it for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation-H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

U.S. Govt. Moves to Overturn Court Ruling Against Yielding American Soldier to Japanese

By CARL R. BAUMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government moved with all speed today in an effort to upset a court ruling barring United States authorities from turning over an American soldier to Japan for trial on manslaughter charges.

All indications point to a direct appeal to the Supreme Court, with hopes for a final decision before the court ends its present term next Monday.

Appeal machinery was set in motion within an hour after U.S. District Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy handed down his decision in favor of the soldier, army specialist William Girard, Tuesday afternoon. This came in the form of a formal notice of appeal filed in District Court.

Girard's supporters were jubilant at McGarraghy's decision. The judge ruled that to surrender the 21-year-old soldier to the Japanese would violate his constitutional rights.

DECIDED EARLIER

The state and defence departments had decided some time ago that Girard, from Otiawa, Ill., should be tried by Japanese courts on the charge that he fatally shot a Japanese woman who was scavenging for scrap metal on a firing range in Japan.

Girard, who was guarding equipment on the range, has said the shooting was accidental. The woman, Mrs. Naka Sakai, was killed by an empty cartridge casing fired from a grenade launcher. Girard now is in army custody at a camp near Tokyo.

A spokesman here said the defence department will take no action while the case is being appealed. The state department refused comment.

The incident has been blown up into an international storm, reaching its latest stage as Japan's Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi headed today for a series of talks with high officials in Washington.

WILL GO AHEAD

In San Francisco, Kishi would not comment on McGarraghy's decision. But in Tokyo, the justice minister said Japan will go ahead with plans to try Girard. Japanese officials have spoken about an August date for that trial. Final outcome of the case could have an important impact on American relations with Japan and with other allies with which the U.S. has "status of forces" agreements permitting trial of American service personnel in foreign civil courts for offences committed while off duty.

McGarraghy held that Girard could be tried only by U.S. court-martial because the death of the Japanese woman "arose out of an act or an omission done in the performance of official duty."

Diefenbaker May Abolish Closure Rule in House

OTTAWA (CP)—Abolition of the Commons closure rule is expected to be among the first election promises John Diefenbaker will attempt to carry out.

The prime minister-designate is understood to be determined to wipe out closure, whereby a government majority can limit Commons debate.

The promise to do so was included in the opening speech of his campaign and repeated periodically during the weeks that followed.

The Liberal government's use of the rarely-applied closure weapon was a feature of last year's bitter pipeline debate. The device was used at all four stages of the pipeline bill's passage through the Commons.

The closure rule, adopted in Canada before the First World War, had been used previously on only seven occasions, the last time in 1932.

CHANGE SPEAKER

Mr. Diefenbaker is understood to feel that the rule should not exist so long as the Commons has a Speaker who is changed at the start of each Parliament and selected from among the ranks of the government party.

During his campaign he also came out strongly for appointment of a permanent Speaker—an arbiter of Commons rules who would hold the position on his merit and not be changed after each election.

If closure is abolished, the government would have no way of stopping a determined filibuster by the opposition aimed at blocking progress on legislation. The only recourse would be an appeal to the people in an election.

The main objection to the government's use of closure last year on the pipeline bill was that it was applied at the outset of debate. On the few occasions it had been applied before, it had always come following days of debate,

White House Says Policy Unchanged On Atomic Tests

Corrects Impression Given By Remark by Eisenhower

Britain and U.S. Put Final Touch To Arms Scheme

LONDON (AP) — The United States and Britain today put the final touches to proposals and suggestions designed to bring about a long-awaited "first step" agreement toward world disarmament.

The two powers intend to test Russian sincerity and flexibility as the five-power disarmament talks now moving toward a climax here.

Prospects for some arms limitation agreement seem more favorable now than at any time since the Second World War.

IN SECRECY, POSITION

Britain enters this critical phase of the negotiations with her bargaining power increased by the successful completion of a series of three hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific.

She now is reported in a position to begin full-scale production of nuclear weapons like the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

But Britain does not intend, for the time being at least, to fire any more nuclear weapons.

For several weeks the Western powers and the Soviet Union have appeared to be approaching an agreement to end nuclear tests. One major issue still divides them. In the Western view, ending such tests should be linked with an agreement to stop the production of nuclear weapons.

SOVIET CONCESSION

Moscow has proposed a two- to three-year end to the tests, and for the first time has agreed to allow international observers to be stationed on Soviet soil to see that there is no cheating on such a test ban.

Western delegations have regarded that as a major concession. But they feel that any ending of the tests which still allowed continued mass production of nuclear weapons would not bring any lasting improvement.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Officials here today said the United States is prepared to accept suspension of atomic weapons test only under a first-step disarmament agreement providing also for halting production of nuclear weapons.

President Eisenhower created the impression at his press conference Wednesday that the U.S. might be about to accept a Russian proposal for a test moratorium not directly connected with other major disarmament proposals.

Within hours later, however, the White House explained that the president "did not imply and it had not intended to imply that we would consider suspension of tests in isolation" from other arms control considerations. James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said there is no change in policy.

The president's replies to questions on disarmament caused a stir because two weeks ago he had said the U.S. could end tests only on assurance that atomic weapons would not be used in future warfare. The measure of this assurance has been widely regarded here as an agreement to stop the production of such weapons and to begin the reduction of atomic weapons stockpiles.

LINKED WITH STOPPING

Hagerty made his response to questions that the problem of halting production is linked with the problem of stopping tests. But he would not spell out U.S. policy on these crucial points.

He did assert flatly that the president's comments had not reflected any change in policy, saying that the policy was the same as that which Eisenhower set it had been before.

Eisenhower was asked about a week-old Soviet proposal for a two- or three-year moratorium on test explosions, and for the establishment of an international commission to study methods of detecting any violations of such an agreement, and an inspection system to police it.

In response to a series of inquiries, Eisenhower made the point that with an adequate inspection system to guard against secret testing it might be possible to work out an arrangement, by suspending the tests in advance of some other aspects of a disarmament agreement.

He spoke of suspension under a system which would assure the U.S. and Russia that each knew precisely what the other was doing. Both countries could then use the period of the suspension "to work out something" by which we could have real confidence."

Britain Calls UN Findings Thorough, True

LONDON (AP)—Britain today accepted as "thorough and true" the findings of the United Nations special committee which investigated the Hungarian revolt. It called for new consultations in the United Nations on what to do next.

A Foreign office statement spoke of the report:

"The thoroughness of the investigations and the truth of the conclusions to which they (the five committee members) came will only be challenged by those who have a direct interest in effacing the record of the crimes committed in the name of communism against the Hungarian people."

As soon as the government had completed studying the document "there will be consultation as to the steps to be taken."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Freezing showers and thundershowers occurred northwest of Lake Superior throughout last night as a new disturbance moved into the northern regions from the Prairies.

This storm centre is forecast to reach the lower St. Lawrence Valley early Friday, giving frequent showers in Northern Ontario today followed by clearing tonight and setting off a few isolated showers tonight in the southern regions followed by clearing weather Friday.

EGYPT WARNED NOT TO BLOCK GULF OF AQABA

Could Lead to Suicide Says Israeli Radio

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel has warned Egypt against trying to blockade the Gulf of Aqaba with three submarines newly acquired from the Soviet Union.

A government broadcast beamed to Egypt said use of the straits to cut off ships from the southern Israeli port of Eilat, at the head of the gulf, would be "fighting for a lost cause" leading to Egyptian suicide.

Egypt confirmed Tuesday that she had bought the submarines and they had joined her fleet in Egyptian waters. They are believed to be the first undersea craft acquired by any Middle Eastern country.

Israel fears they might be used to reimpose the blockade of Eilat, which Israeli troops ended last fall by destroying the Egyptian shore guns overlooking the Gulf of Aqaba. The gun positions now are occupied by troops of the United Nations Emergency Force.

SHIPS NOW SAIL

Ships now operate through the gulf to and from Eilat without interference, despite protests from Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Jordan that the gulf is Arab territorial water. Saudi Arabia protested to the UN Wednesday for the fifth time in less than 10 weeks that Israeli ships and planes had violated what it claims is its territory in the gulf.

"This peaceful navigation will continue," Wednesday night's Israeli broadcast said.

Without giving details, the director-general of the Israeli defence ministry said in a speech in Haifa that Israel is taking measures against possible submarine action. The official, Simon Peres, added that Israel will defend the open seas and will not "sail on tiptoed heads" when its enemies are being equipped with arms to destroy Israel.

Britain, France and the United States also have showed concern that the Russians again have tampered with the armament status in the Middle East by supplying the submarines to Egypt. British and French spokesmen say Israel probably will ask the western powers for anti - submarine equipment as a counterbalance.

FRENCH PREMIER IN LONDON

New French Premier Bourges-Maunoury, left, is shown as he called on British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in the garden at Number 10 Downing St. The new French premier was in London for dedication of a bronze statue of Charles de Gaulle, leading World War II as headquarters of the French Resistance movement, of which Bourges-Maunoury was a leader.

52,000 Italians Flee Isles As Po River Bursts Dikes

ROVIGO, Italy (Reuters) — The rain-swollen River Po burst its dikes today and forced 52,000 inhabitants of two delta islands to flee for their lives.

First it swirled over Ariano Island south of Venice, driving out the island's 22,000 people.

As rescue workers struggled to erect a wall to save part of the island from being submerged, the rampaging waters turned on Porto Tolle Island and its 30,000 population.

Rescue workers immediately switched to the second island to buttress its river walls with sandbags.

As pressure increased on the walls, an emergency order for immediate evacuation of Porto Tolle was issued.

Meantime, the Rovigo flood control office said almost the entire island of Ariano was flooded.

Swollen by storms pelting Italy over the last two weeks, the river drove a 65-foot gap through a retaining wall south of Venice after it had risen more than 18 feet over the danger mark.

The tumbling waters filled with debris carried 250 miles down the river, threatened the 32,000 villagers and townsmen on Ariano Island.

Flood control officials said two towns on the island, Taglio di Po with 9,000 inhabitants, and Corbola with 5,000, would be flooded within a few hours. Eventually, they said the island would probably be submerged.

The fact that the break-through occurred when the crest was only 15 miles from the Adriatic appeared to signify that Italy had escaped the like that of November, 1951, when 272 persons were killed and 223,000 homes destroyed.

"In another few hours the high flood point on the river would have reached the sea and all danger would be over," said a Rovigo flood official said. "As it is, it looks as though only Ariano Island will be submerged."

Squads of police, army engineers, firemen and volunteers had been plugging breaches in the dikes throughout the night of the waters rose, while peasant women prayed in the churches for the safety of families and homes.

Newspapers report that farm laborers on the Delta of Artemo have just ended one of the most bitter agricultural strikes in recent years, have refused to work on the threatened dikes.

Il Tempo of Rome quotes them as saying: "The strike is not ours, and there is no reason why we should defend it."

U.K. Completes Nuclear Test Series in Central Pacific

LONDON (AP) — Britain exploded its third hydrogen bomb Wednesday, completing its current nuclear test series in the central Pacific.

As in the two previous tests, it was dropped from a jet plane and exploded at high altitude in the Christmas Island area.

The supply ministry's announcement said radioactive fall-out was negligible. Scientific observations were made by Neil Wilson opened an envelope from Wisconsin containing a 10-one dollar bill and a note:

"I rode a train from Picton to Belleville. It was an excursion and I did not pay. That was over 50 years ago. Please send a dollar in this letter to pay for it."

Mails Dollar For CNR Trip 30 Years Ago

TRENTON (CP) — A man who took a 60-mile trip on the CNR more than 30 years ago and did not pay for it finally accounted with the railway and his conscience Wednesday.

Mail clerk Neil Wilson opened an envelope from Wisconsin containing a 10-one dollar bill and a note:

"I rode a train from Picton to Belleville. It was an excursion and I did not pay. That was over 50 years ago. Please send a dollar in this letter to pay for it."

Teacher Honored

TIMMINS (CP)—Percy A. Boyce, retiring after 29 years as a school principal in Timmins and Schumacher, was presented with a watch honored at the annual dinner of Schumacher public school board Wednesday. members gave him a pen and pencil and his fellow teachers gave him a gold watch. A native of Kingston, Mr. Boyce taught at Wellington and Parry Sound before coming to Timmins in 1928.

Astronomers Wind up Efforts To Solve Some Mysteries of Mars

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) — Astronomers from more than a dozen countries have completed the first step of their co-operative effort to solve some of the mysteries of Mars, and plan to tackle the problem again in 1958.

The International Mars Committee voted Wednesday night to continue its observations which aim to set up a new program for observation of the red planet when it again comes closest to the earth next year.

They did this after a meeting in which they heard results of observations made last year, when Mars was within 35,000,000 miles of this planet.

Summarizing these reports, Dr. E. Slipher, committee chairman, said the initial work produced evidence that Mars may have weather something like that on earth, but with greater extremes of temperature.

The Martian polar cap, which shows up on many of the thousands of pictures taken, apparently is shaped something like a three-decker sandwich, with a foundation of surface material, a middle layer of ice and a white cloud in the athosphere for a top.

Dr. Slipher said, that something happened in the Martian planet which causes parts of its surface to darken suddenly but temporarily. This is a moistening of the soil, he added, and if so, it means that some kind of vegetation which would produce life-giving water for visiting earthlings in the future.

Research on the kind of life on Mars yielded some new evidence of the existence of organic matter and fortified a belief among some observers that the living organisms are unlike anything on earth.

Bodies of Two Fliers Found In Wreckage

BISHOP'S MILLS, Que. (CP)— The bodies of two RCAF fliers were found in swampy bushland near here on Wednesday, near the wreckage of their Montreal-based CF-100 aircraft. It crashed Tuesday night at the height of a violent electrical storm.

Witnesses to the plane's explosion on impact had passed off its "mushrooming" cloud of debris, smoke and flame as the illumination of a tree struck by lightning.

Only when farmer Lyman Earl of nearby North Augusta heard reports that the RCAF had lost aircraft concentrated over this area, 40 miles south of Ottawa, looking for a jet fighter-interceptor missing since Monday evening from St. Lambert air base, near Montreal, did he connect the spectacle with the air crash.

He reported it to the provincial police at Brockville, 18 miles south of here.

TO PROBE CRASH

An RCAF headquarters in Ottawa announced an investigation would start as soon as possible into the crash, which involving a CF-100 since the plane entered service in 1953.

RCAF headquarters announced that a three-man board of inquiry would be headed by Wing Commander J. C. Hovey, officer commanding 425 Squadron, North Bay.

Officers who visited the scene said that from the appearance of the wreckage the jet went straight into the ground. From the dispersion of the bodies of the crew they had not ejected themselves from the diving plane.

Killed in the crash were the pilot and the radar operator-navigator, Flt. Lt. William H. Siegal, 30, of White Rock, B.C., and Flt. Lt. Robert Willard Bogle, 32, of New Westminister, B.C.

UN ALLIES PLAN NEW WEAPONS FOR SOUTH KOREA

Ban Has Been Lignored By Reds for Years

SEOUL (AP)—United Nations and Communist armistice officials have scheduled a meeting Friday amid reports that the UN Allies will demand scrapping or revision of the armistice clause banning introduction of new weapons into Korea.

Well-placed sources in Seoul who would not be quoted by name said the expected Allied demand is based on "the known, proved facts that the North Korean and Chinese Communists have illegally introduced new weapons into North Korea since the armistice" was signed July 27, 1953.

The Allied demand could be the prelude to equipping the two United States divisions in South Korea with latest-type weapons which could be fitted with atomic warheads in the event of a Communist attack. The U.S. defence secretary, Charles E. Wilson, said a month ago that such a move was being considered.

The UN command had asked that a joint military armistice commission meet at 10 a.m. EDT Friday. It agreed to the Communists' request for a delay until Friday.

DECISION SOON

Officials of the UN command declined to say what they would demand Friday. But they said that their statements would be made public immediately after the meeting.

The Korean armistice provided that the armies in North and South Korea could only replace existing equipment and could not introduce any new type of equipment or additional amounts of arms.

American and South Korean military officials have long accused the Reds of beginning an illegal military buildup in North Korea before the ink was dry on the armistice agreement.

Even as the armistice went into force, barring Allied fighters from all but a token use of the demilitarized zone between North and South Korea, allied radar screens picked up scores of Red fighters from Manchuria dropping down make-shift airfields in North Korea.

Korean military leaders argued for months that the Communists were building up for an attack and would strike without warning if ever they felt confident of success.

Allied leaders say by contrast that the UN command has observed the ban on new weapons to the letter. As a result, they say, Allied weapons have become obsolete, making it impossible to outgunned UN and South Korean troops to defend themselves adequately in the event of renewed Communist aggression.

GIVE GREEN SIGNAL

The North Koreans have organized and equipped army of 400,000 men. About 350,000 Red troops have been equipped army of Korea with at least 1,000,000 more in Manchuria, just across the Yalu River.

The Communists have about 800 jets in North Korea, including 500 jets, none of which were there prior to the signing of the armistice. They also have 38 airfields, none of which was operating prior to the truce.

Sea Became Hell of Flaming Oil After 2 Tankers Collided in Fog

BREST, France (Reuters)—Survivors today told of the horror of ship collisions that took 13 lives and turned the sea into a hell of flaming oil.

At least 34 men were killed and 20 injured when the American tanker Stony Point and the Greek freighter Ioannis collided in fog off the coast of France.

"The oil was burning and the wind was slight," he said. "It drove the flames toward the lean-ins.

"The fire spread rapidly and with the means at our disposal it seemed to us impossible to fight the outbreak . . . We decided to abandon ship.

"It is a miracle that we do not have to mourn more victims" among the members of the crew, he said. "Pt. Point's master praised the rescuers, who "did not hesitate to risk their own lives in the midst of a sea of flames to save us."

Brest reports from the Dutch tug Thames said the Stony Point was still burning.

The fire aboard the Ioannis was doused for the second time early this morning. Reports from Brest said the ship would not be towed to port because of the certain all danger was past.

Firemen were standing by on board the vessel, still carrying the bodies of six of the men killed.

Ten of the injured were landed at Brest Wednesday night by the British destroyer Ulster. Of these two died today. Another 27 survivors also came ashore, many of them swearing they would never go to sea again.

Diefenbaker May Himself Assume Pearson's Duties

DONALD FLEMING

MAJ.-GEN. GEO. PEARKES

The Progressive Conservative leader, who will be sworn in with his new cabinet Friday, had been working for an hour in his office in the Parliament Buildings' Centre Block when Mr. Pearson called at 10 a.m.

Mr. Pearson, emerging after one hour, said he had been talking with Mr. Diefenbaker about the agenda of the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference, which starts next Wednesday. Mr. Diefenbaker leaves by air for London Sunday.

Mr. Pearson said a number of government briefs prepared for the conference will be turned over to the new government.

The visit also added strength to speculation that the new prime minister probably will hold the external affairs portfolio himself on a temporary basis. No other cabinet candidates have shaped up as likely prospects for the post.

Mr. Diefenbaker was his party's foreign affairs spokesman for a number of years before gaining the Conservative leadership last December.

One newly-arrived member was Angus MacLean, MP for Queens, P.E.I., who may become party whip in the next Parliament or possibly a cabinet member.

Mr. Diefenbaker is due to be sworn in at about 11:30 a.m. EDT Friday at Government House in the presence of Governor-General Vanier. Then his cabinet will be summoned and sworn in.

He has indicated the cabinet slate will not be complete one; some posts may not be finally filled until his return from the Commonwealth prime ministers conference. The conference is scheduled to leave by air for London Sunday afternoon, to be away for two weeks.

Flood Damage Action to Be Heard by Board

GODERICH (CP) — A $100,000 flood damage action against six townships and the town of Parkhill, heard over to Hon. Mr. Justice D. C. Kelly in Supreme Court here in June, 1946, will be heard at a special sitting of the Ontario municipal board here July 8.

L. G. Hagmeir, owner of large tracts of land in McGillivray and Stephen Townships, is seeking damages for alleged negligence in flooding. Defendants, in addition to Parkhill, are: McGillivray, Biddulph, Usborne, Hay, Stephen, Williams, West Williams, and Hay Townships.

The case was initiated before Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly in Supreme Court in London in January, 1946, and original defendants were Bosanquet and McGillivray Townships.

Pearson Sees Little Change in Foreign Policies

OTTAWA (CP)—L. B. Pearson, resigning external affairs minister, suggested Parliament there may be no great change in Canadian foreign policy under the new Progressive Conservative government.

Replying to reporters' questions, he said "in big questions of principle the parties have been pretty close together."

Mr. Pearson was interviewed as he emerged from an hour-long talk with prime minister-designate John Diefenbaker.

He said they had discussed agenda and procedures at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London next week. Several briefs prepared for the Liberal government's use would be turned over to Mr. Diefenbaker.

Mr. Pearson was asked whether he might be leaving Parliament for a job, possibly with the United Nations.

"No," he replied. "I have just been elected to Parliament and it would be a little surprising if I were to leave."

WOODEN HORSE USED TO BARRICADE ROAD

Hot horses are the type which race track enthusiasts prefer to back at the betting mutuels, but they wouldn't appreciate the type of a hot horse which city firemen had to deal with Thursday night.

The horse in question was a wooden one being used to barricade the roadway at Foundry street where demolition of buildings is now in progress to provide a site for a new federal building.

Apparently a warning flare either was set too close or became overturned setting fire to the barricade.

LOCAL MAN NAMED TO EXECUTIVE OF SCHOOL TRUSTEES

G. H. Trill, past-chairman of the Belleville Board of Education, has been elected an executive director of the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees Association. He was elected Thursday at the association's annual meeting which was held at Bigwin Inn, Ont.

TRENTON AIRMAN PLAYS PART IN DUTCH AIR SHOW

Four RCAF CF-100 all-weather jet fighters were featured in the fifth annual Dutch International Air Show near The Hague recently.

A member of the flying crews was F/O A. R. Wood, of Trenton, who was the observer aboard the aircraft piloted by F/O C. L. Vigor, of Montreal.

W/C K. B. "Butch" Handley, of London, Ont. led the box formation of jets in a sweep past a crowd of more than 125,000 people. The fighters were No. 1 Fighter Wing at Grostenquin, France.

The air show marked the golden jubilee of the Royal Netherlands Aero Club.

HAD SECRETS, VANISHES

SEOUL (Reuters)—The South Korean National Assembly has ordered a committee to investigate the disappearance of a Korean army officer who received advanced training on atomic and guided missile warfare in the United States. The officer, LA-Col. Kim Hai Shik, disappeared May 30. Army sources said another lieutenant-colonel was also missing since that date and was believed to have crossed the armistice line into Communist Korea.

Emergency Test To Be Conducted By Radio Club

Amellasburg will be buzzing with activities this weekend as members of the Quinte Amateur Radio Club join in a nation-wide radio emergency test. Four complete two-way radio stations, each drawing their electricity from a gasoline-powered generator, will be operated from 5.00 p.m. Saturday to 5.00 p.m. Sunday by 28 club members working in shifts.

The occasion is the 21st annual field day sponsored by the "hams" national organization, the American Radio Relay League. It is expected that 10,000 amateurs will take part in the exercise which is designed to prepare amateur radio men to serve in disaster areas.

Clare Hunt, president of the Quinte group, announced that Bill Barrie will be in charge of the weekend's activities.

Club members will erect tents, tables and antennas for the test on Thursday and Friday nights and Saturday morning they will test the transmitters. At 5.00 p.m. Saturday the group will attempt to make contact with other stations throughout the country. In last year's test club operators talked to stations in the United States, using code and voice. Hunt said that he expects the Quinte club will contact a good number of other stations.

The Quinte Amateur Radio Club will operate from the farm of Norris Whitney, MPP, Amelisburg. The public is invited on Saturday and Sunday.

All told there will be about 10,000 radio "hams" and their families in America attempting o contact other 700 stations.

The primary purpose of the field day is to encourage the development of emergency radio equipment and the training of operators. The effectiveness demonstrated in the hundreds of cases where amateurs have provided communications for police, civil defence, public utilities, the Red Cross and others when normal communication channels have been disrupted by floods, hurricanes, blizzards or tornadoes.

The field day is conducted as a contest between local radio clubs of equal size. There are categories for one or two operator stations and mobile stations as well. Special rules give credit for the type of equipment most like that used in real emergencies.

RESENTED "FACES"

OTTAWA (CP) — Two youths Wednesday were convicted of assaulting pastors, one after ahead of them in a traffic lineup June 9. Police said reason for the attack was that a teen-age girl in the rear seat made faces at the youths. Charles Hassell, 20, of suburban Crystal Bay, and Wayne Brown, 18, of Ottawa, were remanded until Friday for sentence.

Belleville Family Has Narrow Escape

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Burley, Shamrock Road, Belleville, never want another experience like that of Tuesday night when they clung to their overturned boat for nearly an hour awaiting rescue, after being swamped in West Lake, but their 12-year-old son Bill took it all in his stride. "It was a lot of fun—after the boat sank," he said. Mr. and Mrs. Burley are shown with Bill (inset) at the right.

'Was Fun After Boat Upset' Boy's View of Lake Ordeal

Although his parents want no more experiences like that of Tuesday evening when they were forced to cling to their overturned boat in West Lake near Wellington for close to an hour before being rescued, Bill Burley, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Burley, Shamrock Road, Belleville, thinks it was fun.

"It was a lot of fun — after the boat upset," said Bill as he related the experience he and his parents had when their boat was swamped by a sudden storm of near-hurricane force which caught them in the middle of the lake.

After clinging to their overturned boat for what seemed ages, Mr. and Mrs. Burley and their son were rescued by Police Chief Earl Marvin of Wellington who scoured West Lake looking for them when informed that a boat was missing after the storm.

IN MIDDLE OF LAKE

"The storm caught us right in the middle of the lake as we were heading for shore," said Mr. Burley. "It struck with startling suddenness and all we could do was turn into the wind and hope we would not be swamped.

"But the boat quickly filled and then was swamped completely by a big wave. The Burleys, all of whom can swim, then turned the boat over and hung on hoping for rescue after the storm blew over.

Mrs. Burley paid tribute to YMCA training for her son's coolness in the ordeal.

"He wasn't a bit excited and even told us what to do," she said. "But I never want to go through an experience like that again."

FEARED DARKNESS

Mrs. Burley said as the time wore on without rescue she was beginning to fear they would not be spotted before darkness set in.

But luck was with them. Searchers on shore had seen the boat being caught in the storm and, when it was missing following the gale, notified Police Chief Marvin.

Even after their rescue the Burley's luck held. Mr. Burley missed his watch after he was safe ashore but it was found by Chief Marvin in a bait pail when he returned to bring in the overturned boat.

Worker Thrown Several Feet By Severe Shock

FRANKFORD (Special) — Keith Mikel, 37, employee of the William Rose TV and Radio Repair shop at Frankford, narrowly escaped electrocution early Wednesday afternoon when a TV antenna he was assisting to dismantle came into contact with electric wires.

The shock passed through his right arm and passed out through his feet, throwing him several feet into a mudhole beneath a privy van at the edge of the sidewalk. He was knocked unconscious by the shock.

Mr. Mikel was treated for burns and shock at the office of Dr. D. McMullen where he was detained for two hours before being allowed to go home.

"He had a narrow escape, the nails of his boots burned an imprint into the sidewalk," stated the attending nurse at Dr. McMullen's office.

Mr. Mikel was assisting to dismantle the antenna at the department of Frankford bank manager Mr. C. McEachern who is being transferred. Mr. Rose was on the roof of the bank building handing the antenna down to Mr. Mikel on the sidewalk when in some way it contacted electrical wires. Mr. Rose also received a slight shock.

Car Theft Nets Quebec Youth Additional Term

Donald Pollock, 18, of Ville Jacques Cartier, Que., was given three additional months in Belleville jail Monday on top of the remaining portion of a two-year sentence which he will serve in Kingston.

The youth was picked up in Ville Jacques Cartier, a suburb of Montreal, on June 9 after police there spotted him driving a car reported stolen from Harold Fox, of Thurlow township, the day before.

O.P.P. Corporal Ray Kowal testified that Pollock had taken the car from Fox, who had befriended him a week earlier.

Pollock received a ticket of leave from St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, Montreal, in March after serving 15 months of a two-year sentence on four charges of breaking, entering and theft in Montreal, in April he was given one year's suspended sentence in Toronto for car theft. RCMP have held a warrant for his committal for violating the ticket of leave.

Local Dealers Check Bicycles, Rodeo on July 20

Six bicycle dealers in Belleville have joined forces to carry out a rigid inspection of all bicycles at city schools.

Ralph Tuck, originator of the Belleville Bicycle Safety Dealers, as the group is called, said Wednesday that 1,500 bicycles have been checked since May 22. Ninety-seven per cent of them were found to be in good running order. The inspection emphasizes safety.

All schools but Holy Rosary and Queen Alexandra have been called on. Bicycles at Queen Alexandra were to be checked on Wednesday afternoon. The inspecting party will be at Holy Rosary this afternoon or at the first of the week.

Last May Mr. Tuck approached the city school boards and received permission to carry out his plan. Similar programs are operating in the United States and Western Canada.

Mr. Tuck said the school boards and the Belleville Recreation Committee have been a "wonderful" help to the inspectors.

CARDS OF THANKS

Floral tributes and expressions of sympathy extended by the friends during the illness of the late Roy S. Bryant were deeply appreciated.

Christ Church Scout Mothers Assist Scouts

In order to help two Christ Church boys to attend the jamboree, gathering of 35,000 Scouts from all over the world, the Scout mothers of the 2nd and 5th groups put on a bridge and euchre party.

Mrs. Lloyd, who generously gave prizes, Cubs Bill Elliott and Laurie Jackson selling candy and the lunch supplied by the ladies, kept expenses to a minimum.

Mrs. Lionel Blaker, convener, wishes to thank those who did, and the others who "came to the aid of the party."

The success of this party can best be judged by the process which exceeded $100. Christ Church Contact Group and Christ Church Men's Club each donated $25.

Jamboree Scouts will receive grants from the local association but they still have to find more than $300 which is a sizable sum for two boys to raise.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market moved lower today in light morning trading. Industrials and western oils led the decline, the market's fourth straight.

Industrials and western oils each lost 1¼ points on their indices while base metals lost almost three-quarters of a point and were at their lowest index point since October, 1955.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 1,010,000 shares compared with 1,042,000 at the same time Wednesday.

International Pete was off 1¼ points to 49 among industrials. Consolidated Paper and Trans Prairie Pipeline each dipped a point. Gains were limited to fractions.

Hudson Bay lost a point to 64½ among senior base metals. International Nickel was off ¾ to 101 and most other seniors gave up fractions. Only Falconbridge was down a point to 31½.

Security featured western oils with a Socony advance to $6.40. Canadian Export Gas was off 25 cents to 84 while Provo Gas, Medallion and Canadian Devonian lost 15 cents each.

Fruit, Vegetable Tariff Study Asked by Harris

OTTAWA (CP) — Outgoing Finance Minister Harris has asked the tariff board to investigate seasonal tariffs on fruits and vegetables into Canada, with a view to revising them if necessary.

The board disclosed this today with announcement that it will begin public hearings on the matter June 25.

It said the request was made in a letter from the finance minister dated June 14—four days after the general election in which the Liberals were beaten. Mr. Harris himself was defeated in Grey-Bruce riding.

The board announcement included a copy of Mr. Harris' letter. In it, he said that if the board's study of fruit and vegetable tariffs indicate changes are necessary, it "would request the board to prepare a revised schedule of tariff items, with recommendations as to rates of duty."

2 Seamen Die As Pump Breaks On Carrier

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt limped into port early today, victim of its second accident at sea in two months.

On board were two dead and five injured seamen. They were sprayed by five steam vents opened out when a pump which exploded deep inside the 45,000-ton warship Wednesday.

Twenty-nine others were stricken with heat prostration or exhaustion, many of them in efforts to rescue trapped comrades.

Capt. T. W. Hopkins told reporters the ship was on a routine training exercise when the accident occurred about 100 miles off the coast. There was about 50 miles from the spot where the Roosevelt threw a propeller blade May 13. The blade hit another propeller and the ship went to drydock for repairs. There were no casualties then.

LONG TERMS FOR YOUTHS

CHICAGO (AP) — Three teenagers branded as "young rattlesnakes" by a prosecutor have been convicted of the murder of a model keeper and their punishments fixed at 99 to 110 years in the penitentiary. The jurors fixed punishment for Robert Maslowski, 16, the trigger man in the robbery, at 110 years imprisonment. David Clark, 15, and Gerald Pelzer, 16, each drew 99 years. All will be eligible for parole after serving one-third of their sentences.

Hastings Milk Production Up

TORONTO (CP)—The agriculture department says in its weekly farm report that milk production has increased in Hastings County in Central Ontario.

Cheese factories have surpassed the business they did this time last year and over-all cheese production will be greater.

In Prince Edward County the hay crop is heavy and the pea crop continues to show good promise.

Family Neglect Problem Getting Out of Hand

KINGSTON (CP)—The deserting husband should be treated as a criminal, the president of the Ontario Welfare Officers' Association said Wednesday.

Joseph Vernon of the Toronto suburb of East York, re-elected to his office at the annual OWOA meeting, called for a more punitive approach to the problem of family neglect offenders.

"The problem is getting out of hand because society has come to accept the situation and is allowing these people to run away from their responsibilities," he said.

Mr. Vernon called for the treatment of desertion as a criminal offence—and deplored what he called a tendency to "plead and bargain" with offenders.

The association agreed to set up a committee to study the problem.

FOOD FOR STARVING

TAIPEI, Formosa (Reuters)—Chinese Nationalist planes dropped 90,000 pounds of rice, 20,000 pieces of cotton cloth, and 2,000,000 leaflets over famine areas of Chekiang and Kwangtung during Tuesday night, Nationalist air force headquarters announced. Another announcement said the Nationalist garrison of Matsu Wednesday sank five small Chinese Communist junks.

Present Trend to Automation To Increase Says Speaker

MURRAY BAY, Que. (CP)—George L. Wilcox, president of Canadian Westinghouse Company Limited, Hamilton, said today Canadian manufacturers are reaching the point where increased efficiency will bear smaller returns to their companies.

Speaking on a panel discussion at the annual convention of the Canadian Electrical Association, Mr. Wilcox said electrical manufacturers, in particular, have used their efficiency and cost reduction in recent years as the front line in meeting "almost unbelievably severe competition both from the United States and producers abroad."

He emphasized, however, that "if the costs of materials, wages and everything else continue their upward movement as in recent years, I think it is a grave question how much longer these increases can be countered by improvements on efficiency."

Another member of the panel, J. Herbert Smith, vice-president of Canadian General Electric Company, Limited, Toronto, predicted Canadians "will see an accelerration in the present automation in industry and the years immediately ahead will produce a greater rate of innovation than has been experienced by the industry to date."

The panel's third member, William I. Turner, president of Canadian Controllers Limited, Toronto, said standardization of products could provide large economies in material and manpower and if wisely executed and accepted, would result in a relative lowering of costs, capital investment and operating expense.

Mounties Find Wanted Man in Australian Jail

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCMP today said a 30-year-old miner-prospector accused of stealing two gold bricks worth $50,000 by substituting lead for them aboard a plane in Canada has been arrested in Australia.

Anthony Hart (Tony) Gregson, placed on the RCMP's list of most-wanted men more than a year ago, has been located in prison at Sydney, Australia, the force announced today. He is serving a 14-day sentence for stowing away aboard the SS Cornwall.

The RCMP said Gregson was arrested June 14 and gave his name as Colin Dempsey. He was sentenced to 14 days and when he has served that sentence will be deported to Canada.

When Gregson's name was added to their list of most-wanted men, the RCMP said the two gold bricks stolen from a plane bound for Yellowknife, N.W.T., in July, 1954, probably were disposed of in the United States.

Queen to Meet Prime Minister

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen will receive John Diefenbaker, Canada's new prime minister, in audience soon after his arrival here next week at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference.

It is the sovereign's practice to give individual audiences to the heads of all Commonwealth delegations attending such conferences, and she has arranged to do so again.

The Queen will also give a banquet for the Commonwealth statesmen next Wednesday. It will be held for the first time at Windsor Castle, where she is at present in residence, instead of at Buckingham Palace, the usual venue.

Peterborough Sisters Freed From Ice Box

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Two young sisters became locked inside an abandoned icebox Wednesday but were freed within about 15 minutes when their mother pried the door open with a screwdriver.

Debra Barnet, 4, and Sherry, 3, were playing in the backyard of their home when they decided to investigate the interior of the old icebox. They climbed in and somehow the door closed on them.

Playing with them at the time were a twin sister of Debra, Donna Lee, and their four - month - old brother.

Mrs. Donald Barnet was attracted to the yard when she heard Donna Lee crying. Then she heard Debra's voice coming from the icebox.

Neither child was any the worst for the experience.

'TWAS EVER THUS!

We were shocked, saddened and made angry to read the weekend report of The Canadian Press which listed the number of drownings in Ontario. Fourteen people died while trying to get away from the sub-tropical heat wave that bore down on us a few days ago.

Of special note to residents in Hastings and Prince Edward counties is that three of the fourteen Ontario drownings happened right in our own back yards, so to speak. Two boys, aged eight and twelve years, lost their lives in the Moira River at Tweed, while a man drowned in the Outlet Creek near Picton. A fourth person narrowly missed drowning in the Bay of Quinte off Zwick's Island.

Death, no matter how it comes, is a sad thing. It is made even more sad when young children are the victims. It seems that people do not really feel loss by death until it strikes their own household.

Twelve-year-old Bernard Alkey of Tweed drowned in the Moira River on Sunday while trying in vain to save an 8-year-old boy. Mr. and Mrs. Alkey have reason to be proud of their son's gallant attempt to save a life, even though it cost him his own.

Every year at least one person drowns in the Quinte district because he did not follow simple, common-sense water safety rules. If you can't swim keep away from water or at least wear a life preserver and make sure a strong swimmer is close at hand.

The number of people who drowned over the weekend should jolt every last one of us into becoming promoters of water safety. Clubs, associations and many other organizations annually stress water safety in school and other places. Belleville, for example, the St. John Ambulance Brigade conducts free classes in artificial respiration for all who wish to take them. School teachers are continually imploring their charges to enjoy the weekend and come back safely to class on Monday.

Most drownings can be avoided if people would only wake up and use a bit of common-sense and listen to what safety councils are teaching.

Highway traffic accidents are close to the top of the list of Canada's killers, with marine mishaps pushing second place. The Attorney General's office is stressing safety on the province's highways; equally important is a water safety campaign.

There are, perhaps, more pleasure craft on our lakes and streams this year than ever before. Next year will likely see an even greater increase. We can rest assured that unless something is done immediately to educate the public in the safe handling of water equipment next year's drowning figures will show a sharp climb.

We are told by psychologists that education starts at home. As responsible parents who love children let's all make a concentrated effort to see that our children do not fall prey to any body of water.

CLOTHES SHAPE THE WOMAN

Clothes, it has been said, make the man. They certainly shape a woman.

Women are wearing their arms further from their hips these days. This is the result of the return of the crinoline. It is obviously inadvisable to swing their arms close to their side when they have carefully provided the foundation for a skirt to balloon out from the waist. Arms have to dangle on the outside of the crinoline-expanded skirt.

This is in striking contrast with the position of the arms when women wear those tailored suits, especially the ones with the narrow skirts. Then elbows are tucked in and the arms made as inconspicuous as possible, in order not to disturb the slim silhouette.

There is a third shape often seen, in which the ballooning effect starts at the shoulder. This is achieved by hanging a coat or jacket over the shoulders but refraining from placing the arms in the sleeves. We have all seen women wear jackets in this fashion — but the other day, in the heat, we noticed a man wearing a coat that way. It looked strange. In heat waves men's coats look best draped over the forearm, frankly exhibited for the useless and cumbersome things they are.

Short of a system of compulsory voting, the percentage of eligible voters who turned out to mark their ballots on June 10 is about the maximum one might expect from our voluntary system. Factors which played a part in the realization of the large vote included more vigorous campaigning by candidates and their leaders, and the work of such organizations as the chamber of commerce in promoting get-out-the-vote campaigns. THE TAX MAN

I met him at a great affair,
A man of character and worth,
But I was not just then aware
He heads the income tax division.

To meet him I was very glad
Since he and I were then relaxing,
I never would have guessed he [illegible]
Of all the jobs, the one most taxing.

We met as friends, as friends I'll remain,
I hope to mutual satisfaction.
He never asked me to explain
My poor addition and subtraction.

'Tis strange how different men appear
Till time and chance will let you meet them,
I've called him harsh names I fear,
Now, knowing him, I'll not repeat them.

Muscles Pain When Unused

By Robert K. Plumb
In the New York Times

Lack of exercise because of neglected training habits is markedly increasing the number of young adults being put on crutches for treatment of disabling muscular pains.

It was emphasized at the scientific session of the American Therapeutic Society that the prevention of muscular rheumatism is a national problem that must be solved "if America is to maintain our national security."

This view was expressed by Dr. Richard T. Smith, director of the Department of Rheumatology of the Ben Franklin Clinic in Philadelphia, when he addressed the fifty-eighth annual meeting of the society at Skowhegan, Me.

"The population of the United States is becoming more sedentary, more dependent upon wheels for motion and consequently more vulnerable," Dr. Smith declared.

"Although we lionize the athlete, the record-breakers are few and far between. Coaches of contact sports say that it is necessary to limber highly trained muscles for football games to get better timing. They have to train inadequate muscles for a month to fighting trim before to prevent injury."

INCREASE IN FLABBINESS

Of 500 patients examined in the Philadelphia clinic fifteen years ago, he reported 13 per cent had "fibrositis," or muscular pains. Among 500 comparable patients recently examined 31 per cent had the same complaint, Dr. Smith attributed part of the increase to better diagnosis but most of it to an upward trend in lax physical condition.

Dr. Smith linked this trend to the "soft living" trend that America can children failed a series of tests in 1940 at the time whereas European children failed only 8.7 per cent.

Among the same age, 85 per cent of the cases of fibrositis were in those under 40; over 55 per cent of the cases are in those over 40 and the disease is often present in those in their 60's, he said.

Dr. Smith said that muscular rheumatism can be successfully cured a benign condition but that it had become a cause of progressive disability that is crippling. People who "ache" do not exercise and their condition may become gradually worse, he added.

The usual treatment is painkilling drugs, massage, spirit, heat and bindings, Dr. Smith said, but he is now experimenting to prevent the development of muscular rheumatism by impressing patients who feel the need to continue exercising throughout life.

In doing this, he said, physicians must persuade their patients to discard the widespread "heresy" that says: "Don't walk if you can ride, don't stand if you can sit, don't sit if you can lie down and if you get an urge to exercise — lie down until it passes off."

Students Beg Free Rides

Ottawa Journal

There is too much begging for free rides by high school students between homeward bound from school, and one must wonder whether the dangers involved by this practice are aware of is prevalence.

Boys coming from the Technical High School stand at the curb while street cars pass within a few feet of them looking for a free ride. From Nepean High School on Richmond Road begging for a lift, the train line a few yards distant, and these are but two examples.

We must assume parents of students who have to travel any considerable distance provide them with money for car fare or a bus ticket and have laid spend the money on a treat and forget it. But the temptation to motorist to save them a long walk.

Whatever the reason it is unwholesome that students come to these practices. We cannot expect this free service from passing strangers — it is not their duty. The privilege self-respect or the sturdy spirit of independence a boy should possess.

Build Roads For Pilgrims

Kansas City Star

In the vast desert region of the Arabian peninsula, paved roads are few, and over the long, dusty trails that cross the country and flow in its coasts, hundreds of thousands of Moslem pilgrims travel each year to the sacred cities of Mecca and Medina.

Now a road building program is under way in Saudi Arabia, focused on Mecca, birthplace of the prophet Mohammed and Islam's foremost shrine.

Present routes reach Mecca from all directions. Shortest is the asphalt highway from the Red Sea port of Jidda, less than 50 miles to the west. One of the longest will be the renovated 1,000 mile road from Ar Riyad, deep inside Iraq on the northeast. Little used for centuries, the trail from Iraq is said to have been built by the Arabian Nights' Caliph, Haroun-al-Rashid, so that his wife, Ubaidyah, might make the traditional hajj, pilgrimage, to Mecca.

All Moslems feel that at least once during their life on earth it is their duty and privilege to go on the pilgrimage. Living in the 12th month of the Moslem year, Thief al Hajj (hajj) is Mecca's massive stone Kaaba, the "house" believed to have been erected by Abraham of God's command.

As part of a general five year plan to streamline the pilgrim's way, increased space has been cleared around the Kaaba, beyond which gardens, fountains and parking facilities will be provided.

Most luxurious of all, under the bilateral agreement, is the trod barefoot in ritual observance by the devout, a new cooling equipment is being installed.

Had Nine Dogs Chewing Head

BBC London Letter

"Every day is an adventure in the Antarctic," said Major Vivian Anderson broadcasting in the BBC program for Australia. "This is Britain's. He was referring not to the explosis of the Commonwealth Trans-Antarctic Expedition which are naturally much in the public eye, but to his experiences as base leader of an expedition which has recently been working on the Antarctic mainland near the Falkland Islands.

Meteorological observations, medical research, physiological researh on the breeding of huskies and the mapping of hitherto unmapped areas were all part of the work of the expedition, and some distinctly unplanned incidents were included.

"At one time," said Major Anderson, "I was leading the team by walking in front of it when suddenly the snow bridge over a crevasse gave way and I fell through and just managed to stop myself going down. I don't know how many hundred feet, into the crevasse. Just the top of my head and my arms were sticking out in the snow, and the huskies following along behind were just about passing over the snow bridge and passing me when two of the dogs' harness' finished. I was a sorry sight, something to eat that had been dropped - look a nip at the top of my head. As soon as they tasted blood of course they thought, 'This is delicious' and they chaff and two of them piled on and started chewing away at my head. I was getting very frightened, and then the rest of the team saw that two of their companions had gone and they were all hungry, so they piled in and I had nine dogs chewing at my head and biting my arms. My feet were dangling free and I was trying to get a hold of the snow with my arms outstretched. Gradually the snow began to collapse. It all happened very quickly and Jock Tait, who was driving the sledge, stopped the dogs off, drove the sledge on a bit and then came back and loaded me out."

Off With Beards!

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Alcohol Is A Narcotic

Among ten heroin addicts convicted of various crimes other than possessing or selling narcotics, seven were less than 20 years old. Most of them had strikingly similar histories. They began smoking cigarettes in their early twenties. They learned to take beer from their contacts, and by 16 or 18, they could "handle" liquor. Their introduction to heroin was sometimes deliberate, sometimes a kind of adventure, or a childish way of proving they were not "chicken".

I do not believe tobacco is a narcotic. But no one with an elementary knowledge of physiology can doubt that alcohol is a narcotic in any quantity or circumstance, whether in the form of beer, wine, cocktail, or hard liquor.

One authority compared the narcotic action of alcohol with that of ether, the stages of alcohol narcosis being slower than those of ether: 1. Blunting of mental and intellectual faculties, such as slowed reaction time, slowed muscular movements, less accurate muscular control, less keenness of mind. 2. Intoxication, or drunkenness, with attention leading to sleep. 4. Coma, leading to collapse and death.

I have mentioned smoking in association with narcotic influence and addiction only because I believe that one who smokes before he or she is fully grown (21 to 25 years old) is more likely to become a narcotic addict than one who doesn't.

So far as my observation goes, moderate smoking, not moderate or temperate smoking, has tended to be the direct or contributing cause of such conditions as peptic ulcer [illegible], thrombo-angiitis obliterans (Buerger's disease), palpitation, rapid pulse and breathlessness on comparatively moderate exercise, cold hand and feet. Scientific investigators found a drop of as much as 10 degrees in the skin temperature of fingers and toes after the smoking of 1 to 3 cigarettes.

I may be prejudiced — I don't think so — but I believe pipe smoking is less likely to do harm than cigarettes or cigar smoking.

As for persons not yet full-grown (22 to 25 years old), any smoking at all is invariably harmful, in my opinion.

For all intents or purposes, persons who are called to the armed forces or any military service should be entitled to wear medals. Nothing decorates, marry, and generally please a man he or she likes — including drinking or drunkenness — more. Of course, that he or she is able to stand does support himself or herself. A child who drinks or smokes while dependent on others for support is a stinker.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WORRY

Worry is a disease, and it can kill like any other disease if it is not cured, And it can be cured! Never admit that it has got a disease, its damage goes into every organ and fibre of the body, warping the mind. No one can have a clear and efficient mind if worry is allowed to get a hold.

Most mothers, and some fathers, worry about their children. This is a lovely way to kill them, because a curse off of the universal business are just worrying dead cheese. I use them as a physician and Surgeon for what he has done for me over the years.

The evil thing about worry is that it damages the entire structures of the body. Nothing escapes it. On the other hand, and the entire body reacts to kind treatment and to constructive thought. This idea of ours can master all worry. If we will only give it a fair trial. There are no worries in Nature.

Worry is the enemy of every good intention. It can be solved by a difficult problem. It only creates a difficult problem. Shakespeare gave out this suggestion: "Let not your heart be troubled." We can cultivate a habit of triumphant spirit within us by ignoring all worry and letting others do as they best! By dedicating our lives to "one increasing purpose," and resolving to do the best we can with mind, we can ring out what the Town Crier uttered — "All's Well!"

THE PACKSACK

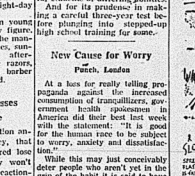
By GREGORY CLARK

It is absurd of us to pity men who are tied to their mothers' apron strings. It is absurd of us when they choose to be. Maybe they tied the strings around themselves. Perhaps the selfish person is the objects of universal and comic sympathy; but there certainly are plenty of unselfish women who get their mates women who are bound by the subconscious desire to do a thing we imagine all mankind cherishes. But if you stop to think about a minute, you will realize that there are all kinds of people who have nothing to do with politics, offices, shops and factories there are countless men and women who would know what to do, and need merely from day to day, but from time to time, to be told, or have somebody to tell them what to do. They are often willing and even anxious to be told. Freedom is for masters of some craft or skill. They have pride in themselves. But they don't want freedom, except in the vulgar, lazy, social and political sense. They must be bossed. They would be frightened by the responsibility of freedom. Their hunger to be told what to do, how to do it and when to do it, is every bit as real as their other appetites.

For example, a salesman I know has risen to the very top of a great profession. He was making a great deal more money than most of us, has time and again refused offers to be taken into partnership, not because, as he said, he "loved the selling game," but because he had some sort of internal hassle in his company, he resigned in lofty indignation. It would be no use for him to get another and even a better job. He wouldn't.

But six months have gone by, and he is still unattached. The top man is as good as he is. And he is unhappy.

I suggested to him that he employ his undoubted talents in his own behalf, getting some agencies and setting up a company of his own, however small, but at least his own. The proposition made him shudder.



"No," he said, "you give me something to sell, tell me who to sell it, and by thunder, I'll sell it. The freedom he wants is freedom from care.

In the end, of course, he will have to take a lesser job than he deserves, and will shortly rise to the top again.

And he will be as prosperous as ever, cheerfully and prosperously as we can be at somebody else's command.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

New Model of Transportation

Station Wagon Can Operate On Road or Railway Tracks

The dream of automotive engineers — a car which will operate without the necessity of steering — is a reality for Mr. A. R. Wilson, superintendent of the Belleville division of the Canadian National Railways.

Termed a Hy-Rail motor car, the vehicle which requires no steering was recently delivered to Mr. Wilson to be used for track inspection purposes.

It is the first of its type in Canada and after guinea pig trials on tracks of the Belleville division is expected to be adopted by other railway divisions.

The vehicle appears to be a normal stock model station wagon but a closer inspection reveals it also possesses four flanged metal wheels partially concealed beneath the chassis.

With the flanged wheels in their "up" position, the vehicle can be used for highway operation the same as an ordinary car. But with the flanged wheels down the ranch wagon can take to the rails and operate the same as a train.

The vehicle is used by Mr. Wilson for track inspection and to reach out-of-the-way rail points that would be almost inaccessible by car.

The station wagon weighs three tons and can be operated at normal passenger train speeds on the tracks. The flanged wheels take only about 300 pounds load each with traction being achieved through normal contact of the rear wheels on the track.

OPERATE AS TRAIN

During track operation the steering gear locks in position and the operator merely sits back and applies throttle pressure.

But during track operation the "Hy-Rail" car must operate under the same regulations as a train. Schedules must be filed before proceeding and the proper flags must be mounted on both front and rear ends.

The white front end flag on the "Hy-Rail" car indicates it is operating as an "extra" train. It takes something less than two minutes to lower the flanged wheels in preparation for track operation. Mr. Wilson merely pulls up to the crossing, lines the cars four rubber tires up on the rails and lowers the flanged wheels.

It's the convenience of the vehicle which still more or less amazes the Belleville superintendent.

After a morning of track inspection along the railway division the same vehicle can be used to drive downtown for lunch.

C.A. Campbell New Accountant For Ont. Hydro

Charles A. Campbell, formerly project accountant at Sir Adam Beck generating station No. 2, Niagara Falls, Ont., has been appointed regional accountant for the East Central Region of the Ontario Hydro Commission at Belleville and will take over his duties on July 1.

Mr. Campbell replaces J. G. Ritchie who has obtained an appointment in the Ontario Hydro's accounting division at head office in Toronto.

Mr. Campbell has been connected with the Ontario Hydro for 17 years and during this period he has been engaged on a large number of the major construction projects throughout the province. One of his first jobs was in Northern Ontario on the Ogoki Diversion, north of Lake Nipigon. After a year and one-half there he was transferred to the Niagara Peninsula, where he served as chief clerk for the DeCew Project near St. Catharines.

He also worked at the Des Joachims Development on the Ottawa River. On the completion of that job Mr. Campbell was appointed project accountant at Niagara Falls on the construction of the Sir Adam Beck No. 2 generating plants.

Mr. Campbell has purchased a home at 30 Hastings Drive and with his wife, Evelyn, and child-ren, Marilyn, Valerie and Barry, will be moving from Niagara Falls to Belleville toward the latter part of June.

Weddings

HEWTON—TROTTER

A pretty June wedding was solemnized by the Reverend J. F. Vane on Wednesday, June 12, at 2 p.m., in the Trinity United Church, Wellington, Ontario, when Phyllis Marie Trotter, of Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Trotter, became the bride of Harry Hume Hewton, of Wellington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira T. Hewton. The ceremony was performed before a background of Iris, spirea, and lilac blossoms mingled with ferns.

Mrs. Frank Brimley, senior, provided the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Ernest Trotter, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of white nylon net over satin, with matching headdress, and carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Larry Smith of Belleville, as matron of honor, attended the bride, wearing yellow nylon, with matching headdress and carrying white Shasta daisies. Mrs. Eric Carter, of Perth, in green nylon, and Mrs. Archie Stewart of Wellington in pink nylon, were bridesmaids. Both wore matching headdresses and carried white Shasta daisies.

The two little flower girls, Misses Gwen Trotter of Cooper, and Lea Miller, of Trenton, in pink nylon with matching headdresses, carried nosegays of white mums.

Mr. Charles T. Hewton, of Brighton, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Neil Johnston of Cooper, and Mr. Archie Stewart of Wellington, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in Wellington town hall, to which the Wellington W.I. catered. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Lane to which the bridegroom responded.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing medium blue crepe with corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, attired in grey figured nylon, with corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip to points east, the bride travelled in a sand- colored ensemble, with white accessories. Upon their return, the happy couple will reside in Wellington.

Guests were present from Cooper, Picton, Consecon, Trenton and Brighton.

JUICY FRUIT

Canteloups, widely grown in North America, are named after the castle of Cantelupe in Italy.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Raymond Lott are pictured following their marriage in St. John's United Church, Tweed. The bride is the former Miss Phyllis May Kleinsteuber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Kleinsteuber, of Tweed, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Lott, of Halloway, Ont.

LOTT — KLEINSTEUBER

White lilacs and red tulips adorned the altar in St. John's United Church, Tweed, Ontario, on Saturday, May 25, at 2.00 p.m. when the Reverend W. K. Pace, pastor of the church, united in marriage Phyllis May Kleinsteuber, of Tweed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Kleinsteuber, to Allan Raymond Lott, of Halloway, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Lott.

Mrs. W. Provost, soloist, sang "I'll Walk Beside You," before the ceremony, and the "Wedding Prayer," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her story-book, floor-length, bridal gown designed on princess lines with shirred bodice having a Sabrina neckline of hand-clipped Chantilly lace outlined with iridescent sequins. Her skirt of tiered tulle was bordered with dainty lace. She wore a matching lace pill-box coronet-ed with seed pearls and sequins which held her finger-tip veil of hand rolled silk tulle illusion. Her bouquet was of red roses mingled with lily-of-the-valley.

She was attended by Miss Vera Martin, of Tweed, as maid of honor; Miss Joyce Lott, of Peterborough, as bridesmaid. Both were gowned identically in French blue crystalette charm on princess lines with shawl collars accented by a bow and streamers at the "V"-shaped bodice back. The torso waistlines were enhanced by bouffant skirts. They wore matching headdresses of petal-type bandeaux dotted with seed pearls, and matching gauntlets, and carried pink roses, white mums, and lily-of-the-valley.

Two little nieces of the bride, the Misses Peggy Pack, and Dorothy Ann Lees, as flower girls, were sweet in their identical frocks of yellow taffeta aids designed on princess lines with matching headbands and gauntlets. They carried baskets of assorted spring flowers.

Mr. William Barber, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Harvey Homan, and Mr. Ronald Moon, did the ushering.

The reception, which followed the ceremony, was held in the church hall, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing light grey with black and mint green accessories and corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in delphinium blue crepe with pink and black accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

For travelling to Quebec; Maritime Provinces, Northern U.S. the bride chose charcoal grey worsted suit with black and blue accessories, and corsage of pink carnations. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Lott will reside in Halloway.

Out-of-town guests were present from Kingsmere; Carrying Place; Belleville; Toronto; Frankford, and Peterborough.

Prince Charles P.S. Honors Retiring Teacher

On Tuesday afternoon the principal, Mr. J. M. Cousins, and teachers of Prince Charles School, entertained in honor of Miss M. Moorcroft, a member of the teaching staff, who is retiring at the end of this term.

Guests at this gathering were representatives of the Canadian Red Cross and the Queen Mary-Prince Charles Home and School Association.

PRESENTATION

Mrs. Bulger presented Miss Moorcroft with a gift for 15 years teaching of Red Cross in the classroom. She was also the recipient of a brooch and carrier set presented to her by Mrs. K. Chamberlain, on behalf of the Home and School Association.

The lady teachers of the staff served refreshments.

Ontario School for the Deaf Closing Exercises Well Attended

In spite of the sizzling heat of Tuesday afternoon, and a packed auditorium, the closing exercises at the Ontario School for the Deaf were carried out expeditiously and with the minimum of effort.

Lovely baskets of fragrant orange blossoms, deep rose and pink peonies, tall spikes of mauve and purple delphiniums, lilac-shaded iris, and sweet-smelling phlox adorned with gleaming satin bows in pink, mauve, rose and white lined the platform stage. Behind the table with its mound of blue and gold diplomas and silver cups were the elliptical rows of chairs for the staff and teachers.

Promptly at 1.30 the processional began, headed by the superintendent, Mr. J. G. Demeza, B.A., B. Paed., and the teachers, two by two, who divided into two sections, right and left, taking their places on the platform. These were followed by the ten graduates, eight young men, and the two girl graduates, in their white dresses and red rose corsages, who were seated in the reserved seats at the front of the auditorium.

WELCOME GREETINGS

Following the signing of "O Canada," with Mrs. Demeza at the piano, Mr. Demeza extended a most cordial welcome, first to come to the teaching staff; to the boys and girls, and to the parents and friends, with a special welcome to the parents of those who were graduating their years of study at the school, and to Mrs. Mr. Larry H. Parker, and Mr. H. Montgomery, placement officers of the Canadian Hearing Society.

Other guests present included: Archdeacon J. B. Creighton, rector of Christ Church; the Reverend Everett P. Smith, assistant rector of Christ Church; the Reverend Harry M. Davis, pastor of Bridge Street United Church, and Dr. Andrew MacKenzie, principal of Albert College, to whom a special thanks you was tendered for his fine co-operation in the use of their swimming pool.

Appreciative thanks were also tendered to The Ontario Intelligencer for its full and accurate reports; to the teaching staff of the junior school for devoted work during the year — "no job in school is better than its teaching staff," commented Mr. Demeza — to Mrs. Quinn, for the attractive floral arrangement; to the parents and friends, and to the boys and girls for their help toward the school in many ways, closing with the request that they come back and visit their Alma Mater and always remember to be gentlemen and ladies, and good Canadian citizens.

PRESENTATION OF AWARDS

After the welcome, the presentation of awards began with that donated by the superintendent, Mr. Demeza, to Shirley Elliott and Glenn Hagedorn, of the graduating class for scholastic, vocational and out-of-school achievements during their complete school life at the O.S.D.

These girls won double honors in the secondary schools in Toronto and the Central Ontario units.

VALEDICTORY

The valedictory address was given by Faye Westbrook, whose farewell words included hey gratitude to Mr. Demeza and the teachers for the happy time she had spent at the school, which had prepared her and the other graduates to take on their life's task; to the supervisors for their assistance; to the house mothers and to the nurses for care of school health and to the matron for the good food and friendship. That the fellowship she had enjoyed throughout the years would indeed be missed, but that they hoped to meet with them all again, and wished the school and her schoolmates every success in the coming years.

Following the recessional, pictures of the school, collective, and individual, were the order of the day. Pictures of the various presentations were also taken during the exercises, which will long back nostalgic memories to those who cherish them.

So came to a close another convocation; school days behind and the future a rosy prospect.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ONE OF YOUR BROTHERS MAY BE ABLE TO HELP

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm 15 years old and a freshman in a local school.

My problem is that I have eight brothers, two of whom go out with girls and have a good time and then come and tell me all about it. They seem to think I know all about how a boy should act with girls.

I don't mind them asking my advice, but it has got around to the neighborhood boys that I'm a good source of information on this subject. So these boys come to me to talk about their arguments with their girl friends, what they do when they are together and a lot of other things. They ask me what kind of stuff they should wear to dances or on other occasions. One boy even asked me for advice, not only on what color suit he should wear to a dance, but of what color flowers he should take to his girl friend.

It is not that I mind these boys asking me for advice, but the trouble is that he's practically the only reason they ever talk to me. I'm not backward, by nature, I guess, and I don't talk too much. Some boys have even said I was cute.

But how can I get boys to think of me as something more than a walking information or sympathy box? I've never gone out on a date with a boy except once, and there has been only one boy that I liked very much and he liked me.

Could you please help me? I'm desperately in need of help.

— M.M.S.

Dear M.M.S.:

I think it's fine that you can be of so much help to your brothers and also to the boys in the neighborhood by giving them advice along the right lines. I can certainly understand, however, that you would like a little attention for your own sake, too.

So let's see, now, how you're going to go about getting it.

Is any one of your brothers close enough to you so that you could talk with him confidentially? If so, I suggest that you have a very frank talk with him and ask him why he thinks it is that so many boys are eager to come to you for help and yet none treat you like a possible date. Tell your brother that you're very glad to give the boys any help you can with their problems, but that you certainly would like to have some fun like the other girls. Ask him if he can help you with this problem, perhaps by arranging a double date for you with some friend of his now and then when he himself is taking a girl out, or otherwise seeing to it that you have a chance to get acquainted with friends of his who aren't tied up with other girls.

At the same time, I think it would be well for you to become active in more things at school, and around town, that other boys and girls go for. Possibly you may have been keeping to yourself more than is wise, and should take steps to gain recognition as a girl who is always busy at some interesting activity. The more interests you have, the more friends you'll make, among whom there will surely be boys as well as girls. And if you show yourself to be the kind of girl who is ready to take part in any proper activity that the others enjoy, you'll soon, I think, find yourself on a par with the other girls so far as the boys are concerned.

One more thing I'd like to suggest is that you talk confidentially to some favorite teacher in school about all this and explain your problem to her just as you've explained it to me. Since she sees you every day, she no doubt knows a lot more about you than you may think, and so can very likely give you some very good advice.

I wish you would let me know if you try out some of these suggestions I have just given you and if you find you're making progress toward solving your problem.

Frittered Strawberries

By Mary Moore

For the first time in three Junes, this family will be together. Pa, Pete's birthday — June 20th.

Wherever we were for the past two years, we all knew the others were eating for dessert Strawberry Shortcake with big berries instead of candles to count his years.

But in 1955 in the Trocadero in London, Doris and I ate Strawberry Flan. The waiter wheeled one of those huge silent hostess trolleys up beside us and from a variety of a dozen strawberry desserts we were invited to take our choice. Each one was so tempting the decision was painful. But for Pete's sake we did make a choice.

But I have wanted to shake things up a bit so decided to have a fling at Strawberry Fritters.

Now as you know, this column has to be written in advance of date of issue so one weekend when Pete and Danny were home they actually helped me make this advance run of fritters. Danny cleaned and hulled the berries for the bitty and crushed those we needed for the sauce. Pete heated and tested the peanut oil, hovered while I flipped the fritters into the oil from plates and then hot until the operation was over.

STRAWBERRY FRITTERS

These amounts are adequate to serve four, but I think you should double this if you have six hearty eaters. One cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 eggs, 4 or 4 1-2 tablespoons water, 1 cup sliced strawberries, powdered sugar, more berries and sugar for sauce. Sift together the baking powder, flour and salt. Add sugar, egg yolks and 4 tablespoon water and stir until smooth adding a little more water if needed. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and the strawberries. Be careful not to thin the batter too much with water for the fruit in cooking softens and thins the batter a little. Drop from greased tablespoons into hot deep fat, I used peanut oil at 365 deg. Fahr. — 1 1-4 inches of it. Fry until golden brown on bottom, then turn over and brown on other side. They should be only turned once. They require about 2 to 3 minutes in all to cook through. Large ones would take 4 to be cooked in the centre. Skim out onto paper towels. Keep hot. Sprinkle with powdered sugar. Serve on hot plates with sauce be the kind of girl who is ready to

FOAMY SAUCE

One half cup butter, 1 cup confectioners' sugar, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons hot water, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cream butter well, gradually add sugar, the egg well beaten, beating constantly and finally the hot water and the vanilla. Heat over hot water, beating constantly, until sauce thickens. Remove from heat and serve.

Note: When raspberry and peach season arrives those fruits may be substituted for strawberries in the above recipe. Bananas and apples may be used too but that is winter fare.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

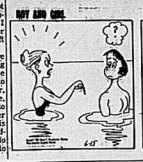
Dear Mrs. Beechman:

You always seem to have such a good time when you write about "The Bride Cuts the Cake" — how it's done, what the guests sing when the bride and groom begin to cut the cake, what this cere mony means, and so forth! And the other day I was delighted to read your reply to the reader who asked you what are the words the guests should sing to "The Bride Cuts the Cake!" I'm treasuring that "Cake Song." Now I have a question I'd like to ask concerning this cake-cutting ceremony.

Bill and I became engaged just before he went to Europe, and when he completes his army service, he is going to be married. We'll be able to have only the simplest and most informal wedding in our church, with a small reception at my home. With such a small, informal reception, as we can have would it be right and appropriate for my self and Bill to cut the cake together, share the first slice with each other, and have the guests sing the Cake Song? Or is this wonderful plan appropriate for only a formal reception?

— A friend



You dear friend — what a charming and appealing letter! Thank you for writing me with such grace and warm friendliness and may God bless every plan you and your Bill are making for your wedding. Yes, indeed it is right and appropriate" to have the Cutting-of-the-Wedding-Cake ceremony at even the smallest and most informal of wedding receptions . . . there's no formality-requirement whatever. So please promise me that you will have a Wedding Cake at your reception . . . that you and your Bill will have a nigh-hearted time cutting the first slice this right hand tenderly but firmly hold over your right hand), that you will share this slice together, thus indicating your always-sharing . . . and that some cheer-leader friend will gaily lead the guests in singing "The Bride Cuts the Cake!" The best of wishes to you and Bill for the best of everything! . . .

SEND WEDDING PRESENT IF YOU WISH

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

A friend of mine is getting married in about two weeks. I have known her for years, but I do not know her fiance. Although the engagement has been announced, I have not had an invitation to her wedding. Shall I send her a gift before her wedding? — A.M.

If you know that invitations were sent out for your friend's wedding and you did not receive one, she naturally would not expect you to send a wedding present. However no matter what the circumstance, if you are so especially devoted to her that you want to send her something for her new home, this gesture would be particularly kind, thoughtful and generous. So do what your heart inclines you to do.

DAINTY DRESS

By VERA WINSTON

Tucking tells the story of this pretty daytime dress, a nice summer job. The fabric is wrinkle-resistant cotton batiste which means that it is cool and easy to care for. A simple turn back collar is effective above the set-in band and bow at the yoke. The tucking of the bodice is released at the hip-line allowing the skirt to fall in soft, flowing lines. Pretty in either a soft rose or misty blue.

Mrs. Diefenbaker to Step Into National Spotlight

OTTAWA (CP)—How does it feel to be the wife of Canada's prime minister-designate?

"I just can't comprehend it yet," says Mrs. Olive Diefenbaker.

Monday night her husband, Progressive Conservative leader John Diefenbaker, accepted Governor-General Massey's invitation to form a new government.

The 61-year-old Saskatchewan lawyer's party won the most seats in the June 10 election to end 22 years of Liberal government. Mr. Diefenbaker is to be sworn into office Friday.

His attractive wife will also step into the national spotlight.

WILL TAKE TIME

"The full realization of what has happened will come only in the process of time," Mrs. Diefenbaker said in an interview Tuesday.

The weeks ahead may mean moving into the official prime minister's residence and shouldering the responsibility of large-scale entertainment.

But thoughts about these things are being left "until we have the right to think about them," she said.

Her most immediate concern was preparing for a 10-day trip to London Monday where Mr. Diefenbaker will attend the Commonwealth prime minister's conference.

For widely-travelled Mrs. Diefenbaker — she's been to Europe twice—it's her wardrobe that's a worry.

"I can't locate some of my clothes, including my best evening dress."

She travelled 20,000 miles in recent weeks helping her husband keep his promised date with political destiny.

HARD ON CLOTHES

After weeks of suitcase living, on her favorite broad brimmed hats and semi-tailored dresses—the missing items may be anywhere between the east and west coasts.

She is hoping some of the missing items are at the Diefenbaker home in Prince Albert, Sask.

Assistant director of guidance for the Ontario education department for eight years before she married Mr. Diefenbaker in 1953, she's a native of Roland, Man., and a graduate of McMaster University.

An individualist, of women in politics she said: "I'm against thinking of women as women."

She noted her husband has promised that women would not be overlooked in any cabinet.

Pretty Iris Tea Sponsored by White Shrine

Bethlehem Shrine, No. 11, held its Iris Tea and home cooking sale yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. Slavin, 161 Bleecker Ave.

A white damask cloth covered the tea table. Multi-colored iris, following the theme of the tea, formed the centrepiece. A silver tea service was placed at either end of the table. Silver candelabra held yellow candles.

The tea room was decorated with vases of pink and yellow roses, orange blossoms and pink peonies. Similar bouquets were placed in other rooms.

Mrs. Violet Slavin, W.H.P., and Mrs. Dora Elvidge, D.D., received the guests, while Mrs. Gladys Grey and Mrs. Ethel Stewart, P.W.H.P., were co-hostesses. Conveners for the afternoon were Mrs. Sally Bush and Mrs. Reta Henning.

PRESIDING

Pouring tea were Mesdames Jean Adams, Gage Smith, Helena Darvell, P.W.H.P., and Emily Stevens, P.W.H.P. Those serving included Mesdames Anne Fisher, Glenna Black, Hazel Baragar, P.W.H.P.; Margaret Stalker, Phyllis Skelly, and Grace Pinch. Mrs. Mabel Adams prepared the tea. Eva Hick, Jane Williamson and Margaret Gill were in charge of arranging.

Replenishing the plates were Gertrude Smale, Elsie Humphreys, Doris Coulombe and Mae Black.

Kaye Bushell and Nan Cathcart were in charge of the home cooking sale. Here the women could purchase tarts, fudge, white cakes, orange bread and fruit loaf. Pineapple and apricot preserves were on sale, as were lemon, cream and strawberry glaze pies. A white bunny cake held the centre of attention. Decorated like a rabbit's head, it had large ears, eyes and nose made of gum drops and a moustache and tie of licorice. The bunny's "fur" was shredded cocoanut.

Mrs. Minnie Moorman, Margaret McKay and Mrs. Mary Hearns were in charge of tickets for the woman's toiletries set. The set contained three bars of soap, talc powder, sachet, bath salts and cologne. It was won by Mrs. Gladys Grey, Chatham St.

Gamma Mu Sponsors Wiener Roast

The closing meeting of Gamma Mu Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, took the form of a wiener roast held at the home of Mrs. R. S. Morphy, on Tuesday evening.

The president, Mrs. J. C. McDonald, conducted a short business meeting. A pair of "drift-wood lamps," intended as the raffle prize for the chapter's annual bridge in September, were on display.

The president, on behalf of the members, presented Mrs. Sam Alexander with a gift before her departure to take up residence in Toronto.

The social part of the evening was arranged by Mrs. J. L. Acton and Mrs. A. J. Wolfenden.

Violin and piano, Handel Sonata No. 1 in 4 Movements: Andante, Allegro, Adagio, Allegro; Raymond Taylor, violin; Miss Leona Riggs, piano.

Royal Family Entertained by The Fairbanks

LONDON (AP)—Actor Douglas Fairbanks Jr., and his wife staged the biggest scoop of the Mayfair social season Tuesday night when they entertained the Royal Family.

More than one duchess was muttering in her tea cup.

The occasion was a spectacular coming-out party for Fairbanks' debutante daughter Daphne—but it was Queen Elizabeth and others of the Royal Family who got most attention.

Last week the Queen declined an invitation to the coming-out dance of lovely Nora Lyle, step-daughter of the Duke of Bedford.

"I asked them all," said the duke, "but they (the Royal Family) were busy."

More than 350 guests went to the Fairbanks' party including Prince Philip, Princess Margaret and Princess Alexandra.

AT CLIVEDEN

The scene of what will go down as one of the most glittering balls of the year was historic Cliveden, in the nearby countryside.

Fairbanks borrowed the country house for the night from a pal, the third Viscount Astor. "It was a personal gesture," said Astor's secretary.

Nov. 19, 1953, Mrs. Fairbanks, daughter of a Bluefield, W. Va., dentist—became the first hostess to be honored by having the Queen as guest at a private dinner. Fairbanks knew Admiral Lord Mountbatten and Mountbatten introduced him to his nephew, Prince Philip.

The Queen made Fairbanks a Knight Commander of the British Empire. This means he would be called Sir Douglas if he was not an American.

Fairbanks now is in the movie and TV business and his listing in Britain's who's who takes up 54 lines—18 more than Prime Minister Macmillan's.

TOUGH
DONNACONA HARDBOARD
BY ALEXANDER MURRAY
ADDS LASTING BEAUTY TO ANY ROOM
A strong, versatile product, Donnacona Hardboard is made from actual wood fibres compressed by a special process into large panels with a smooth, hard surface that resists knocks, scratches, chipping and cracking. Easy to install, they can be laid right over any surface to give low-cost decorative beauty that is both permanent and serviceable.
Donnacona Hardboard has scores of uses — wall panelling, partitioning, remodelling basements, attics, and rooms. The "do-it-yourselfer" will find that casual furniture, wall sections, etc., are easier to build with Donnacona Hardboard.
Ask your local building supply dealer or building contractor about Alexander Murray products.

Women's Institute

IVANHOE W.I.

The June meeting of Ivanhoe W.I. was held recently at the home of Mrs. W. J. Thaner with an attendance of 16 members, seven visitors and five children. The president, Mrs. McIlroy, opened the meeting and read a poem entitled, "The Farm." Correspondence was read and bills were ordered paid.

Mrs. Howard Cooke and Mrs. George Wood were appointed a committee to get the members of the Girls' Club a gift on completing their project.

Community singing was enjoyed with Mrs. Keith Bray at the piano.

Mrs. J. B. Hagerman, convener of public relations and community activities, presided over the program. The motto was given by Miss Jayne Gay, "Kindness is the Oil that Keeps the Hinges of Friendship from Rusting." It was a splendid paper and contained many interesting thoughts.

Mrs. E. Colden sang, "Bless this House."

The topic, "Take Time Out to Live," was given by Mrs. George Wood; a reading, "Father's Day" was given by Mrs. William Donahue. Mrs. Keith Bray sang a solo, "Let's Fill Our Hearts with Love."

The report of the district annual at Cooper was given by Mrs. McIlroy and Mrs. Bray. After the meeting closed, Mrs. Harry Benson conducted a "bird contest."

The hostess and her assistants served appetizing refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed over the tea cups.

DENIM AND WASHABLE TRIMMINGS MAKE HOME-SEWING NEWS

Any woman who does her home sewing at this time of the year will get lots for her money — not only lots of fabric, but lots of easy laundering, lots of easy sewing, and lots of fashion, too. She can certainly get it this summer if she goes in for denim yardage. Denim is reliable, just plain won't wear out, it's easy to cut and stitch, it washes like mad, and it doesn't have to be ironed, if it's dried in the automatic dryer or allowed to drip dry. It's also one of the most fashion conscious fabrics designers are using right now.

There are different weights in denim, you know — the heavy duty yardage that can take all kinds of punishment, and the lighter weight denim that's equally practical and suitable for dressier garments.

As for pattern ideas, how about a couple of denim wrap-around dresses, with cool strap shoulders? If you can make these in the lighter weight denim, you won't have to bother with it lot of underlining. Just slip into this sort of garment, and you're dressed for going to the market, chauffering the children, or doing the housework. A self-fabric string-tie belt will hold everything in place. Or how about a poncho apron to go over a slim denim skirt? Or a blazer jacket for any cool day or evening, to go over anything in your regular summer wardrobe. Striped denim needs no trim. And the solid color fabric looks its best with multiple rows of stitching as trim, or perhaps a touch of checked cotton material for bindings or pockets.

Where your dressier frocks are concerned, however, you will be interested in trimmings and this season's news from the trimming front is reminiscent of Buttercup's song in "Pinafore." You remember, "I've ribbons and laces to set off the faces of pretty young sweethearts and wives."

But the modern ribbons and laces are being produced to take the same kind of laundering that slipcs you use on the clothes which they trim. There's velvet ribbon that can be washed without matting and provide just the right accent to a washable basic dress. Look for nylon lace to add to nylon dresses and slips and blouses. Then, since the trimming manufacturers have taken all your sewing problems into consideration, there are laces made from blends of nylon and cotton or Dacron and cotton to go with fabrics that incorporate these two fibers. At last, the trimming people have recognized what has long been a fact—namely, women who take the trouble to sew want sensible accessories that will take to suds and water, like the garment it sets.

Lacy Loveliness

By ALICE ALDEN

Lace is having a smartly handled and successful season, the choice of top-flight designers everywhere. From the new collection of Jacques Griffe we cull a dress delight, a frock of Chantilly lace in creamy beige. A nice choice for important afternoons and dressy but informal evenings. The French lace is nicely detailed and the long torso bodice is buttoned in the scalloped edge of the lace. An inset of matching mousseline do soie is tied in a bow over the full skirt.

Women's H.A. Gives Report

The Coffee Shop conducted by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary at the Belleville General Hospital hummed with activity on Tuesday afternoon when the president, Mrs. W. H. Finkle, entertained the members following their meeting in the Nurses' Residence.

The meeting, the final one for the season, was the occasion when the conveners of the Opportunity Shop and the Coffee Shop presented the president with cheques representing approximately half a year's proceedings, the last cheque having been presented in December, 1956. Mrs. F. Beebey, convener of the Opportunity Shop, thanked all her workers as she handed Mrs. Finkle a cheque for $1500.

Excellent returns from the Coffee Shop (in its new location) of $800 were presented by Miss Dickens. Miss Merry has kindly agreed to act as convener of the Coffee Shop during the summer months.

Members and friends were asked to save articles throughout the summer for sales at the Opportunity Shop in the fall. Customers came from as far as Deseronto and Bath, the convener reported.

Mrs. J. E. Buchan reported briefly on her trip to the National Council of Hospital Auxiliaries Conference held in Saskatoon recently.

GUEST SPEAKER

The speaker for the afternoon was Harriet Stevens, the Belleville Hospital Auxiliary's delegate to the Public Relations Institute in Toronto conducted by the Ontario Hospital Association, she was introduced by the president who remarked that the speaker "does as much as anyone in Belleville for good public relations."

Harriet Stevens described Burns Hope Saunders as one of the outstanding women speakers at the Institute, who described public relations as a way of life. "A happy, co-operative staff is sensed by patients and their relatives. It rests with each individual to keep a standard of kindness, courtesy and thoughtfulness," Harriet Stevens continued, as she described the interest with which Burns Hope Saunders followed the rest of the Institute meeting. The speaker also described a panel discussion among three members of the press and three hospital superintendents. "Mrs. J. E. Buchan's talk on Hospital-Auxiliary Relations," she stated, "called forth a lively question-and-answer period." Mr. Kenneth Crosz talk concluded the conference.

It was announced that the Fashion Show Committee had made the following slate. The event will be held in November at the Belleville Collegiate auditorium. There will be one show in the evening only.

A membership of 100 was announced.

Members at the meeting were delighted to greet Mrs. W. C. Mikel who was visiting in the city.

GOODWILL

The Goodwill sign is your assurance of an outstanding used car value

One look at our lot tells a story you're bound to like. Because we have cars, cars and more cars—each one of them backed by the reliable Goodwill name . . . a sure sign that there's a used car buy to suit you!

"Goodwill" means a "Good Deal" in whatever used car you select. And here's why! Goodwill Used Cars are sold only by authorized Pontiac or Pontiac-Buick dealers who have met the rigid standards required to display the Goodwill sign. Their reputations—and their businesses—are at stake so they sincerely want to satisfy you.

More than that, to be eligible for a Goodwill Tag, every used car must be carefully inspected and thoroughly reconditioned by qualified mechanics, using modern equipment.

As a result, every Goodwill Used Car is backed by a guarantee that means something . . . a written guarantee which states that the dealer will share the cost of any repairs or replacements due to defective parts or workmanship needed during the guarantee period.

What about service? Because your Goodwill dealer is an authorized Pontiac or Pontiac-Buick dealer, you can be sure of the highest standards of service obtainable anywhere. And you can enjoy the convenience of qualified service departments from coast-to-coast.

So come on in! We have the car you want—backed by the Goodwill name. Buy now before prices rise from the large stock of used cars on display . . . and buy with Goodwill confidence!

RECORD HARVEST OF PULPWOOD ON ITS WAY TO ONTARIO PAPER MILLS

P.M. Designate, Friends Gather To Pay Tribute

PERTH, Ont. (CP)—Dr. William Blair, who could have become a cabinet minister, was buried Wednesday as neighbors and political colleagues gathered to remember a friend.

The 67-year-old doctor, Lanark's member of Parliament since 1945, had been slated to become health minister in the Progressive Conservative cabinet of John Diefenbaker which will be sworn in Friday.

He died of a heart attack on Sunday, six days after his re-election.

Mr. Diefenbaker, prime minister designate, and more than a score of Dr. Blair's Conservative colleagues in the Commons attended the funeral service in the grey-stone St. Andrew's Presbyterian church.

Twenty-four members of the provincial police formed an honor guard. Six more members of the force carried the casket, draped with a Union Jack, from the church and later lowered it into place in the cemetery on the outskirts of town.

LIVED NEXT DOOR

Dr. Blair, a life-long resident of this community 45 miles west of Ottawa, had lived next door to the provincial police office.

In the church the congregation sang the psalm Unto the Hills Around do I Lift up My Longing Eyes.

Rev. R. B. Milroy said Dr. Blair had been a legislator in whom the people had trust, and "a man whom his country could ill afford to lose."

Among the 10 honorary pallbearers were George Doucette, Ontario legislature member from Lanark and former provincial highways and public works minister, and two Conservative Commons members from neighboring ridings, George Hees of Broadview-Prontenac and Hayden Stanton of Leeds.

Dr. Blair's son and daughter, Dr. Arthur Blair and Mrs. Erick Spicer, both of Ottawa, were present. His widow, who suffered a heart attack following his death, is in hospital at Kingston.

Two former party members under whom Dr. Blair served, George Drew and John Bracken, also attended.

A record-breaking 2,622,888 cords of Ontario pulpwood is now on the way to paper mills in the U.S. and Canada, and in its drive from the forest to mill, the pulpwood provides one of Canada's most colorful spectacles. Most of the logs were cut in the winter and left on the ice of lakes to await the spring thaw when they are gathered into log boom and towed by tug as shown in this picture. The tug shown, a mighty mite, chugs along the Nipigon river at the rate of one mile every five or six hours when it has 8,000 cords of wood in tow. Destination of the log boom is Port Arthur, where the logs are lifted into the hold of freighters, second from left, for shipment either to the U.S. or to Canadian mills. Most of the freighters can carry 10,000 cords of pulpwood and hundreds of thousands of cords are transported through the Great Lakes each year. Though the warm weather drive to gather the wood employs only 5,000 men compared to the 20,000 employed in winter in cutting the wood and transporting it to lakes and rivers, many hands are needed in the woods even in summer. Alf Kauhanen, second from right, is one of the log sorters at an intermediate point where logs left in the lush are lashed on trains for transportation to river or lake. Bush camps today, operated by any one of the 56 companies of the Ontario Forest Industries association, bear little resemblance to the old-style log bunk houses. The Long Lac Pulp and Paper Company camp near Geraldton, right, is part of a $60,000 installation that provides 80 woodsmen with running water, showers, recreation rooms and private quarters.

Salk Vaccine Combined With Three Others

EDMONTON (CP) — A major Canadian medical-research development has been revealed in the announcement of a quadruple vaccine for polio, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

The vaccine—a combination of the Salk polio vaccine and the triple antigens now being injected together for the other three diseases—was developed at the Connaught Medical Research Laboratories in Toronto, and now is undergoing extensive tests.

No possible production or distribution date was included in the announcement Wednesday before the Canadian Medical Association convention by laboratory consultant Dr. R. D. Defries. His reference to the new vaccine was brief.

In another scientific paper, Dr. Bruce Chown of Winnipeg said in a discussion of the RH factor that about half the babies who normally would be born dead from this blood disease could be saved if delivery were held for six weeks before the normal termination of pregnancy.

IMPERFECTIONISTS' HEADACHES

Dr. A. M. Bailey of Saskatoon said perfectionists who can't accept criticism without undue stress are prime subjects for headache and should practise moderation—smaller parties, fewer clubs; less responsibility.

Dr. Charles E. Soelling of Toronto ranged over the various "headaches of today" in infants. He blamed environmental factors—including fussing parents—for most of its incidence.

In announcing the new quadruple vaccine, Dr. Defries noted that similar work is under way at two United States research centres. At the Connaught Laboratories, the work started two years ago.

He said there is a current tendency for physicians to give only one series of inoculations. They omit another triple vaccine against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus, or omit the polio vaccine. Some doctors had mixed the two vaccines in one syringe, but this step the antigenic quality of the Salk vaccine was reduced.

"A quadruple vaccine would be a most important contribution and would be welcomed by parents, physicians, and the administrative health authorities," he said.

Scathing Indictment Issued By UN Committee Against Russia's Action in Hungary

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (Reuters)—A United Nations investigating committee today issued a scathing indictment of Soviet actions in Hungary last autumn and of continuing "repressions" to this day by the Russian-imposed Janos Kadar government.

In a 150,000-word report to the General Assembly, the five-member committee referred to "massive armed intervention" by the Soviet Union to crush "a spontaneous national uprising."

It rejected Soviet and Hungarian denials that "freedom fighters" had been deported to Russia and established that "thousands" had been sent there, though, it said, they were not tortured or severed to forced labor.

"There is no doubt," said the report, "as to the aspirations of the immense majority of the Hungarian people . . . for the withdrawal of the Soviet armed forces.

DESIRE STRENGTHENS

"Their will for regaining full international independence is powerful and has only been strengthened by the role played by the Soviet military command in the post-war years by the establishment of a political regime patterned after that of the Soviet Union and more recently by the Soviet military intervention to guarantee that regime's continuance. . . .

"The success of the popular revolution could have restored to the Hungarian people enjoyment of the political rights and fundamental freedoms which the 1949 Hungarian peace treaty had been intended to guarantee. The Soviet armed suppression of the revolution . . . put an end to these hopes. . . .

The report did not establish reliable casualty figures fo the illfated revolt. But it said that an estimate made in the Indian Parliament by Prime Minister Nehru that about 25,000 Hungarians and 7,000 Russians died might "well be too high."

The document, drafted by Keith Shann, youngest ambassador in the Australian diplomatic service —he is envoy to the Philippines—quoted evidence that Soviet soldiers fired on women and children in breadlines, shot up ambulances and dragged wounded Hungarian patriots from hospital wards.

COMMITTEE SHOCKED

It also recorded that the committee was "deeply shocked" by "inhuman treatment and torture of the Hungarian people by their own state security police, the AVH."

The patriots' efforts "collapsed because of the Soviet armed intervention and because no support was forthcoming for them from abroad," the report said.

But at a press conference after the document was circulated, Shann in effect rejected a statement by Henry Cabot Lodge, United States ambassador to the United Nations, that the Suez crisis prevented the world organization taking effective action in Hungary.

The Russians would have intervened on Nov. 4—their second, and successful attempt to crush the rebellion—"no matter what was going on in other parts of the world," Shann said.

The report asserted that many of the Soviet troops brought into Hungary for the second intervention came from Central Asia and "many believed that they were in Korea, with the mission of fighting the Anglo-French 'imperialists'."

EXPECTED SUPPORT

Shann said that many of the 111 Hungarian witnesses that the committee interviewed in New York, Geneva, Rome, Vienna and London made it clear that their people "did expect some kind of support from the United Nations," though they understood that the revolution was not worth a third world war.

"Some of them heard subsequently of the sending of United Nations forces to the Middle East, and they wondered whether a United Nations force of some kind could not have gone to Hungary to act as a sort of police force," Shann added.

They thought the United Nations could have done something. "It was moral force that they were expecting, not military force," the Australian diplomat declared.

At the same time Shann said the committee did not think that the U.S.-sponsored broadcasting network, Radio Free Europe, had "fomented" the revolt. Some of its transmissions were, however, "a little encouraging at times to people looking for encouragement" and the report observed the need for the greatest restraint and circumspection in international broadcasting.

MENTIONS NAGY

The report did not account conclusively for the whereabouts of Imre Nagy, former Hungarian premier who sought asylum in the Yugoslav embassy in Budapest, and then was kidnapped by the Russians. But Shann said the committee had "quite good reason to believe that he is still in Rumania and is held in some form of captivity."

The committee found that the uprising was led by students, workers, soldiers and intellectuals, many of them Communists or former Communists.

It was untrue, the report said, that the uprising was "fomented by reactionary circles in Hungary, or that it drew its strength from 'imperialist' circles in the West."

"The uprising was not planned in advance, but actually took participants by surprise," the committee established.

PLACES WREATH

PARIS (Reuters) — Mayor Nathan Philips of Toronto, on a four-day visit here, Wednesday placed a wreath on the tomb of France's Unknown Soldier at the Arc de Triomphe. Later he was guest of Jean Desy, Canadian ambassador in Paris, at an embassy luncheon.

PARATROOPER DIES

RENO, Nev. (AP)—A U.S. Army paratrooper who won 32 decorations for valor from five nations during the Second World War died Tuesday night in a 10-foot fall from the roof of his garage. Arthur Jackson, a 33-year-old Indian, suffered a broken neck when he slipped and fell from the roof.

Old 'Iron Horses' Replaced By Diesels Go to Scrap Heap

CALGARY (CP)—An old "iron horse," 75 engines from the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks and is replaced by a new diesel locomotive, doesn't go to the museums or isolated branch lines. It goes to the scrap heap.

In the West, these "boneyards" are at the Weston shops in Winnipeg, and the Ogden shops in Calgary. In the East, the work is done at the Angus shops in Montreal.

Last year, because of the rapid progress of dieselization and replacement of steam power, the CPR scrapped some 193 engines. At present market prices each locomotive is worth about $2,000 as scrap, and a fraction of what the big steam locomotives cost to build.

Until a few years ago most CPR locomotives on the region were brought to the shops every year so after completing an average of 100,000 miles, and the process was repeated almost indefinitely.

Now, however, when steam engines have run out their regular mileage they are either scrapped or held in the yard to be repaired as demand. A reserve stock of the latest-class locomotives of the most powerful type is kept in case of a sudden increase in traffic or in case of emergency.

The scrapping yard at nearby Ogden is a lineup of discarded steam locomotives boilers empty, pistons silent. They are pulled into the scrap yard by a diesel.

Gradually, the locomotive reaches the dismantling point. Then burners with acetylene torches and each with an assistant start to strip the engine, which in six days will be nothing but a pile of nuts, bolts, springs, tubes and scrap metal of a dozen different kinds.

After removing some equipment such as headlights, marker lamps, bells, whistles, wheels, pumps, valves, lubricators and other parts that can be used again as replacements for other engines still in service, the men with the torches cut the boiler into six pieces.

Cylinders, wheels, boiler tubes and firebox are lifted out by powerful cranes, sometimes working in double harness.

When work ceases, the engine is separated into 13 classes of scrap, including steel, cast iron, copper, bronze and lead. The largest purchasers of scrap are the steel mills and the scrap metal from an old steam engine may wind up as the raw material for a new diesel.

Between 1953 and the end of 1956, the CPR had scrapped 362 steam locomotives. Every year more are condemned and it won't subside until the CPR's dieselization program is completed about 1961.

U.S. 'Show Flag' Movements Explain Sale of Subs to Egypt

Canadian Press Staff Writer

The "show the flag" movements of the United States 6th Fleet and Russian Mediterranean fleet has provided submarines for Egypt.

The voyage of the three submarines from the Baltic Sea through the English Channel—and their destination caused considerable political and naval headscratching among the Western powers.

The reasoning of the Kremlin rulers in "selling" submarines to Egypt, a non-sea-faring fleet became something of a puzzle.

It seemed especially odd since apparently Egypt has few if any personnel capable of manning such modern, long-range undersea craft.

But a sweet sooner could have a face-saving basis. Nasser's prestige has taken some nasty knocks recently in the Arab world. His pose as the central figure in a united bloc of Arab countries has become fuzzy, to say the least.

King Hussein of Jordan brought his country to the brink of civil war in repudiating a Nasser-inspired move into the Soviet orbit. After Hussein kicked out his pro-Egyptian government and British-Iranian crisis reached its height the U.S. 6th Fleet quickly put to sea from southern France and sailed to the troubled zone.

This show of overwhelming power did much to cool Arab passions at a time when Hussein was by no means solid in his position.

It is possible the Russians decided that something more formidable than Nasser's forces was needed in the Mediterranean to remind the Arabs of various countries that the Soviet, too, is powerful at sea.

The Russian move could also have propaganda value, as it can be claimed that the submarines were supplied by a Middle East country, while the U.S. fleet is a force imposed by a foreign power.

The submarines fit into Soviet Premier Bulganin's plan to disembower doctrine for military and economic aid in the Middle East. And in any case, Nasser doubtless feels the need of greater firepower to keep his erstwhile boosom allies, Saudi Arabia and Jordan, have turned against him.

Expect Canada and Ghana To Hold Spotlight When PM's Parley Held in London

LONDON (CP)—Attention will be focused on the Commonwealth's oldest and newest members—Canada and Ghana—at the conference of prime ministers opening here June 26.

The policies and ideas of the Canadian delegation, which have always commanded attention and respect at previous conferences, have heightened interest this year because of the surprise result of the general election which sends to the meeting the new prime minister, John Diefenbaker.

A near-record turnout of British, Commonwealth and foreign press and radio representatives is expected next Monday to interview the Canadian prime minister on his arrival at London airport.

Another new face at the conference table will be that of Dr. Nkrumah of Ghana. He, too, will hold a special place and not the least interest will centre on the attitude of the Commonwealth's first all-Negro dominion on difference of viewpoint between the western and Asian members of the family of nations. And Nkrumah can be expected to hold strong views on South Africa's controversial apartheid policy.

THREE ASSENT

Prime Ministers Strijdom of South Africa is one of three commonwealth leaders who will be absent when the meetings open at Lancaster House June 26. He will be represented by his minister of external affairs, Eric Louw. Prime Minister Holland of New Zealand has been kept in bed by ill health and Prime Minister Bandaranaike of Ceylon has remained at home to deal with a dispute over the official language.

Although Diefenbaker is largely unknown in Britain, he is generally regarded as favoring closer political and trade ties with the United Kingdom and the Commonwealth — two factors that could have considerable influence on conference discussions.

In recent years Canada has succeeded in winning the trust and confidence of Afro-Asian countries as possibly no other western power has been able to do. Some British observers believe that this position might be weakened if Canada adopted a policy of outright loyalty to the United Kingdom.

Canadian pressure for closer trade links with the U.K.—long advocated by Diefenbaker's Progressive Conservative party—could, conceivably, affect British moves towards joining other European countries in the creation of a free trade area on the continent.

SPEECH SCHEDULED

Besides the normal conference sessions, Diefenbaker will face a heavy round of official and semi-official engagements highlighted by a state dinner being given by the Queen at Windsor Castle for her prime ministers next Wednesday night.

Diefenbaker will address the Canada Club's annual Dominion Day dinner July 1 in London, fulfilling an engagement originally accepted by retiring External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson.

He also is scheduled to attend a memorial service June 30 at the Canadian military cemetery at Brookwood in Surrey.

Traffic Delayed By Derailment Of Thirty Cars

PORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP)—Canadian National Railways service through this Northern Ontario town was expected to be delayed at least 24 hours by derailment today of 30 cars of a freight train near Flanders, 70 miles east of here.

Officials blamed a washout for the mishap. Carloads of merchandise, dynamite, ammunition and explosives were involved.

Work crews were laboring to restore rail service.

Firemen Want Week Shortened To 42 Hours

SUDBURY (CP)—Ontario firemen have voted unanimously to ask the provincial government to shorten their work week to 42 hours.

Hamilton local of the International Association of Firefighters introduced the resolution Wednesday at the 35th annual convention of the Provincial Federation of Firefighters here. It asked an amendment to the Fire Department Act to provide an average 42-hour week and two consecutive days off each week for firemen.

A 60-hour week was urged in a Brantford local resolution which said "practically all labor now has a maximum work week of 40 hours or less, while fire fighters in many communities are still forced to work 56 hours per week." It was passed over in favor of the Hamilton proposal.

The 134 delegates also adopted a Kingston local resolution to investigate a proposal to have the Canadian Labor Congress set up an educational seminar on topics such as collective bargaining for firemen.

COMMIT INVENTOR

LONDON (AP)—John Raymond Bridal, a self-styled inventor, Wednesday was committed for trial on charges he kept Marjorie Jordan, 32, prisoner in a backyard dugout for more than three months. Miss Jordan claimed Bridal seized her by force and she did not released until last April 21, when she attracted attention of a neighbor with a note.

Holdup Foiled By Members of Firm Robbed

TORONTO (CP)—A holdup man was foiled in downtown Toronto Wednesday when employees of the Imperial Credit Collection Agency combined forces after charging into two blocks and recovered $200.

Assistant bookkeeper Mike Kitagawa, 27, of the agency was carrying the money to his office from his bank, when a man struck a brick in his hand forced him to hand over the briefcase containing the cash.

Kitagawa started after him. Another man joined the chase after hearing screams of some women employees returning to the office.

They cornered the holdup man and brought him to the office where a number of employees sat on him.

Police charged Clifford Wilson, 41, with robbery.

Doctors Want Tranquillizer Drugs on Prescription List

EDMONTON (CP) — Canadian doctors want assurance of bargaining rights for their own professional organization before any dispute over fees develops with government or private health-plan agencies.

Acceptance of this "broad general principle" Tuesday by the 186-member parliament of the Canadian Medical Association was described officially as a precautionary step and spokesmen were quick to stress that the CMA does not want to become associated loosely with trade unionism.

Indications were that the association adopted the principle to avert any possible doctor-government stalemate in case a national health plan evolves in Canada.

The resolution read:

"No doctor or group of doctors should enter into an agreement respecting remuneration for professional services with any non-governmental, semi - governmental body, without prior assurance of a recognized system for the arbitration and negotiation of issues such as remuneration and terms of service."

In a second major step, the general council also decided to ask the federal government to put tranquillizer drugs on the prescription list.

Explaining this action, Dr. K. J. R. Wightman of Toronto said there already are 60 or 80 of these drugs on the market in Canada and soon the number will reach 100 or more.

They are out-selling aspirin in the United States Dr. Wightman said, and in Canada the sales "indicate far greater use of them than is necessary in the interests of national health."

He said that in some persons these tranquillizers have the effect of making them "slap-happy and unbridled," or in others result simply in "less tension." Addiction to these drugs was possible over a period of years.

WELLINGTON

Consolidated School Staff Presents Gifts

WELLINGTON — On the evening of June 19th, the staff of the Wellington Consolidated School gathered at Maple Inn, Bloomfield, for a dinner, in honor of members of the continuation school and Miss MacDonald of the public school staff, who are leaving.

Guests were shown their places by attractive place cards, bearing the school crest, made by pupils of Grade 8.

Following a delightful dinner, Mr. Snider addressed the departing members wishing them all the best of everything in their new positions.

A gift of leather was presented to each member, Mr. Scott, Miss Kincade, Miss Quinn, Miss Martineau and Miss MacDonald by the staff.

RAWDON

Golden Wedding Festival Marked By 'At Home'

RAWDON—Sunday afternoon and evening Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sharpe, Consecon, were "At Home" to relatives and friends on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

The bride of 50 years ago received the guests wearing a gown of satin silk with lace trim and a corsage of pink carnations. Her bridegroom of 1907 assisted her.

The dining table was centred with a large anniversary cake appropriately lettered and decorated with a miniature bride and bridegroom perched on the top layer. The table was laden with food for the festive occasion. Gold servistries were used.

The eldest daughter (Dorothy) Mrs. Chris Krog, Royal Oak, Michigan, poured and the four other daughters were in charge of the serving. They were Mrs. Herb (Luella) Millar, Smiths Falls; Mrs. Leonard (Winnie) Carmichael, Belleville; Mrs. Ken (Marie) Johnson, Belleville and Mrs. Aubrey (Audrey) Bruyea, Barrie. Several of the older grandchildren, as well as cousins and aunts of Mrs. Sharpe, assisted with various duties. Mr. A. Babcock, Wiscoonia, was in charge of the guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe have 25 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. There were 17 grandchildren and one great grandchild in attendance at the wedding anniversary party.

The daughters presented their parents with a 21-inch television set and the couple received a golden wool blanket with satin trim, gold trimmed tea pot, ball towels, bouquet of cut flowers and many other gifts.

During the day Mr. Sharpe's sister (Rose) Mrs. Boulter MacMullen, of Winnipeg, Manitoba, telephoned her greetings.

Mrs. Sharpe is the former "Flo" Babcock of Consecon. She came to Mount Pleasant in Rawdon township soon after her marriage in June, 1907. While at Mount Pleasant, Mr. Sharpe carried on the business of custom threshing for farmers over a large territory and was well-known in Rawdon township where he was born, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Sharpe.

A large number of people from Ivanhoe, Marmora, Stirling, Campbellford, Belleville, Trenton and Prince Edward County as well as from places in the United States and distant points of the province, attended.

Union Gas Given Right to Build 140-Mile Line

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario fuel board has announced granting of a certificate to Union Gas Company of Canada Limited and its subsidiary, Ontario Natural Gas Pipeline Limited, permitting them to construct a natural gas pipeline from Dawn Township in Lambton County to the border of Peel and Halton Counties.

The certificate was granted following board hearings last month of objections by landowners along the proposed right of way who said it would decrease the value of their land.

The certificate of "public convenience and necessity" will allow Union Gas to construct the 140-mile pipeline from its storage pool in Dawn Township, near Chatham, with branch lines to the cities of London, Stratford, Kitchener, Waterloo, Guelph and Hamilton and the towns of Strathroy and St. Marys.

The fuel board stipulated certain restrictions to protect property owners—the pipeline is to be buried deep enough so as not to affect natural or constructed drainage systems; the land around it is to be restored as closely as possible to its natural state after construction and any easements granted are to be for the use of the pipeline only.

Disputes are to be referred to the fuel board for hearings.

Hog Producers Expect Vote On Market Plan

TORONTO (CP)—Leaders of the Ontario Hog Producers' Association Tuesday warned members at its annual convention to prepare for another vote on their marketing program.

Legal adviser H. E. Harris referred to the opposition against the marketing scheme recently approved by Ontario tobacco growers in a plebiscite and said:

"If there is a vote on the hog scheme you must be prepared if you are to win. If a vote is called and if it carries, your position and that of organized agriculture everywhere will be greatly strengthened."

Later, president Charles McInnis told delegates that if there is a vote "the packers will go all out to defeat it, and we must be prepared to defend our system under which the farmer handles the sale of his own produce."

Neither speaker indicated who might ask for such a vote under the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act. But observers said the initiative might come from the provincial government itself. The existing marketing scheme was challenged after it was set up in 1953. Since then the marketing act has been changed and the government would hold another vote presumably to get approval or disapproval of producers under the amended legislation.

Madoc Junction

MADOC JUNCTION — On Thursday afternoon the members of Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A. went to Thomasburg where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Dyson at the parsonage.

The W.A. vice-president, Mrs. Robert Danford, presided over the program which had been prepared by Mrs. Frank Smith and Mrs. Bruce Stapley.

The W.A. president, Mrs. Carl Bridges, took charge of the business period.

The July meeting is to be held at the church on the afternoon of July 11.

The Baby Band leader, Mrs. Murney Kirkey, and the Mission Band leader, Mrs. Maurice Clancy, are to prepare the program.

Community, WA Present Farewell Gifts

MINTO — On Tuesday evening a farewell party was held in the Orange hall for Mrs. A. Dafoe who is leaving to make her home with her brother, in Saskatchewan. The Rev. G. Teskey acted as chairman and spoke highly of the esteem in which Mrs. Dafoe was held in this community, mentioning that she will be greatly missed both in the church and by her many friends and neighbors.

Community singing was enjoyed and Mrs. Everett Sine and Mrs. Albert Twiddy gave suitable readings.

Misses Mary and Margaret Ray, Barbara Twiddy and Helen Lake sang, also Carol and Burton Sine rendered a duet, accompanied by their mother on the guitar.

Mr. Burton Heagle read the address and Mrs. Orval Jackson and Mrs. John Courtney made the presentation of a suitcase and house coat from the community.

Mrs. Harry Mayo also read an address from Salem W.A. and Mrs. Lorne Hagerman presented Mrs. Dafoe with a pin and ear ring set. Mrs. Dafoe graciously replied, Mr. Sharpe, her brother, also spoke on her behalf. "For She's A Jolly Good Fellow" was sung.

Mr. Teskey extended congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Mowat Sine who were celebrating their 38th wedding anniversary and Mr. Sine spoke briefly. Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

On Saturday afternoon, a most successful auction sale was held of Mrs. Dafoe's household effects.

Wellington

WELLINGTON — The monthly meeting of the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Mutual Aid Firemen's Association, was held in Batawa last Wednesday evening. Mr. Garratt Harris and Mr. Jack Ogilvy, firemen of Wellington and members of the association, were in attendance at the meeting.

Mr. Ross Bovay, O.P.P., of Campbellford, returned to resume his police duties after spending two weeks' holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bovay and other friends in the county.

Messrs Donald Baitley, Clifford Channel, Joe Scott, Bill Yandt, Doug McFaul, Hugh East, Earl Wannamaker and Harry MacDonald enjoyed the weekend on a fishing trip at Gilmore. They were surprised on Saturday afternoon when Elliott Shannon and Cary Harris, who were flying to Arnprior, dropped in and spent an hour or so with them.

Mrs. Garratt Harris and Debbie spent a few days last week in Toronto with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Beales.

Donnie McNeill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack McNeill, underwent an appendectomy on Friday at the Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Osterhout, Diane and Janice, of Toronto, were weekend guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Baitley, Wellington and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Osterhout, Burr's.

Mrs. R. Watt is a guest at the home of her son, Mr. John Watt, and Mrs. Watt and family.

Mrs. Elizah Thompson spent last week at Foxboro with her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Mann, and family.

Mrs. Earl Pearson is a guest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Wallace, while her husband, Sgt. Pearson, is at Gagetown on manoeuvres.

Mrs. W. H. Teskey accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Hilton McCartney of Picton on a motor trip to Wooster, Ohio, where they are spending this week with their son, Dr. M. G. McCartney. Mrs. McCartney and family. Mrs. Teskey went on to Cleveland where she will visit her nieces, Mr. and Mrs. David Sanderson, and Miss Ramona Baker.

A nice crowd attended the auction sale at Mrs. Vanderwater's on Saturday. Mrs. Vanderwater has sold her residence to Mr. and Mrs. Paddy Wight and is leaving Wellington to make her home in Deseronto. On Monday evening, her neighbors had a farewell party for her at the home of Mrs. Arthur Goodmurphy and Mrs. Glendon Sanders. After a social time was spent and a contest, Mrs. Vanderwater was presented with an electric frying pan. Refreshments were served by her friends.

Mrs. Charles Greer spent a few days in Trenton, guest of her son, Mr. George Greer, and Mrs. Greer.

Mr. and Mrs. Rod Williams, David and Dannie, of Detroit, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dick and family. On Saturday evening they called on Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bishop and enjoyed seeing their old home once more.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Ferguson and boys of Denbigh were in Toronto. Mrs. A. Ogilvy spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. A. Phoney and Mrs. M. Myall while Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ogilvy and boys attended the baseball game when the first 9,000 boys accompanied by their fathers each received a baseball bat. Donnie is now the proud owner of one of these bats.

The lovely flowers on the altar of the United Church on Sunday were placed there by Mrs. Arnold Vanderwater and family in memory of the late Mr. Arnold Vanderwater, and by Mr. and Mrs. Bert Head and family in memory of Mr. John E. Pitch.

Special music was rendered by the men's choir at the Sunday morning service in the United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug McCoy and family from Toronto spent the weekend at their summer home, here.

Mr. Tom Schmeler, of Kapuscasing, his brother, George, and aunt and uncle of North Bay, spent several days last week with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Marshall.

Mrs. Harold Morton, Kingston, spent the weekend at her summer cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed MacDonald are staying for a while with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug Thompson and Mrs. Susie Down were Sunday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Thompson, Bloomfield.

Mr. Don Moreau, who is relieving Mr. A. T. Fleming at the C.N.R. station, is staying with Mr. and Mrs. E. Pearsall.

Salmon Industry Faces Crisis as Strike Called

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Pacific salmon industry faces a new crisis as fishermen prepare to strike Saturday.

Negotiations between the 5,500-member United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union and the Fisheries Association of British Columbia broke down Tuesday.

Homer Stevens, union secretary, said: "We see no prospect of a change in the situation. We now are going into a strike."

The fishermen are demanding increases in minimum guaranteed prices for net - caught salmon ranging up to seven cents a pound. The Fisheries Association, representing canners, has offered increases up to two cents over prices paid last year.

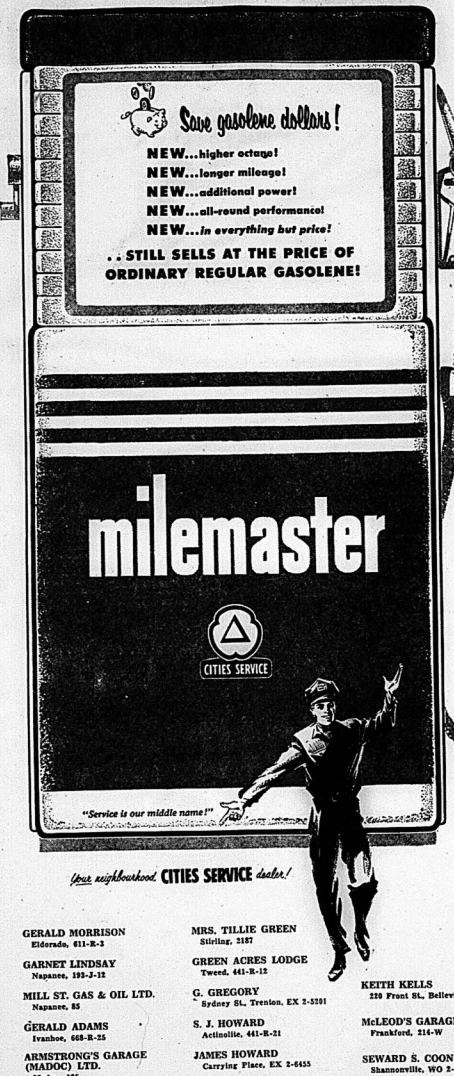
The $50,000,000-a-year industry, fourth largest in B.C., has been threatened during recent years, first by demands that the Columbia and the Fraser, "last of the great salmon rivers of the world," be harnessed for power, and more recently by a manpower shortage. The industry now employs about 19,000 men and women, fishermen and cannery workers. Most would likely be affected by a walkout.

Neither side foresees any resumption in negotiations, although E. C. Harrison, Fisheries Association vice-president, would say only that negotiations "have been stalled."

Mr. Harrison said any increase in prices would have a disastrous effect on sales. The new minimum price now being offered by the operators for sockeye salmon would be the highest on record.

guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eckert Pearsall, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mel Hudson and boys spent Saturday with Rev. J. U. and Mrs. Robins on their return to Toronto. Rev. and Mrs. Robins accompanied them and will spend a few days there. On Monday they will celebrate their 54th wedding anniversary. Congratulations!



Mrs. Tom Boyle and Mrs. Edna Pyne were guests on Sunday of Mr and Mrs. Clare Boyle and family, Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lane and family motored to Madoc on Sunday morning and had dinner with Rev. J. F. Lane. In the afternoon they motored to Oakwood, where they attended the Lane family picnic. Mrs. J. F. Lane, after spending a week in Oakwood with her mother, Mrs. Rich, returned to her home in Madoc.

Little Miss Nancy Bovay, of Picton, is spending a few days with her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bovay, this week.

The Allison family held its annual Father's Day picnic at the Wellington Park on Sunday. Those who attended were: Mr. and Mrs. John Allison, of Fort Stewart; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Thompson of Tweed; Mr. Arthur Allison, of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Allison and Norma, Mr and Mrs. Andrew Allison and family and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Allison and girls, all of Wellington.

Jimmy Champ Captures Derby At Parkhill

PARKHILL (CP) — Jimmy Champ, one of the most steady-going campaigners on the Ontario harness racing circuit captured the Ontario Pacing Derby here Wednesday in a split decision with Evelyn Conant. The game horse from Norm McIntyre's stable at Charing Cross, well driven by Dunc Campbell, won the second division of the main event before more than 2,000 fans.

Evelyn Conant, owned by Hugh McLean of Port Elgin, won the first mile whirl in 2:11. Campbell gave Jimmy Champ his head in the second heat and made no mistake as he won in 2:10 2-5.

Easter Sunday Bars, owned by Dr. G. A. House of Mitchell, took the 2:30 pace in handy style. In the 2:22 it was Flashy Hall all the way in both heats. Owned by Charles Godbolt of Exeter and handled by Jiggs McFadden, the pacer went to the front early in both heats and had a time of 2:14 2-5 in the first.

Hogan Awarded $5,000 Damages

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Golfer Ben Hogan was awarded $5,000 damages Wednesday against a New York publishing company which portrayed his technique in a book, Golf with the Masters, brought out two years ago.

Judge Peter F. Hagan of common pleas court ruled that W. S. Barnes and Company had "misappropriated" Hogan's property rights "in the commercial value of his name and photograph." Hogan said he had not authorized Barnes to use text and illustrations pertaining to his style.

The judge decided that the book, written by Dave Camerer, created "unfair competition" for Hogan's own book, Power Golf, which, it was noted, has earned nearly $83,000 in royalties since 1937.

Young Hurlers Blooming in Major Leagues

NEW YORK (AP)—A fine crop of young pitchers is blooming in the major leagues while many established stars are having their troubles.

Within the last 10 days, two rookies have turned in flashy performances that hint of future success. Von McDaniel, the St. Louis Cardinals' $50,000 bonus pitcher, made himself at home with two excellent relief jobs. And Danny McDevitt, a Brooklyn recruit from St. Paul, broke in with a victory over Cincinnati, striking out 11 Redlegs.

The list certainly would have to include Dick Drott, who whiffed 15 Milwaukee Braves May 26 to provide Chicago Cubs one of their few bright moments.

Philadelphia's Jack Sanford who returned last fall from army service, already has an 8-1 record.

Here are the records of some of the better-known pitchers compared with unexpected performances by other members of the same staff.

(All records through games of June 18)

Braves—Frank Lary, 4-7, Jim Bunning, 7-1.

New York Yankees — Whitey Ford, 9-1, Bobby Shantz, 8-1.

Washington—Chuck Stobbs, 6-11, Truman Clevenger, 5-4.

New York Giants—Johnny Antonelli 5-6, Al Worthington, 5-4.

Philadelphia—Robin Roberts 8-6, Jack Sanford, 8-1.

St. Louis—Vinegar Bend Mizell 1-4, Larry Jackson, 8-3.

Edgemere Stakes At Belmont Won By Admiral Vee

NEW YORK (AP) — Edward Seinfeld's Admiral Vee turned in a brilliant effort Wednesday in capturing the $28,350 Edgemere Handicap at Belmont Park, N.Y.

The five-year-old colt won first money of $19,300 by stepping the 1¼ miles in a brisk 1:49 3-5. Third Brother, the 5-to-2 favorite, placed second, while Kingmaker ran third.

Smashing Heliscope's tack record by 2 1-5 seconds, Montpelier's Nahodah overwhelmed five opponents in winning the $16,775 Salvator Mile by eight lengths at Monmouth Park, N.J.

Ridden by Joe Culmone and carrying top weight of 118 pounds, he stepped the mile in 1:34 3-5 as compared to Heliscope's mark of 1:36 4-5 set two years ago.

Skipper Billie was second and Tudor Era third.

Tough Racing At Connaught

OTTAWA (CP)—Attorney Boy from Durham, Ont., paced the mile in 2:17 3-5 to capture the Lanark County Pace at Connaught Park Wednesday night. C. Watt was the driver.

Widower Pat Can from Owen Sound with W. Hopkins at the reins was second and Lady Normby from Hanover handled by Jake Giesel was third.

Miss Pembroke from Tilsonburg driven by Hel Curran won a D mile pace in 2:17 2-5. Henry Patch from Midland was second and Vans Silver Boy from Allister third.

Brad C Lee from Perth with W. Palmer in the sulky took another D mile pace in 2:12 4-5. King Peter from Dundas was second.

Orr Klassock drove Just Van from Haliburton to victory in another D mile pace in a time of 2:14 4-5. Miss Saddle from Owen Sound was second and Billie Chips from Iroquois showed.

Wife of Trainer Bob Watt Has Become Fixture on Prairie Racing Circuit

CALGARY (CP)—A small dark-haired woman known as "mother" to everyone from horse-owners to stable sweepers has become a fixture on the prairie horse-racing circuit in the last 12 years.

Even the horses seem to respond to "Mom's" touch.

Mrs. R. J. Watt has done more than merely lend moral encouragement to the racing set. She has pitched in and done most of the behind-the-scenes jobs that keep the horses in racing condition.

She is the wife of trainer Bob Watt, whose handling of race horses has made the Maxwell King stable of Winnipeg one of the outstanding Canadian stables.

HAS OWN HORSES

Until a few weeks ago Mrs. Watt was not officially a trainer, although she always managed to wind up with most of a trainer's duties. Then she bought a horse herself.

"I always try to help Bob," she said. "I walk the horses, do the stables—in fact, anything that needs doing."

Her own horse, Bonnie Spence, must adhere to the same training schedule as the seven or so other horses in the stable.

"We get up at five in the morning, have coffee at the barn and then start to work," she said. "We have a regular routine, you know, which usually ends about 11 o'clock. We're back at the barns at three and stay till the last race is over. That's 9:30 or later."

Besides touring racing centres on the prairie circuit, Mrs. Watt has travelled to Florida and Eastern Canada, shipping right along with the horses and her husband.

MAKES HER BED

"When we set out for Florida I got some clothes I thought would suit the climate, like light slacks and jeans. Well, we left Winnipeg in 25-below weather and when we got to sunshine park we found it was 80 above at eight in the morning. I had to buy a new wardrobe right down to some cool shorts."

Because racing is her "spread and butter", Mrs. Watt follows each race. She refuses, however, to bet.

"I'm a poor bettor," she laughs. "I'd rather see that two dollars in my pocket than somebody else's."

Their only son, 18, is in the army and quite used to his mother's wanderings.

"Mom" is interested in other sports and she knits a mean stitch, but racing "is my life."

Oakville Oaks Move Further Out in Front

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A two-run gopher pitch served up by Kitchener-Waterloo's Howie Hupp Wednesday night knocked the Dutchmen out of second place in the Senior Intercounty baseball league and moved Oakville Oaks farther out in front in the six-team race.

Bob Salvisburg powered Hupp's 3-2 pitch out of the park with teammate Murray Scott on base to provide the winning magin in Oakville's 4-1 victory over the visiting Dutchmen.

The win increased Oakville's first-place lead to a half game over St. Thomas Elgins with Dutchies dropping into third, 1 ½ games off the pace.

In the Great Lakes - Niagara League, Tonawanda Chicks scored all their runs in the sixth inning, coming from behind to defeat Welland Switzens 5-3 and tie Switzens for first place in the three-team division of the six - team league. Each club has 4-3 record.

Argos Sign Centre

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union today announced the signing of Jim Matheny, six-foot-one, 225-pound centre and linebacker from UCLA. He is Argos' 23rd new import.

Matheny has one more year of college ball but is ineligible to play here because of valuation of amateur subsidization regulations.

WELFARE OFFICERS MEET

KINGSTON (CP) — More than 250 delegates from the Welfare Officers Association are expected to attend the annual meeting of the welfare section of the Ontario Municipal Association here. The three-day meeting begins today. Speakers include Ontario Welfare Minister Cecile.

Head, Gibson Draw Tough Starting Games

LONDON (Reuters)—Both Lew Hoad of Australia and Althea Gibson of the United States, top-seeded stars in the Wimbledon tennis championship which starts Monday, have drawn tough starting matches.

Both were seeded Tuesday to win the men's and women's singles Wimbledon is regarded as the amateur tennis world championship.

Cooper is seeded No. 2.

Miss Gibson has a first-round bye before meeting Mrs. Susie Kormoczy, a Hungarian housewife who always does well at Wimbledon.

CANADA'S TOP TOURNAMENT

Chances have never been better for a Canadian to win Canada's top golf event, Ken Murray, the Labatt Open Tournament manager, said recently.

When the play-for-pay brigade shoot for $25,000 at Islesmere, July 4-7 the field will include Stan Leonard, Al Balding and Gerry Kesselring who are showing increasing results on the P.G.A. circuit.

Leonard, who tied Gene Littler for first place in the tournament years ago is "a definite favorite" for the big pay-off next month. Islesmere's home pro, Stan Horne, who described Leonard "as undoubtedly Canada's best golfer," figures the veteran professional has several advantages.

Stan Leonard, Horne points out, took the measure of Islesmere's 6645 yard layout as long ago at 1941 when Leonard won the PGA championship here with a score of 291. It was his second PGA title and Stan went on to win it three times again. Then at the age of 38 Leonard left an attractive club berth to hit the tournament trail. His confidence and decision were pretty well based on his 1955 success at Summerlea where Leonard took Gene Littler into a play-off for the Labatt Trophy.

Since then Stan's tournament game has continued to get better, Stan Horne points out. This summer Canada's best golf hope has picked up more than $8,000 in tournament winnings before the season was well underway. Last year he collected some $13,000 on the PGA circuit.

* * *

Al Balding, the 32-year-old pro from Toronto, has missed money in only two of the past ten big tournaments and is as likely as any contender Leonard must beat for first place Labatt money. Al grossed some $10,000 last year and early this summer collected some $4,000 in tournament winnings on the circuit. Al has been credited with the "best looking swing on the PGA tour" and one expert on the PGA circuit recently "Baldwing is the closest thing to Snead among present day pros when it comes to hitting the ball."

Al has picked up only a small share of Labatt purses in the past four seasons as compared with nearly $6,000 collected from this tournament by Stan Leonard. Next month may change their comparative lot.

Gerry Kesselring, the young Kitchener professional who has hung onto the tournament trail without much monetary success these past three seasons, has now apparently hit his tournament stride. Last week in the US Open preliminaries Kesserling shot a two-round score of 134, just one stroke off the pace set by the leaders. His first round score of 64 was the best of the day among all the continent's best golfers fighting for a place in the US Open field. "I've been beating myself for three years, figuring I've got to shoot 67 or 68 to get in the money," Kesselring admitted. "Now I've realized that I don't have to shoot in the 60's every round to come in with a good score."

Among the top money contenders for the Labatt purse, Ken Murray also cites Bill Kerr, Stan Horne and Pat Fletcher. "All three have won top tournaments in this country consistently and have held their own with the best of the PGA circuit in past Labatt events," he says.

* * *

RASSLIN'

Pat O'Connor, Irish matman from New Zealand, and Farmer Boy, North Carolina hayseed who can sing as well as fling will be the crowd favorites here Friday night when they meet a pair of measures, Frits Von Erich and Hardboiled Haggerty in the weekly wrestling program.

These two gentlemen, as well as Erich and Haggerty, will be in the feature bout at Belleville Memorial Arena. While the officials claim this is a tag-team bout with only a man from each side in the ring at once, our guess is that, whoever draws the referee's job will have a task on his hands. Haggerty and Erich may not follow this rule, or any other, to the letter.

* * *

Two of the game's more colorful characters will collide in a special preliminary affair. Baron Gattoni, husky Italian nobleman, will be opposed by Prince Maiava, bushy-haired Samoan. According to Mr. Tunney's office in Toronto, neither of these chaps speak or understand English and both will be escorted about by his manager.

The opening go will have Ronnie Etchison, popular Missouri fireball, versus Jack Pesek, this bout getting under way at 9.00 p.m.

Only 7 Percentage Points Behind Braves for Top Spot; Sox Not Hitting But Win

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Okay. so the St Louis Cardinals look great, just a half game out of the National League lead. But you've got to split the credits between a long streak and a short memory.

They hustled to 20 victories in the last 27 games, winning 13 of the last 16, and jumped from sixth 9½ games behind, to within seven percentage points of the first-place Milwaukee Braves. Trouble is they were only three points out of the lead at this stage a year ago—then went into a last-June swoon that dumped them out of the race for a fourth place finish, 17 games behind.

After 57 games in 1956, St. Louis was 32-25 and 4½ games behind to first-place Cincinnati's 31-24 (.564). At Monday's standings it was 32-24 (.571) to Milwaukee's 34-24 (.586).

SWEEP TWIN BILL

The Redbirds moved in on Ilraves Wednesday night, sweeping Pittsburgh 5-2 and 3-1 in a twi-night doubleheader as Milwaukee's Bob Buhl and Braves' Ald ad Burdette games with his third consecutive four-hitter in a 6-0 victory over New York Giants.

Nobody else did much of anything in the jumbled quarters of the league's first division. Cincinnati ended its four-game slump, coming from behind on home runs to beat Brooklyn 4-3, leaving Redlegs and Dodgers two games behind with the Brooks in third place by two percentage points. Philadelphia slipped to fifth, 2½ behind, with a twin loss at Chicago, 9-0 and 4-3.

Cardinals, a surprising 24-10 road club, gained a 9-14 record at home with their fifth double-leader sweep of the year (they won only four all last season). Sam Jones won his fourth in the opener, striking out 10 and limiting the Bucs to only four hits after the first inning as Cards broke a 2-2 tie with three in the seventh. Hobie Landrith's double drove home the winner and Joe Cunningham then paced a way with a two-run pinch homer as Ron Kline lost his 10th.

STRETCHES STREAK

Wally Moon swated a two-run homer as the Redbirds scored three in the nightcap first against Bob Purkey. Stan Musial, now No. 4 in the all-time list with 831 consecutive games, hit his 15th homer and stretched his hitting streak to 19 games as young Lindy McDaniel won his seventh.

Buhl, whose other four-hitters were against Milwaukee and Philadelphia for a three-game winning streak, got a quick lead as Henry Aaron matched Yankee Mickey Mantle for the major league homer lead with his 19th in the third inning. Wes Convington added a three-run homer in the fifth. Robin Gomez, who has won nine, lost his fourth.

Both Redleg homers were two-run jobs in the seventh, with Bob Thurman delivering his fourth pinch-hit drive ahead of on Hoak's clincher. Ted Kluszewski, benched midst boos and cat calls follow-ing continued back trouble, got nothing but cheers with a pinch double before Hoak's homer that beat reliever Clem Labine. Tom Acker won his seventh, shutting out the Braves until they scored three in sixth, two on Elmer Valo's home run.

Ernie Banks and Walt Moryn, each belting two home runs for the day, connected for successive wallops in the nightcap eighth to win for young Moe Drabowsky, who also needed Turk Lown's relief help. Rookie Dick Drott won his sixth with a three-hitter and eight strikeouts in the opener.

Miami Marlins Take Twin Bill From Toronto

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons have no complaints when the International League schedule pits them against the league-leading Richmond Virginians. They are the only ones to hold a season series edge over the Vees.

The Bisons made it eight of 14 Wednesday night behind the masterful three-hit pitching of Walt Craddock to nip the Virginians 4-2.

With Richmond having trouble with third-place Buffalo, second-place Toronto Maple Leafs blew a big chance to narrow the gap. Miami Marlins snapped a six-game losing streak at the expense of the Leafs by taking a double-header, 5-2 and 14-3. Rochester Red Wings climbed back into fourth place by defeating Columbus Jets 6-5. Montreal Royals won the second game of a doubleheader 3-1 after Havana Sugar Kings won the seven-inning opener, 5-1.

GAINS SEVENTH

Craddock, in gaining his seventh victory against four defeats for Buffalo had a big assist from power man Luke Easter. The big first baseman belted another tape measure home run—his second in two days. It was a 400 foot drive over the right center field wall and it followed a home run by Lou Ortiz. Both came in the sixth inning. Easter also doubled over the centre field fence for Bisons in the first inning.

With Calvin Collum scattering 11 hits, the last-place Royals made good use of their seven hits off Toronto pitchers Lou Kretlow and Cuecheo.

A two-run fifth inning gave Montreal the winning margin. Harry Schwegman's double, a walk and a single off Tom Bloss in for Bobby Del Greco's two-run single.

In the opener, Billy Harris limited the Sugar Kings to two hits in five innings before they exploded for five runs in the sixth.

FINE HURLING

At Miami, the second game featured fine relief pitching by Ray Scmpruch and two home runs by Frank Herrera. The Miami first baseman was the big gun for the one man on and the other in the fifth with two aboard. Herrera got his fifth and sixth circuit clouts of the season.

Toronto got away to a one-run lead in the first inning of the opener but Miami went ahead in the third by scoring three times.

Miami won it in the third after one was over. Carl Abrams and Don Landrum hit doubles to bring in two runs. A walk to pitcher and Ed Blake's wild pitch scored another to put the Marlins in front to stay. Bobby Young hit a triple and single for Miami while Landrum also got a single to go with his double.

SPEED BOAT QUALIFIES

DETROIT (CP)—Miss Supertest II, owned by Gordon Thompson of London, Ont., qualified Wednesday for Saturday's Henry Ford Memorial Trophy race on the Detroit River.

Miss Supertest whipped along the river at an average speed of 87.09 miles an hour to qualify.

Seven others on the river prevented other speed boats from making qualifying runs. They will try again today.

Ottawa Signs Three More

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders have signed three more players — two Americans and a Canadian—for the forthcoming Big Four football season, coach Frank Clair announced Wednesday.

The imports are Elijah Childress 25-year-old 250-pound tackle from Prairie View A. and M College, Texas, and Al Sigman, 22, 215-pound, six-foot tackle from University of Michigan.

The Canadian is Boris Kotoff, 22, who will be starting his fourth yea with Rides when Ottawa training camp July 15. He will probably be working out of the fullback slot this season.

Marlene One of Four Former Champions Still in Running

TORONTO (CP) — Among the nicknames Marlene Stewart Streit has picked up along the golf trails is "Little Miss Iceberg." Her cool play when the going is tough has proved she deserves the title.

But, as so often happens, it was her opponent who got the chills in the Dominion Ladies golf championship at the Weston Golf and Country Club Wednesday.

Gail Harvey, 14-year-old Toronto schoolgirl, came down with a case of nerves and lost 4 and 5 to the Canadian, U.S. and Ontario defending champion from Lookout Point, Penhill.

Marlene was one of four former Ontario titleholders to remain in the running as the championship fight was reduced to eight players.

EASY VICTORY

Rae Milligan of Jasper, Alta., 1955 winner, easily defeated Noreen Laing of Toronto Mississauga former Ontario junior champion, 8 and 6.

Ada Mackenzie of Toronto Ladies, trying for her eighth victory, won 4 and 2 over Marion Walker of Mississaugua.

Mrs. Douglas Sharpe, Marlene's clubmate at Lookout Point who won in 1953 and 1954, squeezed out a 1-up victory over Kay Helleur of Woodbridge.

Other players in the quarter-finals, first of today's two 18-hole rounds, were Mrs. Lionel Ross of Cobourg who beat Mrs. M. J. Carlton of Toronto Rosedale 4 and 2; Roma Neundorf of Toronto Ladies who won 2 and 1 over Mrs. H R. Armstrong of Weston; Mrs. J. H. Hunter of Toronto Lambton, winner on the 19th over Margaret Hunter of Toronto Golf, and Elva Carroll of Toronto Chedoke, 2 and 2 over Shirley Woodley of Toronto Ladies.

CLOSE BATTLE

As expected, the Sharpe-Helleur match was the closest. Mrs. Sharpe was up two after the third. Mrs. Helleur went one hole up, taking the fourth, seventh and eighth but Mrs. Sharpe rallied to win the ninth and they made the turn all even. The Penhill player won the 10th and 11th, lost the 12th and 15th, then took the 16th and halved the final two holes to win. Mrs. Streit's reputation apparently was too much for Miss Harvey who had become the tournament sensation by upsetting Mrs. J. C. Whitelaw, formerly a leading Quebec golfer, 1-up in the previous round.

While Marlene played close to par all the way, winning eight of the 13 holes played, Miss Harvey wasn't up to her usual game and managed to take only the fourth with a birdie two and the 10th with a par. Mrs. Streit ended the match by winning three in a row and was one over par for the 19 holes.

CONSTRUCTION TO START

CHATHAM (CP) — The new Maple City Golf and Country Club announced Wednesday it would start construction next week on a nine-hole golf course in the nearby Louisville area, bordering on the Thames River. Cost will be about $100,000.

Club officials said they are arranging further financing to extend the course eventually to 18 holes.

SCORES TENNIS UPSET

LONDON (AP)—Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., four-time Wimbledon winner, was upset by a little known South African Wednesday in the third round of the Queen's Club tennis tournament. Mrs. Penny Fannels defeated the veteran Mrs. Brough 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

Lightweight Champ Brown Puts Orlando Zulueta Away With TKO in 15th Round

By FRANK PITMAN

DENVER (AP) — Lightweight champion Joe Brown, winner by a 15th round technical knockout over Orlando Zulueta, shopped around today for punch drops and some overweight matches to cash in on his title.

Brown knocked the bobbing Cuban to the canvas in the 15th round for a count of nine and finished him off with a flurry of rights a scant 21 seconds before the end of Wednesday night's fight.

Referee Ray Keech was roundly booed by the crowd of 5,686 in the Denver Coliseum for stopping the bout. Zulueta got up at the count of eight after his second knockdown.

"I asked Zulueta if he was all right when he got up," Keech said. "He only mumbled. His eyes were glassy and I thought there was no use in taking a chance that he might be seriously injured."

SAYS HEAD CLEAR

"I felt fine," said the downcast 28-year-old challenger in his dressing room. "My head was clear. I wasn't a bit dizzy."

The three officials had Brown ahead on points when the fight was stopped. Keech scored it 86-61, Judge Don Perko 67-60 and Judge Jobe Ullmer 66-61.

Zulueta, who weighed 133 ¾, said it was the first time he'd been knocked off his feet in 101 fights.

Brown, 134 ¾, said he caught Zulueta with a left uppercut in the 13th and nailed him with a combination of right hands to the head and body in the 15th.

JUST SORE HANDS

Brown's only complaint was sore hands which he soaked in a pail of ice after his victory.

Brown, father of four sons, said before the fight he was "hungry for pork chops and I'm going to get a whole platelful after I win."

Brown's manager, Lou Viscusi, said he hoped to line up an overweight non-title match in about 30 days for Brown.

He also indicated Brown would agree to a title match within 90 days against Michigan's Kenny Lane, the 1 challenger, as decreed by the National Boxing Association.

SEEK QUARTERBACK

SARNIA (CP) — Executive vice-president Jim Macpherson said Wednesday at a Quarterback Club meeting the Golden Bears of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union are after 1954 Sarnia Imperial import quarterback Jim Lambert.

Lambert came to Imperials from Heidelberg College in Ohio, and since his discharge from the U.S. Army has been working in Toledo.

"Well, you COULD show a little more confidence!"

Shoemen Rally To Win in 11th Over Bobcats

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Frankford-Bala Shoemen scored three runs in the ninth and four in the eleventh to hand Temple's Bobcats a heart-breaking 8-7 defeat in a Ragsville and District softball fixture last night.

Bob Temple's 'Cats thus lost their fifth in six decisions in the longest game of the season. They appeared to have the game in hand when they pulled out of a three-on, none-out situation in the eighth and carried a 5-2 lead entering the final regular frame.

A base on balls to Carl Austin, Wynn Hayden's pinch-singles and Jason Fields' wrong-field homer down the third baseline quickly knotted the count in the top of the ninth. The Bobcats threatened in the bottom of the tenth when Bert Faulkner drew a walk and took second on a passed pitch. Base umpire Don Sherry called him out however for leaving the base before the pitch crossed home plate.

A triple down the left-field line by Jim Hayden started the Shoemen's winning rally. Two batters later, Austin was forced out but John Casey cut down Faulkner at the plate on a fielder's choice play. Hayden's delay that had quelled the visitor's rally for Lucky Junior Eckton the hill for the Bobcats followed with his third walk to the game. Pilch pinch-hit for another and Bob Hunter's single rattled pay for the 8-7 score.

Hunter gained the victory in a three-inning relief chore. He tossed shutout ball in relief over from Vic Burtt in the last three frames. He gave up only a single with two down in the bottom of the eleventh, fanned four batters in all. Pilch also hurled five-hit ball over the first three frames, whiffing six and passing seven.

Junior Day was the loser, coming on in the tenth with one on and none out. He was charged with four runs on two hits, struck out none and walked three. Wally Barun pitched good ball for nine innings plus, but spared ten hits but left eight on while fanning two and walking three.

The Bobcats got behind in the top of the first by one on three singles and an error. Junior Day, starting pitcher, was done in the tying marker while an error, two walks and Don Locke's single gave Greenville a 3-1 lead. Locke's single and Barun's two-bagger made it 4-1 before consecutive singles by Fields, Cosgrove and Rankin got one for the Shoemen in the eighth. Don Locke hammered a homer to centre, his third straight safety, to make it 5-2 in the last of the eighth.

Then the roof fell in on the Bobcats, who were playing with a makeshift lineup. Coach Temple started outfielder-pitcher Junior Day at second, first baseman Don Locke at third and short and later in the outfield, manager Ted Hurst in right field, newcomer Locke at first and later Temple himself took over second base.

Mike Cosgrove had three singles for the winners, Fields a homer and single, Vic Burtt and Bobby Hunter two base hits each. Jim Faulkner tripled while Bill Rankin and Wynn Harder also hit safely.

Locke banged his circuit blast and two solid singles and scored three of the Bobcat runs. Wally Baron doubled while Junior Day and John Casey had the other hits.

Lineups — Frank-Bala: Fields, Cosgrove, Rankin, Scott, Curtis, Hunter, O. Baker, Ackerman, J. Faulkner, Austin, Harder.

Bobcats: H. Wardhaugh, Dorgan, Creggan, B. Faulkner, Locke, Day, Wood, Baran, T. Hurst, Casey, Temple.

Umpires — Mike Whalen (P) and Don Sherry (D). Time: 1:41.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Future Stars

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major League Scout and Instructor

A major reason why some batters seem to hit with so much less effort than others and still get better results is that they have learned how to get the entire body into the swing. They have also learned how to relax and still be alert at home plate.

Are you advance in baseball, you will find that you must eliminate fear from your mind if you are to get good results. The batter who sees hundreds of pitches all over home plate in games and batting practice should learn to judge their flight accurately and thus eliminate the fear of being hit by a pitched ball.

It is almost impossible to be hit by a pitched ball if you are relaxed and unafraid. A number of coaches prove this to their players by throwing soft sponge-rubber balls at their batters during special batting drills.

George Sisler, one of the finest hitters and best teachers in the history of baseball, tells his pupils to be prepared to hit every pitch and close up at the last instant if the pitch is bad.

He also advises batters to expect every pitch to be a fast ball. Then if it is a change-of-pace or curve ball you will have time to make the adjustment required to meet the faster-moving pitch.

Baseball Leaders Give Reasons For Reserve Clause Retention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball leaders go back to Congress today to renew their argument that the government should keep its gloves off the game.

Commissioner Ford Frick, who Wednesday testified in defense of baseball's player reserve clause and other practices, faces additional questioning by the house anti-trust subcommittee.

Other top personalities of baseball management were in the pen, waiting to relieve Frick in attacking proposals to place the sport under federal anti-trust jurisdiction.

George M. Trautman, president of the minor leagues, was armed with testimony to support his position that regulating baseball by the anti-trust laws "would probably destroy the game."

Presidents Will Harridge of the American League and Warren Giles of the National League also were on tap. They could be held until next week, however, if the subcommittee quizzes Frick and Trautman at the same time it has previous witnesses.

Rep. Macdonald (Dem-Mass.), a former player in the New York Yankee chain, and C. Lee Devaney, a director of Virginia's American League club, also were asked to appear today for the subcommittee's inquiry into the legal status of professional sports.

The Supreme Court has held baseball is immune but football and boxing are affected by the anti-monopoly laws. This difference in status prompted the house group to call Frick, baseball's chief spokesman.

Trautman, in his prepared testimony, said that of the 122 minor league clubs reporting on operations for 1953, only 23 claimed a profit, he added:

"Any increase in the problems with which we have to deal, such as our being made subject to the anti-trust laws, would greatly increase our difficulties."

Frick, who said anti-trust coverage would set back baseball 50 years, hadn't read half his detailed statement before the subcommittee recessed Wednesday.

Under questioning by Chairman Celler (Dem.-N.Y.), Frick said he is convinced the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants have not yet decided finally whether to shift to the west coast.

The National League has given the Dodgers and Giants permission to transfer to Los Angeles and San Francisco, if they so desire.

OUT OF HOSPITAL

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fred W. (Cyclone) Taylor of hockey fame, has been discharged from hospital following the second major operation in two months.

The 73-year-old father of John Taylor, Progressive Conservative MP-elect for Vancouver-Burrard, is resting at home. His family says he is "feeling great."

Bobby Kuntz Wants More Pay Or Be Traded

TORONTO (CP) — Backfielder Bobby Kuntz has asked Toronto Argonauts to pay him what he thinks he's worth—or trade him to some other Big Four Football Union club that will.

Kuntz said Tuesday he won't sign with the Argos at the terms offered by managing director Leo Haymam. He declined to say what he was asking, but admitted it was a substantial increase over the $4,500 the Argos paid him last season.

"Judging by what they've offered, I don't think Argos really want me this year," he said. "I feel I earned a substantial raise this season."

Kuntz said he would prefer to be traded to Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

NOT WORTH WHILE

He said the money Argos are offering doesn't make it worth his while to give up his job in Kitchener and move to Toronto.

Hayman said Kuntz has been offered a salary which would make him the highest-paid Canadian on the 1957 Argo team.

"We offered him what is a substantial amount of money," Hayman said. "He wants a tremendous amount of money," Hayman said.

During negotiations Kuntz asked what would happen if he didn't come to camp. "I told him we'd do what teams usually do in these cases. Put the player on unsuit list, sales agree on terms."

Hayman said Kuntz asked for a salary equal to what the Argos paid imports and added: "He didn't know some of our imports have been signed for less than we offered him."

Dee Fondy Hit By Thrown Ball, Eye Damaged

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Dee Fondy, the National League's No. 3 hitter and having his best season, is lost to Pittsburgh Pirates for an indefinite period because of an eye injury suffered in pre-game practice Wednesday night.

The 33-year-old first baseman, obtained from Chicago Cubs in a trade, had been sparking Pirates drive for sixth place with a .352 batting average.

A thrown ball in pre-game practice before a twi-night doubleheader with St. Louis Cardinals broke his nose and caused a hemorrhage in his left eye.

Dr. I. C. Middleman, Cardinal team physician, said it will be 48 hours before it can be determined if there is any permanent injury to the eye.

He has only partial vision in it now.

Dr. Middleman said he is hopeful because Fondy's eye wasn't struck a glancing blow after his nose was broken, taking much of the force of the blow.

Canadian Soccer Team Will Use Oxygen in Game

TORONTO (CP) — Members of Canada's team in the World Soccer Cup competition at Mexico City may have a solution to the problem of playing in the rarefied atmosphere of the Mexican capital. They intend to take some of their own air.

Trainer Roy Cavalin of Vancouver says he will take with him a couple of tanks of oxygen and several plastic masks for the use of players who find it difficult to keep going at top speed in the thin air.

He said he found the oxygen worked with success when British Columbia All-Stars defeated Tottenham Hotspur of the English League several weeks ago.

The Canadian team, which plays in the United States here Saturday night, will leave immediately afterward for Mexico City. The idea is to give them seven days to get used to the atmosphere there. Games will be played at the University of Mexico Stadium, which is on a plateau 7,500 feet above sea level.

South Hastings Baseball League

Latta grabbed another win in the South Hastings baseball league last night by defeating Shannonville 5-2 on the loser's home diamond.

Art Wright's crew took a 1-0 lead in the initial frame, added a pair in the fourth and single-tallied in the fifth and eighth. Shannonville netted both their markers in the bottom of the ninth on a walk, error and three hits.

Stan Reid toed the rubber for the loop-leaders and surrendered 11 hits over the route, striking out eight.

Gerald Hill lasted until the fourth for Shannonville to take the loss. He whiffed three. Gannon replaced Hill and between them they allowed 14 safeties.

Sullivan was the big gun for Latta with a perfect night at the plate. He collected a double and four singles in five trips. F. Ray banged a brace of base hits while one each went to C. Gowe, O. Glass, Wayne Gowe, J. Stewart, H. Meeks and Stan Reid.

S. Bennett collected four singles in a losing effort with L. Reid and Barbara Stock each getting a pair. L. Maracle, Hill and Bruce Reid also had hits.

Old Movies Proving Boon To Inveterate TV Viewers

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Old movies are proving to be a boon to inveterate television viewers in this dull summer season. Not all old movies, mind you, just some.

To be perfectly fair about it, there are some dreadful old movies. Turning the dial the other evening, for example, you came across an old costume piece in the age of French monarchy (title missed by this viewer).

"Moo-sheer," said a handsome young blade, "I'm a gascon . . ." and in a moment, "being here as I am . . ." Der hern, an unknown to me, obviously had studied diction on horse opera circuit, for in a moment he proved to be an excellent rider.

Well, why quibble? They don't seem to have quibbled much when making movies in Hollywood back in the 1930s. The movie art was not then spelled with a capital A, at least not generally at the product is viewed on my TV set these hot summer evenings.

But there was plenty of fun—and, thanks to television, there's still fun. Probably I'm getting old or jaded but it seems to me that they don't make movies these days which are as uncritically comic as farces like Bringing Up Baby, starring Cary Grant and Katharine Hepburn (vintage 1938).

EVERYBODY HAD FUN

Broad, yes. Slapstick, definitely. But they pulled out all the stops and let her roar. Implausible and even impossible, it doesn't matter ally matter. Hepburn and Grant and Charles Ruggles and Barry Fitzgerald and May Robson seemed to be having a good time. So I had a good time too.

Perhaps the best thing about an old movie on television is that you don't anticipate much good in it. You suspend hope before you turn it on, and so are suspend your critical faculties.

Thus, when some good you find in an old movie comes, as a pleasant surprise. Whether you've seen it before doesn't much matter. In fact, I seldom can remember whether I've seen it before. Not until the climax of Bringing Up Baby, when Hepburn dragged in the wild leopard instead of the tame leopard, did I remember seeing it somewhere at some time in my misspent youth.

AT THE BELLE — "The Spirit of St. Louis", hailed by critics as one of the most outstanding motion pictures ever produced is now attracting large audiences to the Belle Theatre. Jimmy Stewart stars as 'Lucky Lindy' in the fascinating and suspenseful story of a mighty moment — that brought Wings to an era! The film is enhanced with color and CinemaScope.

AT THE McCARTHY — Clifton Webb, millionaire art collector, offers Greek peasant Sophia Loren a fortune for the statue of "Boy on a Dolphin" she discovered while skin-diving. Alan Ladd co-stars in Twentieth Century-Fox's romantic drama now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. The $3-million CinemaScope production features classic landmarks and breathtaking underwater scenes.

Gomez Writing Own Record Book At Woodbine

TORONTO (CP) — Avelino Gomez, who has been writing his own record book for Canadian racing in the past three seasons, Wednesday rode another three winners at New Woodbine. He has won 10 races in three days of racing this week and has ridden a total of 33 winners in the first 15 days of the summer meeting.

Gomez accepted only six mounts during the afternoon. He made his first appearance in the third race when he rode Windlady which won. He was out of the money with Vitala in the fourth and then won the fifth on Butter Ball. He finished third on Touchy in the sixth, won the seventh on Kentucky Home and finished second on Robert U. Jean in the final race of the afternoon.

Minor Baseball

A last inning single by Billy McGuire robbed Larry Soden of a no-hitter last night as the Kenmors downed Northern Electric 9-2 in a midget baseball fixture.

Soden did not allow a hit until McGuire, batting through the infield in the top of the seventh. He fanned 13 batters while walking seven. The walks and two errors gave Northern their two runs.

Ron McBride was the losing pitcher, allowing all Kenmor runs and all five hits in four innings. He fanned none while passing four. Don Masterson did not allow a hit over the remainder, whiffing a pair and walking as many.

Three walks, stolen bases and three base hits gave the winners five in the first. The same combination added four in the second to complete their scoring.

Bill Moxam slashed two singles for the Kenmors with Pat Asselstine doubling. Singles went to Rickey Locke and Larry Soden.

Lena Horne May Get Part In Goldwyn's Porgy and Bess

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Rumors and comment on the Hollywood scene: Jerry Lieber and Mike Stoller, the song writers for Elvis Presley, have been in friendly competition ever since they met. Jerry, the eager, aggressive member of the team, is always recounting an unusual experience that has happened to him, only to have Mike top him.

When Mike went to Europe with his new bride, Jerry took a trip to Mexico for some deep-sea fishing. His boat ran out of gas and he was adrift for days under dangerous circumstances.

After the rescue, Jerry could hardly wait to tell Mike the story. "This time he can't top me," declared Jerry, and he went to New York to await Mike's return.

"I've got a sea story that'll curl your ears," Jerry told his partner eagerly.

"Wait a minute," Mike said, and he told of his own voyage—the last for the Andrea Doria.

"Now what was your story?" Mike asked.

"Oh, forget it!" Jerry snapped.

One of the ringsiders at Lana Horne's Acapulco party, sponsing at the Coconut Grove was Sam Goldwyn. Since he and his wife seldom make the niteries, you can bet he has Lena in mind for Porgy and Bess. And why not? She acts up a storm on the night club floor, putting more believability into each chorus than most younger singers can manage in a whole evening.

How's this for casting: Harry Belafonte, Porgy; Lena Horne, Bess; Sammy Davis Jr., sporting life.

A bright girl is Maria Schell, the lovely import who's playing Grushenka in The Brothers Yon-Know-Who. She gave this analysis of an interview: "You put together two total strangers and expect them to start talking about things they wouldn't even discuss if they were friends" . . . .

A peek at the new products . . . Love in the Afternoon is gay, saucy fun with more real laughs than a film has had in years, like Ninotchka, today's filmis it is too long, but it is still a delight. . . . Island in the Sun tries to cover too much ground and ends up without dealing adequately with anything. Still the character relationships are intriguing and the West Indian scenery is a delight. . . . A Face in the Crowd goes too far overboard in showing the meanness of humans, especially an egomanic TV star. It is overacted, over - directed and overdrawn . . . the Broadway characters of Sweet Smell of Success are also mean, but they don't go as far overboard. The hard - bitten acting of Tony Curtis and Burt Lancaster provides real punch. . . .

Whatever happened to movies about nice people?

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 21, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aires) —This is no day in which to "sound off" without thought, careful analysis -- and not even then if it could worsen, rather than help, a situation. Give your talents a chance.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) —You, too, will have to be careful today how you express yourself if you don't want to run into snags, and if you would keep out of scandals. Protect finances.

May 23 to June 21 (Gemini) —Your especial planet, Mercury, in very auspicious aspect, suggests that you promote your interests a little harder. Try, too, for higher goals. Heed criticism; we can all learn by it.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Without haste or anxiety you can accomplish much during this somewhat problematical but highly challenging period. Your aspects suggest: "proceed, but with caution."

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) —This day's influences are friendly for most well managed undertakings. An opportune time to make substantial gains, contacts for the future. Be ambitious.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Please note Gemini now; your day similar. Keep an eye on the practical and the artistic. They can go together. Social activities favored.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — An excellent period for those of creative mind who will sacrifice some personal wishes for all-over progress. Many things that happened in the past could well be good directives for today.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Don't take on so much that you run down physical health, become mentally fatigued, also. Use common sense in your personal interests as well as in business. Listen to the right people.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Be an exponent of your own new ideas, but respect those of others, too. Emphasize your ingenuity and show what you really can do. Heart interests favored.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Some unusual advantages possible in activities with which you are concerned. All mental work, making needed improvements, study among top sponsored interests.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Results now will depend largely on your ingenuity and your attention to duties. It need not be a day for anxiety but careful management and proper allocation of tasks will be needed. Stay with essentials.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Today's planetary influences are better than you might suppose. Co-operate with those "in the know." Go out of your way to promote harmony. Complete what you start where possible.

YOU BORN TODAY are a Cancer-Gemini cuspal thorn at the change of Signs) with characteristics from both these brilliant constellations. You are endowed with versatility, adaptability, artistic as well as practical ability. You may have too fond a desire for travel and change. This tendency is all right as long as you do not carry it to extreme restlessness, changing positions and abodes too often to permit of permanency, or achieving top success in any occupation.

BELLEVILLE - KINGSTON

BARGAIN ! — BARGAIN!

$950. DOWN

QUITE FRANKLY, this one just has to be sold — or else. It's a real buy at the low price for as much as $13,000. This is a bungalow with three bedrooms, living room with fireplace, dining room, kitchen, bathroom, hardwood floors throughout, with landscaping, stoning, screening. Monthly payments will be high but if you could pay more as a down payment the payments would be less. $13,000 is the asking price and this modest home could be your opportunity.

$15,500.

A GOOD TWO-STOREY 4-BEDROOM HOME on Forest Ave. near Queen. You will see that this home has been cared for and the buyer could move right in and enjoy it at once. The location is convenient to schools and there is comfort to you in this hot water oil heat for long and cool breezes. There's a 2-car garage.

CHARLES ST.

A STATELY HOME with all kinds of living space. Six bedrooms. Two baths. The kitchen has lots of cupboards and there is room for your real large dining room set down together. Then this home has a heavy oil hot water system. It has spacious grounds and is located close to schools. If you need a home with room to spare for a big family, this one at a modest price should inspect it. $13,500.

WELLINGTON CRESC.

YOU WOULD ENJOY LIVING in this pleasant area. Homes in the area are all fast which is a compliment to the district. This is a neat little home with two bedrooms. The basement is finished off with a bedroom, bathroom and recreation room. A home for you at $10,900.

BUNGALOW WITH EVERYTHING

IT'S A PLEASURE TO HAVE such a fine home for sale at such a price. It's just a size. Looks like an "Open-House" on the outside. Well it is. It's well lived in for the 9 years it's been owned. You'll just leave for granted the good quality showing in it to you—three bedrooms, living room, kitchen. The full basement is fit to live in. $3,000. down.

ASK FOR INDUSTRY

FREDERICTON (CP)—The provincial government has been asked to help Milltown find an industry to replace its dying textile mill. The request was placed before Premier Flemming by a delegation representing Milltown Textiles Co-operatives Ltd., the town council and the Board of Trade. The government was told the Milltown plant apparently will be closed in late July or early August.

TO TAKE LEAVE

Shortly before the new government takes office, resigning Prime Minister St. Laurent and the members of the Liberal cabinet will visit the governor-general to take their leave. Later in the day the elected Liberal members, 105 strong, will meet to decide who will be the party's defeat and its future.

At Mr. Diefenbaker's office, the procession of visitors gave some hint of the make-up of the cabinet.

Mr. Diefenbaker kept his own counsel, but a high party informant said the key post of finance minister had been practically selected for Donald Fleming, 52, Liberal Toronto Eglinton since 1945 and runner-up for the Conservative leadership at the party convention last December.

Earlier speculation was that J. M. Macdonnell, party financial critic in the Commons since 1945, might get the finance portfolio. But his age—72—apparently has ruled that out. The revenue post also is a possibility for him.

It appeared possible that Mr. fever.

Diefenbaker himself might take another key post, external affairs, on a temporary basis to succeed L. B. Pearson. He was Conservative foreign affairs spokesman before becoming leader.

OTHER SPECULATION

With more than a score of other cabinet candidates, speculation has ranged widely. Pending a final settlement by Mr. Diefenbaker, some appeared to be in line for more than one portfolio.

Among those seeing Mr. Diefenbaker Wednesday were:

Mac Grossman, C. R. Pearkes, VC, 69, of Esquimalt-Saanich, B.C., who is almost a sure bet for the defence ministry.

George Hees, 47, Toronto Broadview, former national president of the party association and a possible trade minister.

Gordon Churchill, 58, Winnipeg South Centre, one of Mr. Diefenbaker's friends and old stalwarts at the party leadership convention last December and in the recent election campaign, who might take one of several portfolios, possibly citizenship and immigration.

John M. Charlton, 49, Brant-Haldimand, likely agriculture minister.

George Nowlan, 53, Digby-Annapolis-Kings, definitely Nova Scotia's cabinet representative, who is another prospect for the trade portfolio with transport or public works as possible alternatives.

W. J. Browne, 60, St. John's West, returning to the Commons after a four-year absence, who might enter the cabinet as fisheries minister.

William Hamilton, 38, Montreal Notre - Dame - de - Grace, probable Postmaster-general.

MAY BE SPEAKER

Davie Fulton, 41, Kamloops, B.C., third-runner in the December leadership contest, who might become either Speaker—presiding officer of the Commons—or justice minister.

Howard Green, 61, Vancouver Quadra, for years the party spokesman on transport. A Vancouver dispatch had quoted him as suggesting he would be the next transport minister, but he said Wednesday the quotation was "bunk."

Douglas Harkness, 54, Calgary North, certain to be Alberta's cabinet representative, likely as northern affairs and resources minister.

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, 53, Hamilton West, slated to become either labor or health ministers as Canada's first woman member of cabinet.

Michael Starr, 46, Oshawa, member for Ontario constituency, who may be labor ministry.

A. J. Brooks, 66, Royal, N.B., probable holder of the veterans affairs portfolio.

J. Wilfrid Dufresne, 45, defeated Minister St. Laurent and he names be of the Liberal cabinet will visit the governor-general to take their leave. Later in the day the elected Liberal members, 105 strong, will meet to decide who will be the party's defeat and its future.

DESERONTO

Large Number Attend Meeting Of Town Council

DESERONTO (Special) — The regular meeting of the town council on Monday night attracted one of the largest representations of ratepayers in some time. Mayor Dr. D. C. McVicker, on behalf of the members of the council, who were all present, welcomed the delegation and expressed regret that it was not a usual occurrence. With regard to the withdrawal from the county road system the mayor revealed that the county council had endorsed the recommendation for the bridge when they would not allow Deseronto to withdraw.

A meeting of the Hastings and Prince Edward County delegations was recently held at which Deseronto was to have been present but the county engineer neglected to notify Deseronto of the meeting. The result of that meeting was to the effect that both provincial representatives felt that the province should assume full cost of the construction. Recommendations to that effect were to be forwarded to the Department of Highways.

WILL SELL LOT

Councillor Stubbs reported that the lot at the corner of St. George and Edmund streets was to be sold to D. Hubble for the erection of a dry cleaning plant. Councillors Walker and Filchett are to accompany clerk, Mrs. Ross to Kingston, to attend a meeting of the Welfare Committee. The police committee reported that the police are to attend the next meeting of the Board of Education regarding the policing of the school crossing at Fourth St. The Lions Club and the Legion were granted permission to hold jamboree in the town park during the summer.

The mayor then read the letters which had brought the delegation to the council meeting. It had to do with the use of the speed timer on the highway and had evidently been forthcoming due to the publicity given the town when Mr. Webster of the Globe and Mail of Toronto had been fined for travelling 72 miles an hour in the school zone.

The letter stated that the police were unethical in their use of the timer and that it gave the town bad publicity. The mayor asked the town auditor to give the meeting some facts and figures regarding the fines collected in neighboring communities. These showed that the town was about the same as the rest of the municipalities.

ADDRESS COUNCIL

Mrs. M. D. MacKay addressed the council, giving her views of the matter and stated that Deseronto was gaining notoriety which was far from good. She was followed by Mrs. T. L. McCullough and H. Sweetman. One of the questions asked by the mayor was to the effect as to where they would place the blame if some child or person were to lose their life through unrestricted speed on Dundas St. In the town. He seemed to feel that unfavorable publicity was much better than a death, which could be avoided.

A delegation from Tyendinaga township addressed the council with regard to fire protection and were advised that the fire committee would meet them at their terms. The fire committee were also given permission to have the fire hall painted. A by-law to appoint a board of management for the Deseronto cemetery was passed. Also a resolution was drawn up to be forwarded to the Department of Highways regarding the signs which have been erected at the western entrance to Highway 502. Council decided to hold no regular meetings during July and August.

Bonarlaw

BONARLAW — Mr. Denton Burkitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Burkitt and Bob Beare, son of Rev. and Mrs. H. Beare, of Springbrook, were involved in a motorcycle and truck accident on Sunday. Denton and Bob were riding on the motorcycle when Mr. Bill Peck apparently drove out from the garage. The boys were thrown to the pavement. Denton is undergoing treatment in the Belleville hospital, while Bob received minor injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moir, Brantford, visited Mr. and Mrs. R. Dickie.

The "". A. members of St. Mark's held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. B. Storms recently.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Johansen spent Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Doug Brunton.

Mr. and Mrs. H. McAdam visited Mr. and Mrs. R. Dickie on Wednesday.

Miss Myrtle McKeown, Peterborough, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. McKeown.

Mrs. D. Wellman and Charlie spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Don Henderson in Toronto.

Miss Beverley Burkitt left on Sunday to spend the summer at Omemee.

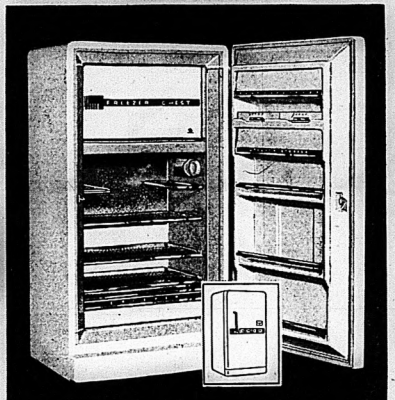
"Always Feel Better After Taking Syntona"

Ends Tired, Rundown Feeling, Helps Digestion and Relieves Rheumatic Pain in Limbs, Joints, Muscles. Praises it Highly.

So many people in this city and vicinity have obtained good results by taking Syntona that every person who suffers from tiredness complaints of the stomach and weak kidneys, lazy liver, constipation or rundown condition of the system should surely give it a chance to help them. Nearly always the results are the same.

For instance, here is the experience of Mrs. Hazel de Curtis (nee) Brantford, Ont., who said recently,

"I have suffered from a number of occasions when I wasn't feeling well, and I have always found that I felt very much better after taking this medicine.



"Recently I felt tired and rundown and had an awful lot of trouble with gas in my stomach after meals. My arms, limbs and muscles were full of pains and felt sore when I moved around. I had little appetite and at night I couldn't seem to get my proper sleep.

Same Good Results

"Having taken Syntona before with good results, I got some at the drug store and now once again this medicine has done me a world of good. The constipation or rundown condition is now cleared up and I am not feeling all-in as I did before. Syntona also relieved the aches and pains so that I get around better and have more energy throughout the day."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan the Druggist.

10 Dead, 85 Hurt As Tornado Hits Fargo In Dakota

Cloud Tower 10 Miles High Whips 100 Blocks of Homes

FARGO, N.D. (AP) — A giant tornado, striking from a lethal cloud tower more than 10 miles high, smashed through 100 blocks of a Fargo residential area Thursday night, bringing death to 10 persons—six of them the children of one family.

At least 85 were injured, some critically. Three persons, two of them children, were listed as missing.

The massive black funnel lashed a swath of devastation 20 blocks long and five wide.

The dead included all six children of the Gerald Munson family. They ranged in age from one to 12. The mother was taken to hospital with shock.

The ninth victim died early this morning. She was Lois Ann, 2, second youngest Munson daughter.

Walter Gehrz, Fargo police chief said the death toll might go higher as volunteers searched for other possible victims in the wreckage of more than 200 homes destroyed or heavily damaged.

In Minneapolis, 245 miles southeast of here, Red Cross officials said the formation that spawned the twister was detected on their radar screens at a cloud height reaching 60,000 feet high and with a diameter of 30 miles.

At the request of Mayor Herman Laskowitz, North Dakota's Governor Allen Davis declared the stricken territory a disaster area and ordered in 200 national guardsmen.

Fargo, with 40,000 residents, is the largest city in North Dakota.

The twister wrecked the big Shanley High School and the nearby American Lutheran Church.

Richard Rasmussen, Associated Press reporter who lives near where the twister struck, said he and neighbors watched the black cloud forming about 10 miles west of Fargo.

"It looked like an elongated trunk lying on its side. As it came closer, we could see the funnel begin to form. From a mile away it looked like a huge, flexible tube waving in the air."

Rasmussen forwarned. Rasmussen, his neighbors and many others in the area got into their cars and drove away from the storm.

A hysterical mother, Mrs. Gerald Munson, identified five of the dead as her three daughters—Phyllis Louise, 6, Jeannette, 5, and Mary Beth, 3, and her two sons, Darwin, 12, and Bradley, 10.

Mrs. Munson, at work away from home when she heard radio warnings of the approaching storm, said she thought she was going to be the oldest daughter scream, "it's hitting." Then the phone went dead.

Searchers recovered the bodies of the five children. Their father was absent on an out-of-town job when the storm struck. Mrs. Hopkinson was treated in hospital for shock along with Lois Ann, 2, their sole surviving child, who suffered as yet undetermined injuries.

DRUG COMPANY PRESIDENT KILLED IN CAR ACCIDENT

R. W. Henderson's Car Plowed Into Abutment

WINDSOR (CP) — Ralph W. Henderson, president of Sterling Drug Company Ltd., and Bayer Company Ltd., died Thursday night from injuries after his car crashed into a railway abutment. He was 59.

The accident occurred within hours of his announcement of a transfer of the Sterling drug plant to Aurora, Ont. The Bayer Company is an associate company of Sterling.

Mr. Henderson, a native of Sarnia, was alone in his late model sedan when it suddenly went out of control and plowed into the concrete abutment of the New York Central Railway overhead on the outskirts of this city. The cause of the accident has not been determined.

He is survived by his wife, Marjorie; his mother, Mrs. J. R. Henderson of Sarnia and a sister.

Funeral services will be held on Saturday.

ANNOUNCES MOVE

Earlier Thursday Mr. Henderson issued a statement announcing the move of the Sterling plant here, that will affect 450 employees, 111 of whom were salaried.

The statement said the move was necessary because "the age of the buildings and the inadequate space they provide, their multiple-storey construction combined with their physical separation, have added substantially to our costs at a time when prevailing economic conditions and competition demand operational efficiency as the best order."

Besides Sterling Drug, the associated companies which are involved in the plans are: Winthrop Laboratories of Canada, Cunningham & Pitfield Co. Ltd., Sterwin Chemicals of Canada Ltd., and Sterling-Winthrop Laboratories Inc.

GRADUATED IN TORONTO

Mr. Henderson was graduated from the Ontario College of Pharmacy in the University of Toronto.

He joined Frederick Stearns and Company of Canada Ltd., in Windsor in 1923. He was then transferred to Stearns in Detroit, to become vice-president in charge of that company.

Five years later he was appointed assistant to the president in the same division. In 1952 he returned here to become president of the company. He headed it at his death.

Mr. Henderson was on the board of governors of Assumption University and a director of Grace Hospital.

UN VOIDS BAN ON NEW WEAPONS FOR SOUTH KOREA

To Fly in Jets Able To Carry Atom Bombs

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)—The United Nations command today voided the Korean armistice ban on new weapons to match the Communist buildup in North Korea.

Murray Snyder, United States assistant secretary of defence, said in Washington that the new agreement would include aircraft which can carry atomic arms, but "at this time no atomic weapons are being given to ground forces." He refused to say whether atomic ammunition would be stored at Korean bases for use against an attack.

The UN side declared it would continue to observe the cease-fire provisions and all other points in the 1953 armistice agreement.

The Communist command promptly charged the UN with "attempting to make South Korea an atomic base and prepare for a new war."

North Korea's Maj.-Gen. Chung Kook Rook declared: "We are vehemently opposed to equipping UN forces with new types of weapons, wrecking the armistice agreement and perpetuating the UN occupation of South Korea."

RED REPLY SCORED

Maj.-Gen. Homer L. Litzenberg of the U.S. Marine Corps, senior member of the UN command, notified the North Korean and Chinese Communists of the decision at a meeting in the truce hut in the demilitarized zone. He said the Red reply was "milder than I expected."

"I did not interpret it as a Red threat to resume the fighting that ended with the July 27, 1953, truce.

Chung, spokesman for the 40 North Korean and Chinese Communists attending the meeting of the Korean joint armistice commission, reserved the right to reply later to the UN charges of truce violations. If not the UN command was airing the charges to "cover up" Allied violations.

Litzenberg said the UN command considered it is entitled to be relieved of obligations under the armistice pending action on replacement of weapons "until such time as the relative military balance has been restored and your side, by its action, has demonstrated its willingness to comply."

The voided provision of the armistice prohibited the introduction of all arms into North and South Korea except for replacements for those already there at the time of the cease-fire in 1953.

All Provinces Are Represented In PC Cabinet

P.M. Will Hold Post of External Affairs Minister

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker today was sworn in as prime minister of Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker, 61, also will hold the external affairs minister portfolio.

All told, 17 ministers were named in his first cabinet. All took the oath immediately after the new prime minister.

SURPRISE CHOICES

There were some surprises. George Hees of Toronto, who was expected to be named trade minister, was appointed minister of transport. Gordon Churchill of Winnipeg got the important trade portfolio.

Donald Fleming, Toronto lawyer, was named finance minister.

For the first time, a federal cabinet included a woman member. Ellen Fairclough, 52-year-old Hamilton accountant, was appointed state secretary.

Governor-General Massey, on the swearing in of Mrs. Fairclough, became the first Great Seal of Canada, symbol of authority, which he previously had received from the retiring state secretary, Roch Pinard.

The government changeover to Progressive Conservative from Liberal took place at 11:40 a.m. At that time Mr. Diefenbaker was sworn in as Privy Councillor and to the Queen's first minister.

INCLUDES ALL PROVINCES

The cabinet contained representation from every province. Only one of the ministers, Quebec two and British Columbia three. Each of the other provinces sent all ministers named sat in the Commons during the last Parliament with the exception of Wil-

Woman Plunges To Her Death At Niagara Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Police said a Toronto housewife jumped off the Rainbow Bridge below the Falls here Thursday, after leaving a note with her four-year-old daughter at the bridge approach.

Mrs. Pearl Deaks, about 35, fell 150 feet onto rocks on the Canadian side of the river. Her body was not immediately recovered.

Police said her plunge was witnessed by an American tourist driving across the bridge.

The note left with the child said: "Please bring my little girl to 1055 Senter Street," the address of the tourist home into which mother and daughter had checked in only a few hours earlier.

Police cared for the child pending arrival of her father from Toronto.

Mother May Be In Need of Medical Aid

HAMILTON (CP)—Police say a teen-age mother whose newly-born boy was abandoned in hospital here Tuesday may be in serious need of medical attention.

Detective Inspector Arthur Robinson said the girl may be in need of post-natal care and called for help from the public in finding her.

He said a girl between 16 and 18 years of age had been seen carrying a child toward St. Joseph Hospital a few minutes before the boy was found on a hospital stairway.

Pleads Guilty to Armed Robbery

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Claiming his mind was blank at the time, Phillip C. C. Nellis, Ingersoll cafe operator, Thursday pleaded guilty to the $4,250 armed robbery of the Canadian Bank of Commerce at St. Stanley Avenue here.

Nellis was remanded one week for sentence.

He had been in financial trouble, Nellis, 41, told the court, and drove here about 5 a.m. to try and arrange payment arrears on a furnace in his home.

"I remember nothing," he said, "after I left the gas company office until I was in the Munsey area in my car and I found a large amount of money in my pocket."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Skies are generally clear over southern and central Ontario and a pleasant day is forecast for these sections. Temperatures will reach the upper 70s or low 80s today, and over 80 on Saturday, with rising humidity and a chance of scattered thunderstorms Saturday. Cloudy weather prevails in Northern Ontario with showers or thunderstorms reported from Lake Superior northwestward to the Manitoba border. A storm centre over Minnesota is the cause of this weather which is forecast to spread across Northern Ontario today and Saturday with the eastward movement of the storm centre.

'Happiness Pills' Given Blast by Medical Assoc.

Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — The widespread use of so-called tranquillizer drugs—"happiness pills"—has been condemned at the Canadian Medical Association convention for the third time this week.

One doctor said Thursday physicians who are prescribing these drugs freely show "lack of discernment on the part of the profession." Another rapped their "frivolous" use by a gullible public and warned of side-effects "often distressing and sometimes dangerous."

Earlier the CMA, as the representative of 11,700 Canadian doctors, showed concern over rapidly-growing sales of the tranquillizers in this country and resolved to have the federal government put them on the prescription list.

Fifty million prescriptions for these drugs were written in the United States last year. In Canada, druggists in some provinces sell them as they would aspirin. They are on the prescription list.some localities.

in other provinces but the CMA fears "under the counter" sale.

Dr. T. F. Rose, a Victoria specialist on internal medicine, told the CMA that the tranquillizers have some value in the treatment of mental disease and alcoholism.

But the "vast majority of the pills are being taken frivolously by persons suffering from nothing more than the normal anxieties of everyday life.

"In mankind's naive but age-old search to get happiness out of a bottle," Dr. Rose said, the tranquillizers may prove eventually to rate as a good deal more expensive than phenobarb and a good deal less honest than whisky."

The side-effects of the tranquillizers should "stand as a barrier to their indiscriminate use under loose control," he said. Some of these are nightmares and bizarre behavior. In the use of stronger tranquillizers, there were many cases of severe depression and

Expert Arrests American With 4000-Year-Old Relics

CAIRO (AP) — An American archaeologist who uncovered a 4,000-year-old royal tomb was held by Egyptian police today after customs officials accused him of trying to smuggle four bags of antiquities out of the country.

Charles Muses, 38, was arrested at the Cairo international airport Thursday night as local newspapers published reports of his American friend's discoveries.

U.S. consul Larry Roeder, present while police questioned Muses, said the case hinges on whether the archaeologist is guilty of criminal intent or just ignorant of the Egyptian law requiring special licence to export relics found in Egypt.

The law makes all antiquities the property of the state. Every find is carefully registered and put under control. Conviction of smuggling such relics could bring a penalty of two to three years in prison.

An Egyptian official said the most important items in Muses' bags were covers from four jars found in the ancient tomb. The ancient Egyptians used these jars to preserve the intestines of the deceased and usually buried them with the mummy.

Police said a search of Muses' home turned up other relics, an unlicensed pistol and $4,000 which had not been declared as required by currency regulations.

Cairo papers report the expedition discovered a 150-foot-square pyramid base and beneath it the sarcophagus of King Amenti and a hitherto-unknown ruler of the 12th dynasty, about 20 centuries before Christ.

Muses said that when he reached the stone sarcophagus they found thieves had looted it of everything except the jars. Each jar bore the king's name.

Two Canadians Die in Germany

METZ, France (CP) — Wing Cmdr. Wallace McLeash, 42, of Hamilton and FO B. Donald, 25, of Edmonton and Nanaimo, B.C., were killed Thursday when their jet aircraft crashed near the RCAF's No. 3 fighter wing base at Zweibruecken, Germany.

McLeash, officer commanding No. 440 fighter squadron, was piloting the CF-100 twin-jet when it crashed during a routine training flight. Donald was his radar observer. Both were married.

UN Reports Are Represented In Domestic News

LONDON (AP) — The Kremlin today blacked out all domestic mention in Russia of the United Nations report condemning the bloody Soviet repression of the Hungarian revolution.

Soviet newspapers did not carry a single line on the report and all mention of it was omitted from Moscow radio home service broadcasts beamed to Russia.

The radio, however, continued to speak at length about world condemnation in its overseas services in an apparent attempt to counteract the suppression of the report by publication of the report in Europe.

The latest broadcast said the report was "one-sided" and had been prepared by "emigre" organizers of the Fascist uprising in Hungary and their backers in Washington.

Lord of the Manor Answers Door As Butlers, Maids in Short Supply

LONDON (Reuters)—The lord of the manor is answering his own doorbell more frequently these days.

A government report on the changes in distribution of Britain's labor force since 1951 has revealed that between 1931 and 1951 butlers and maids have been drifting into more lucrative occupations—such as airplane building.

The number of butlers and other resident men servants dropped 81 per cent from 282,000 in 1931 to 54,000 in 1951, the report, says.

The number of maids and other resident women servants fell from 1,120,000 to 360,000.

Meanwhile, in the same period, air transport staffs rose from 1,400 to 23,000 and those employed in plane manufacture from 13,000 to 157,000.

Major industrial declines included men in coal mining, which dropped from 841,000 to 698,000, cotton weaving the figures for men and women dropped from 249,000 to 123,000.

The report also shows a decrease of 12,000 in the size of the number of persons employed in religious work.

The largest numerical increases were in national government service, 51,000, and government employees rose from 347,000 to 1,000,000. Women alone rising from 31,000 to 161,000. Over half the total increase was accounted for by the armed services.

Women have made great inroads into what used to be men's jobs. The number employed in coal mining doubled from 4,000 to 8,000 and in farming rose from 56,000 to 98,000. Other kinds of work show the following rises in the number of women employed: Iron and steel smelting, 4,000 to 18,000; shipbuilding, 7,000 to 7,000; car manufacturing 34,000 to 65,000; building and contracting, 13,000 to 33,000.

Doctor Seeking $1,500 for Care Of Boy Trapped in Well for Day

MANORVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—Five weeks ago the Benny Hooper story was one of unity and heroism—neighbors joined to help dig for the boy after a small child from an earthen prison. Today it was a tale of division, dissension and worry.

The parents of the seven-year-old trapper met in conference Thursday that they had been promised $1,500 from Dr. Joseph Kris, the physician who attended their son in the well. He was trapped there for nearly 24 hours May 16 and 17.

The man who supervised rescue operations, Mike Sliriz, said there is bitterness over the heroic role assigned to Sam Woodson, a Negro employee of his construction firm who brought the boy out of the well. Sliriz said other men actually did more but were overlooked.

Letters have circulated in this rural community on eastern Long Island that the Hoopers profited from the sensational rescue of their son. They say all the publicity has made them snooty.

The Hoopers say the rumors are untrue—they aren't snooty, they haven't received much money, and certainly they're just worried because the near-tragedy caused them financial trouble.

"We haven't got the money, that's what's worrying us," said Mrs. Benjamin K. Hooper Jr. in commenting on the doctor's bill. He takes home $62 a week as a highway engineer. His wife makes an after-taxes $43 a week as a telephone operator, but has taken a month off to take care of Benny and rest up after her ordeal.

The Hoopers said they received thousands of letters from well-wishers, but a cash total of less than $400 in the letters.

HAROLD C. SELDON GIVEN HIGH POST

Although unable to attend the Ontario Retail Pharmacists' Association convention recently held in Hamilton, due to illness, Harold C. Seldon was signally honored, when he was elected senior vice-president of the Association for the coming year. Mr. Seldon was also re-elected district representative of the Association for district No. 2, which comprises the territory from Brighton on the west to Brockville on the east and north to Bancroft.

Mr. Seldon has been ill in hospital with pneumonia but has returned to his home and is rapidly regaining his strength.

Blood Clinic Is Cancelled

Arrangements to hold a blood donor clinic in Belleville on Saturday for donations of blood required by Marie Malloy, Camillus Road girl seriously burned last Easter Monday, have been cancelled, it was announced today.

The Red Cross Society in Toronto has generously offered to supply the hospital in Toronto all blood required by transfusions for Miss Malloy.

Earlier in the week plans were announced for the holding of the blood clinic but the need for the blood was brought to the attention of the Red Cross Society in Toronto, principally by Mrs. Effie McCabe, Belleville Red Cross official. As a result the Toronto Red Cross Society has offered to provide all the blood required.

New Warehouse, Retail Store Of Brewers' Warehousing Co. Officially Opened Thursday

Mechanical loading and unloading equipment and intricate systems of conveyors and belts to spare has made work comparatively easy for the boys at the Brewers' Warehousing Company Ltd. new terminal on Station street.

At the official opening of the handsome new warehouse and retail store on Thursday, city officials, local business dignitaries, hotel proprietors and Warehousing company officials from head office saw just how work had been taken out of work for the boys who deliver the favorite brand of ale.

They saw mechanical stackers hoist heavy cases five and six tiers high, saw the same equipment lift platens of six kegs weighing over 200 lbs. each, and saw how electrically operated loaders could unload a highway transport trailer with ease, with empties again in just 40 minutes.

By contrast the "turnaround" time for a highway transport to be unloading and loading is three hours.

Close to 75 local dignitaries, including Mayor Jane Forrester and several members of city council, together with local businessmen and district hotel operators, attended the official opening, and were greeted by Danny Cox, assistant district superintendent. In the expression of great-that illness prevented district manager Jack Jones from attending the opening.

First impression at the new warehouse and retail store is the huge paved parking lot with accommodation for approximately 60 cars.

The retail store, managed by Brent Cummings, is a model of its kind. Efficiency with conveyor equipment bringing supplies from an adjacent warehouse storage with a capacity of 4,500 cases. A refrigerator room of equal size is used for refrigerating kegs.

Decorating the pastel hued walls of the retail store is a huge mural showing an aerial view of the city.

Visitors were shown through business offices and then in the adjoining warehouse with its 45,000 carton capacity saw demonstrations of loading and stacking equipment. Entire transport loads of cases are unloaded mechanically without manual handling. Several cases at once can be hydraulically raised speed unloading operations while the stackers, fitted cases and kegs five and six tier high for storage, all with hand handling.

Fred Generoux is warehouse foreman and has as his assistant Johnny Hagerman who also acts as warehouse checker. Cecil Irwin is stacker operator.

Attending the opening from head office were W. J. Abbott, secretary-treasurer of Brewers' Warehousing Company Ltd.; L. B. Foster, manager of real estate; Larry Gilbert, editor of the company's magazine, "The Distributor"; G. "Fred" Frost, supervisor of maintenance and construction and Tom Buckley, company director.

After the party had viewed the warehouse and retail outlet store, they moved to Columbus Hall on Front Street for a social hour and a buffet breakfast luncheon. Danny Cox, assistant district manager officiating for Ted Jones, the district manager, who at present is ill in hospital, made everyone welcome.

Everyone did ample justice to the many good things provided on the lengthy table which groaned with its load of delicious food. At the conclusion of the meal, Mr. Cox, who chaired the gathering, thanked all for their attendance. He especially thanked Her Worship, Mayor Jane Forrester and the members of the council for being on hand, also the members of the Hotelkeepers Association. He wished for Mr. Jones, the genial manager a rapid recovery.

Her Worship extended congratulations to the company for the splendid store and warehouse that has been erected in the city and said it showed the company were appreciative of the potential commercial possibilities of the district. Mrs. Forrester welcomed the guests from outside the city and hoped their visit would be a pleasant one. In closing she wished success to all in the years to come.

REPRESENTED PRESIDENT

Mr. W. C. Abbott, secretary-treasurer of the Brewers' Warehousing Company, representing the president, Mr. Harry Hillmer and brought the greetings of the head of the firm to the many guests. Mr. Abbott said the company felt justified in building a plant that would be a credit to the community and that it would be operated in the best business practices. He stated that the company started with 99 stores, mostly all under contract operators and today there are 227 stores either owned or under lease by the company.

Lyle Ferrier, manager of the Belleville warehouse, stated that at the present time there were 1,800 employees under the direction of the company and a "more loyal crew would be hard to find." He expressed thanks to the trade publication, thanked the press for their wonderful co-operation during the "safety" program and told how many of the store parking lots were being used by the police in off hours to conduct safety checks of motor cars. Mr. Parsons, president of the Hotelkeepers Association, thanked the company for the invitation to be present at the opening and praised the splendid facilities which being provided in the new quarters. Tom Buckley, recently arrived from England and a director of the company, spoke briefly.

ANAF to Hold Convention for Ontario in City

The provincial convention of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada will be held in Belleville July 4th 5th and 6th, it was announced by Belleville Unit 201 as it is the first time that the city has been host unit since Word War II.

It is a double honor as two members of the unit hold the offices of Provincial President and Provincial Secretary. Lundberg has been in office as Provincial President since 1955 and has been also assisted by Provincial Secretary W. J. Ford. Mr. Lundberg's convention will be the official end to J. C. Lundberg's duties in provincial activities as he will be starting his duties as 2nd vice-president, dominion command which he was elected to this office at the dominion convention held last year in Calgary, Alta. In 1958 the dominion convention will again have a western atmosphere as it will be held in Vancouver, B.C.

Delegates will be attending the provincial convention this year from Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, London, Kitchener, Simcoe, Stratford, Windsor and other units throughout the province. The branch hopes that the citizens of Belleville will assist in making the event a memorable occasion.

The convention members will pay tribute to fallen comrades on Thursday evening, July 4th, with a parade to the cenotaph. The parade will leave the Bridge and Station streets at 5 p.m. and cooperation in keeping the route free of traffic will be greatly appreciated.

Thursday evening a banquet for members has been arranged at the Club Commodore for the entertainment of visitors and unit members. The guest speaker at the banquet will be the dominion president, H. J. McGivern from Vancouver, B.C. Among others gracing the head table will be the Dominion Secretary, J. P. Nevins, from Ottawa and M. A. Searle the district Pensions Advocate of Ontario.

President K. Edgecombe and executive members L. Boyle, H. Drury, E. Gray, W. Willmott, F. Law, J. J. O'Brien, W. McKenna and G. Percy are busily engaged in preparing for this occasion and the unit hopes that every member of the unit will assist in making it a huge success. The welfare of the veteran, his family and his country is the main object of the A.N. and A.F. organization and it is at conventions such as this that the groundwork is laid for the units to carry out and attain this objective.

Chisholm's of Roslin Ltd. To Hold 'Open House' Sat.

It's "open house" at Chisholm's of Roslin Ltd. on Saturday.

For the past 100 years Chisholm's has been catering to a discreet clientele of builders in Eastern Ontario and on Saturday, Don, Walt and Jim Chisholm will be on deck in the mills and showroom, Roslin, just west of Belleville on No. 37 Highway, to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Public as the company recognizes its centennial.

Actually, Chisholm's of Roslin will not be 100 years old until sometime in July, but the Chisholm boys decided to hold the centennial celebrations in June so that everyone would have a chance to go out to Roslin and see for themselves the tremendous steps the company has taken, since W. F. Chisholm founded it in 1857, before folks get to the summer vacations.

It was in 1909 that the last log drive down the Moira River to Chisholm's saw mills was held and flat cars started hauling logs to the mills. And that was until the present owners took charge of the company, the mills were used mainly to grind feed grains and to produce piles of lumber. Today Chisholm's of Roslin sells mostly feed grains that were ground elsewhere. It has a plentiful stock of builders' supplies, too — almost every kind of building accessory you can imagine. But the mills are still in operation. Anyone can see them at work between 9 a. m. and noon on Saturday, then they will shut down for the weekend.

The mills draw their electrical power supply from the Ontario Hydro, but in case of electrical breakdown, the mills have standby generators standing by. During the old days the mills operated purely on water power from the Moira River. It's still available, too, if the diesels should decide to take a holiday.

After W. F. Chisholm died, the mills were taken over by Joseph Chisholm who died in 1926. Then W. Harvey Chisholm took over until his death in 1951, when Chisholm's of Roslin Ltd. became the possession of Walt, Joe and Don Chisholm.

Disaster entered into the history of the company, when fire destroyed the original mill in November 1944. But after long and hard work the company opened a new, modern plant again in 1950. At the end of 1956 and in the early months of this year Chisholm's of Roslin embarked on a tremendous building spree. On Saturday, the public will see the company's new showroom, bathroom and offices, which are considered among the most modern in Eastern Ontario.

All of the employees will be oh duty on Saturday to explain the functions of the mills and to answer questions.

Of interest to souvenir seekers is that Walt, Joe and Don will distribute small centennial tokens and will conduct draws for a number of door prizes at six.

Circus Appears Under Auspices Of Lions Club

The circus came to town yesterday when Garden Brothers, the big top this year, visited Belleville under the auspices of the Belleville Lions Club.

Approximately 1,600 people witnessed the matinee and evening performances for the one-day stand.

The 20 circus displays included acrobats and trapeze artists, going through their routine of feats, performing dogs and monkeys, ponies, an educated pig, chimpanzees and jugglers. One performer demonstrated his skill with bull whips and another exhibits in half. Clowns, a necessity at any circus, were present to delight the youngsters with their antics.

The feature act was the Royal Inca Performing Llamas, appearing for the first time. This trained animal act accomplished trials similar to those performed by horses in the ring.

During the evening a draw was made on a 1957 Bill. This was won by Mrs. Bennetts, 24 Jack Whitby.

Proceeds from the circus will be used in connection with work for the blind by the Lions Club.

ROCK 'N ROLL DAMAGES

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A landlord won a $195 judgment Thursday for rock 'n' roll damages from the parents of Elvis Presley. National Elvis Presley Club. Landlord James G. Knox said rock 'n' roll sessions of Kay Wheeler, 19, reduced the interior of the house he rented to her parents to "near shambles." Plastered walls were so punctured with nail holes that when Presley's records moved "it looked like the house had been riddled with shotgun pellets."

BUDAPEST (AP) — Hungary's Communist regime Thursday accused Col. Welwyn F. Dillam, U.S. air attache, of photographing military objectives. It ordered him to leave the country within a week.

Circus Lone Ranger, Lassie to Give Kingston Show

Two of the entertainment world's top performers, stars in the movies and on television field, the fabulous Lone Ranger and the famous dog, Lassie, will appear in person at the Kingston Community Memorial Centre, Wednesday, June 26. Along with Lone Ranger's horse, Silver, these two performers will headline a masked star in a complete circus with a matinee and evening show.

The Lone Ranger is an ever growing tradition on the American scene, with a record appearance, radio, television, newspaper comics, comic books and merchandising enterprises that keep him before the public. The masked star is composed of all men who stand for law and order, not the swashbuckling type of western hero. Lassie, familiar with in this field. Story has it that the Lone Ranger was the lone survivor of a band of rangers, who were ambushed by Indians. It is further related that another Indian, Tonto, who has remained with him ever since, nursed him back to health and strength. The Lone Ranger then donned a mask to keep his true identity a secret from the outlaws.

One of Lassie's greatest feats is not the fact that she has earned over $250,000 but that she was the first dog to appear on two radio show. Trained by the famous dog trainer, Rudd Weatherwax, Lassie is known all over the world to millions of movie fans and is now one of TV's most popular stars.

IN MEMORIAMS

JONES — In loving memory of my son, Don, who was killed June 21st, 1956.

He made no one his last farewell,
He bade farewell to none,
He left us with a silent wish,
A loving voice said come.
Sad was the hour and few,
The things you used to say and do;
But memory holds you dear,
Without a chance to say goodbye,
God took you home, it was His will,
Still wishing still loved, still mine,
You will live with me in memory
Until the end of time.
—Always remembered by Dad and family.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Mrs. James Lewis wish to express their thanks to friends, relatives and neighbours for flowers and the use of cars; also to Dr. Russell Bateman, Rev. Harold Scott, Mr. Pace and Rev. Heaven.

Bowling Notes

The women's section of the Bowling Club held their weekly afternoon matches on Thursday and in delightful weather enjoyed their favorite pastime.

The bowling winners were Mrs. T. Reid and Mrs. Elsie Humphreys, second Mrs. L. Herron and Mrs. Reita Lloyd, third Mrs. R. Baird, Mrs. H. Pongor, Mrs. L. Hyde and fourth Mrs. Coleman, Mrs. R. Bulford and Mrs. A. Watson.

The bridge winners were Mrs. Ross Mills, Georges Bay, Mrs. Mark Vanner, Mrs. L. McDougall, Mrs. E. Sandercock and Mrs. Ross Mills.

Hostesses for the afternoon tea were Mrs. Nora Kyle, Mrs. Gordon Vince, Mrs. Herb Thompson, Mrs. C. A. Mott and Mrs. C. H. McBride.

The men and women of the several district clubs will get a chance to bowl together on Saturday, when a mixed doubles tournament will be held at Brighton. Several Belleville pairs will be in attendance and there will be two draws due to heavy entry from outside clubs. The Brighton club are always worthwhile and everyone will be shooting for the top spots in the tournament. Sam Notley is the chairman for the tournament.

The boys entering the first phase of the provincial playdowns, and which will be held in this city one week from Saturday, are sharpening up their shooting arms in preparation for the stiff competition expected. Gordon Watkin and Bruce Miller, who won the provincial crown and then placed high in the dominion contest some years ago are again entered in the doubles and the way they have been going could easily mean that double for the Belleville club. Ernie Jones will most likely enter the singles competition, while Jerry Hyde will guide the rink through the competitions. The second phase of the playdowns will be held in Scarborough and the finals at the Boulevard Club in Toronto.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was irregular today amid the light morning trading.

The industrial index advanced one-half point but base metals lost nearly 1¼ points as a 1956-57 issue low and western oils were off three-quarters of a point on their index. Golds were one-half point easier.

Great Lakes Paper led industrial losers with a 1¼-point decline to 43. Other losses were fractional. Interprovincial Pipe Line gained a point.

Senior base metals were fractionally lower, Steep Rock and Noranda with 50-cent losses being the heavier losers.

Preston lost 15 cents at 90.25 among uraniums while Brabazon was down 15 cents at 14.05 in golds. Canadian Prospect advanced 20 cents to 24.50 among western oils.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were reported unchanged here today.

The egg market was reported steady on a light offering sufficient for a fairly good demand.

Country dealers are quoted by the federal department of agriculture for graded eggs, fibre cases: A large 40; A medium 35-38; A small 32; B 26; C 22. Wholesale to retail: A large 45; A medium 40-41; A small 37; B 31; C 27.

Butter prices: Canada, first grade: Tenderable 58; non-tenderable 57¼ in light trading; western 59¼ (nominal).

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Slaughter steers, heifer and yearlings were 25-50 cents a hundredweight lower at the Canada Packers stockyards this week.

The replacement cattle section was slow with sales made on a barely - steady - to - 50 - cents - a - hundredweight-lower basis. Calf prices were $3-$ a hundredweight off, with top grades suffering the heaviest losses.

Hog prices were firm to 50 cents a hundredweight higher, steady and lambs were unchanged.

There were about 1,200 head of cattle less than last week and 300 head less than the same week in 1956. Weights on the wholesale declined to 558 this week, compared with 1,177 the previous week. This week's shipments to Eastern Canadian slaughterers doubled at four packing houses to exports reported to the United States.

Despite limited receipts, trading in all grades of slaughter cattle was a dull affair as hot and humid weather acted to moderate the demand into a tailspin. Steer, heifer and yearling prices were fully 25-50 cents a hundredweight lower.

Baby-type yearlings sold steady and one pen of choice steers topped on the top grades, canners and cutters holding steady. Bulls were reported unchanged.

Prices

Slaughter Cattle: Choice steers: mostly $20 - $21; good $18-$20; $19-19.50; medium $16-18.50; common $14-16; good heifers mostly $18; a few $18.50; medium $16-17.50; common $14-16; good cows $13-14.50; a few $15; medium $12-13; common and canners $9-11; good heavy bologna bulls $15-15.50; common and medium lights $11-14; covered from Tuesday's low.

Given High Post

An appointment of interest locally is that of the election of W. J. Heip as president and general manager of Aichem Ltd., Burlington, by the board of directors at their June meeting.

Mr. Heim, a graduate in 1949 of the University of British Columbia in chemical engineering, joined Aichem Ltd. 15 years ago and has held numerous responsible offices in the organization, culminating in his present role.

His wife, Margaret, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald H. Scott, of Belleville. Mr. Scott is the chairman of the Belleville Public Utilities Commission. The Heims have five children and reside in Burlington, Ont.

Mr. Heim has many friends in Belleville, having been a frequent visitor to the city.

Alan Sprague to Act for Sidney Twp. at Hearing

Alan B. Sprague, solicitor for Sidney township, has been retained to act for the municipality in annexation proceedings resulting from Belleville's proposal to annex part of the township into the city.

The city's application for the annexation has been made to the Ontario Municipal Board and the public hearing is expected some time in September.

Belleville's applications asks that approximately 5,000 acres in Sidney and Thurlow townships be annexed to the city, the proposed annexation boundary running diagonally from near Jones Creek to north of Highway and east to the Purdy Road.

Both Sidney and Thurlow township councils have held special meetings to acquire information on what effect the proposed annexation may have on assessments and taxation.

Sidney township solicitor has been retained by the township named J. J. Robinette, Q.C. of Toronto, to represent its interests in the proposed annexation, while now Sidney has followed suit by naming Mr. Sprague to act in its interest.

Duo Arrested North of Here

Provincial Police arrested Edward Brooker, 28, and Thomas Jillings, 34, at Mac-Arthur's store, west of Bancroft, early Friday afternoon.

Police recovered a truck which had been stolen from Belleville.

Provincial police from Perth and Peterborough headquarters as well as officers from detachment offices in the Belleville district have set up roadblocks on highways leading out of Belleville-Deniligh district this morning on the possibility that two escaped convicts from Kingston penitentiary have been in charge of a stolen truck reported seen in the Denbigh district early yesterday.

The truck stolen in Kingston the morning following the escape of two convicts at Kingston penitentiary, was reported seen this morning at 7:30 between Denbigh and Bancroft.

The two convicts escaped from a work party outside the penitentiary walls on Wednesday morning while the truck bearing license No. 17712-C was reported stolen from Imperial Motors on No. 2 highway the following morning.

Trenton Man Seriously Hurt

Albert Vanreuwyk, 39, of R.R. 3, Trenton, suffered head and leg injuries early Thursday evening when his car was involved in an accident with two other vehicles about three miles west of the city on No. 2 highway.

Police said the rear of a transport truck driven by Ken Allen of Mallorytown was struck by Vanreuwyk's auto, causing it to collide with a car driven by William Quinlan of Toronto.

Police are looking for another car which started the chain of events by forcing the Quinlan car to leave the highway. Damage to the Quinlan car was estimated at $1,000.

The injured man was taken to Belleville General Hospital where he was treated by Dr. Henry Bateman. Provincial Constable J. McBride, investigated.

Police Blotter

Night operators Thursday night jimmied the door to Riley's Photographic Studio on Front Street and stole the contents of the cash box. The amount of the taken was not stated by police.

Otherwise police reported a comparatively quiet night. Three minor accidents were reported and also a fourth incident which could have resulted in a smashup.

Two young boys started a heavy road roller parked on the lot of the Belleville Construction Company on Dundas St. East. The machine went across the lot, over the road and came to rest in the ditch.

The company official was notified and returned the roller to its proper parking spot.

END RIOT TRIALS

TAIPEI, Formosa (Reuters) — The trial of 40 persons arrested in connection with anti - American riots May 24 ended Thursday after a three-day hearing before three military courts. Verdicts will be announced in the five days ahead. Gen. Huang Chieh, army commander-in-chief and currently commander of the Taipei garrison forces, has reviewed them.

Trouble-Makers Among Refugees Small Minority

VANCOUVER (CP)—An immigration department official says there is a "bare core of trouble-makers" among British Columbia's 2,000 Hungarian immigrants.

"But you'd get that in any group of people in their situation," said Alex Lockwood, director of settlement in B.C.

He met recently with the Hungarian Emergency Council to discuss trouble caused by a few refugees.

Mr. Lockwood in an interview Thursday praised the great majority of the Hungarians for their rapid assimilation into Canadian life, adding: "but some are not so good."

HEARD ONLY STORIES

Immigration Super intendent Philip Bird, asked whether there were any problem cases, said:

"I've heard all sorts of stories but we haven't yet had a problem that has called for drastic measures. I am satisfied that we have had great success."

Mr. Lockwood said some refugees had to be ordered to leave a camp at Abbotsford, 40 miles east of here, where Hungarians are housed until homes and jobs are available.

"The better ones have gone everywhere in this province," he said. "But we are confronted with this problem—the troublemakers.

"Can you take these poor devils by the scruff of the neck and throw them back into the hell they came from? I don't think so."

Stephens-Adamson Elects Directors

At the annual meeting of the shareholders of Stephens-Adamson Mfg. Co. of Canada Limited, held at the head office in Belleville on June 19, the following were elected directors: L. S. Stephens, Q.C., Toronto; M. A. Kendall, F. S. Wells, G. A. Freeman, A. E. May, E. H. Walters, D. J. C. Young and C. S. Stanton.

With the exception of Mr. Stanton, all directors had previously served in this capacity and Mr. Stanton was elected to the vacancy occasioned by the death in June of last year of Mr. Ralph Smith.

Officers of the company are: G. A. Freeman, president; L. S. Stephens, vice-president, and D. L. Stephens, secretary-treasurer.

Fire Fighters Retain Officers

SUDBURY (CP)—Only one new member was elected to the executive of the International Ass'n of Fire Fighters at the final session Thursday of its annual convention. The balance was re-elected.

M. Roussey of Ottawa, elected vice-president for District 2, is the new member. Walter Child of Brantford continues as president with Robert Gilbert of Hamilton secretary-treasurer.

Fireman's Day In Quinte Area May Be Revived

TRENTON (Special)—There is a movement afoot here to revive the once popular fireman's day demonstrations and competitions in the Quinte District.

Local fire chief Clarence Orser is keen athlete with the Trenton force in the days when horses pulled the steam pumper and the hose reel race was the feature attraction of every firemen's meet, giving support to those endeavoring to foster revival in the colorful way firemen of yesteryear took to celebrate. The chief says he will offer the coveted Weddell trophy for a competition comparable to hose reel race but not so strenuous and satisfactory to a committee representing all the fire departments in the district.

Led by Chief Orser seven Trenton firemen will take a hose truck to Deseronto this Saturday and enter the parade in conjunction with the Deseronto Fire Department's day long celebration.

DIGGER MOVES IN

A backhoe digger moved into the site of the new Trenton Legion Hall this morning and commenced work preparing the ground for laying the foundation for the $90,000 structure. The building is expected to be ready to open in November.

On Wednesday Charlie Baker, one of the oldest respected members of Branch 112, moved the sod to officially send-off construction.

According to a Legion spokesman no movement is underway to have the Rt. Hon. J. G. Diefenbaker, Prime Minister of Canada, present at the opening of the new premises.

C.O. TO BE HONORED

On Thursday next week the members of Branch 112 of the Canadian Legion will play host to Colonel Cassidy, G. O. Diamond A.F.C. Commanding Officer R.C.A.F. Station Trenton who leaves his command here shortly for a tour of duty overseas. The party in the auditorium of the old legion hall commences at 8.30 p.m. and legionnaires from the other units who are acquainted with the popular officer are welcome to attend according to a legion spokesman.

Evangelist May Occupy Regular Television Pulpit

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Graham may be thinking of a regular television pulpit now that the New York crusade is over.

Although the evangelist hasn't said so, there have been hints in that direction. And he says he has been impressed by the TV results of his current weekly TV appearances.

A weekly flood of 50,000 letters from across the country has followed the three Saturday night crusade meetings televised so far. Many are from persons saying that hearing him moved to Christian faith.

Graham has said he has other plans in this area after the crusade closes July 31, but isn't ready to make them public. A crusade official, asked Thursday night if Graham might continue his TV preaching beyond the crusade, said:

"It's liable to be. You can't tell. There's a terrific interest in this thing."

As for the Madison Square Garden crusade, attendance for the last week has been down an average of more than 1,000 below the near-capacity level of the previous four weeks. Officials said it's a customary — but temporary — midweek dip.

Even with the slackening off, the nightly audiences still are huge ones—16,000 Thursday night—and the record for attendance and "decisions for Christ" surpasses anything yet in Graham's career as evangelist.

"We've seen twice as many give their lives to Christ in these five weeks as in any other crusade we've ever conducted in the United States," he said.

In Sydney, Australia, leading protestant churchmen have welcomed a proposal for an Australian tour by Dr. Billy Graham's colonel. Jerry Beavan, a close friend of Graham, is expected to arrive in July to discuss plans for a crusade with leading Australian churchmen.

DOCTOR SEEKING

Benny received $1,000 each for two television appearances on Hoopers gave one cheque to the Manorville fire department, which played a big part in the rescue, and put the other in a trust fund for Benny's education.

"MUST HAVE BEEN MISLED"

"We're going over to see Dr. Kris," Hooper said. "He must have been misled somewhere along the line that we received a lot of money."

He emphasized that he was grateful for the doctor's efforts, but that he can just about make ends meet now.

Kris maintained constant watch over the 24-foot hole in which Benny was trapped, and supervised the successful efforts to keep the child supplied with oxygen. He attended Benny at nearby Bayview hospital after the rescue.

Thursday he said his colleagues had told him he would be foolish not to submit a bill.

"Time I put in was eight full days and close to 100 hours. My time is worth $30 an hour. I think the bill is a fair amount to charge."

ABOUT HALF

He called the bill "about one-half of the amount to which I am entitled."

"I don't practise medicine for money. I practise because I love medicine. . . . If they have the money they should pay their honest bill.

"A man from Brooklyn telephoned me and offered to send a check and asked me to bill him. So it's not a question of money, it's a question of principle."

Kris said he did not volunteer his services, but was called in by police.

Hospital Aux. Gives Report, Plans Events

CAMPBELLFORD —The June meeting of the Hospital Auxiliary was held on Friday at the hospital, with 17 members present.

Donations from the Lions Club, Zion W.A., Ladies Auxiliary and the Goodwill Club were gratefully acknowledged by Mrs. W. Scott.

The sewing convener, Mrs. K. Cairns, stated that there had been more than twice as much sewing completed this year as compared with 1956. She expressed her deep appreciation to all who had helped in any way with this necessary work. A financial report was read by the secretary, Mrs. Ross Donald-Smith. There were 161 admissions, 30 new babies, 16 major and 21 minor operations, 1,770 X-rays, 281 lab tests and 4,610 meals served.

It was announced that the next meeting will be held in September, with the Christmas Tea being the big project to be taken up then.

Poles Work Out Agreement With East Germany

Mr. Diefenbaker did not fill all of the cabinet posts at once. Portfolios left open, to be filled by "prime ministers" later, were: Agriculture, health, defence production and mines.

The Liberals before they were defeated provided the provinces with $400,000,000 of representatives: Ontario 7; Quebec 6; B.C. 5; one each from the other provinces, with the exception of Prince Edward Island.

Prince Edward Island now has a representative for the first time in some years with the appointment of Angus MacLean, of Queens, as fisheries minister.

ST. LAURENT RESIGNS

The new government was announced shortly after Mr. Massey had formally resigned the Governor-Generalship of Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent as prime minister. Mr. Diefenbaker then took their leave of Mr. Massey.

Mr. Diefenbaker, on his way to Government House, drove by 24 Sussex Street, official residence of the Prime Minister. A moving van was outside the house. Mr. St. Laurent had returned there after the Government House ceremonies, to vacate the premises.

Mr. Diefenbaker, first Conservative prime minister in 22 years, will make a 15-minute address to Canadians over the CBC English and French radio and television networks at 9 p.m. EDT September.

BERLIN (Reuters) — A joint Polish-East German communique declaration published here today shows that the anti-Stalinist Polish leader of Wladyslaw Gomulka and the East German regime, still highly loyal to Moscow, have achieved a working agreement.

The declaration indicates four main areas for the agreement:

1. "The unity of aims of both countries in building socialism and ensuring peace." Western observers noted that the declaration refers to "aims" rather than "methods."

2. Both countries' opposition to West German rearmament.

3. East Germany's demand for Polish recognition and Poland's need for East German industrial equipment.

4. Poland's desire to maintain the Oder-Neisse frontier which is hated by East but not by West Germany.

WOMEN AT WORK

The Canadian Bank of Commerce has been looking at women.

Not don't get the wrong idea—this is no terrifying example of the big corporation moving into a field which was previously the happy hunting grounds of the individual entrepreneur. The bank's interest in women is exactly on the same level as its interest in mortgages or machines, automation or advertising - - which, if you should ask us, is a most uninteresting level at which to look at women.

Be that as it may, let us consider what the bank has found out about women. More of them are working. That is a statement which is sure to bring howls of protest. The thin wail in the background comes from the small group of unscrupulous whose members maintain no woman was ever known to work. The tidal wave of protest in the foreground comes from the throats of every woman reading these words, each and every one being convinced that each and every woman has been working almost unceasingly since birth. What the bank means, though, is that more women are "gainfully employed," a polite way of saying that more of them are working for people who are neither their husbands nor their children.

Furthermore, the bank has discovered that the greatest increase in the past three years in the number of Canadian women "who go to work" (that's the bank's phrase, not ours), is chiefly the result of the large number of married women who have taken jobs outside their homes.

By the end of 1956, the bank reports, 1,390,000 of the 5,741,000 people in Canada's labor force were women. The rapid increase in the number of married women who work outside the home, the bank says, in the latest issue of its monthly "Commercial Letter," "has been proportionately far greater than the increase in the total female labor force, and illustrates the tendency, apparent in recent years, for older married women to go back to work."

In a news release based on the article in the "Commercial Letter," the bank observes: "Smaller, more easily-managed housing units and the greater number of jobs available in Canada's rapidly growing cities are cited as major factors in the increase in the number of working housewives."

What the bank has found true of Canada as a whole is true, we feel sure, of Belleville - - although here we are not at all sure that the tendency of married women to go back to work can be said to have been particularly noticeable during the past three years. Compared with some other communities, the proportion of married women employed outside their homes has been relatively high here for some time past.

This practice of married women working has drawn some criticism, from time to time, from those who maintain that by so doing they are neglecting their families. Often these critics have received a quick answer to the effect that the women are not working because they want to do so, but because they have to. While one may doubt this explanation as a generalization, it is unquestionably true in many instances. Here we wonder whether the bank's observation that the trend is the result of the "greater number of jobs available in Canada's rapidly growing cities" may not have a bearing on the matter.

Growing cities mean new homes and new homes are expensive and many families which purchase new homes would find it difficult to meet the payments if the woman of the house did not join her husband in working outside the home.

In case anybody believes that the present tendency of women to work after marriage introduces a completely new factor into our way of life, the bank corrects this impression. "Before the industrial revolution," it says, "women aworked at such jobs as hay-making, guarding sheep, shearing, pulling peas, brewing, baking, malting and drawing thatch. Women often handed down the management of the affairs of numerous industries from brewing to blacksmithing which were part of estate activity. Women acted as executors of estates and petitioned courts as lawyers do today. They were often in business on their own account, handling finances and credit, and in the bookselling, stationery, shipping and innkeeping trades. There were women bakers, butchers, clothmerchants and inn-keepers. In fact, it wasn't until the industrial revolution that any large numbers of men were able to acquire the financial surplus which made possible the support of their womenfolk in idleness."

SACRIFICE

If they could dare to cross the sea,
When 'twas a journey to be feared,
To found a nation to be free
Where God by all could worshipped be,
And thank Him as the coast they neared.

Have we not, warmly housed and clad,
The faith our Pilgrim fathers had?

Do we the Pilgrim courage lack?
With all our means must we despair?
Storm driven, they would not turn back,
The wilderness they dared to track,
Though countless hardships faced them there.

That in its time a land should be Wrought under God and liberty.

Ours is that land! Its founders they!
Ours is the altar where they prayed,
And evil threatens it today.
Unto the challenge can we say,
That we to meet it are afraid?
Is it for God and freedom's sake
Too great a sacrifice to make?

King-Sized Moustaches

BBC London Letter

Normally the attention of the studio audience is fixed firmly on the stage during the weekly session of the BBC variety program "Take It From Here", which is a long-standing favorite with listeners in Britain and overseas. But one evening recently there was every reason for curious and admiring glances to wander back to the auditorium by virtue of the lavish and immaculate display of some of the longest moustaches in Britain. That night the Handlebar Club - whose members flinch at the sight of a male upper lip unadorned - was celebrating its tenth anniversary and twenty of its founder members had decided to start a convivial evening appropriately by coming to see the show! And Vice-President, Jimmy Edwards, in the BBC show that makes him a household word.

The Handlebar Club was formed in 1947 in Jimmy's dressing room at the Windmill Theatre where Jimmy was then a cover as a comedian after wartime service as a pilot in the Royal Air Force. Dedicated to the laudable objects of keeping up wartime friendships and the "general conviviality", the Club now has some two hundred members, and in addition to their social meetings it raises contributions for ex-servicemen's homes every year, chiefly through organizing cricket matches. Raymond Glendenning, the well-known BBC sports commentator, is president of the Club, and Mr. Bernard Handsley is ex-R.A.F. squadron-leader Alan Gear who boasts a wing-span approaching 14 inches. Mr. John Roy, a Glasgow artist who was an Army Captain during the war, achieves a 16½-inch span, but fails for the honor of Prime Handlebar because his moustache is not in the "curly tradition". At approximately 12 inches Jimmy's moustache sounds almost modest in comparison, but few can equal its silky texture.

Should Make Vandals Pay

Ottawa Journal

Mr. A. J. Kitchen, director of correction for Manitoba, makes the good suggestion that juveniles who damage public or private property, in the wave of vandalism so prevalent these days, should be compelled to make at least a token payment for the repairs of the destruction they have caused.

That makes sense. If the young vandal who smashes windows or street lamps, or breaks up park benches, or breaks into a house or office in the course of criminal demolition, were ordered to pay to the court as partial compensation say a dollar a week for a year he might be left with a continuing realization that crime does not pay.

Mr. Kitchen, who knows his hoodlums, commented on the fact that they make no profit out of their exploits. He said it this way:

"There is no winner when youths go about slashing tires, smashing street lights, defacing public property, or in general when boys break into someone's house, tear down the drapes, throw ink on the walls, smear jam on the upholstered furniture, dismash the mirrors, and scatter flour all over the floors and leave empty-handed. This characterizes the adventure up the fact that the motivation for such pointless destructive behaviour is not easily determined, not easily remedied."

A suspended sentence may not greatly impress a youth guilty of this sort of thing, nor the fact that court records show 'a conviction registered against him. If he had to earn the money to make a token payment, or give up his spending allowance, made to pay for his fun, vandalism might come to have a sharper meaning to him.

People Lose TV Habit

Ottawa Journal

Comes Orlando Lombardo, leader of the noted band known as "Royal Canadians," to say that recently he quit the TV habit.

"We all went through the stage when we just glued to the set, but we're coming out of it."

Lombardo ought to know; he has been appearing on TV for two years.

There is other evidence to back up the Lombardo verdict; that is, that the novelty has palled and more book lending by lending libraries and more sales of books go back to books; the growth of newspaper circulation; the flight of big advertisers from TV as an advertising media.

Perhaps the best thing all this is that TV was oversold. It was going to have a tremendous impact on our social habits, standardize our thinking, even revolutionize our politics. Indeed, according to the wizards of Madison Avenue, people would no longer attend political meetings; all a president of the United States or a prime minister of Canada would have to do in an election would be to make two or three TV appearances.

The last United States presidential election made nonsense of such predictions, and the election campaign in Canada made more nonsense of it. Mr. Eisenhower, after two or three TV appearances discovered that his "viewers" were too few to be safe and promptly took to the hustings.

Perhaps the fault, the reason for this decline in TV interest, lies in the quality of TV programs. Occasionally there is something worthwhile and sometimes there are things superlatively good, but too often TV programs are for morons or groundlings, with third-rate or even fifth-rate performers presented as "artists" or "stars."

TV may well do a comeback. But if it does it will have to get program producers with more taste and intelligence.

A band concert was given at Victoria Park last evening and Bandmaster Carey and his artillery men rendered a most enjoyable program. The park is beginning to look quite attractive; it was better Dominion night.

Front Street on a Saturday night nowadays is a pretty fair imitation of Yonge Street in the more audience of his or her table mate or mates, but realizes he is an audience within hearing at adjoining tables. And they cannot resist the impulse to widen their audience.

As their chatter begins to impinge upon your consciousness though you are trying to pay attention to your own table mate, you glance at them, and catch them in the act of glancing at you. You see how animated they are. Many of these public speakers are pretty good talkers. They know how to tell a story or relate interesting particulars. They start with a catch-line, and build to a nice climax.

The thing to do is to pretend you are surreptitiously listening, eaves-dropping, which gratifies them no end, so you can tell the way they raise their voices and project them in your direction in appreciation of your interest in joined the audience. But just about the moment they reach the punch line of what they are relating, you lean forward to your companion, and in a clear voice you can say:

"Tell me more about Annie. Is it true she is expecting another child?"

The effect on the public speakers is disastrous. They muff their punch line. They will even raise their voices, instinctively. They are indomitable. They start all over again. Having lost you once, they don't intend it to happen twice. This time, if you are enjoying piece of news they are imparting. Once again, you let them see by the interference of the story, one jump from the climax you're sure you're going to get your table mate in an emphatic tone:

"There's that waitress? This coffee is cold!"

With public speakers, I have seen them reduced to silence and buttering the last roll in the basket. But public speakers of the fair sex I have seen flushes, cold, embittered stares, and a prolonged silence so furious their hands trembled.

Aw, it's a mean trick. But not as mean as holding unsolicited public meetings.

Mayors Fail To Think

Kingston Whig-Standard

The meeting of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities has not produced much constructive thinking on the part of these civic leaders. They have talked of the methods still open to them to relieve the financial stress the delegates have said that taxes are not as high as they could go, that a sales tax would be feasible and also that motor cars should be taxed according to their capabilities to provide funds for road maintenance.

On Friday the delegates listened to traffic experts who suggested that higher fines would help bring the law of diminishing returns into play more nearly the law of diminishing riders. But how can these be distinguished by the accountant who pays the fines and collects cash at the end of the day's run?

Another resolution called for federal and provincial governments to take over education, but at that the delegates' thinking ceased. It has been shown that they had more knowledge of constitutional law than that of the three learned friends. The resolution finally was withdrawn, but it remained with the general impression that someone else must be found to pay the bill if education is to continue.

Then, in another session, the mayors were also reported to have stated that "polluted waterfronts are a fact of modern urban life."

This is nonsense. Pollution is allowed to occur in the water and in the air just so long as the public will allow it to occur and stop it occurring. But Pittsburgh, whose pollution problems would overwhelm all but the most hardlook insignificant, has done away with them and Los Angeles is in the process of doing so.

From the published reports, the meeting of the mayors seems to have been one long bull-session where they all got their gripes off their mind. There was no constructive thinking. Indeed, there seemed to be no presiding feeling of any kind.

Maybe that is what is wrong with municipalities. The people who are prepared to run for office are not the people who can think things through clearly and take decisive action if need be. If the convention is to be taken as a fair sample of the attitude of mayors across the country, they are a sadly short of civic vision and leadership, though Heaven knows we need it.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HOMELY THINGS

During all the years in which I have written these words of Talks I have sought for simple, homely topics. I have tried to write about life as it has come to me and to others. I have tried to write them for myself as well as for those who may care to read. I need encouragement! That is why I started to write them in the first place.

I am not a "literary" man, except as my self-taught ideals and great writing cheers and gives satisfaction to me. I want the multitude to read me. I want them to write them for myself as well as for those who may care to read. I need encouragement! That is why I started to write them in the first place.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BLASPHEMY

I have just returned from a funeral. A forty-eight year old man had died of cancer leaving a husband and two children. The congregation was composed of those ever God ordains is right, His gracious will abideth."

That God's will is always right and that it abideth forever lies at the very base of our belief in the Bible. But that God ordains cancer—no. The Bible teaches no such thing. God looked upon His original creation and it was very good. Man was given the opportunity to live freely and fully under God's obedience. He could eat of all the trees of the Garden save the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, and he purged himself with the fruit of that tree. Hence disobedience, hence expulsion from the Garden, hence suffering—every thing inside me, in the region of my heart, in the very fibre of my day-by-day, homely themes that are universal. Many of my choicest book treasures are those that I can carry in my pocket and which can be read thunderingly when the urge is on. I like brief books. The most widely read newspaper editorials are those briefly and simply written. Lincoln's great Gettysburg Address was less than 400 words, but packed a world classic of dignity and expression and noble thoughts. Lincoln never thought that he had written a book. Accordingly when he wrote you why it will live for so long as men remember anything in the world to read!

There is no literature in the world that is more inspiring than what you will read in the Bible. Many wonderful and historic gems dear of expression—and, taken as a whole, it is about people. It is very widely read and beloved than any other book in the world! It is a book of books.

and sorrow that disobedience of God's will produces.

Disease is not God; it is of the devil. It is the grimly necessary accompaniment of man's fallen state. When God's will is triumphant and man is restored to his original perfection, then there will be no disease. But until then, cause the disobedience of man, disease is necessary—cancer, chronic, treachery, war, hell on earth.

But don't blame God. That is blasphemy.

Pains In The Tropical Zone

"The "B-Nutron pill helps a lot for heart pains. What a difference in price from the $10 vitamin capsules prescribed by my specialist," writes a New Jersey reader.

I have never suggested that B-Nutron pills are good for "heart pains."

I do believe, though I hesitate to mention it here, that either or both of these emergency measures will stave off many a pain in the tropical zone which may or may not indicate heart trouble:

1. Four or five inflations of the bellows.

2. A tablet or two of nitroglycerin.

One ran who said he is subject to angina pectoris rejected the suggestion of inflating the bellows. He told me that if I ever have angina pectoris I'll understand why a man squeezed in a vice simply can't inflate his lungs. Believe it or not, for once I had no rejoinder. Anyway, I had rather not argue with such a man. Remember what an illustrious heart muscle man was John Hunter, 18th century anatomist and surgeon, said — that his life was in the hands of any rascal who chose to annoy and tease him.

All right, then, Shall we settle for a few inflations and a tablet or two of glyceryl trinitrate (nitroglycerin) immediately upon the slightest threat of distress anywhere in the tropical zone?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Sometimes, in a table restaurant, you get seated across the aisle from a public speaker, lady or gent.

By public speaker, I mean one of those who is not satisfied with the mere audience of his or her table mate or mates, but realizes he is an audience within hearing at adjoining tables. And they cannot resist the impulse to widen their audience.

As their chatter begins to impinge upon your consciousness though you are trying to pay attention to your own table mate, you glance at them, and catch them in the act of glancing at you. You see how animated they are. Many of these public speakers are pretty good talkers. They know how to tell a story or relate interesting particulars. Knockout Blow to Friction

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Scots have been noted for their inventions which have brought about several revolutionary processes in engineering and another seems to be in the making which will not be popular with certain great industries. It has come to light that John McGregor, of Edinburgh, has produced a substance which, applied to the surface of metals will eliminate 80 per cent of friction, thereby prolonging the life of machinery and costs to an extent that seems incredible. Another engineer who has been tests by putting a firm of that says the effect on engineering may be literally "revolutionary." Machinery has been tested to run for weeks or months without a drop of lubricating oil. Machinery has been better performance and effects a great saving in costs.

For example: A car engine treated with the new process has been tested after 20,000 miles. No measurable wear was found on the part. The decrease in friction resulted in higher revolutions per minute and more power. Another standard car engine has, it is reported, covered 70,000 miles in the same manner. The test started on February 22 and ended in April until there was is perfectly clean. There has been a 12 per cent improvement in petrol consumption. Also, it has been eliminated and there is complete operation of all kinds of machinery because of the tighter fit between communicating parts through abolition of space for oil film. The process is impervious to heat. It is non-toxic, therefore can be used for motor boat engines. An important feature is that it cuts down noise. The life of power process tools has been increased 20 times.

Naturally, there has been international interest in Mr. McGregor's discovery, and he has received offers of tremendous sums of money for the right to produce it. Recently, a Scottish company has been formed, with headquarters in Dundee, and no doubt it will receive a vast amount of business for itself and for Great Britain.

There seems to be no doubt that Mr. McGregor has made one of the greatest discoveries of this or any age; one that will mark a new epoch in which people who may regret are those in the oil business which could be very hard hit if the new process relieves the pressure on Britain for oil it will be a tremendous boon in another direction.

Onus on Wives

Sault Ste. Marie Star

Now that it is established that wives must support their sick husbands, or face the penalties of the law, many people may take a new look at marriages. Previously wives may even insist upon medical checkups so as to be sure they are not marrying a future liability. Now, also, a husband who will refuse to be sent off to an institution while they are still capable of being looked after in their own homes.

EUCHRE PARTY

Nine tables were in play when the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion held its weekly euchre party at the Legion Hall on Pinnacle street on Wednesday evening. First prize for the ladies went to Mrs. Wardell, with Mrs. Bradford taking second, and Mrs. Coon third. First prize for the men was won by Mr. Smart, with Mrs. Woods and Mrs. Betty Hodge taking the second and third "men's" prizes. The prize for lone hands was divided among Mr. Hunter, Mrs. Woods and Mr. Smart.

Women's Institutes

UNIONDALE W.I.

4th SIDNEY — The June meeting of Unionedale Women's Institute was held at the home of the past president, Mrs. G. Harrington, in connection with Sidney, with a fair attendance of members and a few visitors. Owing to the absence of the secretary - treasurer, Mrs. G. Striker, the assistant secretary, Mrs. A. Martyn took the minutes with the consent of president, Mrs. F. Loney, presiding.

Amendments of the hand book were pointed out by Mrs. George Burkitt to be corrected. Reports of committees were given by Mrs. Martyn, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Loney.

Piano solos, given by Lynn Harrington and Joyce Bidwell were much enjoyed, also a reading by Mrs. Ken Paul.

The election service, "Hospitality Foods," was decided upon.

GUELPH CONFERENCE

The report of the secretary's conference at Guelph was well outlined and reported by Mrs. F. Loney, who was a delegate from Uniondale Women's Institute. She also passed around clippings of distinguished persons who attended the conference.

Mrs. M. Grills read an address of Dr. Nick's, also a feature of the convention.

Thanks were tendered Mrs. Harrington for opening her home and those who had made the program a success.

The July meeting will be held at the Mariner Bird, with the report of the district annual being part of the program, conveners, Mrs. K. Paul.

Refreshments were served by Members K. Paul, M. Mallory, H. Bleeker, K. Bush, R. Dafoe and G. Burkitt.

Local Artist's Work Chosen For Tour

A local artist, Dolly Cain, has had a painting chosen from the 15th atnual Western Ontario exhibition in London, Ont., to be included in a group of 30 to go in a travelling exhibition which will tour Western Ontario.

This year 357 works were submitted to a jury consisting of Sydney Watson, R.C.A.O.S.A.; Paddy Dunn O'Brien and Herbert Carter. It was announced that the exhibition jury had several things to keep in mind when selecting paintings: to maintain a high standard of quality and originality and inventiveness and to encourage those artists, whether amateur or professional, whose work bears the imprint of these characteristics.

The exhibition opens in October, 1957, and closes in July 1958.

MAYOR OVERWHELMED

LONDON (CP)—Mayor Nathan Phillips of Toronto arrived in Britain Thursday on the final leg of a month-long tour of Europe, still slightly dazed by the warmth of the reception accorded him. He said: "Apparently, the mayor of Toronto can no longer travel as an ordinary private citizen. Wherever we've been, attractions had made a point of coming to our rescue first and assigning us the very best of hospitality. It is a singular tribute to Toronto and to Canada."

Women's Activities

MARSH HILL W.M.S.

MARSH HILL — The June meeting of Marsh Hill W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Allyn Fiskle with ten members present.

The president, Mrs. Leslie Fiskle, opened the meeting with all singing the hymn, "More Love to Thee," followed by prayer.

Two numbers contributed to the birthday box.

The members reported having made two calls and 22 hospital visits and sending 88 cards and one letter.

A letter regarding the School for Leaders was read.

Mrs. Bartindale, literature secretary, read a letter from the Presbyterial literature secretary.

Mrs. Walter Lindenfield gave a temperance reading, "Positive Outlook" — a gift wrapping program.

Mrs. Bert Searles, Christian stewardship secretary, gave a reading, "This Is Not Mine."

The worship service was taken by Mrs. Frank Finkle, the theme being "Think On These Things."

Mrs. Fred Campbell read the meditation, "Think On These Things," by Mrs. J. L. Carder.

Mrs. Allyn Finkle, Mrs. Grace Bartindale and Mrs. Bertie Mintz sang the hymn, "I'm Pressing On the Upward Way."

Mrs. Ken Searles the Church, by Miss Marion Woods. Miss Woods then read a letter from the United Church training school.

Mrs. Campbell, a student the field worker for the W.M.S. giving leadership in missionary education to Mission Band, Explorer and C.G.I.T. leaders.

Mrs. Donald Bartindale read, "Why a Mission Band?"

Mrs. Leslie Finkle read, "Building for the Future." The young people and children are the "promise of the future — they are also a sacred 'trust' and a W.M.S. that fails to realize this is a failure in keeping up to its full responsibility.

After the benediction, the hostess served refreshments.

ST. ANDREW'S-GILEAD W.M.S.

GILEAD — The June meeting of St. Andrew's-Gilead W.M.S. was held on Wednesday afternoon in St. Andrew's United Church with nine members present and one visitor.

Mrs. Earl Treverton, president, presided for the meeting.

Fleischer Fleischer read by Mrs. C. Martin showing $47 on hand. A letter was read thanks for World's Day of Prayer donation was read by Mrs. Martin and one from the table which had been sent by Mrs. J. O. Hoffman.

Mrs. Earl Treverton read the Temperance reading of the Presbyterial. The reminder of the program was in charge of Mrs. G. Livingston.

Mrs. Bertrand expressed her appreciation for remembrances at her father's death.

The worship service was in charge of Mrs. Livingston, based on "Father." Mrs. Pringle sang the Lord's Prayer.

Readings by Mrs. Chappell, "Thou Inner Heart," Mrs. E. P. Yorke, "Where There Is No Chaff, the Cradle Is Empty."

Piano solo by Mrs. Livingston and a solo, "The Ninety and Nine," by Mrs. G. Swan.

The membership was paid and an Easter thankoffering received.

A short business meeting for the W.A. followed to discuss the question of catering at the forthcoming wedding of June 29th. It was decided to cater.

BETHEL - ZION W.M.S.

BETHEL - ZION — The monthly meeting of Bethel-Zion W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Ketcheson with 11 ladies and six children present.

The president opened the meeting with the watchword and prayer.

Mrs. Laurison Ketcheson was in charge of the devotional and gave a reading "Think of These Things." Mrs. Cecil Ketcheson read the Scripture followed by prayer by Mrs. Simmons.

Mrs. Earle Sayers gave the chapter on "Pro-China," from the study book.

Mrs. Sayers and Mrs. Percy Ray each gave readings on Temperance.

The meeting closed and a social half hour followed.

VICTORIA W.A.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Frank Townsend, 1st vice-president, presided. The meeting was opened by singing "The King of Love My Shepherd Is," and Psalm 150 read in unison. The minutes were approved as read by secretary, Mrs. Norman Montgomery. The roll call was responded to by 14 members.

Plans were made for an afternoon tea at the church on July 10th and the regular July meeting at the home of Mrs. Clifford Calnan on July 17. "Thank-

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough Sure To Become Canada's First Woman Cabinet Minister

OTTAWA (CP) — An Ontario housewife with a flair for smart clothes and a flair for capacity may become Canada's first woman cabinet minister.

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, 53-year-old Progressive Conservative member from Hamilton West, also could become the second woman to hold full cabinet rank in any Commonwealth country.

Mrs. Fairclough, labor spokesman since she was first elected seven years ago, she has been mentioned as the new government's labor or health minister, or possibly secretary of state.

But her place in John Diefenbaker's government won't be known until today when the prime minister-designate names his cabinet.

Mrs. Fairclough, born in New Zealand's sunniest province, got her children's welfare is the only woman in a Commonwealth cabinet.

ONLY TWO

Two Commons member, Mrs. Fairclough says she finds being on the government rather than the opposition side "fun" but "very gratifying."

The new Conservative win that ended 22 years of Liberal government and gave her party the biggest House of Commons Fairclough polled 16,563 votes in the Hamilton West riding over female CCF and Liberal opponents.

Out of 30 women seeking seats in the Commons, 24 were elected. Mrs. Margaret Aitken (PC—York-Humber) retained the grade. Miss Aitken was first elected in 1953.

However, a seat in Parliament doesn't necessarily "automatic" a woman," silver-haired Mrs. Fairclough said in an interview.

The sixth of nine women elected to Parliament since women got the right to vote in 1917, Ellen Fairclough knows what she's talking about.

FOUNDING AT JOCKEY

The trim, attractive mother of a 22-year-old son was the Conservative's lone woman when she followed a 1949 general election defeat with a byelection victory the following year.

A public accountant with five years' experience in civic politics—she served four years as alderman and one year as Hamilton's controller and deputy mayor—she made her own mark on Parliament Hill.

In 1950, she sponsored in the Commons legislation for fair employment and anti-discrimination practices in industrial employment. Three years later the legislation got government action.

Four years ago she proposed legislation providing equal pay for women doing the same work as men in such federally - controlled industries as railways, communications and banks.

Persistently she stuck to the bill which was not discussed the first year and voted down in the two succeeding years.

SUITS FOR WOMEN

Last year the legislation, which benefits some 73,000 women or one-eighth of the women engaged in industry, was sponsored by the government and passed by Parliament in a matter of days.

It was still hailed as a victory for its original sponsor, despite the final passage under government auspices.

What does a well - dressed woman MP wear?

"Suits," said Mrs. Fairclough, with an infectious laugh.

She was wearing a slim, rose-

DANCE DRESS IN CHIFFON

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Chiffon, whether it's silk, rayon or nylon, is a favorite fabric this season. Nylon chiffon in white or molon color is the material used for a very graceful and pretty dance dress. The shirred bodice is accentuated by the draped midriff, which ties in a knot at front. The gathered skirt is flared for graceful fullness. The design adds up to something in which any girl could look glamorous.

colored dress with a white lace bow at the collar and a snug-fitting white straw hat.

She follows a busy schedule of Parliament sessions, club meetings, speaking engagements and visits home to Hamilton on weekends when her husband, businessman Gordon Fairclough doesn't come to Ottawa.

She said that's one reason why women—and men—stick to local politics where schedules can be rearranged rather than upset.

She finds time for photography, sewing and reading "everything as long as it's in print." But there's not much time for cooking.

"And I love to cook. I've often thought I'd like to be a cook—if I ever found myself out of a job."

FOUND IN HOSPITAL

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A week after being reported dead missing, author Elliott Paul, 66, has been found in hospital, suffering from a heart attack. The bearded writer of The Last Time I Saw Paris, Life and Death of a Spanish Town, and other well-known works, was brought into the hospital as an emergency case Monday, a hospital spokesman said. He was reported missing last Wednesday by a friend.

A SMALL flexible bend key chain slipped through the hole in the tab of a slide fastener is practical—and appealing to a youngster. It helps more the fastener and it can carry a favorite charm or an odd key, for fun. The charm doubles as a "handle," too.

Sunday School Picnic

CHRIST CHURCH ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL

A fleet of Rawson buses conveyed 500 children to Oak Lake on Wednesday for the annual picnic.

Under the guidance of Miss Clarence Fuzzen the affair was a huge success. Mr. Fuzzen pointed out that it had been wonderful support of the teachers and parents that made it a success.

Jack Fletcher was the announcer and kept everybody informed at all times of what was happening. The senior boys who volunteered as life guards, did a wonderful job.

Wilf Mills, Gerald Bongard and Stan Wigmo looked after the races. Mrs. Jack Fletcher and Mrs. Thomas Clark attended to the prizes.

Mrs. Lionel Blaker with her kindergarten school of 100, assisted by Mrs. Vaughan, were really busy. Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan and Rev. Everett Smith were actively engaged all afternoon, they found the cost of popularity runs high at pricles.

All were pleased to see Mrs. Everett Smith out after a most serious illness. Her many friends hope it will not be long before she is her active self again.

Miss Dorothy Stapley was in charge of the nursery, substituting for Mr. Stewart Bull, who was unable to attend. Miss Bull also was there helping where needed.

To name all who helped would be impossible, but especially Mrs. Mr. Fuzzen wishes to record his appreciation to each of the parents, and teachers for their willing co-operation to give the children a day they will remember.

The results of the races are as follows:

Kindergarten — tie — everybody won.

Flattering Footwear

By TRACY ADRIAN

White calfskin shoes, always a handsome choice for wear in the summer, have come out this season dramatized with a graceful trim of pearl gray leather.

Ideal for day and linens, the ones pictured have the beautiful pin-point toes and the slender heels that smart fashion demands this year. As gently molded to the foot as a handmade shoe, these are lightly recognized as inspired by the Italian trend in footwear designing.

Canadian Girl Boils Because Of Talk on Canuck Weather

NEW YORK (CP) — This is about women and weather—pick better subjects if you can.

It also has a bit about international relations. It tells how Heidi Wave cooled off a Canadian girl, boiling because of Yankee comments on Canuck weather.

The girl, Aileen—a housewife—you can find her at any address—came to New York to live in Tanuary, when icy blasts sent frozen citizens scurrying along the city's famed canyons.

FRIEND NEIGHBOR

Everybody talked about the cold weather, and everybody figured the cause was obvious.

"Cold air from Canada," was the phrase intoned over and over to explain the New York misery.

A salesgirl in suburban Jamaica didn't help. Meaning to be friendly she asked Aileen, a Nova Scotian:

"What's it like in Nova Scotia? I mean, you have night for six months and day for six months, don't you? Oh pardon me. . . I was thinking of Newfoundland."

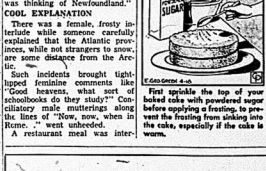
COOL EXPLANATION

There was a female, frosty interlude while someone carefully explained that Nova Scotia's provinces, while not strangers to snow, are some distance from the Arctic.

Such incidents brought tight-lipped feminine comments like "Good heavens, what sort of schoolboy do they study?" Complimentary male mutterings along the lines of "Now, now, when in Rome." went unheeded.

A restaurant meal was interrupted when the good woman suddenly assumed a fixed stare, slammed down her cutlery and demanded:

Did you hear that? At the next table they're blaming the Florida cold, snap on Canada, the idiots."



Canadian-American relations in capsule form became as chilly as Aklavik.

COLD WAR THAWING

But all this has changed. A sizzling heat wave did what John Foster Dulles wouldn't have been able to do.

Sweltering New Yorkers now hear television weather experts hold out hope "of cold air from Canada" to relieve the situation.

"They're glad, G-I-A-D, to be getting our weather now," is the delighted—and perhaps a little vindictive—comment out at our place.

First sprinkle the top of your bottled cake with powdered sugar before applying a frosting, to prevent the frosting from sinking into the cake, especially if the cake is warm.

St. Joseph's P.T.A. Elects 1957-8 Officers

The general meeting of St. Joseph's P.T.A. was held recently in the school auditorium.

The Rev. J. J. Buckley opened the meeting with prayer.

After the business meeting was over, Mr. F. Maund presided the slate of officers for the coming year.

The following officers were elected: president, Mr. T. Kelly; vice-president, Mr. J. Doyen; recording secretary, Mrs. C. O'Neill; corresponding secretary, Mrs. O. Dufour; treasurer, Mrs. R. Chipman; teacher councillor, Mrs. J. McLaren.

Mr. S. McKenna, president, expressed his appreciation for all the help and co-operation he had received from the executive and members during the year and presented a corsage to each lady member of the executive.

Father Buckley thanked Mr. McKenna and the executive for the contribution they had made to the P.T.A.

On behalf of the members, Mr. Maund presented a gift to Mr. McKenna.

The attendance prize was won by the classes of the Rev. Fr. Mary Helen Dolan and Mr. Noonan. Refreshments were served by the mothers of room 3.

RUSSIA HAS BIG PLANS

MOSCOW (Reuters)—A Russian scientist said today the Soviet Union will launch several artificial earth satellites during the International Geophysical Year. Evgeni Fedorov, member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, said Russia would launch "not one but several" of the satellites to circle the earth at altitudes varying from 125 to 900 miles, and "the entire surface of the earth will be covered by the observations."

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU CAN OVERCOME YOUR SHYNESS

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Although I'm 21 years old, I've always been so shy that I've never got to know any girl real well. So, I've never been able to start and carry on a good conversation, so that when I meet a girl, I don't know what to talk about.

Right now, there's a girl of 18 I'd like to take out, and I would like to know if you can give me a little advice on how to make myself interesting to her. And do you think it is wrong for a fellow of my age to ask a girl, 18, on a date? — Bill T.

Dear Bill:

Let's begin with your last question about whether or not it's wrong for a fellow of 21 to ask a girl of 18 on a date.

The answer to this is that, while I wouldn't say there is anything wrong about it, I do say it is not very appropriate. I think it's much better for a young man of 21 to choose his friends from among girls closer to his own age.

At the same time, I can very well understand why you may feel more at home with a younger girl. This often happens when young men are as shy as you are. Sometimes, the unconscious fear is feel that a young woman their own age may make fun of them, or at least be uninterested in them, because they are so shy, while the younger girls are apt to look up to a young man a few years older than themselves and think he's wonderful no matter what he says —or doesn't say.

One way to overcome this type of handicap is to get yourself interested in a lot of different things so that you can talk about them enthusiastically. Another good approach is to find out what your date is interested in and encourage her to tell you about it. Everybody likes to have an opportunity to talk about his interests or hobbies to a congenial listener, and many a person who just listens is often surprised to find himself considered a "good talker."

Try this out and see if it doesn't work for you. It has for lots of others.

If you would like to look into some books that could give you some helpful suggestions along this line, send me a letter containing a stamped self-addressed envelope so I can reach you personally, and I'll be glad to forward a list to you.

HOW YOU CAN TELL IF YOU'RE IN LOVE

A question that repeatedly turns up in my mail has just come in once more from a girl of 15.

What, like all the others, she wants to know is: "How can I tell if I'm In Love?"

This girl has a specific person in mind, and I judge he's also a teenager. For this reason, and also because she tells me she has been going with him for only "about a month," it seems a little early for her to be asking this question. On the other hand, if she gets firmly fixed in her mind, right now, a true concept of what love really means—the kind of love on which every successful marriage is based—it should help her a lot in making the right decision when the proper time for it arrives.

The first thing this teenager should realize, and which I think few teenagers, and also, many older people do not realize, is that there are far more factors in love than thrills and kisses. To be happy together for very long, a young man and a young woman must have sufficient understanding and affection for each other, as well as a large measure of tolerance, to put up with the stresses and strains of everyday living.

Just because one thrills to another person's presence, spends most of the time daydreaming about that other person and thinks how wonderful it would be if the two of them were married so they could be together all the time, doesn't necessarily mean that one is in love.

Real love means that the two people will be just as happy to each other's company when the going is tough as when everything is rosy. It means that they like most of the same things, so they can enjoy doing them together; most of the same type people so they can enjoy each other's friends. It means that they trust each other so that jealousy is unthinkable; that each one is more interested in what he can do for the other person than the other way around; that each can learn to put up with the other's small faults and idiosyncrasies instead of becoming irritable and impatient every time these things crop up. When there is respect for people in love want to talk it out together freely and work out a mutually acceptable solution.

Most of all, they have the same fundamental standards of behavior, and similar ideals, so that they want the same kind of home and agree basically on the way their children shall be brought up.

Only when one person has known another long enough to be certain where he or she stands on all these vitally important points, can you possibly tell whether or not you can safely say you're in love.

So, to my 15-year-old correspondent, and to anyone else who may be asking themselves the same question she has asked, I say just this:

Don't be in a hurry to commit yourself, and don't let yourself be high-pressured into a hasty decision. Far too many young people —and, unfortunately older ones as well—become engaged on the pulse and realize that they did so only after the strength of their relationship begins to sag under the normal demands of married life.

In love, as in every other important department of life, to make haste slowly is the only safe rule.

And one final word: If you enjoy testing yourself on quizzes, go to your local public library and ask for a book called "Preparing For Marriage," by Dr. Clifford R. Adams. It's not a new book, but it is still as practically helpful as when it was first published.

Turn to Page 49 where you'll find the start of a quiz titled "Are You Really In Love?" By the time you've answered its 25 questions, you ought to be able to make up your mind very definitely.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

TEACH TOTS THE ABCs OF CLEANLINESS

Fun sessions in the backyard wading pool should be followed up by warm or shower baths.

Did you hear the one about the little boy whose mother told him to wash up before putting on his clothes? A proud kindergartner, the little boy had requested the privilege of dressing himself for once. His mother okayed the idea, but told him to wash clean before he knew it was time for clothes. Then the young man asked his mother if he should wash his arms for a long-sleeved shirt, or for a short-sleeved shirt! Well, poor little youngsters! They're always hearing some grown-up say, "Mercy, go wash your hands! They look so dirty." Or, "What will people say when they see that face?" Maybe this is a tip off to explain to your youngsters the why-fores of a good soap-and-water scrubbing. You don't bathe just because some unwashed skin shows somewhere. You bathe in order to be healthy and happy all over.

It's such a simple idea to put over, and yet think how many times we expect children to understand what we really mean when we don't actually say it! Bathing is for fun, for good health, for a general sense of well-being, as well as for social acceptance!

The subject of bathing—especially at this time of the year — brings up, inevitably, the subject of swimming. Among the many freedoms of summertime, or so Junior reasons, is that blissful business of taking a swim instead of a bath. Just tell Junior he's off-base on that one, mother! A swim is not a bath. Getting clean involves soap and plenty of it, as well as water. Let him swim to his heart's content and then go in promptly to take a good sudsy bath or shower! It's a mistaken idea that a dip in the pool, the lake, or the ocean gets the body really clean.

Sometimes — usually, in fact — it's quite the reverse. At the lake, you're bound to collect a little soil and mud, even a little film of oil from cavorting motorboats. At the beach, you gather up a little sand. In an outdoor pool, you help add a touch of soil and grime to the swimming water, as you walk around and then plop in. So put over the idea that a good swim should be followed by a good soaping.

When the little ones climb out of the backyard wading pool, invite them into a cleansing shower. After that, of course, comes sudsing the bathing suits. Otherwise, they'll begin to look sagy long before the summer's over. And anyway, who wants to put on a swim suit that's not clean when the next outing comes up?

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WISE ADVICE: "NEITHER A BORROWER NOR A LENDER BE"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I wish you would express your views about borrowers. I am one of those people who cannot turn down anyone who asks to borrow from me. But now I'm really "burned up" with the experiences I've had with the way borrowers do and act. I've loaned brand-new books, which I haven't had time to read yet, and had them returned all patched up with Scotch tape. I've loaned patterns, and had them returned with envelopes all torn and pieces of the patterns missing. Garden tools have not been returned, and when I want to use them and go to get them, probably "No one home," or the tools may be lying out on the pathway and often the borrowers look at me as if I were committing some crime for asking for the return of the tools. I have loaned paint brushes and rollers in perfect condition and had them returned as hard as a board with dry paint, absolutely no use at all! I've given things I just can't figure out how anyone would have the nerve to return them things in such a useless condition.

My husband and I have always had a time buying our equipment, and I've tried to keep track of these things, but now so many things haven't been returned. My husband also lends our things and forgets to whom. He and I have always made it our habit to return things we have borrowed just as soon as possible after using them, in as good conditions we received them, sometimes in better condition, because we have had them repaired.

As for the things we lend to people, we have unpleasant experiences all the time, and yet I am fool enough to lend again and again, even though not always to the same people. What to do, what to do? — Beth.

First: Remember, please remember, Shakespeare's perfect advice, "Neither a borrower nor a lender be."

Second: Get a bulletin-board, attach to it a large placard on which you have printed "Neither a borrower nor a lender be." and hang it in a place so conspicuous that you and your husband can easily read often read this warning which you both so much need.

Third: Don't (in your own words) be "fool enough to lend again and again." It makes better sense to say, in your most gracious manner, "I'm sorry not to lend you that book now . . . I have not yet read it myself, and was looking forward to it." Or "I'll be needing that pattern (or that paint brush and roller' or that tool' or whatever) one of these days now. I know you'll understand." However, if your mighty unpleasant experiences haven't convinced you not .to be foolish, you and your husband should post your lendings on said bulletin board, what. to whom, the date "out" and the expected date to be returned.

Fourth: You yourself should not borrow . . . had example of such habitual borrowers. Thoughtless borrowing is a bad habit . . . and so is unwise lending.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

Question: Thanks for the Coconaut Decks — they are just what I wanted. Yesterday I had another delightful cookie called Peanut Butter Snowball. Have you the recipe? Have you tried Strawberry Delight? I am enclosing the recipe for you. We like this and I would like to experiment with it and use 2 pkgs of berries and also try vanilla wafers for the crust. . . from Homemaker.

Answer: Glad that you liked the Cocoanut cookies. Have many recipes for Peanut-Butter cookies but none called by that name. Is it a round ball cookie that has been iced and rolled in cocoanut? Let me know and I will forward the recipe. Thanks for the Strawberry Delight. (courtesy Homemaker). Base: 24 graham wafers rolled fine, 1-2 cup butter, 1-2 cup sugar. Mix well and bake 10 minutes at 300 degrees Fahr. This is enough for a 9-inch crust and crumb for topping. Filling: 1-2 cup sugar, 3 pkgs. strawberry jelly powder, 1 tablespoon plain gelatine, 1-2 cup hot water, 1 large tin evaporated milk that has been well chilled, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 pkg. frozen strawberries. Combine jelly powders, sugar and gelatine and hot water. Cool. Add frozen strawberries. Whip the evaporated milk that has been well chilled with the lemon juice until stiff. Add gelatine mixture and whip again. Pour into baked shell, sprinkle crumbs on top and chill well before serving.

FRIDAY (Guests)

Baked Salmon with Lemon Butter or Tartar Sauce, New Green Peas, Whole Glazed Carrots, Shredded Leaf Lettuce with Hot Bacon Dressing, Strawberry Fritters (see Thursday), Coffee.

Question: Many thanks for the recipe for faggots and peas. Thank Mrs. W. also, please, I am enclosing a favorite of ours and we enjoy it very much. It is called Angel Food Pie and I hope that you can use it in your column. (Mrs. A. F.)

Answer: I am sure that Mrs. W. will see this and know how much you liked the faggot and peas. Our readers are always interested in other readers' recipes so thanks for Angel Food Pie (courtesy Mrs. A. F.) Four tablespoons corn starch, 3-4 cup white sugar, 1 1-2 cups boiling water, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 3 egg whites, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 1-2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 baked pastry shell, 1 cup heavy cream, whipped. Mix corn starch and sugar in top of double boiler and add boiling water slowly stirring constantly. Cook till thick and clear, then set aside. Add the salt to egg whites and beat till stiff. Add 3 tablespoons sugar and beat till whites are creamy colored. Pour hot corn starch mixture over egg white mixture slowly beating continuously with rotary beater. Cool slightly. Add vanilla and fill cooked pie shell. Cover with whipped cream and sprinke top with grated nuts or chocolate. Make at least 2 hours before using. This makes a great hit at out house and I hope your readers enjoy it.

ACTOR BACK AT WORK

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor Yul Brynner is back at work on the screen after fracturing a vertebra in his back on an MGM movie lot. Brynner was doing some trick riding for The Brothers Karamazov, and leaned far to one side as he slashed with a sword. Soon afterward he complained of back and chest pains and X-rays disclosed the fracture.

Lace Is Lovely In Hats

DEMAND TOKYO TRIAL FOR SOLDIER

Tokyo police restrain Socialist demonstrators in front of the ministry of defence in Tokyo, where they staged a rally to protest U.S. policies and to demand that "Girard be tried in Japan." Girard is the U.S. soldier accused of killing a Japanese woman on a rifle range. The protest was led by the Socialist party which controls more than one-third of the seats in the Diet (parliament). At was also intended to take some of the steam out of Prime Minister Kishi's current goodwill visit to the United States.

Sunday School Lesson

Dividends From Disaster

By ROY L. SMITH

The Old Testament stories of Joseph emphasize, among others, one extremely important point. The right kind of person can compel disasters to pay dividends.

No one has ever found a sure or guaranteed insulation against trouble. There are those who believe that thel- purse is their best friend, and it is true the money can stand between us and some forms of troubles. There are others who think they can get out of the worst troubles if they know the right people, and they are forever caddying to the powerful. There are still others who seem to think that they can get by if they put up a bold front, but no one ever knows how much they suffer in secret.

But when all the devices have been exhausted, there are those troubles no man can avoid and no one can hope to escape. The problem then becomes one of finding some inner power that will enable us to rise above our disasters and become their masters. It is at that point that good religion proves its worth.

JOSEPH UNLUCKY

Misfortune had dogged the steps of the young man Joseph from the first day of his life.

His father had made a fool out of him, his brothers had hated him, the Ishmaelites had sold him into slavery, and in this week's Sunday school lesson we find him in jail.

What a case Joseph could have made out for himself in the face of this almost unimagined record of disaster! He had generous grounds for pitying himself, for going sour on life, and becoming an enemy of society. He could even have taken refuge in the fact that he had been born with the wrong disposition. Life might have been easier for him if his father had been poor.

LIFE HAD BEEN TEDIOUS

From the time that Joseph landed in Egypt at the age of seventeen, until we find him in jail at the age of thirty, the young man had lived the life of an unknown, a slave, a man without a family or a friend.

From the little we know of him we can judge that he probably worked hard and was faithful, but he did not get anywhere. He belonged to a vast army of the unappreciated. He had kept himself clean, walked a straight and narrow, and could not see that it made any difference.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for June 22: "God's Steadfast Love," Genesis 39 through 41.

Other young men he knew had become couples, got the jobs and had enjoyed no little excitement. Joseph had been a stick in the mud, and had nothing to show for it.

And now he is in jail!

CHARACTER COUNTS

A very personable young man in a certain midwestern city who had kept himself confidently above the wantonness of the crowd with whom he was compelled to work and live, became involved with the law and found himself charged with having committed a very serious crime.

Inside the citadel of his own soul the young man knew he was innocent, but circumstantial evidence pointed to him as being the guilty party. His problem was simple, but the solution was extremely complicated. He had to wait until all the facts could be brought to light.

While waiting he made a thrilling discovery. His character was his greatest asset!

Friends believed in him in spite of slander, a bad press, and the surface showing of the evidence. Help came out of the midst of his disaster. The guilty one, profoundly impressed by his courageous attitude, made a full confession.

The best of all, and all of the time," he said, "was the fact that I never had to make peace with myself. I was at peace inside my own soul. I knew the facts, and they did not condemn me." And that was the secret of his strange strength.

Find Free Europe Radio Aroused Hope of Support

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) United Nations investigators conclude that the general tone of Radio Free Europe's broadcasts to Hungary during last fall's uprising "aroused an expectation of support" and hope that a UN force would be sent.

However, the General Assembly's five-member special committee on Hungary found no evidence that the anti-Communist radio actually promised the Hungarian rebels military help.

The committee was named Jan. 10 to investigate Soviet suppression of the revolt. Its 391-page report, made public Thurs., included findings on RFE's influence on the Hungarian population during the rebellion. Some French newspapers, Hungarians and Germans had charged that the station's broadcasts built up a false impression that the anti - Russian freedom fighters could expect help from the West.

RFE, a privately financed American-sponsored agency which broadcasts to the Soviet satellites from West Germany, denied in January it made any "direct promises of help."

It conceded that the "sense of urgency" in the voices of some Hungarian escapees broadcasting to their homeland probably gave the Hungarians a "wrong impression" that RFE was urging them on. RFE said it would welcome a full-dress investigation by the UN into the charges it helped incite the revolt.

The UN report says "the committee feels that in such circumstances the greatest restraint and circumspection are called for in international broadcasting."

Homing Pigeon Thousand Miles Off Its Course

EDMONTON (CP)—One of 1,700 homing pigeons entered in a 500-mile race last week from Norfolk, Neb., to the Chicago area is believed to have made an overnight stop in Edmonton, more than 1,000 miles off course. Only two of the birds are reported to have reached Chicago.

F. Walker Blake, secretary-manager of Edmonton branch of the Alberta Motor Association, said Wednesday one of the missing pigeons landed on a window sill at his home Monday evening.

Mr. Blake said the bird refused to eat and was placed in a box for the night. The bird had a leg band indicating it was one of the missing pigeons.

The bird took off next morning and headed southeast in the direction of Chicago.

It is believed that when the birds were released at Norfolk they may have taken a wrong direction due to a storm or other atmospheric disturbance.

CARELESS DRIVER

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Marshall Frey, 10, was treated Wednesday for slight injuries received while "under the influence of comic books." The boy told police he rammed his bicycle into the side of a parked car as he attempted to flip a page in the comic book he was reading.

Slays His Wife And Her Parents, Then Suicides

CANTON, N.Y. (AP)—The body of a young farmer who killed his estranged wife and her parents was found Thursday night in woods about half a mile from his abandoned automobile.

State police said Richard Cota, 27, apparently had killed himself.

Bloodhounds led troopers to the body after the car was found on a side road about 2 miles southeast of this northern New York village.

Cota's wife, Janet, about 24, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Duval Sr., were slain with a .30-06 rifle. Police said that Cota carried the rifle with him when he fled.

Cota was released last month from a mental hospital.

The shooting in the Duvals' apartment over a garage, followed an argument between the Cotas.

CHILDREN ESCAPE DEATH IN ICEBOX

Playing a game in the backyard of their Peterborough home, Debra Lyn Barrett, four, and her sister, Sherry, three climbed into this abandoned icebox and shut the door. The icebox was airtight and within an hour the two children would have been dead. But other children attracted the attention of their mother, Mrs. Donald Barrett, who pried the door off with a screwdriver. The children were frightened but had not passed out from lack of oxygen.

U.S. Modifies Original Plan, No Atomic Guided Missiles Will Be Shipped to Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States decision to strengthen its forces in Korea with modern equipment seems to fall somewhat short of what apparently was planned here only a few weeks ago.

The decision, transmitted today to the North Korean and Chinese Communists, calls for a buildup of nuclear weapons, including subair power at this time. No atomic weapons are being given to the two American Army divisions standing guard at the truce line.

There was no immediate official explanation for this apparent modification of plans for countering the "imbalance" of military strength caused by Communist violations of truce terms. These terms barred introduction of new types of weapons into Korea and permitted only replacement of worn-out gear.

It could have resulted from a lack of immediately available missiles capable of carrying atomic warheads — although this seems doubtful. Or it could have been dictated by diplomatic considerations.

DISCUSSES SITUATION

Murray Snyder, assistant secretary of defence, held a press conference Thursday night to discuss the modification of plans to the North Korean and Chinese commanders in Panmunjom.

Snyder said new planes, which "obviously are atomic-capable," would start landing in South Korea immediately. But in reply to a question he said that "at this time no atomic weapons are being given to ground forces."

On May 28 Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson told reporters he expected that the number of U.S. forces in South Korea would be the "same kind of thing" as atomic artillery units in American forces in Europe.

This, he said, would include such items as the air force's Matador missile and the army's Honest John rocket and Corporal guided missile, all of them designed to carry atomic warheads.

Snyder was asked whether the plan to hold off on giving such missiles and rockets to the ground forces in Korea represented a change from Wilson's plans. Snyder said he did not recall details of that, "but it is not in the United States plan" to South Korea.

LEAVES QUESTION

That left the question of whether the decision to withhold the building to air power was related to international negotiations.

In London, the U.S. is participating in disarmament talks with the Soviet Union. There was no comprise in some quarters that the decision to let the air force build up power in South Korea should come at a time when disarmament talks were under way.

From a practical, tactical viewpoint, the sending of modern jet fighter-bombers and jet fighters could greatly increase the striking power in South Korea in addition to American strength there.

To any student of the air power forces now would be able to react even more swiftly than at present, with aircraft based on fields in Japan and Okinawa.

CARRIER LEAVES

BELFAST, North Ireland (AP)—The Canadian aircraft carrier Bonaventure left Belfast Wednesday for Halifax almost 24 years after she had been laid down at the city's shipyards. At Halifax she will be received officially for the first time in Canadian waters.

CAPTURED

Fighting Jimmy Gardiner Sheds Agriculture Portfolio Held Continuously 22 Years

Liberal Cabinet Ministers Clear Desks and Files

OTTAWA (CP)—There was dust here and there. And plenty of memories. But do moths visible.

It was the eve of moving day for Liberal cabinet ministers, some of them on the job for the last 22 years. Desks were emptied. Files were filing cabinets of personal correspondence.

For today the Progressive Conservatives move in.

Some of the correspondence in some cabinet offices was so old officials couldn't remember why it had been kept. They threw it out.

But most of the files, letters and whatnot were packed up carefully by the outgoing ministers and carried away to places of safekeeping. For all anyone knew, it might come in handy on some future day.

With characteristic efficiency, Trade Minister Howe was all packed Wednesday, except for a few odds and ends. Until his defeat June 10 in Port Arthur, he'd been a cabinet minister since 1935.

PAUSES FOR PICTURE

As he looked over a few letters and other papers late this afternoon, he paused to have his picture taken. What of the future, he was asked.

"We'll clean up the past before we start worrying about the future," he said, smiling without wistfulness. He figured he'd work again, but for the moment he was going fishing when he finished up here.

In Health Minister Martin's office, the bookcases were bare. There were dark outlines on the walls where pictures had been taken down.

Some 350 members of his department staff held a small farewell gathering for their boss, who plans to resume permanent residence in Windsor, now that he's just a plain member of the Commons.

"This is the kind of a day a man remembers all his life," he told his staff quietly. But grinning then, he added: "I shall return."

Meantime, administrative staffs in each department were drafting rundowns on departmental operations for the newcomers. And sitting tight to see what happens now.

OTTAWA (CP)—Fighting Jimmy Gardiner, tough prairie campaigner, yielded his cabinet post today "with no regrets" and at the ready to do battle again at the polls "if I am still asked."

Thus Rt. Hon. James Garfield Gardiner shed the agriculture portfolio he held continuously for 22 years, ever since he entered federal politics in 1935.

On Tuesday he will mark the completion of 43 years of unbroken public service in the Saskatchewan legislature and the federal Parliament. In that period he has never met personal defeat at the polls, a record he believes is unmatched by anyone.

He now joins the Liberals in opposition, sole remaining elected member of the original 1935 Mackenzie King cabinet. The other, Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, was defeated in the June 10 vote.

NOT A STEPDOWN

"I don't think being just a member of Parliament is a step-down," the leathery-faced Saskatchewan farmer said in his interview. "It's the most honorable position in the country."

He was sitting in his cabinet office, playing with a set of keys. His staff was busy removing his papers and other belongings.

"You can't always be on the government side. It does appear somewhat strange that in all of my 43 years of public office I have been only twice in opposition once in the Saskatchewan legislature and now for the first time."

He said he caused the swing to the Progressive Conservatives?

"I think the swing generally resulted from the fact that many people considered we had been too long in office. There were a lot of people also looking for patronage that they didn't get from the Liberals. They thought they could do better elsewhere. But that would be only a small element.

"The big thing is that people looked to have things done to benefit the population generally and thought these might be done more fully under a new group."

HAVE PROMISED

The Conservatives had promised their staff held a small farewell gathering for their boss, who plans to resume permanent residence in Windsor, now that he's just a plain member of the Commons.

"This is the kind of a day a man remembers all his life," he told his staff quietly. But grinning then, he added: "I shall return."

Meantime, administrative staffs in each department were drafting rundowns on departmental operations for the newcomers. And sitting tight to see what happens now.

Premier Frost Expects Change To Help Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost says he expects the change of governments in Ottawa will make considerable difference on a number of questions affecting the provinces.

Questioned Thursday at a press conference about the effects of the assumption of power by Progressive Conservative leader John Diefenbaker, Mr. Frost said there'll be nothing of tax overlap and high among federal - provincial problems.

The Conservative premier said the first step in improving relationships might be reappraisal of responsibilities and redivision of tax revenues among federal, provincial and municipal levels of government.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who officially becomes prime minister today, said during the election campaign that if elected he would call a federal-provincial conference this fall. The Ontario premier said the tax split should be top matter for consideration at such a conference.

Mr. Frost has said Ontario needs an additional $100,000,000 to meet demands of provincial and municipal growth. If granted, most of that amount would go to relieve municipal education costs, he said Thursday.

Rocket Plane Climbed 24 Miles

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force has finally announced the altitude mark set by the ill-fated X2 rocket plane—128,200 feet or almost 24 miles.

Although it became known and was widely reported shortly after the flight last August that Capt. Milburn Kinchloe had exceeded 100,000 feet in the craft, the air force hitherto had refused to confirm or deny the fact.

No mention was made of the plane's speed. Unofficial reports, authoritative reports are that another pilot, Capt. William Apt, attained 2,178 miles an hour—three times the speed of sound—on the flight Sept. 27, shortly before the plane went out of control and crashed. The pilot was killed.

Inflationary Danger Not Over Says President Bankers' Assoc.

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—President E. W. Nicks of the Canadian Bankers' Association warned today that the inflationary danger has not passed with the easing of pressures in the last few months.

"There remain strong upward pressures on costs and prices," he told the association's annual meeting.

"The capital investment program is still enormous even though it is not increasing as rapidly as it was. Its requirements for funds are very heavy and are continuing to exert pressure on the capital market, to accentuate our already big trade deficit and indirectly to sustain a strong demand for bank loans. . . .

"While there is certainly a more even balance between saving and contracting forces in the economic picture, it does not appear that the broad trend has yet turned in a downward direction."

Text of his address was released to the press in advance of delivery.

The "bite" of tight money is strengthening and its effects spreading, he said.

This called for alertness on the part of monetary authorities in watching the changing economic currents not only in Canada but in the United States, so that when the time came to relax tight money, the change would be made promptly.

Indicating how the national policy of monetary restraint had affected banks, he said that total Canadian bank deposits—the main element in money supply — increased less than one per cent from May, 1956, to May, 1957, and current accounts—largely business deposits—actually declined over the same period.

Soviet Delegate Quits Labor Meet During Attack

GENEVA (Reuters)—The Soviet delegate walked out of the International Labor Organization conference Thursday during a speech by U.S. delegate George Delaney attacking Russia's "brutal tyranny" in Hungary and "hypocrisy" at international conferences.

The few other Communist delegates in the hall remained seated as Delaney was applauded.

Delaney, representing the American Federation of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations, devoted most of his speech to the United Nations action on Hungary released earlier in the day.

"It is not only the person in this room who can fail to have the deepest interest in this document," he said.

"It sets forth in clear, complete and precise terms the account of naked and brutal tyranny more dreadful than anything the world has ever seen.

"And yet . . . we hear him (Russian delegate Amazasp Arutiunian) say the ILO should pay greater heed than hitherto to the grounds of the truth unless, after we hear him talk unctiously of peace and concord among all peoples. . . ."

Youth Arrested In Possession Of Stolen Car

NIPIGON, Ont. (CP) — John David Huard, 18, of Peterborough, was arrested here Thursday in possession of a car reported stolen in Winnipeg, provincial police said.

RCMP in Winnipeg said he will be escorted back there and charged with theft. Evidence in connection with an attack Wednesday night on service station operator Eric Walls at Rennie Man.

Walls was struck on the head with a jack handle by a man who got out of a car and stopped at the station, RCMP said.

Early Thursday, a man was reported by the force of without paying for gas at a Dryden, Ont., station and a similar theft came later from Shabaqua, Ont.

HOLD UP DAIRY

MONTREAL (CP)—Two thugs armed with guns and clubs last night escaped with more than $4,000 from the Mount Royal Dairy on Lajeunesse Avenue. Police said the bandits bound the cashier and a customer while escaping with the dairy receipts.

P.M.-Designate Diefenbaker Going to Be Extremely Busy Man at London Conference

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister-designate Diefenbaker of Canada —already nicknamed "Dief" by the British press—is going to be an extremely busy man during the conference of Commonwealth premiers starting next week.

Almost from the moment his plane touches down next Monday he will plunge into a strenuous round of social and official engagements.

Monday afternoon, he will go to Downing Street to see Prime Minister Macmillan for the first time. Macmillan is understood to feel that it is "very sporting" of Diefenbaker to come to the conference so soon after the Canadian federal election, and with the political situation in Canada so unsettled.

ALMOST UNKNOWN

Diefenbaker is almost completely unknown to the British public and even to British ministers, and there is considerable eagerness to learn more about the man whom some popular papers here have hitled as a Harry Truman and Abraham Lincoln rolled into one.

The change of administration in Canada has also created pre-con-ference speculation about a possible changing Canadian government attitude to such matters as the European Common Market, and Britain's association with a free trade area built around it.

OTTAWA CONFERENCE

Other suggestions published here are that Diefenbaker will invite his Commonwealth colleagues to a trade conference in Ottawa, and that there will be a bid to have the Queen Mother appoint a Canadian governor-general when the present incumbent, Vincent Massey, retires.

In any event, Diefenbaker will have a whirlwind schedule. After meeting Macmillan, he will be received by the Queen at Buckingham Palace, attend a banquet given by the Queen at Windsor Castle next Wednesday and attend all sessions of the Commonwealth conference starting Wednesday afternoon and continuing for perhaps eight days.

He will also go to Brookwood, Surrey, site of a Canadian military cemetery, June 30 for annual Dominion Day memorial ceremonies; speak at a dinner gathering July 1 organized by the Canada Clubs; attend a dinner party July 2 given by Macmillan at 10 Downing Street; and go to an elaborate reception at the Guildhall July 4.

ITALY HIT BY FLOODS AND STORMS

Muddy waters swirl through the main street of San Antonio di Susa, near Turin, Italy, giving it a Venice look with two-foot deep "canals." Storms and flash flooding in this region have caused three deaths and forced hundreds of families to leave their homes. Damage is running into the millions as dykes along river threaten to collapse.

CBC Appealing Decision of Court of Appeal

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC announced today it is appealing to the Ontario Court of Appeal a decision that would make the publicly-owned corporation subject to the Lord's Day Act.

Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario High Court last June 7 refused the CBC an application for a writ of prohibition to prevent a magistrate from hearing charges laid against the CBC under the Lord's Day Act.

The CBC said that if the chief justice's decision is not reversed it might have the effect of preventing the CBC from broadcasting radio and television programs on Sunday.

The CBC, private radio station CFRB and three Toronto newspapers were charged with violation of the Lord's Day Act through their Sunday operations.

The CBC claims that the issue in the appeal is not whether the CBC is above the law, but whether Parliament intended the Lord's Day Act to apply to the national broadcasting service. It contends Parliament did not intend it to be so.

The CBC said in a statement that cessation of Sunday broadcasting in Toronto, the main English-language broadcasting point, would mean the virtual closing down of English network programming on Sunday throughout the country.

Skyway Bridge Is Largest, Costliest One in Dominion

HAMILTON (CP) — When the Skyway Bridge across the Burlington Beach strip that encloses Hamilton harbor is completed next year, the city will boast one of the largest and costliest bridges in the Dominion.

Started two years ago, the bridge is expected to be completed by midsummer, 1958. The cost will be about $15,000,000, some $12,500,000 being spent on the structure itself, the balance on land purchase and the approaches.

Though the bridge spans only 500 feet of water, the entire length will be 3½ miles. Between 200 feet, the bridge will give clearance for ships of 120 feet, high enough for any vessel sailing the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The bridge was planned for years, but not until 1953 was definite action taken. In that year, an east carrier accidentally nudged one half of the bascule on the old bridge and it jammed.

The bascule bridge created one of the worst bottlenecks in the country. Each time the drawbridge was raised for a passing vessel, traffic would back up and jam up on either side. When tourists and weekend motorists were on the roads, special police squads were designated to keep frustrated drivers in line.

The Skyway Bridge will eliminate this problem, however and will make the Queen Elizabeth Way a complete four-lane road between Toronto and Fort Erie for the first time. It is estimated 50,000 vehicles will cross the bridge daily.

The provincial government is footing half the bill for the bridge.

The major problem created by the bridge is that it necessitates construction of a new entrance to Hamilton and sweeping interchanges for the east end streets. This, too, the government will help finance. The project is estimated at $6,000,000.

The new entrance is expected to be completed at the same time as the bridge.

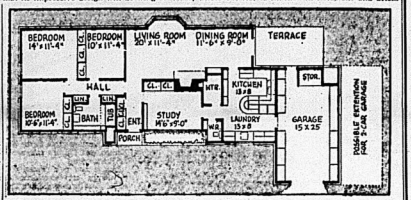
HOME BUILDING SECTION

BECAUSE OF ITS LENGTH—close to 81 feet—Design H-15-KF shown off to full advantage. Note that the garage is a projected should be built on a wide lot so that its impressive design will be wing of house, whose exterior is finished in fieldstone and brick.

SPECIAL VALUE

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

All-on-one-floor living is graciously achieved in both of today's plans, ranch styles that offer special value.



Design H-15-KF is a spacious home.

LARGE COMBINATION

The living room, 20 feet long, runs into a dining area eleven feet long, making one large room. The entire back wall is windowed and, in the living section, there's a big bay. On the opposite wall, a natural fireplace is featured.

FOR OUTDOOR LIVING

A rear terrace opens off the dining area. Here the family can enjoy outdoor meals. The terrace is also accessible from the garage.

Because this as a basemenless, the garage, right, can be extended to 2-car size. Kitchen and laundry are at front, living-dining area at back. There are three bedrooms at left and a study that could be used as a guest room, as a fourth bedroom or guest quarters.

Closet facilities are excellent. Two of the bedrooms have double closets. There are two linen closets outside of the bath which has a vanity with storage space for towels. Near the front door are three closets. Even the garage offers a storage bonus with nine closets plus a storage nook. If desired, the garage can be extended to make it two-car size.

ITS AREA

H-15-KF comprises 18,252 cubic feet.

SEALING CONCRETE CRACKS

Elastic calking compound often works better than Portland cement for filling cracks in concrete foundation walls.

Home, the laundry is on the first floor, combined with the kitchen. In addition to appliances, such as ironer, washer and dryer, the laundry has two storage closets. At right a door leads into the garage.

IN THE KITCHEN

A snack bar separates laundry from kitchen, where appliances are arranged in a U. Special kitchen features include a planning desk and two closets for household supplies.

Heating facilities are in a nook just off the kitchen. Opposite, there's a small washroom, convenient to work areas, garage and a study, which could serve

Smooth Curves in Fir Plywood Give Work Professional Look

Smooth curves on counters and built-ins add a professional touch to home carpentry. When working with fir plywood, the broad surface can be readily bent to give pleasing lines to snack-bars and the like in kitchen and playroom.

Over nominal curves, with thinner panels, bending can be done using panels as they come from the lumber yard. For best results paneling should be applied over a continuous rounded backing or framework. If one end only of a panel is to be bent, that end should be attached first.

Flexibility of fir plywood panels can be increased about 50 percent by boiling, steaming or soaking the panels in water. This method is sometimes used if tight curves are required in thicker panels. If water or steam is used for this purpose some problem in grain raise may be encountered. There will be no problem of delamination of fir plywood panels because they are bonded with waterproof glue.

Another method of obtaining tight curves in thick panels is by saw-kerfing the back of the panel. This is practical in panel thicknesses of ¾ inches or greater. Evenly spaced cuts made in the back ease curving and allow the fir plywood to bend to small radius.

Some curved surfaces in the greater thicknesses of plywood can be obtained by use of two thin panels instead of the one thick one. For example, two ¼ inch fir plywood panels can easily be curved separately and then attached together to give a ½ inch thickness.

A NEW CAR PORCH in front of the garage let O. Dean St. Clair Jr., make use of his garage for a comfortable family room. Is everybody happy? Well, they certainly look it.

THE OLD GARAGE doorway was walled up and given a smart Dutch door and windows. View is looking out under the roof of the carport, which doubles as a covered porch.

NATURAL FINISHED knotty pine paneling gives the St. Clair family a warm, cozy and informal air as well as concealing an abundance of built-in closets and cabinets.

Here's a Tip on How to Saw Full-Size Fir Plywood Panels

Remodelling an attic or basement room is not difficult if plywood panelling is used. Cutting the 4x8-foot panels of fir plywood can, however, raise a few problems.

If the walls to be panelled can be planned in advance so that studs are spaced 16 inches apart (center to center) and height from floor to top plate is approximately 8 feet and 1/2 inch, little cutting of the full size panels will be needed. Panels will meet on studs with nailing surfaces occurring at all edges.

No matter how you plan it, however, some panels will have to be sawn to fit (to let in doors, windows, etcetera). If work is being done with a handsaw it is sometimes difficult to reach across the panel supported on sawhorses to do the cutting.

One good way to overcome this difficulty is illustrated above. Here the panels are supported on 2x4's leaning at an angle to the wall. With the panel thus supported it is not difficult to control a saw cut for the full width of the panel.

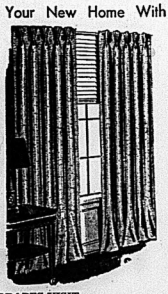
Cutting is easier in general if plywood panels are supported on a firm base. One good way is to lay two 2x4's across sawhorses placed about 6 feet apart. The platform thus formed with the 2x4's nailed parallel and about 3 feet apart will be solid and convenient to work on. With the fir plywood solidly supported the saw operates smoother and faster with less chance of splintering at the cut.

FOR SLIDING DOORS

A new laminate is now available at lumber yards. It is a panelply of pressed wood in 4 by 8-foot sheets ⅛ and ¼-inch thick. Its advantages are warp-resistance and screw-holding power.

PICTURE WINDOW IS NOT A JOKE

Picture windows have been subjects of many unjustified wisecracks, such as framing the picture looking in, not out. Appraisers, however, are kinder when it comes to putting a value on a house.



"The picture window," says Laurel G. Blair of Toledo, "need not frame a view of trees and streams if it serves to bring light into an otherwise dark room and if the occupants want to look out at passing neighbors and traffic."

Toronto Leafs Only 1½ Games Behind Leaders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's bad enough when the International League-leading Richmond Virginians have to face Buffalo Bisons, but when Glenn Cox goes to the mound for Buffalo the Vees might just as well lay down their bats and head for home. The 26-year-old Buffalo righthander owns 'em down.

Cox made it four straight over Richmond Thursday night as the Bisons downed the Virginians 5-2. Cox, who is also quite adept at hitting the long ball, hit home run No. 5.

While the Vees were dropping their fifth game in six starts, Toronto Maple Leafs closed in on the leaders with a 5-1 victory over Miami Marlins. Toronto is 1½ games behind.

Elsewhere, Columbus Jets jumped back into fourth place by slipping Rochester Red Wings 8-7. And Havana Sugar Kings, behind the five-hit pitching of Vicente Amor, shut out Montreal Royals 6-0.

WHACKED 'EM PREVIOUSLY

Cox has been an old time Richmond nemesis. He has now whipped the Vees 12 times in 14 decisions over a four-year span. The Bisons rescued Marty Keough in the ninth on Don Landrum's single and newcomer Whitey Herzog's double. Columbus came up with two runs in the ninth inning to drop the Red Wings back into fifth place. The Jets now own a .500 in their last 21 games.

Havana sent 11 men to bat and scored five runs, before third Montreal pitcher Charles Page could retire the side in the fourth. Amor helped his own cause with a bases loaded two-run single in the big inning.

Minor Baseball

Vaughans handed the Kenmors a 3-1 defeat in a close midget baseball game played at the Alemite last night.

The winners plated two in the first with winning pitcher Gord Vaughan banging a two-run single. Kenmors got one back in the second but Vaughans added an insurance tally in the fifth.

Gordie Vaughan tossed a six hitter for the win. He went the full seven while whiffing four and walking three.

Glen Dainard took the loss in going all the way. He was touched for just three hits in a fine pitching chore, fanning two and walking the same number.

Gord Vaughan's single in the first was the big blow while Ralph Shane slammed a triple and Dave Poirier a single.

Fulwell had a triple and single in defeat while one hit each went to R. Locke, Lloyd, Pat Asselstine and Gerry Coyer.

Former Winners Will Tee off In Ont. Open

TORONTO (CP) — At least 10 former winners will be shooting for the Ontario Open golf title when play begins June 28 at St. Catharines.

The Ontario Golf Association has received about 90 entries so far. Officials expect a rush of late entries, particularly from Quebec and United States pros, before the deadline Monday noon.

Defending champion Gerry Kesterling of Kitchener will lead the ex-champs back into action. He's a three-time winner.

Toronto Scarboro's Bob Gray and Toronto Mississauga's Gord Brydson will both be shooting for their third victories as will amateur Phil Farley of Scarboro.

Other former winners who have submitted entries are Willie Lamb Lambton; Bob Burns, Cherry Hill; Nick Weslock, Windsor; Dick Berthwick, Ancaster, and Murray Tecker of Toronto Rosedale, who won the Ontario Professional Golfers' Association tournament at Scarboro last week.

Seven Canadians Among Entrants In Marathon Swim

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Seven Canadians are among the 25 entrants announced for the fourth annual 25 mile Atlantic marathon swim next Tuesday.

The field of 19 men and six women from six countries will be competing for a record $14,500 in prize money.

Toronto's Cliff Lumsden, who last year edged Hamilton native Tom Park for the victory, will not be competing this year. He announced several days ago that he does not feel he is in shape for the grueling trial. Park, now living in Long Beach, Calif., is entered.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma started to tern on the teevee after dinner, and pop said, I think I'll take my book to the den and reed for an hour or 2 or so.

Now William, there are several very intristing plays just starting ma said. Why dont you stay and watch one or two? she said, and pop said, I will, if you tern on one where nobody is either crying or about to cry, or shooting or about to shoot.

That shouldn't be too difficult, ma said, there's one called Deep in the Heart, on the Miracle Rub Playhouse. That ought to be nice and cheerful, I'll turn it on, she said.

Which she did, and a man with a mad expression was throwing clothes in a suitcase as if he didn't know much about packing, and a lady with her face all twisted up was saying, You wont come back Dan, I know you wont, they never do.

Next, pop said, and ma terned on another one, and a little girl was crying and a lady was hugging her and crying with her, and ma said, Oh dear, I'm afraid that wont do either. Give it one more chance, William, she said.

And she quick terned on another one, and a man was just starting to walk out of a house pushing a lady in front of him and yelling, You better not shoot, coppers, you might put some holes in my pritty bullet proof vest.

The result being pop went out with his book, and ma terned back to the Miracle Rub Playhouse, and the lady with her face twisted was trying to take the things out of the man's suitcase, and he was trying to keep them in, and I did my homework to the sounds.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Future Stars

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major League Scout and Instructor

An outfielder must think ahead of plays and know what he is going to do if the ball is hit in his direction—whether it be a fly ball which can be caught, an extra-base hit drilled past him, a ball ground or a slow roller which barely eluded an infielder.

He must keep in mind the number, type and speed of runners are on base and whether they possess the speed and daring to try for an extra base, and similar information which would indicate what you should do with the ball if it comes your way.

Also keep in mind that you must let your teammates know whether you are and will catch any ball hit between you and them. Many injuries could be avoided if fielders would warn others that they are going to make the play.

Don't be like the center-fielder who claimed that he couldn't shout and run after a fly ball at the same time. As Johnny Hopp, the former major league star who was his teammate, tells the story, a batter hit a towering fly between right and center field. The right-fielder started after the ball, but slowed up two or three times to give the center-fielder a chance to call for it. Finally the right-fielder stretched out to snare the ball at the last possible moment only to have the center-fielder crash into him an instant later.

There had been a heavy rain before the game and both men splashed into a puddle of water. As teammate Hopp arrived on the scene to survey the damage, he found the right-fielder pointing the center-fielder's face into the water and shouting: "So you can't yell 'I've got it' or 'I'll take it,' but you'd better yell 'Help' or I'll drown you!"

Call for the ball and stay healthy!

Lyford Cay May Be Best Colt Ever Bred in Canada

TORONTO (CP)—Lyford Cay's sensational victory in the record Queen's Plate has raised a number of questions which may be answered when the 3, Taylor colt heads for New York tracks in a few weeks.

The questions are these: Is Lyford Cay the best colt ever foaled in Canada? How will he stack up against American opposition?

Some veteran race observers think he is the best ever produced in Canada. They point to his 11½-length victory in the plate at New Woodbine and particularly his Canadian record of 2:02 3-5 for the 1¼ miles.

ONLY SEVEN FASTER

Noting that the Kentucky Derby premier U.S. race for three-year-olds, is run at the same distance, they emphasize that only seven Derby winners ran faster than the Canadian horse.

They were: Twenty Grand (1931) Whirlaway (1941), Middleground (1950), Hill Gail (1952), Dark Star (1953), Swaps (1955) and Iron Liege (1957). The Derby record of 2:00 was set by Whirlaway.

Lyford Cay's races during the remainder of the season may show whether he'd a race for the ages alongside the illustrious Americanbreds.

He has started only nine times in his life so far and has never finished out of the money. He has won six races, finished second twice and third once. He has won all three starts this season.

DIFFERENT STORY

However, it has usually been a different story when Canadian-bred horses have headed for the U.S. tracks. Canadian Champ went south this season and won the Plate last year and was generally overshadowed by American contenders.

Railbirds will get another chance to appraise Lyford Cay when he runs in Saturday's renewal of the Woodstock Plate at New Woodbine. He hadn't been expected to run yet but his trainer Pete McCann, said the decision to enter him was made because he was "kicking the barn down" and needed immediate competition.

The race is a sprint of six furlongs but Lyford Cay should be favored since he led from beginning to end in the longer plate.

A week from Saturday Lyford Cay runs in the Prince of Wales Stakes at New Woodbine, then leaves for New York tracks.

Juveniles Blank Trenton Juniors By 11-0 Count

Behind the three-hit hurling of big Moe Huddleston the Belleville Juveniles whitewashed the Trenton Juniors 11-0 at the Fairgrounds last night in a Belleville and District baseball league contest.

Gordie Bell's youngsters had no trouble is taking the victory. They opened with three in the initial frame and put the outcome beyond doubt with six in the third.

Huddleston gained his second consecutive victory of the season with his three-hit shutout. He has allowed only one run in the two games. Trenton reached him for singles in the second, fourth, and sixth while he whiffed a pair and walked the same number. He hit one batter.

Yardey was the losing pitcher, working the first six frames. He gave up ten runs on as many hits, whiffing two and passing five. H. Scott tossed the final frame, tagged for a run on three hits while fanning one.

Long-ball hitting gave Belleville a lift in the first. Art Bell led off with a double and Gord St. Louis and Jack O'Neil hit back-back triples. The next three batters fanned.

Ten men went to bat in the big third frame. Doubles by Wright and Gord Irwin, singles by Bill Fraser and Irwin, walks, errors, a balk and stolen base accounted for the markers.

An error and St. Louis' two-bagger scored a singleton in the second while homeruns were hit by Fuller, Bly and Hill netted three final run.

Gord St. Louis spearheaded the winner's attack, belting a triple, double and single and drawing a walk for a perfect night. Ab Wright swatted a brace of doubles while Jack O'Neil tripled. The other base hits were divided among Bill Fraser, Ralph Boomhower, Gord Fuller, Gord Irwin, Keith Bly, Gerald Hill and Kingston.

Leavey, Simmons and Jones each connected for a single in defeat.

Feature Mile At Blue Bonnets To Toronto Horse

MONTREAL (CP)—Bang Away trotted the mile in 2:08 3-5 to win the featured $1,200 race Thursday night at Blue Bonnets raceway. The 11-year - old bay horse, driven by Theo Turcotte Jr., and owned by Mrs. T. Turcotte of Toronto, paid $15.10, $8.20 and $4.70.

Chief Hal from Morrisburg driven by Roy Buchanan was second and Roy McKinley brought In Free from Brampton across in the show position.

Omolene from Victoria Harbor, Ont., with Keith Waples at the reins, paced the mile in 2:07 3-5 to take an $800 C class event. Fingy's Song from Yankleek Hill, handled by Percy Robillard, was second.

In a $600 D pace it was all Ontario horses again with the winner, Mother's Day from Toronto, stepping the mile in 2:11. Jimmy Grattan II from Cobourg, driven by Jack Gordon, was second and Miller's Ann from Schomberg, with Waples driving, was third.

Ima Fingo from Yankleek Hill gave Robillard a first in another $600 D pace running the mile in 2:09. Waples got another third place with B. Hal from Clinton.

HAS BIG LEAD

LEEDS, England (AP)—Peter Thomson, here to defend his British Open golf championship after a tournament swing through the United States, took a seven strokes lead Thursday after two rounds in the professional tournament at Sand Moor Club.

The 27-year-old Australian shot a 67 for a two-round total of 132 over the hilly inland course. Thomson's nearest challenger over the 6,511-yard course is South Africa's Trevor Wilkes with 68-71—139.

Reject Proposal To Televise Beach Games

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The executive of the Ontario Rugby Football Union has rejected a proposal that the six home games this year at Toronto Balmy Beach be televised over a Buffalo station.

The TV question was debated at some length Thursday night and was shelved until 1958.

A spokesman said that it was felt that a 12 o'clock noon starting time for Beach home games in order to meet TV commitments would not be feasible. Factors included the travelling time of other clubs, and an inconvenient game start time for Toronto district fans. He pointed out that Beach drew the smallest home crowds in the league last year.

Director Gordon Gilbride of London Lords said afterwards that "the TV problem is only being delayed. We intend to get an early start on it next year."

Representatives from Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, champions of the Senior OHFU for the past three seasons, announced that their new stadium would be ready for opening October 15 located in Waterloo and will seat about 15,000.

The 1957 schedule is expected to be announced next week.

Joey Giambra Faces Tough One In Rory Calhoun

The 25-year-old Giambra, now fighting out of San Francisco, is the 7-5 favorite.

A smooth boxer with a powerful left hook, he is fourth among the 160-pound contenders. A pro eight years, he has a 50-4-1 record, including 38 knockouts.

Calhoun, 22, strong and still made after less than three years of pro fighting, is ranked sixth. He has a 27-2 record including 15 knockouts. Neither he nor Giambra has been knocked out.

SUSPEND RULE

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Racing Commission has suspended a rule requiring any horse which hasn't raced in 30 days to be qualified by an authorized timer before being permitted to start in a race.

The ruling was made following a protest from D-Jay Stable, owner of El-Jay Girl which ran second to Cayenne, Tuesday. The stable maintained Cayenne broke the rule but the stewards found the horse had been timed in a workout Monday although the time had not been reported officially because it was considered slow.

THE COMBINETTES

Harry Powers, manager of the Combinettes ladies' softball team of the Belleville district league, has himself quite an array of stars, both young "veterans" of the game and comparative "rookies."

The Combinettes, as they are now called, have been competing in softball in this district for a good number of years and usually are near the top of the league come playoff time.

The team was formerly Northern Electric, then became the Shellettes and finally last season they switched to the present name. Lee Lucoiola coached the club for a number of years, followed by Cordie Steward and finally Powers.

They won the Lakeshore championship two years ago and went on to Goderich before bowing out in the Ontario championship finals. Last year the club captured the city title.

Leading the sharp little ladies' group onto the field is captain Helen Reeves. Helen is the veteran in years of service, having guarded the third base position for seven seasons. Centre fielder Rita Harder also has played with the club for five or six years.

Catchers Betty Empey and Eunice Summers and left fielder Sandra Slade have established starring roles with five-year stints.

* * *

Linda Warr, the ace pitcher and all-round athlete of the club, has been firing strikes for four seasons. Linda is one of the top ladies' pitchers in the district and has no-hitters to her credit as well as many low-hit victories.

Carolyn Baker at shortstop, and Lois Batchelor at second, form the double play combination. This pair has worked together four years and often make plays that would make many of the opposite sex sit up and take notice.

Mary Ann Ray is another four-year player who patrols centre field. Rita Garvin, who formerly played with Stratford and Sudbury teams, has been in the lineup for three seasons.

Newcomers to the roster during the last couple of years include pitcher Burnice Thompson, Linda Canning, Joyce Clemins, Barb Howard, Dorothy McKenna, Shirley Loveless, Georgina Way and Shirley Bonny.

Off the diamond, as also a group of young ladies as one could meet, but put a softball and bat in their hands and you have a fighting, hard-playing group of athletes, out to win. And win they can for every one of them can hit, field and throw with the best.

And if you don't believe me, why not take in a game or two now and then? It's not hard to watch brother, not to the least.

EDUCATION FOR THE LADY

Tonight's the night when the little lady of the house can learn 777 different ways to torture the old-man when he comes home late from a "friendly" little game, with a bit more nuts than he can handle—or with the tiniest lipstick on the shirt collar. Or heaven forbid, all three.

Now should the weaker sex, that's the husband, fellow, so don't kid yourself, want to prevent his one and only from gaining this useful bit of knowledge all he has to do is keep her away from Memorial Arena.

For at exactly nine o'clock this evening will begin one of top wrestling matches of the season.. Jack Pesek and Ronnie Etchison will open the show. The Mrs. can review a few old tricks to get warmed up.

By the time Prince Maiava and Baron Gattoni tangle in the second affair, the loving wife will be ready to tie you into knot and she may even get a new idea or two for hair dos from this pair.

* * *

But when the main bout gets under way, buddy you might as well give up the ship. She'll discover all the nasty tricks in the book, such as how to snear at you and jump from the top of the house with her knees in your back from Mr. Fritz Von Erich. His partner, Hardboiled Haggerty, will only be too happy to disclose all his underhand secrets to your sweety, since he doesn't seem to like anyone, anytime.

Then, if she still needs further guidance in subduing you, which is doubtful, she can copy Farmer Boy's giant swing, or Pat O'Connor's speedy arm drag, just to mention a couple of his favorites.

Yes, when Erich-Haggerty clashes with Farmer Boy-O'Connor, there's bound to be action aplenty. So, dear husband, lock the little lady in the house and come learn to defend yourself. Yoy may need it.

St. Louis Cardinals Tabbed Early in Season As Most Improved Club in League

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

St. Louis Cardinals finally have the National League lead in hand, after almost a month of hustle for a .750 winning percentage that's hoisted them all the way from sixth place while the rest of the contenders were playing musical chairs with first division berths.

Manager Fred Hutchinson's crew, a blend of veterans and kids that even last March tabbed Cards as the most improved club in the league, were 8½ games off the pace when they started their move. And now, with 21 victories in 28 games since then, they have a half-game edge in a race that has seen four different leaders in the last 12 days.

Cards made it behind Murry Dickson, the 40-year-old right-hander who chalked up their 4th layoff because of a sore shoulder to add a 4-0 record to the hot streak. He held Brooklyn in check on seven hits before tiring and giving way to relief help in the eighth while Cards built a 7-4 victory.

GIANTS HELPED

New York's Giants opened the door for Cardinals, ending Milwaukee's seven-day stay in first place with a lethargic 4-3 victory for Braves' fourth defeat in the last five games.

Cincinnati regained third place, 1½ games back, by belting Brooklyn 6-1. Philadelphia defeated Chicago Cubs 7-2. Phillies are in fourth, two games back, and Dodgers, opening a four-game series at St. Louis tonight, are fifth, 2½ games back.

Cardinals, swinging for nine hits a piece, got two RBIs from Ed Bailey, scored three in the third against ex-mate Luis Arroyo on singles by Jack Sanford and Ken Boyer and a doubleplay. They scored the two that clinched it in the fifth, without a hit—on a walk and two errors. Stan Musial doubled to extend his hitting streak to 20 games.

BEAT EX-TEAMMATES

Johnny Antonelli, Danny O'Connell and Bobby Thomson, all ex-Braves, each drove in a run as the sixth-place Giants, who have won seven of their last nine, took the series 2-1. Ray Crone, yet another ex-Brave, won the opener. It was Antonelli's sacrifice fly that beat Taylor Phillips in the rubber game as Antonelli won his fourth —three against Milwaukee—in relief.

Redlegs, winning their second in a row but only their third in 11 games, clumped five runs in the fourth inning to beat the Brooks and Roger Craig. Gus Bell homered to open the big frame and Wally Post socked a grand-slammer to cap it. It was the third bases-loaded home run of the season for Redlegs, who led the league with six last season. Brooks Lawrence won his sixth, giving up Duke Snider's first-inning home run in an eight-hitter.

Southpaw Harvey Haddix won his fifth for the Phils, driving in two runs with a three-run out seven walked only one. Gran Hamner hit a bases-loaded triple in a clinching four-run sixth inning.

TO REJOIN KRAMER

MELBOURNE (AP) — Former world amateur tennis champion Frank Sedgman will rejoin Jack Kramer's professional tennis troupe in the United States next month, reports here said Thursday.

He will leave Australia by air July 5 and return early in August.

Ike Chestnut Wins by K.O.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ike Chestnut of New York knocked out Chuck Anderson of Los Angeles in the eighth round of their torrid scheduled 10-round fight Thursday night. Each weighed 139½.

The end came with stunning suddenness for the near - capacity crowd of about 10,000 when Chestnut connected with a short left jab to the stomach and an equally short but powerful right to the heart.

The 23-year-old featherweight from Reynosa, Mex., who was battling on even terms if not slightly in front at the time, dropped to his left knee. He remained in that position to the amazement of the crowd as referee Tommy Hart counted him out.

Red Storey, Jimmy Simpson No Longer Big Four Referees

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — It's a good thing that Red Storey and Jimmy Simpson read the daily newspapers. Otherwise, they might never have found out that they're out of jobs this football season.

Storey and Simpson, long-time and well - known personalities around the Big Four circuit as players and officials, have been dropped from the league's officiating staff. That is the league's business but both men are more than somewhat hurt because they read of the head-chopping in the papers.

Apparently the decision to cut them loose was made months ago when Cec McFadin of Toronto succeeded Seymour Wilson of Hamilton as referee - in - chief. Someone neglected to inform the interested parties and both deserved at least that courtesy.

STOREY'S STORY

Storey, who works the first half of the Big Four season and then operates as an official in the National Hockey League, was interviewed by Red (Montreal Star) Fisher and here's what the big redhead had to say:

"I called McFadin earlier this year to congratulate him on his appointment. After the usual pleasantries, the conversation went something like this:

McFadin: "I can't work you into my plans this season."

Storey: "I don't get you."

McFadin: "Well, I want to form teams of five to work together during the year. I can't use you for only half a season."

Storey: "It's always worked well in the past."

McFadin: "Well, anyway, send me a letter listing your qualifications."

Qualifications, the man asks. Storey would have started his 22nd year in the Big Four this season—11 as an official after a brilliant playing career with Toronto Argonauts.

NO OFFICIAL WORD

"Actually, I still haven't been informed that I won't be working this season," Storey told Fisher. "All I know is what I read in the papers."

Simpson, a rugged, hard-hitting player with Hamilton teams from the late 30s to mid-40s during which he played in five Grey Cup finals, was hot.

"I was fired the day Cec McFadin was appointed referee-in-chief," he said from his Hamilton home. "But he wouldn't come out and tell me. I had to read it in the papers."

Simpson, who got in hot water with Montreal Alouettes over some of his calls last season, said he got in touch with McFadin in February to ask his status and was informed nothing had been decided. "I was told I'd know in a week.

"Well, it was a long week—from mid - February until the middle of June."

"Well, I still can't paddle a canoe but I just learned to swim!"

Will Emigrate

LONDON (CP) — Manchester swimmer Ken Williams is emigrating to Canada in hopes of furthering his aquatic career.

Williams, a member of Britain's 200-metre relay team that placed sixth in the Melbourne Olympics, will fly to Toronto June 29.

"My reason for emigrating is purely and simply to obtain better facilities for furthering my ambition of becoming a world swimming champion," says Williams. He hopes to return to Britain next year—as a member of the Canadian team at the British Empire Games at Cardiff.

Trenton Juniors Shade Bobcats By 6-5 Score

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Trenton Legion Juniors took over fifth place from the Belleville Bobcats as Trenton last night by shading the luckless Cats 6-5 in a hard-fought 8- and D. softball fixture. The win snapped a Legion losing streak at 7 prolonged one for the Bobcats.

A single tally in the bottom of the eighth plated the winning run and broke the 5-5 tie which had lasted from the fifth. Roger Drake's bunt single to the right of the mound led off the eighth. Alexander drew a free pass and after LeRoy Wannamaker fanned, Bobby Burn also collected an infield hit to fill the sacks. Bobcat pitcher Junior Day left at this time in favor of Wally Baran. Willy Kennedy grounded to short but John Casey was charged with an error when he tried to burn the play and dropped the ball with Drake scoring. A fielder's choice play sent Alexander off at the plate. Harry Wardhaugh making a good play on the runner. Wilman struck out but the damage had been done.

Jim Wannamaker went the distance for his initial triumph on the mound. He surrendered nine base hits and claimed five via the strikeout method while coming in with an occasional change up pitch. He walked three.

Junior Day pitched good ball and deserved a better fate. He was tagged for all six runs but 4-3 innings off six hits. Four errors hurt his bid for victory as he fanned four. Wildness also helped in Day's defeat with Trenton gaining 12 free passes.

Wardhaugh double and Faulkner singled him home for a Bobcat marker in the first. A two-bagger by Willy Kennedy, two errors and three walks built a 4-1 Trenton lead in the third. Successive singles by Day, Creegan and Wood plus a boot netted the Bobcats a pair in the fourth and they went in front 5-4 on a walk and base hit by Faulkner and Doran plus another error in the fifth.

Trenton had a double by Willy Kennedy and three walks in the fifth but plated only one run this coming on a bases-loaded walk. John Casey cut one man down at the plate, another went down at second base.

Bert Faulkner, Junior Day and Bob Wood each connected for two singles to pace the Belleville batters. Harry Wardhaugh doubled while Doran and Stan Creegan had solid base knocks.

Lineups — Bobcats: Casey, H. Wardhaugh, Locke, B. Faulkner, Doran, Day, Creegan, D. Dickson, Baran.

Trenton Jrs.: Austin, Drake, Alexander, L. Wannamaker, Burns, W. Kennedy, Lewis, Wilman, R. Wannamaker.

Umpires — "Woody" Reid (P) and Herb Pointer (B). Time 1.20.

Leonard and Balding Play Well in $37,000 Flint Open

By DAVE DILES

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—Dugby Rob Rosburg, who passed up professional baseball in favor of golf and made enough money so he wouldn't regret it, held a two-stroke advantage today as a balmy field entered the second round of the $37,000 Flint Open.

Rosburg's 65—six under par at the 6,625-yard Flint Golf Club layout—was accomplished on Thursday's first round largely on the strength of his towering putter. Rosburg used only 29 putts as he fired rounds of 33 and 32 over the par 36-36—71 course.

Two strokes behind Rosburg entering today's second round are Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., Stan Leonard of Lachute, Que., Al Balding of Toronto and Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa. Seven others were another stroke behind.

DOUBLE MONEY

First place is worth $5,000 with $2,700 going to the second place finisher. Tournament sponsors will kick in another $5,000 if any of the former champions—Don Finsterwald, Julius Boros and Doug Ford—can capture a victory here.

Leonard posted a 72 on the first nine and a 33 coming home. Balding's total was 35-32.

Other Canadian scores were: Gerry Kesselring, Kitchener, 37-36—73; Lyle Crawford, Vancouver, 36-37—73; Gordon Brydson, Toronto, 40-35—75; and Rudy Harwin, Windsor—41-40—81.

FIND IT EASY

The touring pros found the course generally easy and 38 of them satisfied or bettered par. Conditions were perfect though for this city's first major tournament, and the obstructions on the gentle layout are few.

Two of the three previous winners of this tournament who could pick up an extra $5,000 for another victory here were within striking distance at Rosburg. Finsterwald, who has finished in the money in all his tournaments in which he has participated, is bunched with eight others with 146, just four strokes off the pace.

The 27-year-old Finsterwald was the winner last year when the tournament was held in St. Louis.

Ford, the 1955 winner and current Masters champion, had a 74, while Boros, the 1954 victor, had a 75.

Owen Sound Wins

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Owen Sound Indians became the first Senior B club to defeat a Senior A team in the Ontario Lacrosse Association interlocking schedule as they trounced Hamilton Lincolns 17-4 Thursday night.

It was a surprising reversal of Monday's game in Hamilton when Lincolns defeated Indians 21-4.

John Matheson and Cy Lennox each scored four goals for OWEN Sound. Bus Beare got three and Russ Slater, Harry Kazarian, Barney Robins, Don Moon, Don Campbell and Keith Goodfellow one each.

Willie Logan got three for Hamilton and Max Woolley two. Others were by Garry Goodale, Ray Main and Ivan Thomas.

Norris, Wirtz Should Get Out Says Judge

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan said Thursday he feels that James D. Norris and Arthur M. Wirtz must get out of Madison Square Garden" in which they hold a 29-per-cent minority interest.

Judge Ryan made the comment as he heard final arguments by the federal government in its suit to end what the government charges is a monopolistic control over championship bouts by Norris and Wirtz through the International Boxing Club of New York and Illinois.

Judge Ryan announced he would state his final decision next Monday.

However, in his discussion with William J. Elkins, government attorney, Judge Ryan indicated he would direct Wirtz and Norris to dispose of their stock in Madison Square Garden and would enjoin them from taking part in the management of the Garden.

Nursery Stakes Won by Filly At 27 to 1 Shot

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Sally Lee, a 27-to-1 shot, ran off with the $24,650 Nursery Stakes for two-year-old fillies at Hollywood Park Thursday.

She beat out Cymbidium by more than two lengths, with Shuttle Block third. The time for the 5½ furlongs was 1:04 1-5.

Sally Lee quickly took a good position in the field of 12, and caught the pace setting Cymbidium in the stretch, wearing the latter down in the drive to the wire.

The victory netted the winning stable $15,300.

Gene Rose, one of the top juvenile thoroughbreds in the U.S. last season, made his 1957 debut by leading all the way to capture the $10,000 Your Host Purse at Arlington Park, Arlington Heights, Ill.

Jet Colonel made a strong bid in the stretch drive of the six-furlong event, but Greek Game pulled away in the stretch to gain in 1:09 4-5. Barbizon was third.

Jockey Beat Up

STANTON, Del. (AP) — A disgruntled horse-player who lost a bet on the favorite took it out on the jockey at Delaware Park Thursday.

The fan, said Edward Czerwinski, 24, leaped over a fence into the paddock enclosure after the first race and began raining blows on apprentice jockey Arthur Chambers, who had just come in second on Devilfish, the favorite.

"I bet every penny I had in my pocket on Devilfish to win," said Czerwinski in court. "I guess I just got mad."

Czerwinski was fined $25 and costs.

Marlene Streit, Rae Milligan In Finals for Ontario Title

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's two top women golfers resume their personal rivalry today in the Ontario Ladies golf championship final at the Weston Golf and Country Club.

Marlene Stewart Streit of Port-hill, Canadian and U.S. amateur champion who is defending her Ontario title, had a 2-1 edge over Rae Milligan of Jasper, Ala.

The two reached the final Thursday, Miss Milligan disposing of Mrs. J. H. McCarter of Owen Sound, Lampton 6 and 5 while Mrs. Streit defeated veteran Ada Mackenzie, seventh-time winner of the Ontario title, 7 and 6.

Miss Milligan, 1955 winner, earlier defeated Roma Neundorf of the Toronto Ladies club 2 and 1, Mrs. Streit, close to, or under, par, in all four matches leading to the final, had eliminated Elva Carroll of Hamilton Chedoke 5 and 3.

EDGE FOR MARLENE

Marlene was given a slight edge over Rae in the final on the strength of her consistent one - three-under-par 72 Monday in the qualifying medal play in which Miss Milligan had 73.

In the four succeeding matches, Mrs. Streit needed only 54 holes to get to the final while Miss Milligan took 56. Marlene didn't have to get that far in her first any match, Rae being carried to the 19th by Mrs. Neundorf.

In Thursday's other matches, Mrs. Douglas Sharpe, Marlene's sister-in-law, defeated Cheek, beaten 5 and 4 by Mrs. McCarter and Miss Mackenzie defeated Mrs. Lionel Ross of Cobourg, 2 and 1.

Marlene didn't lose a hole in subduing Miss Mackenzie. Today the finalists shot two-under-par 34 on the nine-hole course. Miss Milligan opening with an eagle three on the first hole and a birdie on the second.

Both defeated semi - finalists played good golf but weren't up to the sub-par standards set by Mrs. Streit and Miss Milligan.

In the first flight semi-finals, Mrs. B. Morris, Oakdale, won 6 and 5 over Mrs. K. Binkley of Owen Sound.

Mrs. W. J. Hines, St. George's, won 4 and 3 over Caroline Milligan in the other half of the first flight consolation.

Barbara Kimmerly, Nanpee, defeated Mrs. E.E. Bowes, Thorhill, 3 and 1 in the second flight consolation semi-finals.

Mrs. B. Williamson, Peterborough, defeated Mrs. D. T. Christie, Weston, 3 and 2, and Sue Fountain, Toronto Mississaugua, took a 1-up Woodbridge, in the fourth flight consolation.

Mrs. B. Smith, Barrie, defeated Mrs. F. S. Glass, Weston, 1 up victory from Mrs. M. Wilkins and Mrs. R. McVicar, Guelph Cutten, 2 on 6 and 5 over Mrs. T. C. Elliott, Brampton, in the fifth flight consolation.

Everybody in Television Wants Name in Papers

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—In the summer dog days a television reporter lives partially on his memories. Every program—has gone to film. The other day a reporter took to naming in his interviews with numerous persons in television over the last year—the dazzling and dull, the delightful and dubious. He remembered:

Everybody, absolutely everybody in television, likes to get his name in the newspapers—except Arthur Godfrey. The most eager are the least known personnel. The least eager are the best known persons. But when it comes to this person starts to slip, he's as eager for an interview as the least-known fledgling.

PRESS AGENTS VARY

There seem to be about a million press agents with television accounts in New York. Some are extremely intelligent. Some are hopelessly incompetent. Here's a typical conversation (only slightly exaggerated) between a hopeful press agent and a hopeful reporter:

Press agent: "You wanna interview Tillie Glotz?" Reporter: "Why?" Press agent (after long silence): "Well, she's been working clubs and next season she may be getting her own program." Reporter: "May?" P.A.: "Yeah. I mean it's not certain yet, but maybe—" Reporter: "No, thanks."

Britons, as a nationality, are the most difficult to interview except Noel Coward. Their reserve can be glacial.

Executives, as a working classification, are the easiest to interview. Their thoughts are well organized. Their greatest failing is that they like to go "off the record" and forget to come back on the record.

Writers, composers and similar creative minds do not live in ivory towers. Alone literarily they say something interesting. Musicians, on the other hand, usually live in a world of their own.

Nearly all beautiful television actresses are dim intelligent.

Producers are the biggest name-droppers in the business. They pretend never to be mad at anybody.

Directors, on the other hand, like to pretend to be mad at everybody. But when they start to talk they say only nice things.

There's not much point in talking to an actor before noon. He's usually too sleepy—except Robert Young.

In general the people who know most about the workings of television—what is good and what is bad and how the medium works—are the relatively obscure: The technicians and script editors, the assistants and arrangers. They make the stars.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

When bridge hands are running dull, something may be heard to say: "Let's hear some spirited bidding, men." As if the cards heard it, that very thing sometimes happens.

Here is deal number 101 from the world championship:

	NORTH
	♠ A 8
	♥ A 6
	♦ K 10 7 5 3
	♣ K J 10 3
WEST		EAST
♠ K Q 10 2		♠ J 9 7 5 4 3
♥ K Q 10 3		♥ J 9 8 4 2
♦ 8 6 2		♦ — — —
♣ 8 2		♣ A 9
	SOUTH
	♠ 6
	♥ 7 5
	♦ A Q J 9 4
	♣ Q 7 6 5 4

Room one gave it this bidding treatment:

North	East	South	West
1 D	1 S	3 D	3 S
4 S	5 S	Pass	Pass
Dbl	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opponents got their two major aces and club kings, thus defeating the contract by one trick. This is not bad bidding when you consider that north can make five diamonds against any east lead.

Room two went at the bidding like this:

North	East	South	West
1 D	1 S	3 D	3 S
3 NT	4 S	5 D	5 H
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opponents of declarer here got the same three tricks as were had in room one. So, the contract of five hearts went down one. Only in this room north did not double.

The bidding and play and defensive in each room was as good as could be thought of. However, somewhere along the line there should have been a club bid by south or north.

Not that it would have made any difference in the result here, perhaps. But there are times when this additional information is good for a partnership.

It is a pleasure to see these masters handle this deal so admirably. I hope they didn't just stumble into it.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was opening her mail at breakfast, and she said to pop, "Here's a letter from Bertha Weather, William, she wants to know if she can stay with us a few days next month. Well, I suppose I might as well have her, I mean I can hardly refuse, but it's strictly up to you, William, so speek out frankly, she said.

Oh well, why not? pop said. She is not a bad sort as sorts go, he said, and ma said, Well then I'll write and tell her to come by all possible means, if you're quite sure you wont mind, William.

Dont give it another thought, tell her to come alone if you like, pop said, and ma said, How that's very sweet of you, William. She's really a very nice person, even though she is rather a scatterbrane and sure to leave a dozzen things behind when she leeves.

Then she deserves to lose them, pop said, and ma said, Oh, she won't think she's lost them. She's sure to keep remembering things she forgot and writing to have them forwarded to her. You're the only one that's good at rapping packages, William, as every few days indefinitely I'm afraid you'll be wrapping packages and taking them to the post office on your way downtown.

Yee gods, we cant possibly have her, my foot is down with a bang, case there's no use agreeing with you. Oh dear, I'll just have to write and tell her we're sorry, but no, she said.

And she kept on eating her grapefruit diet looking like someboody feeling better instead of worse.

Danny Thomas or Sinatra May Do the Durante Story

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Who could play Jimmy Durante in the film biography of the famous schnoz?

That's the problem Jimmy is pondering now that several studios are hot to buy his life story. Several names have been suggested for it, especially Danny Thomas and Frank Sinatra.

But those two present a problem. Both are well - known personalities in their own right. Gene Kelly has been suggested to play manager - partner Lou Clayton to Thomas's Durante.

"But that would reverse the situation and make Durante the big guy and Clayton the little guy," Jimmy commented. He offered another candidate to play himself—Jules Martin.

The question arises — who could play Durante but Durante himself?

COULD SCHNOZ DO IT?

"Yeah, that's been suggested too," he said. "But how ya gonna get me to do it? The real story is about how Durante meets his partners, falls in love and gets married and starts up in business. That story takes place when the guy is a boy."

The whole question of impersonating him is a problem, he concluded.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, June 22 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A good day for well-planned activities, especially favored trades, building, government and community affairs. Work with those who have the public interests at heart.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — A warm, friendly day if you don't rouse others' anger or irritate yourself by worry, fretting. Sun's aspect encourages all good work, charitable enterprises, children's interests, healthy fun, hobbies.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — You will have to make your day as you would like it to be - cheerful, gainful, entertaining. It can be done through enthusiasm, initiating new methods to attract attention, wholesome activities.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — The position of the Moon and Mars now stresses a need for curbing the emotions. Don't invite unpleasantness yourself, and do shame those who are irritable into being gracious. Necessary work can be done well.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Dole out enthusiasm and service in sensible and reasonable doses. Don't exceed your budget or attempt anything unwise. Do your best in every way, but use common sense.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Today can be extremely pleasant if you maintain a calm, cheerful attitude. Share your blessings with family, those who need it; make work a labor of love.

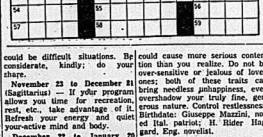
September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Many new opportunities will accrue through your sensible cooperation with the right sources. You can aid greatly by sharing your knowledge and know-how generously.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — The sort of day to test your deepest knowledge of people and how to handle what could be difficult situations. Be considerate, kindly; do your share.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — If your program allows you time for recreation, rest, etc., take advantage of it. Refresh your energy and quiet your-active mind and body.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — You are more favored than many during this somewhat inauspicious period. Your Saturn, Mars and the Moon are well aspected, and you can have a truly big day. Sports hobbies, good fun sponsored.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Your Uranus, in friendly aspect, combined with Mercury rays, tends to encourage ambition, renewed effort in many lines of endeavor.



February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Stimulating Neptune rays should encourage you to get as much accomplished as you can. New and familiar, practical and artistic, mental and physical activities all favored.

You born today are endowed with wit, a talent for story-telling, an unusual memory. You are personable, sincere, kindly; have a strong feeling for home and family, old traditions, religion and good things generally. But tone down your indignations and study possible faults. A tendency to arrue could cause more serious contention than you realize. Do not be over-sensitive or jealous of loved ones; both of these traits can bring needless unhappiness, even overshadow your truly fine, generous nature. Control restlessness. Birthdate: Giuseppe Mazzini, noted Ital. patriot; H. Rider Haggard, Eng. novelist.

OPENS COURTHOUSE

COBOURG (CP)—Premier Frost Wednesday night officially opened the new $45,000 administration and courthouse building here. For 99 years Northumberland and Cumberland Counties have occupied rented quarters in the town hall.

TO MAKE STUDY

TORONTO (CP) — A scientific study of executive is to be made by the metropolitan planning board for the department of national defence. The planning board agreed Thursday to complete the study by April, 1958.

Fined $10,000 For Not Paying Income Tax

TORONTO (CP) — Edmar Jr., Pugh, 62, a retired accountant, Thursday was fined $10,000 or six months in jail on seven charges under the Income Tax Act.

Pugh suffering from both Parkinson's Disease and arthritis of the spine, faced a maximum fine of $62,000 plus two years in prison. He pleaded guilty to all counts.

Barney Brown, defence counsel, asked for leniency. He said Pugh had made restitution to the best of his present ability, having paid $29,000 to the national revenue department.

"He sold all the securities he had saved for his old age," defence counsel said.

The magistrate said Pugh had been "fortunate to be a taxpayer," about $33,000 between 1948 and 1954 by not making an accurate income tax return.

CAYUGA SAILS

TORONTO (CP)—The excursion boat Cayuga, carrying 1,300 passengers, tooted her whistle Thursday night and set out across Lake Ontario to Niagara-on-the-Lake, free from mechanical and financial troubles. Mechanical delays had prevented the Cayuga from getting into drydock at Kingston in time to make her first trip this summer on June 15 as scheduled.

U.S. Withdraws 30,000 Troops From Japan

Prime Minister Kishi, Eisenhower Reach Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 30,000 United States ground combat troops will start pulling out of Japan next month in accordance with a decision reached by President Eisenhower and Japan's Prime Minister Kishi.

A joint communique issued Friday night at the end of three days of consultations between the two leaders announced the "prompt withdrawal of all U.S. ground combat forces from Japan."

Spokesmen later said the withdrawal would begin in July.

The statement also said that within the next year there would be a substantial reduction in the total U.S. forces in Japan.

"The United States plans still further reductions as the Japanese defence forces grow," the communique added.

State Secretary Dulles said that about 100,000 U.S. servicemen now are stationed in Japan—about half of that total are air force personnel. 30,000 are in the navy, and the remaining 30,000 are ground combat troops.

The ground troops consist of the under-strength 1st Cavalry Division and the 24th Infantry Div. and the Marine Division.

The statement said the two governments "welcome the cessation of both the testing and the manufacture of nuclear weapons as part of a first step in a safeguard disarmament program."

Japan's formal views against further nuclear tests, the communique added, are being taken into account in formulating the U.S. position at the current London disarmament talks with Russia, Britain, France and Canada.

The statement also contained a significant provision opening the way for revision of the mutual security treaty between the two countries.

In diplomatic terms this lifted the lid on the 1951 security pact between the two countries. The pact provided for U.S. defence of Japan pending development of Japan's own defence forces.

Diplomatic sources considered that the most important provision in the 1951 pact was:

Withdrawal of U.S. combat forces from Japan more than $100,000,000 a year. Japanese officials estimate. It also will mean loss of face for about half of some 140,000 Japanese civilians employed by the armed forces.

Kishi failed to regain administrative control over the Ryukyu Islands—meaning that they will be returned to Japanese possession in the indefinite future.

Atlantic Area Premiers Favor New Conference

HALIFAXF (CP)—Premiers of the four Atlantic provinces say they would welcome a chance to discuss problems of their area with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his government at an early federal-provincial conference.

From such a meeting Maritimers might expect agreements to give them cheaper electric power and more federal money to meet provincial and municipal bills for health, education and transportation.

Commenting on the police statements made by prime ministers during the election campaign, Liberal Premier Hugh John of Prince Edward Island said: "It's wonderful even if he does only a fraction of what he's promised."

"VERY SYMPATHETIC"

Conservative Premier Fleming of New Brunswick said: "I would think Mr. Diefenbaker would be very sympathetic to our problems."

Liberal Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland said: "I'm sure Mr. Diefenbaker, the members of his cabinet and their supporters in the Commons are all decent, patriotic Canadians who will not violate the constitution of Canada, especially that part dealing with Newfoundland's financial terms."

Conservative Premier Stanfield of Nova Scotia said: "We'll be looking for them"—a reference to the Atlantic premiers' request for federal subsidies on coal for maritime power plants.

When Mr. Diefenbaker spoke in this part of the country, he indicated he favored:

1. Federal aid for coal ship-ments within the Maritimes, including coal for use in steam power plants.

2. More federal money for provincial and municipal improvements.

3. Relief for municipalities hit by Ottawa's "tight money" policy.

4. Price supports for fishermen.

5. Higher old age and other pensions.

6. Extension of benefits under the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act to other parts of the country.

Mr. Diefenbaker talked about the need for cheaper power to attract industry to the Atlantic provinces.

Two Britons Jailed by Egypt

CAIRO (AP)—A Cairo court today sentenced two Britons to prison terms on charges of spying against Egypt. Two others were acquitted.

James Swinburne, accused of masterminding a British spy ring, was given a five-year sentence. James Zanis, who was accused of helping Swinburn in getting information about Soviet arms shipments to Egypt last year, was given a 10-year term.

Charles Plinck and John Stanley were acquitted.

Today's Chuckle

"I am very, very optimistic about the future of business," the executive told the reporter.

"Then what have you got such a worried look on your face for?"

"I'm worried about my optimism."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Very warm and humid air which covers the eastern half of the United States is being carried into Ontario in the southerly flow. A low pressure area in southwestern Minnesota is expected to move slowly northeastward into Northern Ontario by Sunday morning. In connection with this, cloudy skies and a few thunderstorms are forecast in the north tonight and Sunday.

Southern Ontario can expect another hot day Sunday, although Sunday afternoon and cooler air may reach western sections.

TORNADO DAMAGE IN FARGO PLACED AT TEN MILLION

329 Homes Levelled 15 Stores Destroyed

FARGO, N.D. (AP)—A survey today showed that more than 1,500 homes were destroyed or damaged in the tornado which killed 10 and injured more than 80 in its sweep into a Fargo residential area Thursday night.

While the battered city still counted debris for more possible victims, an American Red Cross study disclosed that 329 homes were levelled and 1,125 others damaged, 202 of them to a major degree.

Unofficial estimates put losses at upwards of $10,000,000.

About 50 of the injured still were in hospital today. Among those in critical condition was Mrs. Don Tilgen, who was found late Friday in the rubble of their home where her husband's body had been recovered earlier.

CHURCHES HIT

The Red Cross reported three churches and three schools destroyed, with two other churches heavily damaged. Fifteen business places, mostly neighborhood stores were wiped out, and 20 others had major damage.

Convicted Rapist Confesses To Murdering Detroit Child

DETROIT (AP) — A convicted rapist who lived near six-year-old Mary de Cassin has told police that he killed the child.

In a written statement Friday night to prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien, 30 - year - old Lawrence Richard Turner, a clerk in a produce market, said the child slipped and fell in the store where he worked and was knocked unconscious. He said he mutilated the child's body "so it would look like a sex killing" and then dumped the body in a wooded "lovers' line" near her home in suburban Essex Township.

Inspector Thomas Cochill said that from the discrepancies in Turner's account it was "obvious he didn't tell the whole story."

"Now that we have the man's confession, we can proceed to get the details out of him," Cochill said. "He has equipped himself with an alibi avoiding the sex issue but he will have to get by it to come."

Cochill said police would continue to question Turner, and would seek a first-degree murder warrant Monday.

The girl disappeared from her home the evening of June 12. Her slashed and battered body, partially disrobed, was found the next day. Her wrists were bound together behind her. She had been raped.

O'Brien quoted Turner as saying: "I'm terribly ashamed of what I've done. I don't know what got into me. I need help."

He begged not to be returned to Southern Michigan Prison from where he was released last December after serving 15 years for the rape of a Detroit woman.

"I'm scared to death of what the young prisoners there will do to me for killing this little girl," O'Brien quoted him as saying.

Cochill said Turner, who had maintained his innocence since he was picked up for questioning Wednesday, told his story when presented with the findings of the police department's scientific laboratory.

Cochill said shoes found in the trunk of Turner's car matched those found on the clothing of the de Cassin girl.

Cochill said Turner was picked up originally because of his record and because he lived only four doors from the de Cassin residence.

Thirty Persons Non-Existent Says Constable

TORONTO (CP)—Francis N. Kiss, a restaurant owner, testified Friday he had signed 36 affidavits certifying qualified voters and admitted he did not know any of them, or their addresses.

He was giving evidence at an inquiry into the corrupt practices election practices in Toronto St. Paul's riding during the federal election campaign.

Mr. Kiss said the affidavits were signed at the Liberal campaign headquarters of James Rooney, Mr. Rooney was defeated by Ellen Fairclough, progressive Conservative candidate, in the riding.

Constable Ralph Buckman of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police said he had checked 30 different names and addresses and which appeared on the voters' lists and discovered the persons were non-existent.

The inquiry, under Chief Justice McRuer, came after Mr. Buckman said he had discovered some 400 names were added wrongfully to...the voters' lists. Mr. Buckman said he got copies of affidavits at the request of Kenneth Clagery, Rooney's campaign manager.

J. W. Swackhamer, counsel for the inquiry, asked whether Mr. Clagery had explained why he wished this to be done. Mr. Kiss said he had understood it was "a matter of routine procedure in election campaigns."

"I don't know of the existence of any of these people on the forms I signed."

ATOMIC INSURANCE

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japanese insurance companies have formed a committee to work out insurance rates and policies for damage arising from the industrial use of atomic energy.

Five Children Perish in Fire At Melfort, Sask.

MELFORT, Sask. (CP) — Five children ranging in age from seven to 13 years died early today in a fire that destroyed their home on a reserve northeast of Saskatoon.

They were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Aubin.

Mr. Aubin and a two-month-old baby escaped without injury, but Mrs. Aubin suffered burns and was flown to hospital at Saskatoon. No report was immediately available on her condition.

The children's parents and a girl-friend identified as Martin, 7, Clarence, 8, Paul Emile, 11, Alcide and Emmanuelle, 13.

DIE OF SUFFOCATION

Police and fire officials said they believe the children died of suffocation in the fire, which is believed to have flared up in the basement of the home.

Their bodies were badly burned when found in the ruins.

It was not known how Mr. and Mrs. Aubin and the baby escaped the flames.

LEFT SMALL ESTATE

NEW YORK (AP)—Band leader Jimmy Dorsey, who died of cancer June 12, left personal property of not more than $15,000 in New York state. He left no will. His daughter, Julie Dorsey Hilton, applied in Surrogate's court Friday for letters of administration for the estate. Her petition placed the $15,000 value on the estate.

ST. LAURENT GETS BACKING FROM LIBERAL CAUCUS

Former Prime Minister Continues as Leader

OTTAWA (CP)—Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, former prime minister and now leader of the Commons Opposition, has received the endorsation of his Liberal Commons colleagues to continue as party leader.

"Mr. St. Laurent was heartily endorsed," a former cabinet minister of now a private member, said Friday following a party caucus that broke out at frequent intervals with prolonged applause.

The former minister said Mr. St. Laurent was supported enthusiastically. There was no need for a party convention or talk of any change in party leadership.

Mr. St. Laurent, 75, himself declined to make any comments on what went on at the closed party meeting, except to announce that Dr. Pierre Gauthier, re-elected member for Portneuf, Que., was chosen party whip, succeeding W. G. (Gibi) Weir, defeated in Portage-Neepawa, Man.

Asked to comment on the meaning of the repeated bursts of applause, Mr. St. Laurent said the council was "characteristic of what was taking place inside."

The caucus was called by the Liberal leader to review the results of the June 10 election in which the party lost power.

He brushed aside "all further questions about his future, except to say he leaves Sunday for Quebec City and to indicate plans for a holiday and some golf at St. Patrick, Que., where he has a summer home.

Vagrant Cow Impounded But Not Before Greatest Manhunt Staged

SUDBURY (CP) — A vagrant cow, hooked as Doll, has been impounded at the Humane Society here.

Before being booked Friday night, however, Doll occupied the attention of four policemen, one Humane Society official and a bus driver, a former farmer and a representative group of able-bodied male residents of Little Lake ward. Some of these are somewhat the worse for wear and one lost the seat of his pants.

And no wonder. Doll, before being snagged, broke a tether, three fences, one loading ramp and the heart of a half a dozen horticulturalists.

Doll was first sighted Thursday night and was last reported in the vicinity of Mountain St. by Humane Society Inspector Cecil Chabot and constables Dick Dixon and, Jim Beare of the city police force.

Having shaken off her pursuers in the darkness, Doll vanished south.

She was next reported Friday morning on Regent St., Minnow Lake.

Residents followed the most intensive cow-hunt this district has seen since civilization pushed back the moose.

The hunting party comprised McKim township constables Steve Kawryiuk and Floyd Schmidt, and a band of volunteers whose lack of knowledge of cattle was exceeded only by their enthusiasm.

The course lay through gardens, along dusty roads, over craggy heights and, on two occasions, across Lake Ramsey.

It was while Doll was in the lake the second time that one of the township officers and Doug Mullins of Sudbury, got a rope looped around her neck.

The lassoed cow, with Cons Hawryiuk at the opposite end of the rope, then went inland at full gallop. Eventually, she slowed down to a walk. Before her eldest captor could snub the rope to a tree, however, the 800-pound cow snapped the rope like a yo-yo string, and disappeared in a new direction as the officer was getting up from the prone position.

Later, Doll met with the same in tactics with greater success against Ralph Sweet, Sudbury, the first of whose treasures parted in the ensuing crash.

Doll's next contact in the hectic chase, having rolled down a rocky embankment she recovered her feet in time to bowl over two converging officers as she charged away in the direction of the lake.

Overpowered by numbers, Doll was tied in Sweet's back yard, where she was kept until a truck arrived under escort of Inspector Chabot. In the relatively peaceful interval, she snapped a light rope harness, kicked over two pails of water and demolished the Sweet garbage container. Twice more, before being loaded into a truck, Doll broke loose from her captives and ran into the bush, the mob in unquestionably hot pursuit.

Five More Posts Will Be Filled On Acting Basis

P.M. Leaves on Sunday For London Conference

OTTAWA (CP) — John Diefenbaker has taken office as Progressive Conservative prime minister with 16 new cabinet ministers and the promise of more to come.

He has set to work swiftly, presiding at his first cabinet meeting four hours after being sworn in Friday before Governor-General Massey. The ceremony at 11:45 a.m. EDT ended 22 years of Liberal rule in Canada.

A second cabinet meeting started at 9:32 p.m. with all 16 new ministers present. Mr. Diefenbaker told reporters he expected to have some announcements about noon.

The 61-year-old prime minister, who hasn't had time for a real rest since his grueling election campaign began two months ago, leaves by air Sunday for the London Commonwealth prime ministers conference.

Mr. Diefenbaker announced Friday that the partial cabinet will be expanded by two or three appointments soon after he returns from London July 6.

TO ONTARIO

One of the now-vacant portfolios will go to Ontario, which has supplied five of the new ministers. From among its eight elected Conservatives, will get another member.

The prime minister also told reporters the veterans affairs portfolio will be filled promptly. It was learned elsewhere that that minister will be from the West.

Mr. Diefenbaker will speak to the country on radio and television on CBC English and French networks tonight at 9 p.m. EDT.

The new Tory from Prince Albert, Sask., who was for several years Conservative foreign policy spokesman, holds the external affairs portfolio as well as the prime minister's office. He indicated to reporters there will be little or no change in foreign policy from that followed by the Liberal government of Louis St. Laurent.

During Mr. Diefenbaker's two-week absence, the acting prime minister will be Howard Green, MP and Green of Vancouver Quadra, a lawyer who is considered one of the new Conservative House leader in the last Commons.

WITH NO CHANGES

Traveling to London with Mr. Diefenbaker will be the new defence minister, Mr. Pearkes, V.C., of Esquimalt-Saanich, B.C., who is expected to be given a seat in the right-hand man in the future. He is 69 and a professional soldier for all his world wars.

Personnel in the cabinet list announced Friday represented no surprise changes from advance speculation, although there were given portfolios which had not been forecast. Mr. Diefenbaker has now his final list telephoned to Government House will about 45 minutes before he was sworn in—indicating

Brandy-Drinking, Tight-Lipped Parrot Holding up Development

VICTORIA (CP)—Mike, a wicked, tight-lipped, brandy-drinking parrot, is holding up the development of Victoria.

For six years he has been the finest attraction in the window of pieces of property in the heart of the city, and his lease appears to be as good as gold.

Hoteiman Doug Abrams of New Westminster bought Mike's cage four years ago with the intention of building an apartment block on the hotel on it. He thought he would have no trouble breaking Mike's lease. But Mike won't even talk business.

The situation may remain static until Mike goes to his parrot's paradise. But although he is 40 years old Mike is holding up well, perhaps because of his daily swig of brandy.

He received his legacy from Miss Victoria Wilson, spinster daughter of a pioneer Victoria banker. Her estate included a rambling stretch of five choice city lots, only a block away from the famous Empress Hotel.

Miss Wilson's will stipulated three things:

That the main lot on which the old Wilson mansion stands be left under lease to Mike until he died.

That Mike's cage, and Mike's aviary, which he shares with two parrot henchmen, be left undisturbed in the same period.

Wah Wong, a household servant, was provided with an annuity to see Mike's bartender. Wah Wong no longer lives on the property, but still calls at the mansion, which now serves as a rooming-house, say hotelman Abrams, to dispense the brandy.

Abrams can't even get permission to build a new block. He says over.

"I have never seen Mike and those other parrots but I hear them squawking away," he says, "Mike, believed to have been a bit of a sailor in his younger days, never wanted brunettes. Miss Wilson bought an electric motor car to take him for rides but Mike raised a terrible fuss. Now the car is jacked up in a garage with only 18 miles on the speedometer. Mike, it seems, is used to getting his own way.

Supersonic Jets Will Move Into Korea on Monday

SEOUL (AP) — The United States will begin sending modern, supersonic jet interceptor planes to South Korea Monday to counter the buildup of Communist fighter strength in North Korea, reliable sources said today.

The impending arrival of the F-100 jets—equipped with the latest radar to intercept attacking planes in all kinds of weather—was disclosed as the Communist reacted with bitter words to the United Nations Command's abrogation of the Korean armistice ban against new weapons.

An undisclosed number of F-100s —plus probably other new jet planes included light bombers will land at the big American base of Osan in the first step taken by the UN Command to modernize its forces in Korea. An American general told the Communists at Panmunjom in line with the UN command would no longer recognize the truce provision against bringing new arms into Korea because the Communists had been violating it since the fighting stopped in July 1953.

Shipping of arms for American infantrymen are also slated to arrive soon. The U.S. also will give new equipment to the 70,000 South Korean troops manning the eastern portion of the 155-mile defence line across the peninsula, but the South Koreans will get only the type of equipment which would have been allowed under the old armistice agreement.

South Korea's armed forces went on an alert, apparently as a precautionary step in view of the Communist reaction to the U.N. Command's plans.

In Pyongyang, the North Korean capital, Communist Premier Kim Il Sung proposed an immediate conference of all countries "concerned in the solution of the Korean question." He went on to claim, in a speech reported by Peiping Radio, that United States imperialists are openly talking about introducing new weapons into Korea . . . a flagrant violation of the armistice."

Kim called for withdrawal of all foreign troops from Korea.

Banker Shot

BARRIE (CP)—Norman Smith, Toronto-Dominion Bank manager in Wingham, was found shot to death Friday beside his car on a side road north of Barrie, 20 miles southwest of Orillia.

Police said there was no suspicion of foul play. No inquest will be held.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT

The 18th Cub Pack were hosts to the 2nd Cub Pack for the closing meeting of the season.

Mr. J. G. Dempsa, chairman of the 18th welcomed the guests and two Cub Packs became one for the evening. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ted Dix, District Commissioner, Grayden Colwill, Mrs. Milton Crawford, Bob Munro and Ray Lemon.

Akela Graham assisted by Jean Harper, Gwen Leggitt and Shirley Boyce have brought the O.S.D. Pack along so well that in Scouting their handicap can almost be ignored. The Christ Church Pack with Akela Kemp, Joan Brenskill and Dennis Rowbotham were out for an evening's enjoyment.

After the "Grand Howl" by all the Cubs games and action songs were joined in by everybody. Larry Jones, Yonder in the Paw Paw Patch" and "Three Blind Mice" were sung in true Cub fashion by both Packs.

The "treasure" was discovered by Cub Gerry Willarton. Candy scrambles, hot-dogs and cokes followed.

District Commissioner Owen spoke for all when he remarked that he had never have done a wonderful job with the Cubs and Scouts. Akela's point of view point the experience cannot be valued too highly."

The 8th Cub Pack held their closing meeting at Zwick's Island. Fathers were invited and within tarily got the camp fire going and prepared the hot dogs. The Cubs smoothing out the bumps playoffs. They have four ball teams, Blackhawks, Red Indians and Yankees. When play finished the Yankees emerged the champions. Refreshments for the Ladies' Auxiliary provided a very happy conclusion to the Cubs activities for the season.

French Premier Asks for Vote Of Confidence

PARIS (Reuters) — Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury today asked the National Assembly to give him a vote of confidence in his austerity taxation program.

The vote is scheduled for Monday, and the premier said he was sure that the 43-year-old Radical will get a majority.

Bourges-Maunoury's predecessor, Socialist Guy Mollet, fell from power last April on a bill to amend assembly to back a similar taxation program.

The 10-day-old cabinet staked its life on proposals to raise $825,000,000 in new taxes—$450,000,000 in new taxes—half of it in a stiff increase in the price of gasoline.

The premier and his finance minister, Paul Ramadier, on Friday laid, pleaded with the deputies to back the tax program in efforts to fill up the near-empty French coffers.

"France is economically enjoying good health," Gaillard told the assembly during a session which opened Friday and ended early this morning. "Her production is thriving, whole sectors are displaying a rate of increase and trade with which we have never been more evident."

But, he added, France is suffering from an immediate crisis in her balance f trade and in her public finances.

He disclosed that the government will ask its "friends and allies" in France for an emergency loan to help out during the crisis.

He did not indicate how much France would seek, or which country would be asked for help.

Public Invited To See Display Of Antique Cars

On Wednesday, June 26th, Thursday, June 27th, at 10 a.m. RCAF Station Trenton will open its doors to the general public when the Airmen's Club plays host to 100 vintage automobiles from Belleville to Lake Ontario to Brighton Town.

The public will be invited to inspect the "gas buggies" at close hand, and a special showing of the movie "Keystone Kops" will get underway at the Station theatre at 9 p.m. The Keystone Kops, who in the silent days of Mack Sennett were the delight of movie goers, is a comedy based on the original London to Brighton Veteran Car Run, which take place in England.

The public will be invited to Trenton around 5 p.m., and all of them should be at the station by the display time at 7 p.m. The Air Force police will handle parking arrangements, and the personnel will be on hand to lend assistance and give directions to all visitors.

In addition to the antique car display, the Model Railroad Club will be open for display purposes, and the public is invited to drop in and have a look around the Railroad Club and watch the trains go by. The Air Force police will handle traffic arrangements during a session which opened Friday and ended early this morning. "Her production is thriving, whole sectors are displaying a rate of increase and trade with which we have never been more evident."

Belleville
PROCLAMATION

As Mayor of the City of Belleville I call upon all members of the community to give their wholehearted support to the Bicycle Safety program which is being held under joint direction of our Board of Education and the Belleville Bicycle Safety Dealers.

The purpose of this program is to reduce the hazards of bicycle riding for both young riders and others, by training our boys and girls in riding skills and in the observance of safety and traffic rules.

Increasing congestion of our streets and highways daily increases the hazards for the careless or unskilled. Hundreds of deaths and thousands of non-fatal injuries each year, due to collisions between bicycles and motor vehicles, alone, warn of the need of such a program.

In particular, I call for the support of parents and their children who ride bicycles. I urge that parents encourage their children to enroll in the program, and I urge the children to enroll for their own and others' safety.

(Signed) Jane Forrester, Mayor.

2 Escaped Convicts Caught In McArthur's Mills Bush After Tip From Denbigh

A tip to Ontario Provincial Police that two suspicious appearing men in a truck had been seen in the Denbigh district touched off a concentrated outside search Friday which ended in the apprehension of two convicts who had escaped from Kingston Penitentiary on Wednesday.

Edward Arnold Brooker, 28, of Peterborough, and Thomas Cecil Jiltins, 34, of Toronto, were caught in the bush at McArthur's Mills, 25 miles northeast of Bancroft, by a party of O.P.P. officers headed by Constable J. C. Hawkins of Bancroft.

The convicts were unarmed and offered no resistance to arrest, police said.

The men were taken back to Bancroft pending their immediate transfer back to the penitentiary. Both are Indians and escaped while working in a quarry.

GOT TIP FROM DENBIGH

Provincial Police Inspector A. McDougall of Belleville said this quarters stated that early Friday morning a Denbigh district farmer had reported seeing a strange truck and two suspicious looking men in the area.

The license number of the truck was that of the vehicle stolen Wednesday by the Ladies' Auxiliary provided a very happy from the Kingston penitentiary conclusion to the Cubs activities truck.

Police in the entire area were alerted, with officers from Bancroft and Kaladar scouring in the area where the truck

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Two days after the Royal Canadian Navy's icebreaker, Labrador, butted her way through the Strait Bonavista to open the ships could use that ice - filled route to Red Bay, United States supply ships are going to do just that.

Nearly 50 of them will plow through the ice passage this summer, taking supplies to Argentia Naval Base and carrying new courses in the freezing waters.

It will be the first time the passage—first conquered in 1908 by Sir Wilfred Grenfell—has seen commercial movement of supplies, and in many cases "the ships likely will have to feed their way through treacherous route.

But, if they follow the Labrador's directions, they know it can be done. The Labrador had little difficulty Friday in the ice that draws 29 feet of water, nearly as much as the liner Queen Mary.

Practice Open To Abuse Says Kelso Roberts

TORONTO (CP)—Attorney-General Robert Kelso says he will review the practice of some smaller municipalities in permitting police constables to augment their salaries from court costs imposed on persons convicted under the law.

He told a reporter that although sharing of court costs by police officers has been in effect for years the practice is open to abuse in that it might put an undue element for police to lay charges.

The scale of fees which police may claim is set out in the Criminal Code. The fees are paid out of court costs at the discretion of the magistrate.

"It should be possible to work out some other arrangement so that a police constable is adequately paid without having to depend on the number of charges he lays for his financial security," the attorney-general said.

TV BEATS HOUSE FIRE

STRATFORD (CP)—Two small children exhibited unconcern Friday after their mother rescued them from their burning home. While Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Timmis and two older children watched firemen trying unsuccessfully to stop the blaze, two-year-old Brett and four-year-old Scott walked to a neighbor's house across the road and watched television.

Prime Minister Much at Ease In His Office

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker was smiling and very much at ease Friday as he posed for CBC movie cameras into his office to take pictures of him at his desk.

Reporters also entered the office—something which happened previously only when former prime minister St. Laurent called a formal press conference.

Mr. Diefenbaker chatted with reporters, in front of cameras for lengthy, humorous courtroom incident from his early days as a Saskatchewan lawyer.

PICTURES VANISH

Pictures of former Liberal prime ministers Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mackenzie King had been removed from the walls. The spot occupied by Sir Wilfrid's portrait over a fireplace behind the prime minister's chair was occupied by a portrait of Canada's first prime minister, Conservative Sir John A. Macdonald.

When reporters mentioned their disappearance, Mr. Diefenbaker said Mackenzie King had been removed without his knowledge.

"Mr. King was out of here," he said gesturing toward a side wall, "and after all he was my member." Mr. King represented Prince Albert, Sask., from 1926 to 1945. Mr. Diefenbaker, who now represents Prince Albert in the Commons, was defeated by Mr. King in that constituency in the 1926 general election.

Two Men Held, Most Melchior Loot Recovered

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two men have been arrested and $88,870 worth of loot recovered in the $99,711 fur and jewel robbery Tuesday night of singer Lauritz Melchoir and his wife, police announced.

Two other suspects were being sought. Arrested were Bernard Morgan, 39, and Alfred Pope, 28, both of Los Angeles. Police said they are being held for investigation.*

Three men invaded Melchior's home ile a fourth apparently waited in a getaway car.

After gathering up the jewels and furs, the robbers tied up Melchior, his wife and the two servants.

Melchior, trying to thwart the robbery, fainted a heart attack. The robbers gave him a drink of water, loosened his bonds and then ran out of the house.

Recovered Items included a $9,000 diamond bracelet, a $9,000 diamond clip, a $6,000 emerald and ruby ring; a $3,420 Russian sable skin coat and a Belgian sable cape valued at $2,500. Also found was a $3,000 diamond and ruby ring with an emerald-cut gem diamond.

Among articles missing is a $3,000 gold and silver ring with diamonds.

Pea Harvest Has Commenced

Canning factories throughout the Bay of Quinte district have commence operations next week as the current season's pea crop starts to be harvested.

Farmers offering peas on the market this week-end have completed processing peas, but that operations would become general next week.

Ample moisture and hot weather of the past week had resulted in a tremendous growth in hay and pasture. Fall wheat and rye is headed and prospects are for a good crop. A few farmers have already commenced haying operations.

Ill-Tempered Deer Is Killed

PETERBOROUGH (CP) —An ill-tempered deer which set upon a teenage lad in true cagility after being released in the wilds was killed Friday night.

Following reports that the buck had attacked three persons this week in the Buckhorn Lake area of the Kawartha, five Ontario Department of Lands and Forests officers set out to track down the animal. They had warned hunters to "shoot first and tell us after."

Spotted on the shore of lower Buckhorn Lake, the buck stamped its feet and charged the conservation officers before two shots ended its life.

The animal was released in the south-some time ago by Peterborough zoo officials because it couldn't get along with the caretakers.

JEEP FALLS ON HOUSE

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP)— Army and navy chiefs and 550 cadets watching an amphibious assault exercise Friday missed some unscheduled excitement. A jeep dropped by parachute from an air force plane landed smack on top of Virginia Governor Thomas B. Stanley's summer cottage. The jeep punched a hole in the roof above a rear bedroom but did not fall through. No one was in the cottage.

FRANK E. SIMMONS

The funeral of Frank E. Simmons of Point Anne, was held from the Funeral Residence of George F. O'Brien Friday morning to St. Andrew's Church at Point Anne. Solemn High Mass was celebrated by Rev. J. J. Buckley, with Rev. C. R. Baker as deacon and Rev. Peter Murphy as sub-deacon. Seated in the sanctuary were His Grace Rev. J. A. O'Sullivan, Archbishop of Kingston, who gave the final absolution; Rev. William Lynett and Rev. E. Keyes. Rev. J. J. Buckley said the committal rites in St. James cemetery.

A wealth of floral tributes and spiritual offerings testified in a small way to the esteem in which the deceased was held in his community.

The bearers were: Earl Anderson, James McKay, Joseph Storey, Franklin Bennett, Jack McConnell and Manson MacDonald.

BRUCE ALBERT WOOD
Vancouver-Trenton

Bruce Albert Wood, formerly of Trenton, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bruce A. Wood, and Maurrey Lee, grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Lee of Trenton, passed away in Vancouver General Hospital two days before he passed.

Mr. Wood was in service at Dartmouth and Halifax, N.S., and Whitehorse, N.W.T., during the World War II period.

Funeral services and Masonic rites were held in Simmons and Redelle Funeral Home, 1595 West Broadway, Vancouver, B.C. with interment in Vancouver Military cemetery.

Floral tributes were present in Vancouver from relatives, relatives, the Masonic Lodge, and also from the Odd Fellows Lodge in Trenton.

MISS ANNA MATILDA THOMPSON

The funeral of Miss Anna Matilda Thompson, 8 Queen St., was held at her late residence on Friday afternoon, with Canon A. S. McConnell of St. Thomas' Anglican Church officiating. Interment was in the family plot at the Belleville Cemetery.

Bearers were Harry Smith, Alfred Evans, and members of the staff of the Finkston and Luscombe Funeral Home.

Big Pay Boosts For P.M. and His Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP)—Swearing in of the new Prime Minister's Diefenbaker cabinet means big parliamentary pay boosts for Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and his 14 portfolio holders.

Conversely, resignation of the government of Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent means pay cuts—in nine cases to zero—for St. Liberals.

Mr. Diefenbaker's parliamentary pay jumps from $27,000 a year to $37,000. As opposition leader he drew $18,000, plus $10,000 as a Commons member and a $2,000 car allowance. He now gets $25,000 as a Commons member, plus the $10,000 as a Commons member and the $2,000 automobile allowance.

The cabinet members assigned portfolios get pay boosts from $12,000 for ordinary members to $27,000 made up of an additional $15,000 and the $12,000 member and a $2,000 car allowance.

But there were no raises for the cabinet ministers without portfolio—J. M. Macdonell, Commons member for Toronto Rosedale, and William J. Browne, senator from St. John's West. They will continue to draw the $10,000 each member gets, made up of $5,000 indemnity and $5,000 in tax-free expenses.

Pay of Mr. St- Laurent, who lead Secondary opposition leader, drops from $37,000 to $27,000. That of his cabinet ministers who kept their seats in the June 10 federal elections drops from $37,000 to $25,000. Parliamentary pay ends for the nine cabinet members defeated in the election.

The new cabinet members lost the tax exemption on their $5,000 expense allowance. However their $2,000 car allowance, like those of the prime minister and opposition leader, is tax free.

Police Blotter

Mrs. Frances Loft, Ridley street, reported complaint that while her wallet had been stolen is more fortunate than she realized. Instead of having stolen the purse apparently was merely lost and later found by a man who is the police station after being handed to an officer on the street. The finder reported he found the purse at the street curb. It contained $40.

Both city and provincial police reported a quiet night with only minor complaints although provincial police investigated one accident on the 4th concession of Sidney which saw a telephone pole broken. A car driven by Mrs. Thomas Tennessee, 78 East Moira street, went out of control and struck the pole. No one was injured.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

O MOTHER DEAR, JERUSALEM

O mother dear, Jerusalem,
When shall I come to Thee?
When shall my sorrows have an end?
Thy joys when shall I see?

O happy harbor of God's saints!
O sweet and pleasant soil!
In Thee no sorrow can be found,
Or grief, or care, or toil.

No murky cloud o'ershadows Thee,
Nor gloom, nor darksome night;
But ev'ry soul shines as the sun
For God Himself gives light.

O my sweet home, Jerusalem,
Thy joys when shall I see?
The King that sitteth on Thy throne
In His felicity.

Thy gardens and Thy goodly walks
Continually are green,
Where grow such sweet and pleasant flowers
As nowhere else are seen.

Right there Thy streets, with silver sound,
The living waters flow,
And on the banks, on either side,
The trees of life do grow.

Those trees forevermore bear fruit,
And evermore do spring;
There evermore the angels are,
And evermore do sing.

Jerusalem, my happy home,
Would God I were in Thee!
Would God my woes were at an end,
Thy joys that I might see!

It is a pity that the authorship of many of Christendom's finest and most precious hymns cannot be definitely traced.

The hymn, "O Mother Dear, Jerusalem!" is one of these "orphans. It was taken from a lengthy poem, the original manuscript of which appears in the British Museum and bears the legend: "A Song Made By F.S.P. To The Tune Of Diana."

Another hymn, "Jerusalem, My Happy Home", which was brought to light in 1910 by Dr. Bromehead, English churchman in a collection of "Eckington Psalms and Hymns", had the same origin. Bromehead, a graduate of Queen's College at Cambridge, Eckington, Derbyshire for most of his life, edited the Eckington Collection and became curate at it was thought that he had written all of the hymns included in it.

But a study of "Jerusalem, My Happy Home" revealed that like "O Mother Dear Jerusalem!" it consisted merely of borrowings from the museum manuscript.

The song in the British Museum has 26 stanzas of four lines each. The hymns mentioned here are but two of many which have been taken from the original poem, but they are the best known and are to be found in many of today's hymn books.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

DISGORGING

If you look up the word "disgorge" in a dictionary you will find that it means "give up after swallowing". Actually, there are three completely different reasons why birds disgorge.

Owls swallow birds and small animals whole; later, feathers, fur, and bones come up, neatly packed in the form of little pellets.

It is by disgorging that some birds feed their young. Pelicans, vultures, and wood ibises all use this method; but we in Canada have not much chance of seeing them on the job. Others, quite familiar to us, disgorge for regurgitate, as it is generally called) in plain view; yet although watching closely, we probably think an insect or a seed is being passed from parent to child.

HUMMINGBIRD'S TONGUE

The tongue of a tiny hummingbird is especially designed for this method of taking in food and transferring it to another mouth. It is very long, can be trust far out, has sides that curl ocer to form a regular coda fountain straw, and a brush-like tip for picking up nectar and diminutive insects from flowers. On returning home, the hummer inserts the tip of its tongue into a baby's throat, and squirts in this lovely mixture.

In caring for its young the flicker swallows more ants than necessary for itself, brings the rest home, and disgorges them for the benefit of the youngsters. Partly digested seeds are fed to goldfinch nestlings. Infant mourning doves insert their bills into the parent's mouth to get a fluid secreted in the crop; later they pull out partially digested seeds. The cedar waxwing brings home several whole cherries and disgorges them, one at a time. Each is mashed up before given to a baby. Cormorants regurgitate fish.

For the first 2½ weeks of a gannet's life the bill is not sufficiently long for the regular feeding method of the species, so the parent enters the nest, dropping pre-digested fish close to the infant, that breaks off little bits

A Lift for Living

Cost of Pride Is Often High

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

COST OF PRIDE — SR

I once knew two brothers who lived for about 20 years near together and yet without speaking to each other. When they grew to manhood, they jointly managed their father's farm. Property was held in common. But gradually they grew apart.

The younger brother prided himself that he was smarter than his older brother and could make more money sitting on the fence than the other could plowing the fields. Consequently he spent considerable time on the fence. The other felt aggrieved at having to divide up after he had done so much of the work.

Finally they separated their holdings. Then for all the ensuing years until death they did not speak although living only a few rods apart. Thus they forfeited that fellowship which can be so fruitful between brothers. And whenever anyone tried to effect a reconciliation between them, the attitude of each was, "I'll not be the first to forgive."

How often we are too proud to receive the love and life that are waiting for us! Take it between generations. Grownups can become so proud of their opinions and attainments that they fail to welcome the contributions which youth can make to their lives.

COURTEOUS CONTEMPT

And young people, on their side, often show what the Archbishop of Canterbury called "that courteous contempt which youth has for age." The smart young fellow sometimes takes a patronizing attitude toward his father as a nice old dodo who means well but lives in a past age.

The late John Buchan, Governor General of Canada, recalled the inspiration he received as a young lawyer in London from associations with older members of the bar, and deplored the modern tendency to segregate professional and social groups along age lines.

Nothing is more important than the religious training of our youth; but in our programs toward that end, let us cultivate the areas in which the different ages can learn from each other, thus overcoming the pride of age conscious-ness.

Or consider the form of pride which we call vanity. Vanity is shallow pride, manifest in many ways and on slight grounds. The vain person preens himself before every show window he passes. By turning windows into mirrors he keeps seeing himself when he ought to be seeing the things around him. Thus pride makes him a prisoner of himself. He is himself on his hands, for nobody else wants him.

SEPARATES FROM GOD

Or take the pride of achievement which separates a person from God. The record of King Uzziah illustrates it. Listen: "His name spread far abroad; for he was marvelously helped, til he was strong. But when he was strong, his heart was lifted up to his own destruction." Similar statements occur again and again in Old Testament biography. Success breeds a sense of self-sufficiency. Men no longer feel the need of God. Then they fall. In that way it can be said, "God rests-leth the proud."

But God "giveth grace to the humble" in heart. Richard Baxter was wont to say, "Know thyself and thou canst not be proud." If we are to know ourselves, we must not do as the ancient Corinthians who, "measuring themselves by themselves and comparing themselves with themselves, were not wise."

We must see our lives in the light of God. When I go to buy a piece of cloth for a suit, if I am wise I ask to see it not in the artificial light but in the natural sunlight.

So with life that goes into the suit; I should see it in the light of God's love and wisdom and holiness. And when I do look at what I have done alongside of what God has done for me, then I think how indebted I am to others for what little I have accomplished.

TRUTH IN ERROR

A little boy of 9 was showing his little brother of 6 through a picture book of English history. They came upon a picture of King Charles I being led to the block where he was beheaded. The older lad said, "They goes King Charles on his way to being block-headed." There was truth in his error of language. Despite many good personal qualities, Charles did lose his head, partly because he was too proud to learn.

There is a justifiable pride which is a part of life's motive power. We should take pride in our work, but we should not take pride to ourselves from our work. We should have push, advancing good works. But we should not be "pushers," elbowing ourselves into the limelight. "Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father in heaven" — rather than yourselves.

DEFEAT DOUBLES INCOME

The report that Hon. Robert H. Winters, minister of public works in the defeated Liberal Government, will become manager of the Canadian operations of the Rio Tinto Company raises an interesting point.

There is a startling difference in the salary which Mr. Winters will receive as head of a private corporation and that which he was paid by the Canadian people for filling one of the most important positions in the cabinet. As a cabinet minister he got $27,000 a year; Rio Tinto, it is said, will pay him more than $60,000. His defeat at the polls will thus more than double his salary.

First reaction of many Canadians will be that situations like this mitigate against the chances of public affairs being managed by the ablest men in the country. Remedying such a situation, though, is not simple. To increase the salaries of cabinet ministers to the level of those paid top executives by the largest private corporations would be certain to bring protests from many taxpayers whose incomes are only a small fraction of these amounts. Moreover, while there are men in government office well worth remuneration in these high brackets, nobody with sound judgment will suggest that all cabinet positions are filled by men of this calibre. Sometimes a cabinet appointment is not so much a recognition of the outstanding ability of a member as a bit of political wire-pulling.

There is one other point which might be considered. The best cabinet ministers, other things being equal, are those men, or women, who are prepared to make personal sacrifices in order to serve their country. Mr. Winters has evidently been making such sacrifices and the very fact that he commands such a much higher salary in private industry suggests that the people of Canada are likely to have been particularly well served by him in the past. So far, in spite of criticism which is often voiced about the calibre of men who run for public office, the nation has never lacked able men to guide its destinies. If any cabinet ministers have not met the high standard one would like to see maintained, it is probable that this has been because of the political necessity of apportioning posts to members from different parts of the country, rather than to a shortage of supply of able men if the prime ministers had been free to select the best without regard to the location of their home ridings.

GET TOGETHER BOYS

"They builds you up and they pulls you down - -"

Here we were, feeling all nice and comfy, after reading the latest news release from the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests. And then along comes a note from the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity and - - pouf! - - we are as deflated as a family bank account at the end of the summer holidays.

Here we have the Department of Lands and Forests drawing to our attention the fact that the bass season is approaching and that this means action for thousands of fishermen and women, "for while it has been preceded by speckled trout and pickerel fishing, the largemouth and smallmouth bass season stands first in the affections of all." And here we have the Department adding the pertinent information that "bass fishing is particularly good in the Bay of Quinte - - -"

Sure, the Department added the names of a few other spots, like Lake Simcoe, the waters at Lake Bay, Manitoulin Island and Lake Nipissing, but it headed the list with the Bay of Quinte. It gave us, as we have already noted, that nice and comfy feeling.

Then we turn to the Department of Travel and Publicity's "Ontario Travel News" and read that the remarkable record from anywhere that "the farther off the beaten track the better the fishin'" is only true "in some areas and under some circumstances." The Department sets out to prove that this does not apply to Ontario. It mentions Lake Erie, the Ontario-Minnesota border and the Lake Superior-Sault Ste. Marie-Algoma districts as exceptions. It can be seen on "Bluewater area" of the St. Clair River, Lake St. Clair, Detroit River, and Niagara Peninsula waters. Next, it turns to Eastern Ontario and tells about fishing "from Kingston through the Thousand Islands" and "from Cornwall to the Quebec border." But no mention of the Bay of Quinte, which the Department of Lands and Forests has placed at the top of the list of the best places to fish for the fish that is at the top of the list. According to the Department of Travel and Publicity, there is no good fishing between the Niagara Peninsula and Kingston. The fishing in the Bay of Quinte, one gathers, does not equal that of the Detroit River. We are insulted. An alternative explanation? Oh, yes, there is one. The Department considers Belleville "farther off the beaten track" than the Algoma area. We are doubly insulted.

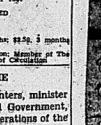
HONOR

Cap and gown to be worn with pride
Is the honor paid,
But the same man putting them both aside
When the speech is made.



Honored and raised by his fellow-men
To high renown,
But the same man turning to work again
Without cap and gown.

Grateful and glad he should be and proud,
But no change to find;
With all of the privileges allowed,
In heart and mind.

A title added to grace his name,
One honor mere,
But the same man turning to the same
As he was before.

Cat Versus Weasel

By John Gould in The Christian Science Monitor

A lady, whose interest is much appreciated, wrote recently to inquire why I hadn't reported lately on my cat. Frankly, experience in the past has given me a slippancy with which I discuss matters feline is not wholly appreciated by the great society of cat lovers, and that said cat lovers, being limited as to the direction of my thoughts, are unbending and unyielding in my direction. So I wind up in, as we say, the doghouse. The cat is a touchy subject, and I astutely avoid it regardless of the great ability my cat has about fomenting literary speculation.

For instance, if I should relate, which I will not, about the way my cat ate and I sit and read the newspaper, I'm sure somebody would misjudge the whole thing, and think me unduly harsh on my cat. What happens is that Stubby — my cat, because she is a Manx — comes and climbs up on my knee while I sit in the living room, and as she relaxes and purrs she will stretch her pins and dig them into me. These are the same pins she keeps sleek and smooth for her forays into the dense jungle behind our yard, she may devour, and with which she can yank back off a brown ash tree.

* * *

While my knee is not up daintily, I do notice Stubby's claws. I give a jerk which leaves me sitting on my shoulders, and without studied aim I usually whack Stubby with the newspaper and send her sprawling into the corner behind the stove.

As I say, if I should relate all this, I'm sure certain dedicated fanciers of the cat, in a broad sense, would feel I had roughly used the poor beast, and would hasten to write me blistering say so. But the reading of the newspaper by Stubby and me is not as bad as all that. The fun really tells me what I, behind my newspaper, can't see — that Stubby hunches defensively when she drives her wild talons into my harboring thighs, closes both eyes, and rolls with the blow. To be sure, she gives me the maddened eyes from under the stove, and looks as if she had decided to quit her job and go away — but all she does about it is climb back on my knee and purr and relax and give in to me again, good.

This has been going on for years, and my knee looks like the place a shoemaker keeps his awl, and I've lost a number of pairs of chic, and we are the closest of friends.

* * *

The thing about Stubby, as distinguished from other literary cats, is that she is not pampered, and lives a wild and roaming life. She may elect to sleep on the puff on the spare bed, but I wouldn't be comfortable on an upper beam in the barn. Her dish is regularly catered with warm saucers of broth, and supper scraps, and she will sit at the breakfast table politely and wash a bit of doughnut now and then.

She is, in one side of her nature, a gentle bouncer of amiable disposition. Yet she is pristine in her other side, and roams our wilds as the tiger and lion roam the jungles. She polices the ant and mice situation with care, and even brings in moles. But she pays no attention whatever to baby chicks and ducklings which live about the dooryard.

* * *

Well, the other night I was sitting reading the paper, and Stubby had been assaulting me as usual, and I happened to think of it and I said, apropos of nothing, "There's been a weasel at the ducks."

The evidence was clear. The weasel is a small predator, mostly nocturnal, and is a wicked marauder in a poultry house. Dogs, cats, foxes, skunks, owls, and raccoons have been blamed for wholesale destruction done by rampaging weasels, and many a farmer has openly wept at the sight. The weasel turns white in winter and, becomes an ermine, with a little black tip on his tail, but winter or summer he is a vicious customer, and can outfight about anything, regardless of size.

News that a weasel was working at our ducks was fun, except for they are hard to trap, hard to shoot, hard to see. They can go through a crack, and like a shadow.

Anyway, Stubby stood up on my knee, arched her back in a lazy yawn, jumped to the floor, and cried at the door to go out. Shortly I went to bed. And the next morning, when I stepped out to do the pre - breakfast chores, Stubby was stretched out on the back porch asleep. She was more than asleep, for utter fatigue was written all over her. She opened one eye and looked at me and attempted a partial purring. The eyelid dropped, her ears were slit, and her lip looked like a broken balloon. And under the foregoing was the weasel, done with ducks and aught else.

* * *

My duck pen, when I got to it, was a shambles. The mother ducks and their little ones, scarcely a week old, were still huddled in one corner quacking and quaking, and the runway-boards were knocked sideways the hopper tipped over. It must have been the fight of the century, and as far as I know it was the only time Stubby has ever been in any of Belleville's parks. The weasel had got given up easily, and when I went back in the house Stubby carefully got to her feet, limped in with me, went up onto the spare bed, and slept all day and all night.

Now, I am only telling this as it happened. There may be those who know more about cats than I who will explain in almost - human terms what went on. No doubt Stubby heard me mention a weasel, and construed my anxiety as an order. No doubt. She is really a wonderful cat and smart. And although some may deplore some of her escapades, you have to give her credit where credit is due.

Lost Market For Textiles

Windsor Daily Star

The textile industry in Canada is again complaining of its plight. Which calls to mind it long since has lost a market for many of its products. Except those who keep racing stables, or horses for show purposes, few own horse blankets.

In earlier days the textile industry had more to do than just clothe humans. It also had to supply blankets for the horse population. On the Ontario farm there would be usually half a dozen, at least.

Some would be the woollen blankets, gaily colored, fastened around the neck by a strap and around the body by a surcingle. Others would be of cheaper materials. The purpose wasn't only to keep the horses warm throughout the winter. It was to prevent them from growing a heavy hair which would have done same thing. The proud farmer wanted his horses sleek and shiny in coat and no amount of currying and rubbing would do this if the hair became long and unkempt.

For teaming produce to market in the cold of winter the type of blanket was used, a smaller one as not to interfere with movement. It often would be of a tartan - mat - like material, sometimes fleecelined. Its purpose was not only warmth, but to keep off the weather. Rarely, if a team had to stand in an open shed, or quite outside, often there would be the woollen blanket hooped by the canvas one.

A poor farmer would make-do with worn quilts or house blankets for horse blankets. But in any case, a lot of wool and cotton material in the old days went for other than human uses.

Bullet Trick Just a Hoax

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Probably millions of people witnessed "The Festival of Magic" on television recently in which some of the world's cleverest magicians were announced to take part. An entertainment it was to be quite good: but critically speaking, all except one or two were no better than the run-of-mine performers seen in midways.

Tremendous build-up was given to a trick in which the performer was supposed to imagine his teeth a bullet fired from a rifle only a few feet away. The bullet was fired, and by the use of most dangerous feat in the business that it men had been killed attempting it since it was first accomplished 300 years ago. In this instance the performer had given a highly dramatic talk, leading the audience to imagine that they would probably see him shot dead before their eyes, a small cartridge was put in the breech, the marksman fired, the performer spat from the mouth a pact of the jar, and he ejected a cartridge from his mouth.

A. St. Thomas Times-Journal writer throws some light on this type of trick. "We have seen this trick by different performers who put on a more realistic show without any ballyhoo. A member of the audience was asked to mark a cartridge which was then apparently slipped into the breech of the rifle. When the shot was fired, the performer spat a cartridge from his mouth bearing the markings made by the man in the audience. Many people attribute their senses would believe that the shooting was genuine. The bullet was actually fired into a man's face from a distance of a few feet but would have been hit before he knew it. Besides, the Face of the man would be shattered by the impact. Obviously the cartridge, probably loaded with a light charge of fine stalls, never leaves the gun," he says.

One of those named as having been killed when doing this trick was Chung Ling Soo, a Chinese magician who was not a Chinese at all, but a Scotsman. He was killed on the stage of the Wood Green Empire in London (England) in 1918. About 2,000 people actually saw him shot dead. An inquest was held and it was found that he had tampered with the mechanism in such a way which is not generally known. He died knowing nothing about that. It was believed that "Chung Ling Soo" was accomplishing love affair, and this was his dramatic way of committing suicide.

SEASONABLE ENJOYMENTS

There is no rest place so genuine as that afforded by all the gifts in Nature. There are no paid Doctors to charge for the cures that nature puts it up to me, and I drink in the freshness to my heart's desire. Again I quote Thoreau, who said: "Thoughts accidentally thrown together become a frame in which the landscape is appropriately set and exhibited." That is why this lover of Nature can spend years of his comparatively short life some forty-odd miles from any of communion.

In Nature there are friends everywhere. There is a humanness about so much that is a part of the outer world. Dr. George Washington Carver talked with flowers, and I can understand why he did. I never look into the face of a rose colorful flower without feeling a my love for it. Flowers flood the Land of Evangeline in Summer. I have favorites that I look for during these seasons, for my vacation enjoyments.

Is The Water Safe To Drink?

In extraordinary circumstances, it may be necessary to know how to make questionable water safe to drink. Water from brooks, spring, river, lake, well, or wayside faucet or fountain may require disinfection to give the tourist, traveller, or sojourner the benefit of the doubt until he can learn from the local health authorities whether the water is safe to drink.

Boiling for not less than one minute is the simplest and best way to disinfect water for drinking. Boiling destroys any disease germs which might be in the water. Make sure the water has actually boiled one minute. Then let it cool for drinking.

Next best way to disinfect questionable water for drinking, is of water a rounded teaspoonful of chlorinating lime from a fresh, dry opened can of chlorinated lime. Then, if you can't very well use a heaping teaspoonful of it, you can just put a teaspoonful of the solution in each gallon of water and let it stand for two hours. The water will then be safe to drink. Even though it may have a little taste of chlorine such a disinfectant in water sometimes has.

A child may to make questionable water safe to drink is by adding a quart or two quarts of water to one or three drops of mild tincture of iodine. (Approximately 3 per cent. iodine solution.) Shaking it up and letting it stand 15 minutes before drinking.

Municipal water everywhere is safe nowadays. So a tourist who will need drinking water between towns should carry a supply with him.

WORD OF POWER

"Thus saith the Lord."

How long has it been since you have heard any religious leader say anywhere speak in such terms as this? We generally look upon the prophets of the Old Testament as men who foretold things, and certainly some of them did foretell very important matters. But the Old Testament prophets were primarily preachers. They occasionally they foretold; continually they proclaimed. And their proclamations began with the words, with the words, "Thus saith the Lord."

We should never get the idea into our minds that because the Bible is a completed book, therefore all God's revelation has ceased. It has not, by any means. It goes on today as it has always gone on. The words, "Thus saith the Lord," are meant to be as vital in the life of today as they were in the days when God still speaks through men who put themselves in His hands with a surrendered skin, to that of the ancient prophets.

There is speaking to every one of us today. God will speak through every minister of every school teacher or parent who seeks the spiritual requirements, which are necessary for God's glory, His power and love.

"Thus saith the Lord." This is a mighty and eternal combination of words. As mighty now as ever. The significance of religion abides in its authority. Its truths must be handed from the power of God. "Thus saith the Lord."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In our traffic situation, we are already feeling automobile twinges and pains. Within calculable time, paralysis is going to catch up with us. One more year, or at the most during which we will see miles and miles of traffic brought to a halt on weekends for sometimes hours on end, and merely by reason of accidents that block the highways, but because of the congestion. Cars approaching on our big cities will be reduced to a crawl. The amount of pavement on which our vaunted horsepower can trot, much less gallop, for more than a mile, is now rapidly diminishing at a startling rate. Even the highways are not safe. Cars are shattered by the impact. Obviously the cartridge, probably loaded with a light charge of fine stalls, never leaves the gun," he says.

One of those named as having been killed when doing this trick was Chung Ling Soo, a Chinese magician who was not a Chinese at all, but a Scotsman. SCRAPS

The Face on the Stamp

Story of a Great Humanitarian

By Nicholas Mika

"Apostle of Charity" the world named a man who devoted his entire life to the poor and unfortunate ones. And though he died already three hundred years ago, his name is not forgotten, but is still shining like a bright star on a dark sky.

He was born in France in a little village. His father, realizing that he was an unusually gifted boy, sold his best cattle so that his son could study and become a priest. A brilliant student he worked hard to repay his father's sacrifice. Since he was charming, kind and good, he soon found patrons who helped him with money. At the early age of eighteen he was ordained. Eagerly he pledged himself as a servant to his fellow men.

Little did he know that he would not only be a servant as a priest but that he would be sold into slavery. It happened on a sea journey that he fell into the hands of pirates. Only the fact that he was constantly seasick saved him from having to work for the rest of his life on a fishing boat. His second master was a magician who taught him some of his tricks. One day when he was in need of money he sold him to a Frenchman who had forsaken his religion, held three wives and led a gay and wicked life. But when his new slave began to talk to him about God's love, he soon changed his ways and the priest won his freedom.

FORMED CHARITIES

Back in France he showed an unusual talent as an organizer. He had the gift of easily persuading rich and well-known people to give generously for charity. He was the first man in history who founded numerous charity organizations. To-day they are spread over the whole world, many still bearing his name, saving millions of people from starvation throughout the past centuries. Did you ever hear of the Sisters of Charity? This noble organization he started with three members, to-day there are over thirty thousand.

He went through the streets of Paris' slums searching for abandoned children, mercilessly left to their fate. And out of his love for these unfortunate ones he founded the world-famous Foundling Hospital in Paris which still to-day continues his work of mercy.

And aside from his hundred duties as a priest, he found time to reform the treatment of prisoners and organize homes for old people. One day in Marseille he met a bitterly crying mother whose son was condemned to galley-slavery. It is told that he searched for this man, put on two heavy chains, took the rudders in his hands and sent the prisoner home to his old mother.

HELPED ONE AND ALL

Tramps and vagabonds too he included in his loving care. "They are lonely people", he said and granted them free room and board for the night and when they left the next morning they found some money in their pocket to tide them over for the day.

When he was sixty four an accident in which he was thrown from his carriage nearly ended his life. He suffered agonizing pain for more than two years, but for his visitors he always had a cheerful word and his spirit was unbroken.

It lives on today in his manifold works of mercy. Pope Pius X canonized him. The world mentions his name humbly and in gratitude. His name is Vincent DePaul, but better known he is simply as Monsieur Vincent.

St. Vincent De Paul appeared on German stamps in 1952.

Overheating Has Numerous Causes

By EUGENE MILMOE

Clogged or leaky radiators, slipping fan belts, loose, worn or rotted water hose, rust-filled water passages, binding or high temperature thermostats, water pump wear — these are the first suspects when hot engine headaches persist. But the trouble spots are not always among this familiar group.

Overheating can be promoted by faulty carburetor of choke operation which results in a very lean mixture. Dirt or water in the fuel will produce the same effect.

Sometimes the real heat builder is late ignition timing, sluggish valves or a clogged exhaust. In other cases, it's hot spark plugs.

And did you know that using low octane gas in a high compression engine will encourage excess heat?

It's often difficult to find the cause, but you can detect engine cooling troubles before they become critical by keeping a watchful eye on the radiator water level and the temperature gauge.

D.M. writes: "What causes a chattering noise when my automatic transmission is in the Drive position? The car is a brand-new 1957 model."

(A) Incorrect band adjustments will cause this.

From N.O.: "I have a 1952 car that starts very hard when it's cold, refuses to start when it is hot and frequently stalls. Within the past few weeks I have installed new spark plugs, new points, a new coil, new condenser, new distributor rotor and a new distributor cap. The battery is fairly new and I have a rebuilt starter. I have had the timing checked recently. A new fuel pump and a rebuilt carburetor were installed to eliminate fuel problems. The engine burns no oil and the valves were ground about 8,000 miles ago. I am very discouraged and wonder if you can help."

(A) Assuming that the automatic choke has been checked, too, I'd say that a sticking manifold heat valve is probably to blame.

K.R. asks: "It's easy enough to start my standard shift 1951 car, but then I find it difficult to drive immediately. The car acts as if something were holding it back or as if the gas could not get through. After driving a short distance, it regains its normal pep. What causes this strange action?

(A) Here again, faulty choke operation is indicated, or a binding heat valve. Either can result in a fuel mixture which is temporarily too lean or too rich.

From A.G.: "I was getting too much of a spark knock, so I had the ignition timing retarded a bit. This took place last week and seems to have eliminated the knock, but yesterday I was told (not by a mechanic) that the engine suffers when the timing is retarded. Should I have it advanced again?

(A) The retarded timing, provided it's not too much, will slightly reduce top performance and gas mileage, but it will not hurt the engine. A heavy spark knock, however, can be very damaging.

SAFETY IS NO ACCIDENT

Be careful about your driving—Be sure about your car.

Cherry Prices Cut by a Cent

VINELAND (CP) — Negotiators representing Ontario cherry growers and processors agreed Thursday on minimum prices for the 1957 sweet cherry crop but failed to agree on a price for the largest sour cherry crop.

For white sweet cherries, the minimum price paid by processors this year will be 11 cents a pound and for black sweet cherries 12 cents. This is a reduction of one cent from last year.

The crop is about average size this year compared with one-third of average size in 1956.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Here's a Suggestion for the Boss: Keep Spot for Retired Employees

By THOMAS COLLINS

To those business firms that generously want to contribute to the Golden Years of their employees, here is a message:

Set up somewhere on the premises a room your retired people can come back to. Put in it a job they can do. Give them a key so they can come any hour of the day they want to and stay as long as they want. Then don't bother them.

This is rather a big order, but most business firms could manage it, what with the taxes, for a modest cost. There would be no tangible returns to the company ... unless perhaps some ideas or inventions came voluntarily out of the room to the boss.

Men and women face some problems when they go into retirement that the pension no matter how large, can't solve. One of these is a feeling of not belonging anywhere, and another is nowhere but the park to go.

SOMEWHERE TO GO

Women shut themselves up in their home in loneliness. Men retire around a daytime house that is strange to them, get in the way of their wives, and long for the companionship and the excuse of having somewhere to go.

Both the men and women lean with strong emotions toward the place where they worked. But never set much they want to go back and hang around, most of them have too much sense to do it.

Many business executives, even though humane, seldom realize how tragic these non-money problems are. If they did, they would do something to start. Here are some suggestions that may help:

1. The room, or "room," that is set aside would need no special trappings. Cement walls and the basement would do. There should be access to the room that does not pass by former co-workers ... to save the face of the pensioner and the efficiency of the worker.

2. There should be a job. The room to occupy the mind of the retired employee of this particular company. It is a factory, there should be machinery for turning out things, or maybe a machine tool for turning out machine parts. If this is an advertising agency, there should be drawing boards and pencils. If this is a wholesale or retail establishment, there should be books and literature on sales promotion, samples to study, but yesterday I was told (not by a mechanic) that the engine suffers when the timing is retarded. Should I have it advanced again?

Should I have it advanced again?

4. Keep the company nurse out of the place, unless she's called. Keep the eager beavers from the personnel department out. And don't let the company social director or anybody in a similar capacity get on the same floor. If the number of employees who come back is large enough, let some mature executive go down some morning and suggest they organize into some sort of club, with dinners. He'll be smart enough to start the ball rolling and leave.

5. Have somebody with a little sense keep an eye on what goes on in the refuge. Any day one of the retired employees — being beholden to nobody and letting his mind run free — may come up with an idea for making automobiles out of cabbage stalks. And make somebody a million dollars.

How do you know it can't happen? It's no more bizarre than television or atomic energy. And retired people are going to the cemetery every day with genius nobody ever discovered.

Pill Prevents Pregnancies

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—A pill which is practically 100-per-cent effective in preventing pregnancy has been developed by Prof. Gregory Pincus and co-workers at Worcester, Mass. Foundation for Experimental Biology, says the Stockholm newspaper Expressen.

The pill contains a synthetic hormone called 19-nor steroid. A daily dose of one pill taken orally prevented pregnancy in practically 100 per cent of the hundreds of women on whom it had so far been tested, the paper says.

An interesting secondary feature of the hormone, so far unexplained, was that it seemed to have the power to enable pregnancy to occur in previously sterile women who had achieved pregnancy.

Queen, Princess Enjoy Race at Royal Ascot

ASCOT, England (Reuter)—A handful of surprised Ascot track attendants and bookmakers Fri. witnessed the "royal horse race of the year"—between Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret.

The princess won by a head in an exciting finish — stakes unknown.

The Royal Family and their house guests, all dressed in informal riding clothes, unexpectedly went riding on the famed Ascot course in brilliant morning sunshine. They cantered around the track a few hours before the start of the fourth day of the meet.

As the party rounded the final bend, the Queen and her sister burst ahead in a little race of their own. Bookmakers and attendants in the deserted stands looked up in surprise.

They saw the royal sisters lean well forward in professional jockey style and go all out for the wire.

After Margaret was declared the winner, the royal party kept riding around to the far end of the track. Waiting limousines returned them to nearby Windsor Castle.

HAVE OPEN SEASON

KITCHENER (CP) — Waterloo County will have an open deer season this year. County council Thursday declared an open season providing the majority of surrounding councils do the same. No dates have been set and the decision was left to the department of lands and forests. Inspector Edward Meadows said seven out of 10 counties in the area had agreed.

Garden Notes

Recipes for Potpourri Jars

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

We seldom cater to our sense of smell via the garden in this fast moving age. Yet, our grandparents treasured perfumed plants and often made it a point to choose and plant fragrant plants, so they could preserve this perfume for household use.

Potpourri jars were objects of art as well as receptacles for a fascinating scent. It is a mixture of spice and summer rose gardens was sought to be dispensed like a perfume when guests were expected or idle fancy called for a whiff of June.

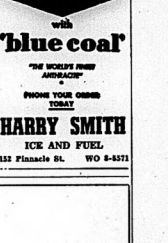
On yellow pages, in faded ink we find recipes which call for "One peck fresh rose petals." Rose petals were the base of most of these jars, but any fragrant flower may be used.

Gather the rose petals before the rose has fully opened. Do this in the morning after the dew has dried and before the heat of the sun has drawn out the perfume. Pick off the petals and spread to dry in a shady place, on a screen or newspaper. Pick a few tiny buds and add to the jar. A good circulation of air is needed to dry the petals quickly.

When the petals are fairly dry place in a jar with a light sprinkle of salt. Keep picking and drying petals and adding to jar with salt, until jar is filled to the top, stirring each day. Mix together one tablespoon freshly ground cloves, one tablespoon, (¼ oz.) of each of the following—ground mace, broken stick cinnamon, castile soap, dried lavender blossoms and powdered orris root. The druggist will supply the last two items, the grocer the others.

Take out the rose petals and mix in a bowl with the spices. Return to the jar and add a few drops of oil of bitter almond, or rose oil, or orange blossoms. Keep jar covered for two weeks to ripen. It is now ready for use. Take off the lid and shake contents to release scent. Never speak in a few minutes. The scent will last for years.

OTHER RECIPES



Another recipe calls for equal parts of scented geranium leaves, dried lavender blossoms and verbena blossoms. No other scent was added to this. It was used for potpourri jars and for sachet bags.

Stocks, sweet peas, mignonette, heliotrope, clove pinks, sweet William and carnations are suitable material for drying. Dry as rose petals, mix with a little salt, age and add spices and perfumed oil.

Another old recipe runs — "To four quarts of roses rose petals add two teaspoons salt and turn daily in airy room. When dry add the one ounce broken cinnamon bark, one grated nutmeg, one cup fresh basil, one small lavender blossoms, and leaves, one tablespoon anise seed, ten grains fine Canton musk, two grains ottis root, and one tablespoon each oil of bergamot, lavender, jassamine, violet and rosemary.

From a country dame we have a receipe for a sweet clover mixture. When the plant is in full bloom gather the plants in bunches and hang to dry in a breezy place. When dry strip off the blossoms and small leaves and crush fine. At the same time dry some scented geranium leaves and flowers from lemon verbena. Dry a few petals from delphiniums to give a pretty blue note to mix. (This is the only blue flower that retains its color when dry). Store in glass jar.

JUNIOR GOLF DANCE

The members of the Junior Golf section of the Quinte Golf and Country Club held their first dance, with 47 in attendance, last evening.

The prizes for the elimination dance were awarded to Beverley Durno and Don Deacon; spot dance, Don McNevin and Denise Anderson; Gary Bowerman and Barbara Toutkie.

Door prizes went to Tony Potter and Larry Regensburg.

So-Ed Club Holds 1st 'Blossom Ball'

The So-Ed Club held its first "Blossom Ball" recently at Tobe's County Gardens.

Complementing the occasion, the stage was decorated with numerous floral arrangements composed of peonies (most of which were generously donated by Mr. and Mrs. Don Stoughton), daisies, white anemones, hyacinth and fern. Multi-colored streamers and balloons decorated the ceiling and walls.

One of the notable characteristics of the occasion was that most of the ladies were in formal dress.

The winners of the first spot dance were Shirley Fradette and Colonel Lloyd. The second spot dance was won by Angela Sagriff and Joe Deryaw.

The King and Queen of the Ball, as chosen through an "elimination dance," were Penny Sampson and Earl Steckley. Miss Sampson was presented with a bouquet of red roses in honor of the event.

The music for the Blossom Ball was presented by Dan Falkman and his orchestra. Besides the usual ballroom dancing, a Palais Glide, a Gay Gordon, and a Virginia Reel lent added variety.

Due to the success of this first Blossom Ball, So-Ed plans to present its second Blossom Ball next spring.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

The equal pay for equal work status of women throughout the world is receiving much attention. Equal pay clauses are being included in collective bargaining agreements; national labor policies are taking note of women's rights; International Labor Organization has been working to eliminate discrimination; Australia has been the first countries to ratify their equal pay conventions were: Australia, Belgium, Dominican Republic, France, Mexico, and Yugoslavia.

France established minimum wage rates for men and women in 1945 and accepted the "equal pay for equal work" principle following year. Britain has accepted it for government workers, professional people and teachers, and steady pressure is being continued to obtain it for factory women of the United Kingdom. Only seven of the forty-eight states of the United States yet has laws requiring equal pay for equal work, whereas in Sweden it has long been taken for granted that women would be given equal rights for equal work. One wonders if it could be said that in no country or where women have had to struggle for the vote, they also have to struggle for equal pay for equal work the two factors reflect a national attitude about the status of women.

Social security is a little over seventy years old. The first compulsory social insurance act was in Germany and dates from 1883. At present there are five types of protection are: (1) Old age, invalidity and survivors insurance; (2) Health and Maternity (3) Workmen's compensation (4) Unemployment insurance (5) Family allowance. In 1935, three-fourths of the old age and survivors insurance programs were in Europe. But now, twenty years later, there are in addition, twelve systems in Latin America, four in the Near East, and two in the Far East. In Canada and Sweden, universal old age pensions are provided for everyone, regardless of income or need, if they merely meet certain age and residence requirements. The United States has extended Social Security to cover self-employed, many of the professional groups as well as industrial workers.

Over the past twenty years health and maternity programs have increased greatly throughout the world. Of particular interest to women have been the family allowance program develop ments. New Zealand, Belgium and France were the first to start this form of social security and, as we know, in Canada it has been accepted here as it has in other countries in one form or another. The present trend in social security seems to be towards comprehensive programs covering almost the entire population, rather than the many separate programs for different types of risks or groups of people.

The above is another in the series copied from the May bulletin of the U.N. New York City.

We expect that examinations are very much on the minds of many young Canadian boys and girls, T. and T. was reading a report of the warm personal welcome given Prime Minister Nehru of India when he visited Denmark on his way to the Commonwealth Conference which opens in London June 26. The P.M. was particularly interested in a high school he visited for boys and girls. The boys and girls are taught arts for six months with no examinations at the end of the term. The headmaster explained to his distinguished guest that emphasis was not on examinations, but rather on character-building and leadership. Mr. Nehru was so impressed that he told the students when he addressed them, he would like to have a similar school in India. Speaking about his own country, he said she possessed great traditions and also carried great burdens. He said that India was trying to retain what was great in her traditions while getting rid of some of the customs which obviously the unique high school left a deep imprint on the mind of its guest.

Subscribed to this typing and before T and T goes to press a new government will have had placed upon its shoulders the mantle of responsibility to the citizens of Canada. We read and hear often enough that we are living under the shadow of a "hair trigger and sickle" that may knock down or cut under civilization on a world-wide scale and reduce most of a few short decades ago.

Any government today carries a heavy burden of responsibility in the twentieth century. In a few thoughts on civilization, the civilization in which we live and have our being, we turn again to our old friend Dr. Albert Schweitzer for this weekend thought: "Our civilization is going through a severe crisis: The disastrous feature of our civilization is that it is far more developed materially than spiritually. Its balance is disturbed. The essential element in civilization is a habit of thought: What then is civilization? It is the sum total of all progress made by man and the individual and moral progress of action and from every point of view, in so far as this progress is directed toward the spiritual perfecting of individuals as the progress of all progress: It is evident that the ethics required for civilization have gone out of use." And so in this critical stage of civilization, we trust the destiny of Canada falls into hands which can join with Abraham Lincoln in "Let us have faith that right is might; and in that faith let us to the end, dare to do our duty as we understand it."

Pot-Luck Supper Ends Season of Holloway F.C.

The Fellowship Club of Holloway Street United Church wound up its spring meetings with an enjoyable pot-luck supper. There was a splendid turnout of members and all enjoyed the bounteous array of delectable food. Fun and good fellowship reigned supreme and as always it was a joy to get together.

The highlight of the evening was a presentation made to one of the club's most valued members, Miss Minnie Hamilton, who will certainly be missed, but she is assured of the best of all good things in the days to come.

Mrs. Earl White, a life-long friend, made the presentation and expressed the thoughts of the club, to which Minnie made appropriate reply.

A short business period was held during which it was decided to give a donation to the Vacation Bible School and the club is paying for additional trays and glasses to enlarge the church committee set. A delicious rundown of what has been done with money during the past ten years showed generous donations to the choir, Sunday School, the young women's missionary auxiliary, a donation every fall to the M. and M. fund, as well as to the Salvation Army and Red Cross.

This past year has been most worthwhile, spiritually, in Bible study under the direction of the Rev. T. F. Townsend, and these classes have continued in the fall. Mr. Townsend closed the supper meeting with prayer. Members parted for the summer with wishes to everyone for an enjoyable vacation.

Better Know Your Road Signs Before Motoring This Summer

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

If, like most of us, your off-season travels have been confined to cruising to and from work or out into the country for dinner once a month, you may find our burgeoning highway system has left your experience a little behind.

Here, then, is a run-down on some of the less familiar highway markings, signs, and directions you may encounter this summer.

The age of turnpikes and toll roads frequently confuse those who have not been on them before. Largely because they are non or limited-access roads. This means, simply, that you can't get on or off them or stop for food and gas except at designated places.

Making sure you have enough fuel in your tank and stomach is a matter of common sense, but figuring where to get on and off the road at the most convenient places is as important as deciding at what station you're going to get off the train when you can't get off between stations and you can't turn around if you miss your stop.

The main thing to remember about these exits and entrances, or interchanges as they would be on some roads, is that they do not all look alike every road they cross. Most road maps indicate where there are exits, but some do not, or are not clear.

Thus it is best, when getting on to the road, to look at the toll gate whether there is an exit where you propose to get off and, if not, what the nearest one would be.

The toll collectors are veritable gold mines of information, usually, and can tell you such things as which exits offer the best choice of motels (there are none on the highways) and how conditions are ahead. Sometimes they have printed information folders on these subjects.

NUMBER MARKS EXIT

With all this information you still have to stay alert. Exits are usually marked by numbered signs on the road indicating an exit coming up usually note the exit number at this larger cities the exit serves, and frequently the number of the adjoining route.

But, and an important one, it may not have the numbers on other nearby routes and smaller towns, one of which you may be looking for. The trend is toward less detailed information on direction signs, so it's well to keep your mind made up about which exit you're going to use. Your toll card indicates how far it is and will be marked and numbered so you'll know what to watch for.

Bear in mind, too, that some large cities are served by two or more exits. Your road map should indicate which is nearest for you.

All toll turnpikes have traffic directed signs which are by unique markers, usually colored, posted on roads throughout the area. If you're not sure whether there's an interchange where you plan to get on, you should keep your way just by pointing the car in the logical direction and following the special markers.

A few signs you may or may not find in your part of the country:

"Yield Right Of Way" — There replace stop signs at some intersections and mean that you should be prepared to stop for traffic crossing your path.

"To Route ——" — Occasionally roads bear only other going through cities but do not intersect, or intersect at out-of-the-way locations for the motorist. This sign indicates a short cut from where you are to the other route.

"Belt," "Loop," "Bypass," or "Alternate" usually mean, with the occasional exception of "Alternate," about the same thing: clear road through or around a city. Sometimes these carry so much traffic local motorists would just as soon suffer through the city streets, but generally they are designed to speed you on your way.

In some places "Alternate" is the one that goes through the city so when you come to the point where it branches off from the main route, inquire at a filling station if your road map is not clear on the subject.

STICK TO MAIN ROAD

"Truck Route" — Trucks generally are directed through a city over nonresidential and frequently rougher streets. Usually it will pay you to stick to the main road.

"Safe Speed——m.p.h." Sometimes sign is a traffic engineer's overly conservative guess as to how fast you can take a curve, sometimes it's right on the button. If you don't know the road, there's no reason in taking a chance.

A few other things to watch: If you see a traffic light and a stop sign at the same intersection, the stop sign is observed only when the light isn't working.

If you get in heavy city traffic unfamiliar branches off in direction at intersections, be careful to stay in your proper lane. You may be forced to turn in the wrong direction or risk an accident by cutting someone off should you wander from the straight and narrow.

To speed you through cities and help you spot your route signs under distractions, many cities now post the markers in different colors for different routes.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU CAN GET HELP WITH THIS PROBLEM ...

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I've been married for eight years.

Up until the last year, I was very happy with my husband and we always got along wonderfully. But now he has started drinking. I've tried to correct home with a few drinks in him he becomes very disagreeable. Also, I've had to give up going anywhere with him because, when we go to a party, he will drink too much and make a fool of himself so that I get sick from being so humiliated and upset.

I'm naturally a very sociable person, and so is my husband, and we have a lot of friends, so now I'm now very lonely and unhappy because this situation is cutting us off from good times we used to have with others.

What is your advice?

— Mrs. R.T.

Dear Mrs. R.T.:

In the big city near which you live there is a branch of a national organization whose purpose is to help wives, or anyone else who needs this kind of help, that is working out just such a problem as yours. The name of the organization is Alcoholics Anonymous. And if you will look in the city telephone book you'll find it listed there, so you can call or make an appointment to discuss this problem with someone who will know exactly what you're going through.

I urge you to do this immediately, before the problem gets any worse. You can get from them practical suggestions on just how you should go about dealing with your husband so that he may eventually come to realize the harm he's doing, not only to himself, but to you, and want to live so that your old companionship with each other, and with your friends, can be recaptured.

TRY AGAIN, BUT CAREFULLY

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

For about eight months I was with a girl with whom I was very much in love. Then, six months ago, I broke off with her. The reason was because I didn't make very much money, had no car, and didn't feel she was the kind of time I felt she must be wanting.

Almost immediately after breaking off with her, however, I realized I did the wrong thing, because if she really liked me as I liked her, we would have been content with what I could do for her. She probably was, too because she never made any complaints or refused any dates with me. I guess it was my own silly pride that made the trouble.

Now I'd like to get in touch with her and see if we could pick things up where I broke them off, but I know by going with some-one else, and I don't know whether it would be right for me to try to horn in.

Ken 23 and she's 21. — Henry

Dear Henry:

I don't suppose there's any rule that says you didn't have the right to try for this girl if you want to, and if she hasn't become engaged to this other fellow. But you'll better realize that it would be only natural if she hesitated about getting out with you again for fear you might break off with her a second time. It might have been a pretty hard for her to go through that experience with you once.

You don't say whether or not you made it clear to her why you broke off with her, so if you do decide now to try and get her interested in you again, be perfectly frank with her right in the beginning and explain just how the whole thing came about and how you came to realize what a mistake you'd made. I suggest that you put this explanation in a letter and send it to her before asking for a date, rather than ask for a date first, with the intention of making the explanation when you see her. If you ask for the date first, she might refuse, while if you send the letter, you'll quickly find out whether or not she wants to see you again, because if she doesn't she'll ignore the letter.

GIVE THIS BOY SOME PLAIN TALK ...

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

My boy friend is 17 years of age and I'm 16.

He has a car, and all he ever wants to do is to park and see how far he can go with me. My girl friend says I should drop him but I really like him.

I'm all mixed up and really want to know what to do, so could you help me? — P.B.

Dear P.B.:

Tell your boy friend frankly that you like him and want to have him as a friend you can enjoy being with, but that you won't stand for any nonsense. Then have the strength of character to guide yourself thereafter by the way he acts towards you.

In other words, if he changes his behavior and treats you as a

CLEANLINESS THE MOST IMPORTANT FACTOR IN COMPLEXION BEAUTY

With only 15 minutes for a complete character and costume change, actress Margaret Leighton still takes time to wash her face between acts.

Maybe you think at times that so-called beauty experts place too much emphasis on the importance of soap and water in the care of the complexion; too much emphasis, too, on the value of daily baths as a health and beauty builder. And yet the importance of cleanliness can not be overrated, as any reputable dermatologist would tell you. Cleanliness is all-important in any health and beauty regime. Even the simplest washing is an absolute must if you'd retain the radiant complexion of your youth. Have fun, if you want, with all the creams and lotions on the market; have fun with all the new cosmetics. They'll do wonders for you, it's true. But before you use them, get those poor old over-worked pores really clean with a good wash cloth and plenty of lather.

Maybe you think you haven't got time to wash your face. You have to wash up the luncheon dishes, stop at the grocery, at the post office, return the library books and pick up the children at school So you hurry, scurry, scurry — and you honestly believe you haven't time to find the basic beauty work go. "GAMEST FISH THAT SWIMS"

Monday, July 1, marks the opening of the bass season, a period when the fisherman who likes a fight will earn every pound of fish he hooks.

Bay of Quinte waters are noted for bass. This in itself is enough to make the true fisherman jump for joy.

Percy Ketcheson, a native of Belleville, now writing an outdoor column for Carling's, is a strong believer in the bass' fighting reputation.

In a recent edition of his "Ketch's Korner" he commented at length on the subject.

Here are Mr. Ketcheson's timely views on the situation:

* * *

"Inch for inch and pound for pound the gamest fish that swims." Back in 1881 Dr. Henshall, writing in his Book of the Black Bass made this statement and in all the intervening years, I am doubtful if anyone has been able to successfully challenge that statement.

"Black Bass (Micropterus dolomieu) is a pugnacious looking customer and his looks are a definite clue to his character. His actions are unpredictable, which in great measure accounts for his reputation as the most sought after fish in the anglers' book.

"His distribution is widespread, almost any habitable stream or lake in North America has a fair population of either of the two species, smallmouth or largemouth bass, and don't take any heed of that old chestnut that the largemouth are the females.

"His choice of waters are the warmer ones but being so unpredictable one is liable to find him in the colder waters normally considered trout waters.

"His diet, likewise, is varied but when available consists of almost 50% crayfish although minnows, bugs, grasshoppers, birds, mice, young muskrat, frogs, worms, leeches or anything that looks at all edible he does not despise.

"In all probability this varied diet coupled with his pugnacious disposition is mainly responsible for the angling success of the myriads of lures offered to the fisherman. At times anything that may throw at him will get a rise; but at other times, no matter what you may tempt him with, all you get for your pains is a disdainful bass sneer, as temperamental as any prima donna in this respect. But it is quite a different story when he is on the 'feed.' Oh boy! Action then is swift and hard. I have often experienced this trait, he will strike like mad and in no time one could take a limit catch, then, as though someone in bass command pulled the whistle cord for quitting time, he quits, and nothing you can do will get a rise out of him.

* * *

"Poppa Bass is the head of the family, baby sitter included. When the biological urge and water temperatures are right, he starts to construct his redd or nest, which may consist of a hollowed-out space on the bottom in sand, pebbles or even silt. Here he waits cruising about and overlording his domain until Mrs. Bass shows up as she undoubtedly will. Not only one but perhaps several Mrs. Bass will be attracted to his home.

"With a display like a strutting peacock the nuptials are confirmed and the business of laying eggs and fertilization begins. Then, true to his role of overlord, he drives the female away and begins his vigil of guarding the eggs and fanning them to give them oxygen to complete the cycle.

"This goes on until about a week elapses from the time the eggs are hatched and the youngsters are able to feed themselves. Then he must guard them from mouthing of young bass are just what he needs to assauge his own hunger. Let anything come near his nest at this time and a fury of wrath will be upon it, be it any predator or an angler's lure.

"It is the period when he is most vulnerable to attack and any angler who experiences this fury will be certain to agree with Dr. Henshall's statement that "Inch for inch and pound for podnd the gamest fish that swims."

Chuck Stobbs Changes Shirt To Break Losing Streak of 16 Games; Cards Forge Ahead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Von McDaniel, an 18-year-old righthander just four weeks out of high school left Brooklyn Dodgers blanked and blinking Friday night.

The newest St. Louis Cardinal phenomenon has yet to give up a run in National League competition. He stretched his shutout string to 17 innings Friday night by stopping Brooklyn on a two-hitter in his first starting assignment, and as a result the Cardinals now lead the pack by 1 ½ games.

The bonus kid, lured to the Cards from Hollis, Okla. by a $50,000 pact, as was his brother Lindy in 1955, hasn't faced any one but contenders in the hot NL race. His debut was a one-hit, four-inning relief bit for no decision against Philadelphia last week. He won his first start in a relief inning, one-hit relief job at Brooklyn Sunday.

Now he has a 2-0 record and has given up just four hits.

BRAVES' OUTPUTBURS

While the Cardinals were winning their fourth in a row, the second-place Milwaukee Braves suffered their fifth defeat in six games, losing to Philadelphia 6-1. The Phils moved into third place, two games back, as Cincinnati slipped to fourth with a 3-2, 11-inning loss to Pittsburgh. The Redlegs are 2 ½ behind. Fifth-place Brooklyn is 3 ½ back.

New York Giants out-walloped Chicago Cubs 12-5 in 15 innings for their eighth victory in 10 games.

The Dodgers picked Danny McDevitt, who struck out 11 in winning his first major league start in Cincinnati last Monday, to oppose McDaniel and he limited the Cards to four hits by Eddie Bressoud for his seven frames. The southpaw lasted 6 innings, issued a less run in the sixth on two walks, a sacrifice and an infield out. The Cards had their first hits and Stan Musial's hit streak was stopped at 23 games.

Both Brooks hits came in the sixth, when an error was scored when Gil Hodges hit an infield hit and Duke Snider's bunt single to load the bases. Snider was out McDaniel then got Elmer Valo on a tap to the mound.

RELIEF ACE STRIKE AGAIN

The Phillies, who had just one hit in beating Lew Burdette 1-0 Thursday, slugged 12 hits while shelling Milwaukee righthander to his fourth defeat. Rookie Ed Bouchee drove in five runs on Curt Simmons, Sunday's winner, repeated with an eight-hitter. He fanned five.

Hank Foiles drove in two Phillie runs, singling for the ninth relief reliever Hal Jeffcoat. Bob Purkey won it, after the Bucs had tied it in the ninth on Joe Nuxhall's wild pitch. Wally Post's two-run homer had put Cincinnati in front.

The Giants scrambled from behind with a five-run ninth, capped by rookie Andre Rodgers' first major league grand slammer, only to see the Cubs score four in their half to tie it 10-10. Then Danny O'Connell's RBI single, Thomson, the ex-Braves, put it away with homers in the 10th.

Marathon Swim Cut Down to Fifteen Miles

OWEN SOUND (CP)—The international marathon swim planned for Aug. 5 during this city's centennial homecoming week has been advanced to Aug. 3.

The city council-appointed committee in charge also has set the swim distance at 15 miles instead of 28. Contestants will swim in a five-mile triangle close to the shore of Owen Sound Bay to afford spectators a good view.

The committee announced Friday it has "severed connections" with Toronto promoter Steve Melors.

It appointed George Wakeford, centennial committee general chairman, to go to Toronto to consult with other swim promoters.

Chuck Stobbs Changes Shirt To Break Losing Streak of 16 Games; Cards Forge Ahead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chuck Stobbs, the likeable 28 year - old Washington southpaw, ditched his own No. 18 shirt and came out wearing No. 1 Friday night. Then he whipped Cleveland Indians 6-3 to break a personal losing streak of 16 games.

Stobbs, whose string of losses began last September, had the moral support of a delegation from Virginia, his home state, who took a rabbit to the Washington ball park. And the first 3,200 fans to enter were rewarded from the management a rabbit's foot and a lucky coin as part of an anti-hex stunt night.

Meanwhile the Yankees won their eighth in a row, while the Chicago White Sox' lead to a half-game with a 6-5 victory. Boston beat Kansas City 4-3 and Detroit lost its fourth in a row, 6-5 at Baltimore.

VITAL SERIES

The Yankees took the opener of the showdown set with the White Sox. Tony Kubek's fifth hit in the fourth with the help of a neat three-inning mop-up job by Bob Grim. Enos Slaughter, Bobby Richardson and Mickey Mantle each had two hits in an eight-hit attack against righthander Jim Wilson, who lost his fourth. Kucks squeezed by with a 3-2, 11-inning relief job on Pittsburgh. The Redlegs are 2 ½ behind. Fifth-place Brooklyn is 3 ½ back.

New York Giants out-walloped Chicago Cubs 12-5 in 15 innings for their eighth victory in 10 games.

The Dodgers picked Danny McDevitt, who struck out 11 in winning his first major league start in Cincinnati last Monday, to oppose McDaniel and he limited the Cards to four hits by Eddie Bressoud for his seven frames. Montreal Bout Between Durelle, Anthony on Tap

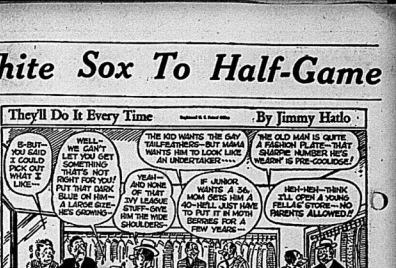
MONTREAL (CP) — Promoter Eddie Quinn said Friday he is trying to set up a Montreal bout between Yvon Durelle and Archie Moore for the world light-heavyweight championship or a rematch between Durelle and Tony Anthony.



Moore has said he would like to fight either Durelle of Bale St. Anne, N.B., or Anthony, the man ranked as the leading contender for the crown. Durelle and Anthony battled to a draw in December last week.

NEW YORK (AP)—The manager of Tony Anthony says he has offered Archie Moore, light heavyweight champion, a guarantee of $60,000 or the privilege of 40 per cent of the gate for a world title bout.

Ernie Braca, Anthony's manager, also has been mentioned.

Moore has just returned from a tour of Europe, and both the National Boxing Association and the World Committee on Professional Boxing in Paris have threatened to vacate his title unless he signs for a bout with Anthony. The NBA recently suspended Moore.

Braca said he would agree that if Anthony won the title, Moore could take 45 per cent of the gate with a provision that there would be a return bout within 90 days in which the boxers would split the gate on a 30-30 basis.

Toronto Leafs Half-Game Out Of First Place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Ricketts boys—Dick and Dave—are together again, this time on a baseball diamond instead of a basketball court.

In 1954-55 when the pair played basketball for Duquesne it was Dick Dave feeding to big brother Dick. Now the order is reversed as they form a winning pitcher-catcher combination for the International League Rochester Red Wings.

Dave, a rookie, was behind the plate Friday night as brother Dick came within one out of pitching the first no-hitter of the season, as the Red Wings edged the skidding Richmond Virginians 2-0. A bloop single by Len Johnson with two down in the ninth was the spoiler.

LEAFS CLOSE TO VEES

While the Virginians dropped their third in a row and their sixth in seven starts, Toronto Maple Leafs moved to within a half-game of the leaders by defeating Havana Sugar Kings 4-2. Columbus Jets romped to a 9-3 victory and then dropped the nightcap of a doubleheader to Buffalo Bisons, 2-0. And Miami Marlins dropped Montreal Royals further from their second-place position with an 11-5 trouncing.

Dick Ricketts faced only 32 batters, walking three and fanning four. Dave started the Red Wings rally in the eighth with a booming triple to right center. Coales making his fifth bid for his eighth victory, was the loser. He gave up only five hits and issued no walks.

Mike Goliat's three-run homer in the fourth inning for Toronto enabled Humberto Robinson to pick up his 11th victory against two defeats. Goliat's seventh, followed two consecutive singles. The homer, Goliat's tenth, followed two walks and two bases on balls by losing pitcher Jerry Lane. Wilty Quinlan's three-run homer in the fifth gave the Sugar Kings their runs. Robinson reeded help from Bob Tiefenauer in the eighth.

FOURTH-PLACE TIE

The split with Buffalo dropped the Jets into a fourth-place tie with Rochester, 6 ½ games behind Richmond. Ex-Jet Bunny Hinton Al Grunwald overwhelmed the third place Bisons in the opener. The southpaw gave up seven hits and had three hits and two runs batted in. Buffalo lefthander Rip Coleman scattered four Jet singles in the nightcap.

Gene Snyder, with some fine relief help from Tom Qualters, got credit for his fourth victory as the Rochester Red Wings rapped Richmond hurlers for 18 safeties. Royals' pinch hitter Jim Gentile poled a two-run homer.

Warm Weather Responsible For Unusual Bird Influx

By STAN PERRY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP)—Cool Atlantic breezes lure most human tourists to Nova Scotia for a summer vacation. But warm weather is responsible for the sudden influx of unusual birds seen recently in the woodlands of the province.

Charles Allen, of the Nova Scotia Museum of Science here, says an "unusual warm front" extending from Eastern Canada down the Atlantic seaboard to the southern United States provided a warm path for the winged migrants.

Although most of the birds have been identified by birdwatchers and lands and forests officials, there are still a few whose identities remain a mystery to amateur ornithologists.

EASILY IDENTIFIED

There is no mistaking the robin-sized mocking bird, however. Its jumbled cry, a mocking hodgepodge of the calls of birds it hears, gives the darting bird its name.

Of the more stately visitors, few are more impressive than the snow egret. Standing little taller than the crow and resembling the heron, the egret wears a gleaming white coat. Its long black legs and yellow "feet" are reminiscent of the thin-legged freshman making his first bid for the college track team.

Another of the flamboyant towhee, about the size of a sparrow, with a black back and tail, red sides and a white belly.

There have been reports from Cape Breton, indicating that the near extinct whooping crane may have soared over the Nova Scotia highlands. Mr. Allen says the reports are "highly improbable." For the birds to appear here is unlikely because their normal migration route runs over the Mississippi Valley and the Canadian Prairies.

The latest report of the whooper came from the eastern tip of Cape Breton where a motorist saw a large white bird and took it for the rare bird. Mr. Allen said "I'd put my money on the probability that it is a wood ibis."

There is room for confusion in the identity of the two birds. The wood ibis is about the same size as the whooping crane and both belong to the heron family. The birds also are identical to the extent they both have large white wings with black tips.

The whooping crane, however, has a featherless red head and neck and forebrow of brilliant red. The crane's beak is also much longer than that of the wood ibis.

Mr. Allen said the wood ibis could be termed North America's answer to the European stork. But whatever species the bird is, an appearance by either in Cape Breton is unusual. Both like warmer climates.

There were two separate reports of the bird.

Rory Calhoun Upsets Dope By Draw With Joey Giambra

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—A title bout was in the making today between middleweight contenders Joey Giambra and Rory Calhoun following their bruising battle to a 10-round draw.

If the rematch is anything like the "tear" they waged Friday night, fight fans will be in for a treat. Both fighters were winded at the last round although some of the punches landed would have felled most other middleweights.

A "do or die" rally in the last round enabled the 24-year-old Giambra to protect his unbeaten streak of nine and his fourth place ranking among the contenders.

Told by his handlers that he had to win the last round to get the nod, the rangy San Francisco standout hit a 22-year-old rival early in the round with a terrific right to the jaw to gain the draw.

Both officials were split as many ways. Judge Mick Gambill had Giambra, who is 23, the winner, 6-4. Referee Ruby Goldstein voted for Calhoun, 5-4. Judge Frank Forbes had it even, 4-4 in rounds and five points for each. The Associated Press had Calhoun, 6-4.

Matchmaker Billy Brown sought immediately to match Giambra with Calhoun. Both fighters were agreeable but Giambra said he wants to take a month's vacation first.

"Boy, he's sure rough and tough," said Giambra, a native of Buffalo who has shifted to the west coast.

Calhoun, sixth ranking contender, thought he won by a big margin.

"I forced the fight all the way but he only fought in spurts," said Calhoun.

Calhoun outweighed his rival 159 to 157 ¾.

Referee Maxwell Rules No Contest When Bout Ends in Wild Slugfest

By GARRY ALEXANDER

"No contest" was the decision handed down last night by referee Jerry Maxwell as the main bout of the weekly Memorial Auditorium card ended in a wild slugfest outside the ring.

The combo of Fritz Von Erich and Hardboiled Haggerty earned themselves the title "Kings of the Badmen" as they battled and slugged it out with popular Pat O'Connor and his singing sidekick, Farmer Boy.

Last night's third fall lasted just three minutes. The Erich-Haggerty team played a two-on-one game all night and they succeeded in trapping Farmer Boy on the floor in the deciding set. He was battling back but surely sinking under the flurry of blows my while the crowd milled around. O'Connor finally pushed his way past the Maxwell bulk to join his buddy. The four grappled in the ring and finally Mr. Maxwell and the battle continued while police attempted to hold the spectators.

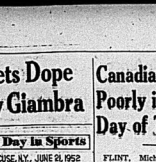
BIBH and Fritzie scrambled back into the ring with arms raised in the victory sign but Big Bert hoisted himself up and waved his arms about indicating no decision.

STOOD, FELL TOGETHER

Wild action and excitement featured the first fall. Aroff from start to finish and had the fans in an uproar. The two teams appeared to believed that "together we stand and divided we fall". They stood together all right but at that they fell often when Patrick and the Farmer became riled.

Farmer Boy took a heap of punishment to open the first fall but to finally come back with a proper 'ell out of both the villains. They combined to nail the rugged Farmer with a flying dropkick and pinned before O'Connor could get his fourth assist. Patrick took a beating too but the two-to-one odds were just a little too much. A series of knee drops by Erich with Haggerty holding Farmer down gave the "dirty" guys the first fall in eleven minutes.

Boots started the wild scenes of Haggerty and Erich again in the second. They trampled O'Connor until he staged but he came back to floor the sneering Germans with a terrific right. Farmer Boy took over and appeared to have Haggerty pinned until Erich kicked him off.



Action never slackened as the boys took turns at giving out the punishment. Pat O'Connor evened things at one fall each after nine minutes of fierce fritz wrestling, bouncing each other off the ropes when the hero would hit his foes. He held a reverse cradle off the ropes, to pin the flailing Erich's shoulders.

RUTHLESS PAIR

The Haggerty - Erich combination is definitely one of the most ruthless to show here in many a moon. The faithful will be the first to say to see this pair back, hoping to see the boys get what's coming to them.

Last night's preliminary was another crowd - pleaser. A battle "royal" took place between Prince Malava and Baron Calhoun. The Baron was disqualified when he threw a haymaker on Referee Maxwell's kisser but not until after 14 minutes of fun.

The Baron's long hair proved interesting to Malava as the Prince felt it with gentleness then Belleville rink.

Ontario Horses Win Three Top Places in Race

MONTREAL (CP)—True Jack and Mr. Dean took the co-feature and $1,500 races Friday night at Blue Bonnets.

Miss Buck paid $32.50, $12.80 and $6.70. Mr. Dean paid $6.60, $5.50 and $3.20.

Ontario horses took the top three places in the $600 fourth race. Walter G. from Goderich was first, driven by Pete Miller; Victor Chief from Norwich second and Sugar Beet from Owen Sound third.

A Columbus horse, George Rambler, driven by John Hayes, captured the $600 D pace. Phyllis Hanover was first finished second and Ben Lyford Cay in the $7,500 Woodbine Mile Friday night but settled for the $10,000 Canadian Maple Leaf Mile. It was the second installed as "morning line" favorites.

The cuban jockey won the first four races of the afternoon, all favorites. He took the first with Gordon Rose, the second with Cuban Colator, the third with Goodwin and the fourth with Our Sirdar. Connor scored finished third on Finical in the sixth but was moved up to second when Gordon Rose's ley was disqualified. The race was won by King Maple which equalled the record of 2:01 4-5 for a mile and one sixteenth. King Maple is Canada's "horse of the year" in 1953, paid $33.60.

Pembroke Race Won by Horse Paying $33.80

OTTAWA (CP)—Authentic, an Oxen Sound horse driven by Wally Simmons, won the one-mile Pembroke Pace at Connaught Park Friday. Star Direct from Walkerton Falls, driven by Morley Fleet, was third. Authentic paid $33.20, $12.60 and $7.30.

The final race of the day, the one-mile D pace went to Glar Hanover, driven by Dick Johnson.

Silver Wally, a Morrisburgh horse, driven by Jim Zerner, was the winner of the one-mile D trot. Winner Lawrence from Hagersville was third.

Dictator, from Stratford, driven by A. Holmes, won the fifth race, a D pace, and Danny All Patch from Cobourg was third.

The night's first race, a Detroit-bred filly named by Wymary's Jay from Windermere, with Golden P. Express from Westboro third.

In the third race, a D pace, by Billy Mohone of Millbrook was second, driven by Steel Craig, and third, Valiant Lee, of Oshawa third, driven by Russell Smith.

ORIOLES CAPTURE ROOKIE

BALTIMORE (AP)— Baltimore Orioles announced Friday they have signed pitcher Stephen L. Dalkowski of New Britain, Conn. The club said the 5-11, 170-pound lefthander was signed to a Vancouver contract and optioned to Kingsport, Tenn., in the class D Appalachian League. He is 18.

Canadians Fare Poorly in Second Day of Tourney

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—The so-called underdogs among the touring golf professionals were a step ahead of the big names today as the $17,000 Flint Open entered its position round.

Bob Rosburg of San Francisco hiked his lead to four strokes at the halfway mark Friday, adding a 69 to his first-day 68. Par for the 6,625-yard course is 71.

His most serious challengers were from the younger set. Bob Duden of Hermosa Beach, Calif., Bert Weaver of Beaumont, Tex., and Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, along with the veteran Ted Kroll, were deadlocked for second place at 132.

Ken Venturi, Paul Harney and young Don Whitt were another deadlocked bunch.

BALDING, LEONARD SLIP

Al Balding of Toronto, who was tied for second place after Thursday's round with a 67, climbed to 73 for 139. Stan Leonard of Vancouver, Canada's other pro entry, also had a 73 for 141 total.

Other Canadians were: Lyle Crawford, Vancouver, 73-72—146; Rudy Horvath, Windsor, 81-72—154; Gordon Brydson, Toronto, 75-79—154.

Although Horvath and Brydson were out of the top 90 scorers, both remain in competition for a special $1,000 purse for Canadian pros.

The other Canadians are in the running for both the special prize and the main tournament reward.

Marlene Stewart Streit Top Canadian Woman Golfer

TORONTO (CP)—Marlene Stewart Streit of Fonthill is Canada's top woman golfer but Rae Mills of Sarnia, Alta., came close enough to make things interesting whenever the two meet.

Marlene won the Ontario ladies championship Friday for the second year in a row but she had a battle to beat Miss Milligan 2 and 1 in the final.

Mrs. Streit, who also holds the Canadian and U.S. titles and is a former British champion, now has beaten Miss Milligan nine of her last nine times they have met.

TWO UP AT TURN

Marlene took the lead by winning the 13th hole when Miss Mills put into the trees and had to use up a stroke, getting out. But Miss Milligan came back to take three holes in a row with two birdies and a par to make the turn with a two-hole margin.

On the ninth Miss Milligan was 3 off with the second shot and Marlene was one. The Ontario girl also took the next four with a birdie and pars to close out the match and lead with five to play.

Miss Milligan made things exciting by taking the 14th and 15th to reduce the margin to one hole. She also had a chance to take the first a birdie. They halved the hole in par 4s and then Miss Milligan's tee shot was carried into the trees by the wind and ended on the 6 foot mark. Marlene against Marlene's two. Mrs. Streit won when she sank a 20-foot putt, leaving close to the pin and dropping her next shot as Miss Milligan missed a six-footer.

BOTH IN TROUBLE

The two players had trouble with what are normally the strong points of their games. Miss Milligan had difficulty with short approaches and chips to the green while Mrs. Streit found trouble in the tee were off several times.

The only time Miss Milligan has been ahead was in the second round of the Ontario at Burlington in 1954 but Marlene went on to win the title. Marlene has been beaten twice in the Canadian championship.

In the final of the second flight consolation, Mrs. Ann Robinson, St. George's, defeated Barbara Hammerly, Lawrence, 4 and 1. In the fourth flight consolation, Mrs. B. W i l l i a m s on, Peterborough, defeated Mrs. Pat Fountain, Mississauga, 1 up. The fifth flight consolation went to Mrs. Ted Hall of Vicar, Guelph Cutten, conqueror of Mrs. B. Smith, Barrie, 5 and 4.

Sixth flight winner was Mrs. T. Brooks, Orillia.

Avelino Gomez Rides 5 Winners At Woodbine

TORONTO (CP)—Avelino Gomez, the pocket rocket, rode five winners at New Woodbine Friday. He had only two other mounts but finished first on both of those. He has won 18 races in five days of racing this week and has 41 winners in the first 17 days of the New Woodbine meeting.

Gomez' five victories mistakenly closed his afternoon's work by announcing his retirement for the other good day Saturday. He rides Lyford Cay in the $7,500 Woodbine Mile and Our Sirdar in the $10,000 Canadian Maple Leaf Mile. Both are listed as "morning line" favorites.

The cuban jockey won the first four races of the afternoon, all favorites. He took the first with Gordon Rose, the second with Cuban Colator, the third with Goodwin and the fourth with Our Sirdar. Connor scored finished third on Finical in the sixth but was moved up to second when Gordon Rose's ley was disqualified. The race was won by King Maple which equalled the record of 2:01 4-5 for a mile and one sixteenth. King Maple is Canada's "horse of the year" in 1953, paid $33.60.

B.C. All-Stars May Play as Soccer Unit

TORONTO (CP)—Pacific coast players are expected to be used exclusively tonight when Canada makes its first soccer start in competition against the United States.

Sixteen players—11 from British Columbia, four from Toronto and one from Calgary—have been selected for the Canadian team, first ever to play in the world championships.

Canadian officials feel, however, that since the team has always made such an impressive showing against Scotland's Hotspur, leading the English League club 2-0 in a recent exhibition, they should play as a unit, at least in the first game of the world tourney.

Today's game against Kuiu of St. Louis is the first in a four-game round-robin. Immediately after the match, the Canadians will leave by plane for Mexico City to play Mexico June 30 and three days later, on July 4. On the return trip they will play their second game against the Americans.

The 14 coast players arrived Friday by air and the whole team was out on a two-hour two-hour workout a short time later.

Manager Billy Simpson and coach Dave Turner from Hagersville was third.

Dictator, from Stratford, driven by A. Holmes, won the fifth race, a D pace, and Danny All Patch from Cobourg was third.

The night's first race, a Detroit-bred filly named by Wymary's Jay from Windermere, with Golden P. Express from Westboro third.

In the third race, a D pace, by Billy Mohone of Millbrook was second, driven by Steel Craig, and third, Valiant Lee, of Oshawa third, driven by Russell Smith.

Pt. Anne Defeats Madoc 8-1 for Ninth Victory

Point Anne stretched their winning streak to nine games and ran Madoc's losing string to six by downing the village crew 8-1 in Madoc last night in a B. D. C. softball fixture.

Coach Phil Loft used all three of his pitchers, Bob Hull, "Lefty" Jackson and Pat Marsack, and Madoc gathered just one safety, a single off Hull in the second frame.

Meanwhile the Cementmen pounded a total of 17 base hits including a homer, triple and four doubles. They bagged two runs in each of the second and sixth and finished with four in the ninth.

"Lefty" Jackson receives credit for the victor r while pitching the last three frames. Bob Hull went the first four, one inning too few to be credited a win. Jackson gave up but one no hits and no runs, fanned four and walked two. Pat Marsack tossed the final pair, giving up only one walk and fanning three.

Point Anne's first run came on a single by Doug Burnside in the second inning. He got a run in the first on two walks and two errors. He whiffed two and passed one.

Wayne Shaw was tagged for the loss, getting the nod while giving up 17 hits. He struck out one and issued but the lone pass.

Bob Hull's single and Pat Gilmour's double netted the former son put the Canada Cement crew in front 2-1 in the second. Doug Wade, Jim Bateman, John Batchelor and Ted Batchelor hit safely in the third frame to make it 5-1.

Four tallies in the ninth came on singles by Jones, Doug Hull, Jim Gilmour and Ted Batchelor and a double by Pete Green sandwiched between.

Madoc played good ball afield, committing only one error while the Point Anne crew bobbled on three occasions. The winners took no base on balls while Madoc stranded six.

Doug Hull paced Point Anne's attack with a triple, two doubles and a single in five trips. Teddy Batchelor batted for three singles while Pat Gilmour homered and totaled and Pete Green doubled and singled. Sammy Mulholland had a two-bagger while Wade Jones netted Jackie Wardhaugh, Dave Clarke, Bateman, John Batchelor and Jack Elliott.

Madoc — Develin, Bateman, Tuffs, Johnson, Whiteman, Burnside, Blackburn, DeMille, Shaw, Wade, Clarke, Batchelor, Elliott and Herb Pointer (B). Scorer—Tom Jenny.

Peter Thomson Sets New Mark In Winning

LEEDS, England (AP)—Peter Thomson of Australia crushed international field with record-breaking golf Friday and won the $14,000 Dunlop Masters golf professional tournament by an all-time tournament margin of 10 strokes. His four-round total was 264.

The 27-year-old Australian, who has been following the U.S. pro golf circuit, became the first from four British golf records as he took the first prize of $1,400.

Thomson returned to Britain from the United States only a few hours before the tournament started, and started play without a practice round.

Thomson's four-round total of 65-67-64-68—264 was a record for a 72-hole tournament in Britain. Peter's third round of 22-23—64 broke the two-year-old record for the 8,421-yard, Queen Park golf course by a stroke.

The 64 also gave Thomson a record 186 aggregate for three rounds and his winning margin in the World War II record in Britain.

Goyer's Marines, Merchants Tie In 12 Innings

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Merchants and Goyer's Marines, bitter inter-city rivals in the Belleville and District softball league, battled to a 12-inning 4-4 tie last evening at CNRAA Park in one of the most thrilling contested games of the season.

Errors figured a large part in the scoring. The Marines scored two earned runs and the Merchants two on the line combined the result of errors.

Neither team scored over the first four frames as Lum Carson of the Marines and Bep Guiddin of the Merchants tossed excellent ball.

The string snapped in the top of the fifth however when the Merchants plated all their runs. Denny Hayden crashed a homer down the right-field line with one on for his club's only earned marker. Bone was safe on an error and Guiddin drove him home with a single over the infield and Barclay made the second out but Claude Carr singled driving home Bone and took third on the outfielder's overthrow. Wayne Brown bagged an infield hit to score Carr.

Goyer's Marines cut the margin to one in the bottom of the inning on a frame with their two earned runs. Gary Goyer banged a one-bagger down the left field line and scored when Tommy Thompson, who replaced Carson on the mound, was issued uprising, blooped a double. Paul Russell singled back between Guiddin and Bone to drive in Goyer's tallies.

John Green walked and Wayne Bonney singled with two out in the sixth and Brown butchered Brock's grounder to allow Green to score. A baserunner with his throw, allowing both runners to score for the tie ball game.

The clubs fought hard the rest of the way scoring only a handful of terrific fielding plays by Marine infielders cut short Merchant rallies. Shortstop Gerry Goyer pulled a running backhand stop to retire Bone to end the top of the inning and Bep Guiddin at first on a sure hit in the 12.

Marines had a good chance for victory in the eighth when Tommy Thompson was safe with only one down. Guiddin came through to the Merchants and Bep Goyer with a popup.

Plate umpire "Shud" Ethier called the game, because of darkness at the end of 12 while both teams, claiming it was still daylight wanged to continue.

Bep-Guiddin hurled the full 12 innings for the Merchants with his slow stuff again proving deceptive. He struck out 11 batters in favor of three in the fifth. Two Marines went down on strikes while Guiddin fanned four.

Tommy Thompson was the Marine pitching star with his 10 strikeouts after taking over from Carson in the fifth. He gave up a single in the fifth in the eighth and one to Barclay in the tenth. He fanned one batter. Meanwhile Carson was touched for five hits in 4 2-3 innings, whiffing two, walking one.

Wayne Bovay and Paul Russell led the Marine attack with two hits apiece and Thompson a two-bagger. Gerry Goyer, Leo St. Denis and Gary Goyer had singles.

Denny Hayden homered and Keith Macdonald tripled for the Merchants. Base knocks also went to Don Barclay, Claude Carr, Wayne Brown and Bep Guiddin.

Umpires — "Shud" Ethier and Harold Bawden. Time: 1.35.

Benoit Cote Best Among Drivers At Richelieu

MONTREAL (CP)—Benoit Cote of Montreal had the best average among drivers at the Richelieu Park harness racing meet recently closed. In 50 starts Cote had 15 first, eight seconds and six thirds for an average of .447.

Keith Waples of Victoria Harbour was the leading driver-trainer more than any other in the "big six"—placed sixth with an average of .351. He had 36 firsts, 30 seconds and 35 thirds for 200 points.

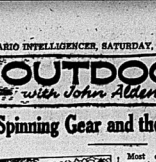
Ernest Ruth for a pacer was 2:03 4-5, made June 14 by Sharon's Counsel, owned by an Owen Sound syndicate of which hockey pirate Harry Lumley is a member.

OUTDOORS
with John Alden Knight
Spinning Gear and the Bass Bug

Most them come unannounced. Come quiet, however, and we know what to expect. Always they are the latest from the beginners, the fellows who never have done any fishing but who read about it and begin fascinating sport.

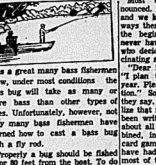
"Dear Mr. Knight," they say, "I plan to take up fishing this year. Please send me all information." Help me, that's what they say. Obviously they don't realize that many more books have been written about fishing than about all the other sports combined, indoor and out, including card games. Even I, just one man, have had published eleven books, most of them about fishing.

Not long ago I had a letter from a man who had bought a fishing rod. He bought it at an auction, paid five dollars for it, and it is a beauty, I'll warrant. He said that the man told him it was a good rod. But he wanted to know. He doesn't know whether it is a fly rod, a spinning rod or a casting rod. So here we are to find out. Said it was seven feet long and weighed nine ounces. Answer all right, but would you answer that letter? The man was serious about it; he wanted to know.



After a good deal of thought, the answer is the same as that of beginner's letters came quite easily. As you know, the tackle manufacturers are good stores — the good ones make a great deal good fishing tackle. Some don't, but they are always glad to answer questions.

Well, then, could be simpler than to send these fellows to their city's leading tackle store. There, not only will any good salesman be glad to answer any questions for a while a bass will not be the equivalent right at hand to help him with his questions.



And there is another suggestion that I have to make to these fellows. After they talks with the salesmen, the next step is to go to your public library. Every public library has on its shelves good books on fishing. Every library can have something about angling methods.

Then, at least, I caution these men against the fallacy of trying to learn fishing by any single method. The best way, of course, is to go fishing with a friend who knows how to do a thing. They can learn much from him. Failing such a friend, fishing friend, they can always watch good fishermen and very few of these subject to questions.

After all, there is no royal road to angling. To learn to fish well requires a great deal of time, patience, and practice. You become a good caster means practice. Once these things are learned, however, the dividends on such an investment are truly great indeed.

A fellow who finds himself in a new business and finds one part of earning his living as an outdoor writer—or expert—receive all manner of strange letters in his daily mail. These must be answered. That is one if the occupational hazards.

Room one bidding went like this:

South	North
2 D	5 D

South was using the weak two weak; a special convention that denies strength. As most often happens, they got into trouble with it when north had to guess the landing spot.

Normal bidding might have guided them as to a less-than-game safe point. As it was, opponents got both black aces and the trump king. This defeated five diamonds by one trick.

Room two bidding went like this:

East	South	West	North
1 S	Pass	2 H	Pass
2 S	Pass	Pass	Dbl
Pass	3 D	All Pass

The east vulnerable opening bids of spades was unsound. As most often happens, the unsound opening did his side no good. All it does is warn opponents to keep out of a game.

Occasionally these unorthodox openings by masters give them a freak part-score. Or fool some unwary opponents. When it does, they make a big fuss over its advantages.

But time after time, hand after hand, it does them more harm than good. All through this championship match you can see where it worked against them in the majority of cases.

From masters you learn what nonsense to ignore.

Juveniles Win Over Wellington

Belleville Juveniles won their second Belleville and District baseball league game in as many nights last evening by whipping the Wellington Dukes 9-2 on the latter's home diamond.

Gerald Hill pitched the victory for Belleville who took over second place in the league standings by virtue of the win.

Minor Baseball

Y's Men bantams downed Rollins Construction 7-1 last night behind the two-hit hurling of Wilson and Latchford.

Wilson gave up no runs off two hits in six frames to get the victory. He fanned five and walked but one. Latchford allowed Rollins lone run but no hits during the final stanza. He fanned two and passed none.

Carson went the route in defeat, tagged for nine hits, all in the last three innings when the Y's Men scored all their runs. Carson whiffed six while pasing eight.

Lewis sparked the winning attack with a triple and two singles. Weston had two hits with one each going to Wilson, Bronson, Davis and Latchford.

Scott and Zakos were the only Construction batters to hit safely.

World-Wide Panic as Venus-Creature Rockets to Earth!

Columbia Pictures' "20 Million Miles to Earth," science-fiction thriller of what happens when the first U.S. rocketship to Venus returns to earth with a monster from that distant planet, will be the next attraction at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, opening on Monday. William Hopper and Joan Taylor are starred.

Doubling in size every night and impervious to conventional weapons, the monster is susceptible only to paralyzing electric shock. When it escapes from its power-line failure, Hopper commands the effort to recapture the creature, now grown to tremendous proportions. There is world-wide panic, from Washington to Rome, as the Venus-creature sets his rampages way destroying great bridges, battling mammoths to the death and defying military forces.

Hopper plays the U.S. Army officer who survives the crash of the rocketship which brings to earth the Venus-creature and who attempts its destruction when it runs amok to tear apart men, animals and cities alike. Miss Taylor, granddaughter of the zoologist who studies the creature in its captive state, prior to its deadly escape, provides a romantic note for the new film.

Bob Williams and Christopher Knight penned the screen play of "20 Million Miles to Earth" from a story by Charlott Knight. The amazing technical effects of the new science-thriller were created by Ray Harryhausen. A Morningside production, "20 Million Miles to Earth" was directed by Nathan Juran for producer Charles H. Schneer.

Jerry Lewis Show Racks Up Handsome Ratings

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — You've read about the hell a big-time television comic goes through preparing for a show. What happens afterward?

I asked Jerry Lewis for a post-mortem on his NBC show of two weeks ago, and he obliged. But then, post-mortem isn't the best choice of words, since it implies that the show died. It didn't. It racked up a handsome rating and got good reviews generally.

Jerry told me he finished the show at 7 p.m. Hollywood time and headed for his Pacific Palisades home. With his family, he watched the show when it came on for the western re-telecast at 8. His reactions:

"The show came off amazingly well, considering how I had to cut it on the air. I knew something had to come out and I had to decide while I was performing. I couldn't cut the Charlie Chan skit and I didn't want to lose the Sonny Boy."

"The only solution was to tell Edie Gorme Sheamens that we had to skip her second song. Then I had to cut some things out of the Sammy Davis Jr. act."

Somehow the show ended up on time. After watching it, Jerry collapsed in bed and his wife Patti brought him dinner.

IN BED TWO DAYS

"For two whole days I didn't get up. I'm completely beat after a show. The next day I'm pooped, so now I got virtually no sleep. I work around the clock and have only 22 camera positions, so I know where the camera is at all times."

After his extended rest he studied the reviews and the mail. Every letter from fans is examined and the consensus is weighed. The overall reaction told Jerry what he had already suspected: that the hit of the show was the Sammy Davis routine on Sonny Boy and father Danny.

On the Thursday following the show Jerry held a meeting with the production personnel. The kinescope was run and every feature was analyzed, often with the footage stopped and re-run. The purpose of the session was to iron out technical flaws for the next show.

Jerry admitted that his first solo TV show was not his best effort. He profited from his mistakes with the second one. He intends to continue improving the quality by careful study and planning.

He figures that's the only way to stay ahead in the TV rat race.

MACON MAY UN-RETIRE

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats' general manager-coach Jake Gaudaur said Friday he is negotiating with Eddie Macon, a former Hamilton star halfback at College of the Pacific.

Macon was the object of an international legal wrangle three years ago when he jumped to Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union from Chicago Bears of the National Football League. The Bears brought a $150,000 damage suit against Calgary but the Stamps didn't pay. Macon has been out of football for the last two years.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

ook in the section in which day comes and find t h outlook is, according to the stars, or Monday, June 24, 1957

arch 21 to April 20 (Aries) alrly good prospects for a fitable day. Both familiar unfamiliar matters should e along smoothly. Be painsing in family affairs, vital ests. Tact!

pril 21 to May 21 (Taurus) ou keen minded folks can p fine results by being ly birds" and putting forth efforts. Forge ahead in ters concerning money and spational advancement.

ay 22 to June 21 (Gemini) ou have the sense of know- what's what but do not ays use it properly. Today, following the best leads, you can progress creditably. Moderately good influences for starting new projects.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) —Move with faith and intelligence and be energetic if you would achieve. There are hidden advantages to find; look for the clues and make the most of opportunity.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)— A period for starting new ventures, branching into a field you have long thought about. Many opportunities are available. Stellar aspects indicate added assistance, co-operation if you are worthy.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Some unexpected co-operation or good advice could help you to make profitable headway. Do not be too skeptical; it could blind your better judgment, slow up progress. A pleasant day!

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — A careful analysis of problems will save time and mistakes and speed success. Put genuineness, fair play into all your efforts; don't be envious of others. Use your best judgment in all situations.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Jockey yourself into advantageous position in order to benefit by current opportunities. If conditions appear somewhat difficult don't let that deter you. Keenness and humor are great aids.

November 22 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — An animated performance reaps good results. A cheerful demeanor smooths over many a rough spot. Give yourself the benefit of both. Curtail a tendency to haste.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Note advice to Sagittarians. Expect a typical day with some usual problems. Take them in stride; strike out for higher goals, too. Your innate desire to achieve will help you.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Be lucid in expressing your ideas. People appreciate stick-to-it-iveness but don't let it involve you in a myriad of detail. Sidestep enticing but unsavory propositions.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Cushion any criticism with diplomatic language. Handle day's tasks in the order of their importance. Embellish efforts with strong, straightforward, judicious effort.

You Born Today: Sensitivity, versatility (especially in mental pursuits,) tenacity, love of family, domesticity, and thrift are outstanding among Cancerites. You can become a brilliant speaker, actor, writer, teacher; a delightful companion, lifemate. In the latter connection, do your share to maintain harmony, prevent argument; do not become upset at little things. Cultivate your talents daily — and go forward with confidence. Birthdate of: Horatio H. (Earl) Kitchener, famous Brit. field marshal.

SHORT CUTS

"Some people want short cuts to joy;
They want the sunlit hour.
They want to pick the sunripe grapes;
Not tend those green and sour.

They want to miss the tediousness
That makes joy so worthwhile;
They want to step out of their place
In life's great rank and file;
They want the rainbow, not the rain.
The harvest without seeds;
They want the garden's lovely noon
But not to clear the weeds.
They want the end without the way through—
But the best is only found
After the heart and soul, my peers,
Have gone the long way round."
—Jean Morton

After all, everything has its price, does it not?

After the storm subsided on Tuesday evening, members of Bloomfield Young People's Union gathered at the home of Shirley Simms and held a social evening. Ray Wilkins, of the staff of the Navy League, Belleville, has been transferred and will be leaving Bloomfield in May. A presentation was made to popular member of the Young People's Union. He was presented with a leather shot album stamped with his name and Bloomfield YPU, complete with a map of the members. Ray expressed sincere appreciation and spoke of his regret at leaving. All are sorry to lose him and extend best wishes for his future. Strawberries and cream and cake were served and enjoyed by all.

The Rev. A. Plant, Brighton, was guest speaker on temperance Sunday morning at Bloomfield.

The Rev. G. Spurrell was guest speaker for evening anniversary services at Adolphustown. Mrs. Spurrell accompanied him.

Rose Foster and Clarence Canman attended the "Decoration Day" service at Burr's church.

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Foster and Darlene were Sunday evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Foster and family.

10 MINERS KILLED

SAPPORO, Japan (AP) — Ten coal miners were killed Friday night in the explosion of a mine here, 50 miles northeast of Sapporo. Another miner was injured.

HUGE GEM SHOW

AMSTERDAM (Reuters)—Diamonds worth about $8,400,000 went on view here Friday at the opening of the biggest diamond exhibition in Europe since the war. One of the most valuable gems on show is the Hope diamond, flown from the United States. It weighs over 44 carats and has been insured for about $1,120,000.

Marmora

MARMORA—Marmora Chapter I.O.D.E. held its June meeting at the home of Mrs. R. Frost, and vice-regent, Mrs. Ford, presided.

The school-closing dance, June 21st, at Marble Point Lodge was discussed, notices being sent out to high schools in Stirling, Campbellford and Madoc.

The thanks of the regent were tendered to Mrs. Gordon Jarvis, convener of the "Empire Day Tea" and to her co-workers and to Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Frost for part in arranging for the grocery basket draw.

It was decided to hold a pot-luck supper at Mrs. D. P. Mar-tin's cottage, Crowe Bay, end of July.

The fair booth was discussed but no decision was made until councillors contact all members and report their findings to the regent.

It was voted that $25 be sent to the Lucy Memorial Fund and $5 be donated to the Agricultural Society for prizes.

A letter from the provincial convener, Jean Green, re short course was read by Mrs. Frost.

An effort is being made to interest students from ages 8-18 years in an exchange of correspondence with students in the British Isles. Mrs. Mekeljohn is sending for the address.

After the meeting refreshments were served.

Marmora district Chamber of Commerce has arranged its annual meeting for Monday, June 24. This year they will travel east and visit points of interest. Cobourg, Newcastle and Actinolite areas, returning to Marble Point Lodge for dinner in the evening.

The annual church parade of Marmora L.O.L. No. 219 and Harmony L.O.B.A. No. 600 was held on Sunday with service in St. Paul's Anglican Church. The Rev. R. G. Fleming, rector, delivered the sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reid and daughter, Carol Ann, of Toronto, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McCrea, Mrs. Reid's aunt, Mrs. Adams-Moffatt attending.

Marmora was visited on Tuesday night with a heavy electric storm. The lights on the west side of the business section were put out of commission. No serious damage has been reported as yet.

Born — To the Rev. and Mrs. P. F. Hall, a son, at their home in Ontario, on Tuesday, June 11th, a daughter.

Father's Day services in all the churches were well attended.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD — Mrs. John W. Brown and Ralph, of Campbellford, spent the week-end weekend in Belleville, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Blakey and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Calberry. Mrs. Calberry returned home with them for a few days.

Mr. George Smith and two children, Patsy and Jimmy, of Agincourt, spent the weekend with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Smith, Victoria St.

Miss Winnifred Hay was presented with a double strand of pearls by the pupils of Grade XI and Stirling high school, and silver tray by the staff and students as she has resigned her position on the staff of Stirling to teach in her home town of Campbellford.

Mr. C. H. Davidson, Toronto, was a week-end guest with Mr. and Mrs. R. D. McDonald after they attended graduation exercises for their niece, Miss Shirley Ann Davidson, of Kingston and Hospital, held in Grant Hall, Queen's University, with the reception later at the residence.

Mrs. Arthur A. Keir, of Calgary, Alta., is visiting with Miss Ruth Keir, Queen St. N.

Dr. E. J. Anderson and Mrs. Anderson, of Westville, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Anderson, on their return from Hay River Review at Norfolk, Virginia.

Mrs. Robert Mull and Miss Dorothy Ferris attended the graduation exercises at Trent Valley University, when Mr. John Mull, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mull, Bowood, graduated with his degree in medicine.

Births in Campbellford Memorial Hospital this past week included: Mr. and Mrs. Albert Loyd Chamberlain, Campbellford, a son; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Johnson, RR 5, Campbellford, a daughter

Thumbnail Sketches Of Cabinet Members

OTTAWA (CP)—Sketches of the new Progressive Conservative cabinet ministers:

John Diefenbaker

Prime minister and external affairs minister, the 61-year-old Prince Albert, Sask., lawyer won the Conservative leadership last December on his third try. He was unsuccessful in 1942 when John Bracken was named leader and again in 1948 when George Drew won.

A native of Grey County, Ont., Mr. Diefenbaker is the ninth Conservative prime minister since Confederation and the first since R. B. Bennett in 1935. He has been a Commons member since 1940.

He lived and worked in Prince Albert for 32 years. From 1937 to 1940 he led the Conservative party in Saskatchewan. He was vice-president of the Canadian Bar Association from 1939 to 1942.

Early in his Commons career he established a reputation as his party's chief law critic and later as external affairs spokesman.

Mr. Diefenbaker was invalided home after First World War service as a lieutenant with the Canadian Expeditionary Force. A bachelor, he married Mrs. Olive Palmer, a widow, in 1953. His first wife died about six years ago.

Donald Fleming

A native of Exeter, Ont., Mr. Fleming entered the Commons in 1945 as member for Toronto Eglinton He had specialized in the legislative fields of social security and federal - provincial relations.

Married in 1933, he has three children.

Davie Fulton

Justice Minister at 41, he was elected to the Commons first in 1945 when he was only 29 as member for his native Kamloops, B.C. which he has represented since.

Mr. Fulton ran third behind Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Fleming at the last leadership convention.

He is an able parliamentary critic on an and military affairs and an expert on Commons procedure His father was a British Columbia cabinet minister in the early 1900s and both his grandfather and a great-uncle were B.C., premiers.

He returned from Second World War service with the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada to contest his first election. He is married and has three daughters.

Gordon Churchill

Trade Minister, the 59-year-old native of Coldwater, Ont., started his political career in 1946 as independent army representative in the Manitoba legislature. He regained to run in 1949 as federal Conservative candidate in Winnipeg South Centre and was defeated.

His second attempt in a 1951 by-election was successful. A wholepeg lawyer and veteran of both world wars, Mr. Churchill relies heavily on his war experience in Commons defence debates.

A high school principal before practising law, he headed the Diefenbaker - for - leader movement among Conservative MPs after former leader George Drew resigned last fall.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC

Defence minister, he entered federal politics after retiring as top army command early in 1945.

A native of England, Gen. Pearkes, 69, came to Canada in 1906 after service as a teen-age soldier in the British Army.

His lengthy military career, which included a stint with the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, ended when he resigned as general officer commanding the West Coast Command after a disagreement with the government over the conscription issue.

He won in Nanaimo, B.C., in 1945, held the seat in 1949 and has since represented Esquimalt-Saanich. During the last three Parliaments he had been his party's military critic and one of its main spokesmen on veterans' matters.

During the First World War he won the Victoria Cross, Distinguished Service Order and Military Cross.

Howard Green

Works minister, the 62-year-old native of Kaslo, B.C., has been in the Commons since 1935 and has become a leading expert on immigration matters.

A Vancouver lawyer, he was named Conservative House leader during the last Parliament. He is a veteran of the First World War.

George Hees

Transport minister and Commons member since 1950, he has been a staunch supporter of Mr. Diefenbaker. He withdrew from the leadership race before the December convention and threw his weight behind the Prairie lawyer.

As president of the national PC Association from March, 1954, to January, 1956, Mr. Hees, 46, became one of his party's most travelled members. As a Commons member, he enjoyed crossing swords with former trade minister Howe, whom he sometimes described as a dictator. Mr. Howe used terms like "junior" in some of his references to Mr. Hees, a former member of Toronto Argonauts football team.

Leon Balcer

Solicitor-general, he has represented his native Trois-Rivieres, Que., in the Commons since 1962. The 39-year-old lawyer is president of the national PC Association and a navy veteran of the Second World War.

George Nowlan

Revenue minister, he entered politics as a member of the Nova Scotia legislature in 1925, serving until his 1933 defeat. He came to the Commons in a 1948 byelection and has represented it since.

Mr. Nowlan, 58, is married and has four sons and a daughter. He is prominent in Canadian legal circles and served four years from 1950 as national PC Association president.

Michael Starr

Labor minister, the 46-year-old native of Copper Cliff, Ont., has been in the Commons only five years. After four years as mayor of Oshawa, where he started his political career five years earlier as alderman, Mr. Starr won Ontario constituency in a 1952 byelection and has held it since.

Representing an area that includes industrial Oshawa, he has been a spokesman on labor and municipal problems in the Commons. The need for lower-cost housing has also been one of his interests.

J. Angus MacLean

Fisheries minister, he is a 43-year-old Prince Edward Island farmer who entered the Commons at a 1951 byelection for Queens and has held it since.

Mr. MacLean served eight years in the Legislature. He was a prisoner-of-war for part of the war.

William Hamilton

Postmaster-general, he enters the cabinet in his second Parliament The 39-year-old advertising executive, a native of Montreal, has been a persistent spokesman of his party on post office matters. His 1953 election victory was the first for a Conservative on Montreal Island in 38 years.

A. J. Brooks

He served overseas in both world wars. He was a school principal and later school inspector before his first unsuccessful bid for the provincial legislature in 1922. In the Commons, he has been a spokesman for veterans affairs.

Douglas Harkness

Northern affairs minister, he has been high school teacher, farmer and livestock breeder. The 56-year-old native of Toronto first entered the Commons in 1954 for Calgary North after a Second World War artillery stint.

In the Commons, Mr. Harkness has been a consistent advocate of the development of the Canadian

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough

State secretary, she is a slim, silver-haired Hamilton housewife and public accountant. After service as a Hamilton alderman and controller, she won her last first try for the Hamilton West Commons seat in 1949 to Hon. Colin Gibson Following his death, she was elected in a 1950 byelection and has held the seat since.

Mrs Fairclough, 52, has been a labor spokesman for her party in native of Hamilton, she is married to D. H. G. Fairclough and they have one son.

James M. Macdonnell

Minister without portfolio, the 70-year-old Mr. Macdonnell left a high post in the financial world to enter federal politics in 1945 and for years has been his party's financial critic in the Commons. A native of Kingston and a lawyer, he joined the National Trust Company in 1911 as branch manager and worked his way up to become its president.

He was president of his party's national association from 1946-50. He represents Toronto Greenwood and for years he has been chairman of the board of governors of Queen's University.

William J. Browne

Minister without portfolio, he returns to the Commons after being defeated in 1953. The 60-year-old St. John's, Nfld., and former district court judge first won his St. John's West seat in 1949.

The Week's News

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

John Diefenbaker was sworn in as prime minister of Canada by Governor-General Massey.

Prime Minister Louis Stephen St Laurent stepped down, ending 22 years of Liberal rule when he handed his resignation to the governor-general.

It was a hectic political week in Ottawa as the changeover to Progressive Conservative government was effected.

The new prime minister—busy organizing his first cabinet—had a major immediate task: Representing Canada at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London next week.

WEATHER PROBLEMS

The weather caused suffering—and death—in many places on both sides of the Atlantic.

In Canada, the problem was blistering heat in Ontario and Quebec, But in Nova Scotia, the temperature fell below freezing one night.

Raging floods caused death and heavy property damage in South Dakota and Minnesota. A tornado struck North Dakota.

But the severest weather hit Italy, where more than a score lost their lives as the River Po breached dikes on its rich farming delta. There also were floods in the Alps, while in Britain and northern Europe temperatures reached record heights, causing many deaths.

EGYPT'S FESH

Britain said the submarines would "increase tension in the Middle East" and their effect was "much to be regretted."

A spokesman for the French government was puzzled as to just how the Egyptians, who know practically nothing about submarines, would be able to man them unless—as was likely—the Russians provided crews for a time at least.

PEASANTS FLEE

Conditions went from bad to worse in Haiti, the tiny Caribbean republic that has been in the throes of a revolution for months.

Hundreds of workers and peasants fled Port au Prince, the capital, carrying their belongings, as the ruling military junta began jailin political partisans by the hundreds.

The junta president, Brig.-Gen. Antonio Kebreau, named new commanders for northern and southern sections of Haiti, which has a population of 4,000,000, and replaced many army officers. At least 100 persons were killed and hundred in riots.

COMMUNIST CONSCIENCE

Mao, who is a classical poet as well as Communist boss, made a "secret" speech about communism in Feburary, and last week it was shared with many hundreds of millions around the world, broadcast by Peiping radio.

It enunciated the somewhat startling—to Communists—thesis that "contradictions" can exist between government and the masses in Communist states.

This was big news because Soviet Russia, the godfather of Chinese communism, says just the opposite.

FRENCH PROBLEM

France's new premier, Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, needed Communist help to squeeze out a narrow majority in his first vote in the National Assembly.

The 42-year-old premier, a wartime hero of the resistance, won a 27-vote margin of approval for his proposal to give top priority to a stiff financial program.

Because Communist troubles, France was forced to reimpose import quotas immediately. This meant that France retreated from the easing of trade restrictions agreed upon with other members of the 17-country Organization for European Economic Co-operation over the last few years.

TESTS END

Britain's hydrogen bomb tests in the central Pacific came to an end with the explosion of a third bomb at Christmas Island.

The government announcement was similar to those on the two earlier tests, saying that radioactive fallout had been almost negligible.

There had been many protests against the tests in Britain and abroad—the Japanese government making repeated appeals against the perils of radiation.

MAILBOX FIND

Postman Robert Bethke grabbed the five-pound, 13-ounce boy and hurried away in search of a doctor, who pronounced the baby "normal."

Bethke said he believes in "finders, keepers." He wants to adopt the mite.

Saint-Jean Baptiste Day One of Fun, Fireworks, Floats

MONTREAL (CP)—It's Paddy in Ireland and John Bull in Britain, but in French-speaking Canada it's Jean Baptiste.

That's the friendly, familiar nickname given to French-Canadians who celebrate June 24—the feast of their patron, St. John the Baptist—as a provincial holiday, festival of fun, fireworks and floats.

This year Montreal, the world's second largest French - speaking city, will devote its Saint-Jean-Baptiste parade to Sa Majeste la Langue Francaise, Her Majesty the French Language. Twenty-three floats, each sponsored by a Quebec firm, will tell the story of their mother tongue.

LAVISH TRIBUTE

"Never has the French language received in Montreal such regal homage as it will get on Saint-Jean - Baptiste Day," says president Paul Gaertin of the Societe Saint-Jean-Baptiste.

In the society's workshops, the last daubs of paint are being applied to the handmade floats while paper hoola, a giant bunny and a tassle - topped snowman stare from the shadows of previous parades.

The first floats in the parade, in its 23rd year, depict the early development of the language in France, with long-haired poets and musical troubadors reciting and singing in old courtyards. Then the floats, a witch across the Atlantic to Canada—to the arrival in 1637 of Les Sulpiciens as order that sent the first teachers to Ville-Marie, now Montreal.

Other floats depict the language's development in Canada, ending with a colorful float promoting Quebec as the "bastion" of French in North America.

FOLK LEGENDS

Six floats are based on French fables and songs, such as Meuzy, the Dorn, a song about a millkeeper who went to sleep while children danced around him. Another calls for wider use of French names for Montreal buildings, streets and squares.

Finally, a float carried goldenhaired Pierre Cote, 7, chosen to portray Saint-Jean-Baptiste this year. Young Pierre, from a family of 12 children, won the job over 14 other candidates.

"As soon as he is accepted for the role, his friends start calling him Baptiste," says Ulderic Lafrance, the parade's general organizer.

The four-mile-long parade, witnessed each year by almost 1,000,000 persons, is part of a gay, giddy day that ends with great bonfires burning at twilight and dancing in the streets. It is Montreal's happiest day, and hundreds of visitors crowd the city for the celebrations.

Other societies stage similar parades elsewhere in Quebec, but Montreal's effort is by far the largest. Behind them all are local Societies Saint - Jean - Baptiste. First one was formed in 1834 by Ludger Duvernay, a newspaper man who later became a member of Parliament.

For the last five years—ever since a fire burned their borrowed shop—the Montreal society has constructed its own floats, under the artistic direction of Fleurimond Constantineau, and now maintains a special workshop all year where floats and displays are created for other celebrations. Film and television sets are also made.

The hotter . . . the better

Carbon has a peculiar quality—it's at its best when 'the heat is on.'

IN THE ROARING HEAT of steelmakers' furnaces, molten metals boil and bubble like water in a teakettle.

STANDING FIRM in the intense heat of many of these furnaces are inner walls made of blocks of carbon.

Because pure carbon laughs at heat—actually grows stronger as it gets hotter—it has become vitally important in making iron, steel, and many of the other things all of us use every day.

IN CHEMISTRY, carbon and its refined cousin, graphite, handle hot and violent chemicals that would quickly destroy metal or other materials. Today there are pumps, pipes, tank linings, even entire chemical-processing structures—all made of carbon or graphite.

UCC . . . AND CARBON — For over 50 years the people of Union Carbide have pioneered in the development and production of many carbon and graphite products for both industry and the home. This is one more way in which UCC transforms the elements of nature for the benefit of all.

Negligence Said Cause Of Crash, Fourteen Killed

Believe Worker Failed To Remove Ground Block

Police Called 'As Pet Snake Not Welcome

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) Wayne Wallace, 27, took his pet along when he went to a drug store.

But several persons in the store complained and police were called.

When officers ordered Wallace out "with that thing," he calmly unwrapped a four-foot bull snake from around his neck and stuffed it inside his shirt.

"I just like them," Wallace said of his pet. He said he keeps the snake around the house because it "eats rats and other things."

Police Probing Theft of Money In Shipment

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto, Montreal and Canadian National Railways police are investigating the disappearance of a bag containing $21,000 from a shipment to Montreal first-weight.

The money was reported missing Thursday. In place of the money, the bag contained bundles of newspapers cut down to the size of bills and weighing about the same.

The theft was linked here with a string of disappearances of money parcels from railway shipments during the last year.

In April last year $44,300 vanished from a shipment from the Bank of Canada to the Royal Bank. Last November a $25,000 parcel was hurled from a mail car as it was being taken to the aerodrome for shipment to Toronto. Police said the thief climbed into the truck.

A $9,000 shipment from Brantford was stolen last September and $30,000 was reported missing a few months before en route to Hamilton.

Police said there was a possibility the thefts may have some connection with the murder in October last December of Hector Bogé. He was the driver of a mail truck from which $7,500 in registered mail was stolen.

Fire Fifth Shot Of Test Series

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Cool air which has been pushing slowly across upper Mississippi Valley for the past two days has finally reached Ontario. In Northern Ontario, where temperatures Sunday night under clear skies were in the mid-30s were reported, some warming is expected today.

Most of the province is expected to have sunny skies Tuesday.

PORT HARDY, B.C. (CP) Fourteen persons perished Sunday in the flaming wreckage of a DC-3 passenger plane which crashed in an emergency landing attempt. Four others escaped.

The pilot tried to land after finding his controls were not working properly a few minutes after takeoff. Pacific Western Airlines indicated that a ground company had failed to remove a ground control block from the tail assembly. The wooden block holds the tail elevators in position prior to takeoff.

The pilot, co-pilot and 12 passengers died as the twin-engined plane burned fiercely. The stewardess and three other passengers all from the rear of the plane, made their way almost unhurt through a rear door as flames and burning gasoline sprayed the field and consumed all of the aircraft but its tail.

CONTROLS FROZEN

"It came straight down," said Bill Krause, an airport worker who saw the crash. "The controls must have frozen."

Pacific Western, the third largest air carrier in Canada with operations from the United States to Pacific Coast points, issued only a statement implying that negligence may have caused the crash.

Early reports, the company said, indicate the "cause of the accident was the failure of some personnel to remove one of the ground control blocks which are always placed on the tail assembly of the aircraft."

The pilot had radioed to the airport tower that he was "not satisfied with the feel" of the plane. He indicated he was having "elevator" trouble.

FORMER GOLFER

The dead: Captain and Mrs. Cecil Gerald W. Allen, 27, of Richmond, B.C. His co-pilot was Laurie Baldwin, 23, of Vancouver, a three-time winner of the British Columbia junior open golf championship and Canadian junior titlist in 1951. The third crew member was Patricia Wilson, 23, of Vancouver.

The passenger list included two R.C.A.F. servicemen, one woman and a group of loggers and forest workers. The plane was based in Vancouver, 190 miles southeast of this northern Vancouver Island community.

Six Teenagers Die in Accident

PAINTED POST, N.Y. (AP)—In one fearsome stroke, six teenagers bound for a swimming party were killed in a car crash on a country road Saturday night. A seventh was hurt.

The dead: All their deaths dominated this central New York village today. Three of the dead were to have graduated tonight from Painted Post High School.

Killed were Noland Lathos, 17; Jack van Deventer, 17, and his sister Dorothy, 16; Jackie Cooper, 14; Mary A. Murray, 15; and Stanley Bartlett, 17. Richard Gumpper, 17, was in good condition in hospital today.

Hand-Kissing Hungarian Refugees Arouse Ire of English Swains

HAVERTON HILL, England (AP)—Young Hungarian refugees whose hand-kissing ways with the girls aroused the ire of young Englishmen in this rough shipbuilding town have surrendered to brawn, but their reputations as cavalier lovers remain untarnished among the girls.

After being attacked three times during the last week by gangs of young Englishmen who lost their dates to the refugees, the Hungarians stayed in their hostel during the weekend. A spokesman announced "no dates from now on." When the girls turned up to meet their Hungarian boy friends Sunday, they found police patrolling the hostel. From the windows and inside the gate the Hungarians waved to the girls.

NEW BRITISH DEFENCE POLICY TO BE STUDIED

Commonwealth Chiefs To Discuss Problem

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's new defence policy, based on the nuclear deterrent and possession of the hydrogen bomb, will be examined by Commonwealth prime ministers during the conference opening here Wednesday.

A group of Commonwealth leaders will discuss this topic against the background of the recent British statement on defence policy, which affects most of the Commonwealth countries and poses many particular problems.

Officials here are declining all comment on the details of the matters to be discussed in the weekly talks. But several newspapers speculate on what the possible aspects of the private defence discussions—to be held outside the conference proper because India and Ceylon do not take part in defence matters, are.

More delegation leaders arrived in London Sunday for the talks. External Affairs Minister Eric Louw of South Africa arrived to be greeted by Premier Johannes Strijdom who was unable to attend. Justice Minister M. W. H. Steyn flew in to represent Prime Minister Solomon Banda-ranaike, who has been involved in tribal problems prevented him from coming.

John Diefenbaker, Canada's new prime minister, and Prime Minister Robert Menzies of Australia, Sir Roy Welensky of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, and Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana.

Reporters Sunday asked Louw why Strijdom was not coming. Mr. Strijdom has made the position perfectly clear," Louw said. "He is not prepared to barter for personal reasons he was unable to come to London and he expressed the hope that he would not be pressed to give those personal reasons."

Asked if it was still Strijdom's intention to make South Africa a republic, Louw said: "It is the policy of the National party, the party in power, to have a republic in the future.

"We have never made any bones about it."

"That is our policy. How and when it will be implemented is another matter, but that is the ultimate ideal and intention."

SEE STRIJDOM

The next question was whether there was "any danger of South Africa withdrawing from the Commonwealth."

Louw said: "I see no signs of that, unless other members of the Commonwealth want us out."

Questioned on the government's policy of racial segregation, he said the policy of apartheid in South Africa was right. It provided for separate development of the Bantu as well as the white.

Asked what his feelings were towards Prime Minister Nkrumah of the new African state of Ghana, Louw said he had no feelings "one way or the other." The same table with him, because "he is the prime minister of a fellow member of the Commonwealth."

RCAF Probes Possibility Sabotage Caused Crashes

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF is investigating the possibility of sabotage in a recent series of jet plane crashes at its base at Zweibruecken, West Germany, it was learned today.

Two squadron commanding officers have been among four airmen killed at or near Zweibruecken since May 29.

An RCAF spokesman said investigations so far do not point to sabotage as the cause of any of the three crashes but that this possibility still is being looked into.

Three RCAF squadrons are based at Zweibruecken, one of the four bases in the RCAF's 2G0 plane air division in Europe.

Wing Cmdr. W. A. G. McLeish, 43, of Hamilton and his observer, FO R. B. Donald, 25, of Edmonton, were killed June 20 in the crash of a CF-100 jet near the base.

Wing Cmdr. Herbert C. Stewart, 38, of Calgary was killed May 31 when his Sabre jet crashed while landing.

FO O. H. Levere, 24, of Cloyne, Ont., was killed May 29 when his T-33 jet trainer crashed 15 miles from Zweibruecken.

All three pilots had long experience, having flown as fighter pilots during the Second World War.

Three different types of jets were involved in the crashes and the accidents apparently occurred under different circumstances.

79 Accidental Deaths During Weekend an All-Time High

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A plane crash Sunday that killed 14 sent Canada's accidental death toll soaring to 79—an all-time record for a two-day weekend.

The total is two more than the 77 victims of the two-day weekend of July 12, 1955, and eight more than the 71 of last weekend.

The plane crash was that of an airliner taking off from Port Hardy on British Columbia's Vancouver Island. Drownings claimed 25 lives, two more than last weekend. Car crashes killed 22. Six died in fires and two in other accidents. The fatalities were counted by The Canadian Press from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Sunday.

Quebec led the country with 29 deaths, 18 of them drownings. Two died on the highways and one in a fire.

Ontario had 24 victims. Fourteen were drowned. Eight were killed in traffic crashes and two in other accidents.

British Columbia had two traffic fatalities and a drowning in addition to the plane crash. In Saskatchewan there were three fires, a highway death and two drownings occurred in Alberta. A single fatality was reported in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia or Prince Edward Island.

One of Ontario's worst mishaps was the drowning Sunday of a British immigrant couple in Canada only a few months. Sam Leary, 35, and his 31-year-old wife, Olive, were drowned in the Chippawa River near Niagara Falls when trying to rescue their 11-year-old daughter, Anita. Anita was rescued by an uncle.

Another double drowning occurred Sunday in Ontario's Muskoka district. Two 11-year-old boys died in a boating accident. The names and addresses of the victims and their bodies were found at a depth of 14 feet.

Other Ontario deaths:

Lionel De Last, 15, and the old-est of nine children in the De Last family of Campbell's Cross near Brampton, was drowned Sunday in Chatsworth Provincial lake at Terra Cotta, 18 miles northwest of Toronto.

Delores Ann Dyck, 16, of Tavistock died of injuries suffered in a car accident Sunday on highway 53 near Exeter, 25 miles north of London.

Kevin Lewis, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis of Chatham was drowned in Lake Erie Sunday. His brother, Stephen, 15, dived into the water and was conscious by park attendants who revived him.

The two were swimming near the shore at Point Pelee when they apparently were caught in the undertow.

Top U.S. Rocket Expert Deliberately Courted Trial

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A leading United States Army rocket expert who deliberately courted a court-martial to get his views on the army rocket program before the public faces a military tribunal Tuesday.

Col. John Nickerson, 41-year-old West Point graduate and Second World War hero, will appear before a 10-man general court-martial board to answer to charges of espionage, perjury and disobedience of orders.

The espionage charge stems from the army's accusation that he distributed secret information to unauthorized persons, which it had come into the hands of an American citizen, a friend and a member of the Commonwealth."

No trial since the court-martial of Billy Mitchell in Washington in 1925 has involved such outright questioning of the wisdom of an official's superiors at this one.

Mitchell was court-martialled for insisting on the superiority of air power over surface battleships, while Nickerson insists that he abandon the army's long-range missile program would endanger the U.S.

Mitchell, then chief of the U.S. army air service, was found guilty of insubordinate conduct, ordered stripped of his rank, command and duties for a period of five years and put on half pay. He resigned his commission soon afterward.

If convicted on all 18 specifications the bespectacled Nickerson could receive a 46-year prison sentence, a dishonorable discharge and forfeit all pay.

The two-time winner of the Silver Star and Bronze Star medals is primarily involved in a single-handed battle to save the army's Redstone project from being used as medium range ballistic missile. Nickerson's former Defence Secretary Charles Wilson issued an order limiting the army to development of a 200-mile missile.

In the aftermath of the Wilson order Nickerson wrote a paper entitled "Comments on the Wilson memoranda," which the army maintains contained top-secret information.

Nickerson's attorney bases his arguments Nickerson admittedly sought to focus public attention on the misguided policies of army's chief, Wilson, therein. He claims the army was far ahead of other U.S. services.

Mineral Baths Best Treatment For Arthritis

TORONTO (CP) — An ancient mineral bath treatment found to be the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis today was put forward by a Russian visitor as one of the most effective for treating less acute stages of the disease.

Professor M. Shikhov said hydrogen sulphide baths give longlasting relief in early stages of the disease than is obtained from drugs. His paper is to be delivered to the fourth session of the international congress on rheumatic diseases.

Speaking later at a press conference, Prof. Shikhov said that rheumatism responds less common among patients treated with drugs than among those who were not.

Mineral baths, which have been used in Russia for centuries, are in favor of more direct methods, are not as effective as drugs in treatment of advanced cases of rheumatism and rheumatoid arthritis, he said.

ECONOMY DRIVE

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — The Indian government has proposed measures to avoid "pomp and ceremony" in the reception and state officials which "might have been suitable in British times but is not appropriate now." The measures, published by the home ministry, called for strict limits on cabinet ministers' use of private railroad guards and flags on cars, cheaper and simpler liveries for state and local commissionaires, and care against food wastage.

MADMEN HOLD NURSE HOSTAGE FOR FIVE HOURS

Mental Patients Soon Recaptured

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — A five-hour ordeal ended for a pretty 19-year-old nurse shortly before two mental patients holding her hostage were captured Sunday night.

The patients, one of whom was in the nearby Nova Scotia mental hospital on a government warrant for murder, escaped early in the afternoon. At 5 while point, they took student nurse Jessie Simpson of Glace Bay, N.S., with them.

RCMP were closing in on the escapees when they came upon screaming hysterically, burst from dense woods into a field.

Within minutes, a police dog, led his masters to Maynard Hall, 21, of Glace Bay, and Thomas Miller, about 40, Annapolis County, N.S.

LEADS ESCAPE

Hall, big and burly, led the escape, hospital officials said. He took a carving knife from a ward kitchen and compelled a graduate nurse, Mrs. Rowena Barbour, to give up his orange uniform. The attempt. She said "I was in the ward kitchen when two patients walked in behind me. One asked for a drink and when I turned around a knife was at my throat."

Miller joined Hall and Mrs. Barbour and they left the building on ground floor when they met a male attendant. He locked the patient in the nearby hall and bolted the shaking nurse aside.

Hall still had the knife, however, and when Miss Simpson came along, he and Miller forced her to hold them outside.

"They looked for all the world like a doctor, nurse and patient as they strolled across the ground," a witness said. The grounds were filled with Sunday visitors, nurses and patients out for a walk.

FLEE INTO WOODS

The trio crossed-a highway into dense woods behind the hospital. The escapees led their hostage at a hard pace. Her arms and face were bleeding from scratches and her uniform torn.

When naval helicopters from nearby Shearwater air base joined the search, Hall forced Miss Simpson under a tree and into a field of copter passed overhead.

"They asked me," she said later, "but every time a helicopter went over they threatened to cut me with the knife."

They were spotted twice by the helicopters. Other passers on the ground couldn't reach the spot quickly enough either time.

Miss Simpson showed loyalty and a farm and a road she decided to make a break. A boy found her lying exhausted and hysterical in the field just as RCMP had narrowed the search to a farm area.

Miller and Hall offered no resistance when caught.

BLAST ROCKS TOWN

SYLVANIA, Ga. (AP)—A terrific gas explosion ripped through six business firms and one office building in the Sylvania business district Sunday. Damage was estimated at $125,000 but no one was hurt. The explosion was believed to have been caused by gas escaping from a leaky tank. Fire chief Ralph Brown said the blast was heard for miles and that the hot sun blew out a safety valve on the tank, which was pumping gas at the rear of the gas company, and that the escaping gas exploded.

Crippling Rheumatoid Arthritis May Be Psychological Disturbance

TORONTO (CP)—A theory that a crippling rheumatoid arthritis may be linked to psychological disturbances was advanced today by two American doctors.

Dr. Sanford Gifford and Dr. Edward Bond, both of Boston, Mass., reported the results of a psychological study of 85 arthritic patients to the ninth International Congress on Rheumatic Diseases, which opened here Sunday night.

The similarities between rheumatoid arthritis and other psychosomatic (mentally caused) disorders are more important than any differences that can be demonstrated," they said.

Rheumatoid arthritis is the most widespread and crippling of the more than 100 rheumatic diseases to be considered by the 1,000 delegates to the week-long congress.

Dr. Gifford and Dr. Bayles found a pattern of parent dominance, usually by the mother, imposed on their patients.

Patients with arthritis emphasize their mothers' strength and control," they reported. "Often the mother is described as a critical evaluation of cortisone, hailed as a wonder drug for the treatment of arthritis at its introduction eight years ago, but since found to have serious side-effects.

One of these side-effects was described by Dr. Richard Freyburg of New York, who found that 30 per cent of a group of patients receiving cortisone or cortisone-like drugs developed ulcers.

Prime Minister Now In London For Conference

Will Stand Fast With Commonwealth Partners

LONDON (CP)—John Diefenbaker arrived today to attend the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference and the new Canadian leader lost no time in making it clear that he is "a strong Commonwealth man."

"The Commonwealth has a great work to do and its mandate is far from being exhausted," he told correspondents at the airport. He said he will press for the extension of trade within the Commonwealth and hoped a Commonwealth trade conference might be called soon.

Diefenbaker was accompanied by Defence Minister Pearkes. The prime minister's wife was also with him and chatted with many dignitaries who were at the airport.

EARLY TRADE CONFERENCE

Diefenbaker declined to go into matters which Canada plans to bring up at the conference except to reiterate that his government would like to see a Commonwealth trade conference, preferably in Ottawa, at "a reasonably early date."

He discounted reports that his government is opposed to the development of Canada's resources in Canada, saying "our policy welcomes investment from whatever source it comes, provided it is for the benefit of Canada."

Asked whether he plans to call an early election because of the slimness of his party's majority in the Commons, the prime minister said: "Having just recovered from one election so recently, we have no intention of calling another at an early date."

TO CANADA HOUSE

Immediately after leaving the airport he held informal talks with Canada House officials.

On the trade question, he told reporters at the airport:

"The significance of the present [prime ministers'] conference, I think, will be to demand action be taken—and I speak now with confidence—to provide for the expansion and extension of trade within the Commonwealth."

The theme of his government's policy would be to arrive at a spirit of co-operation within the Commonwealth and with the U.S. and other freedom-loving countries.

In a statement, Diefenbaker said he looked forward to the conference opportunity to which a newly elected prime minister of Canada could commend.

"The Canadian people have a deep and abiding loyalty and affection" for the Queen, he said, and believe that without the Crown the Commonwealth would not long survive.

FISH PORTFOLIOS

Earlier Saturday, following a morning cabinet meeting, Mr. Diefenbaker announced four Ministries—five portfolios that were left open for the time being when he announced his cabinet Friday.

He told his second press conference:

1. Justice Minister Davie Fulton will be acting minister of citizenship and immigration.

2. Northern Affairs Minister Douglas Harkness will be acting agriculture minister, a post Mr. Diefenbaker is expected to fill on a permanent basis soon after his return from London, July 6.

3. Solicitor-General Leon Balcer will be acting minister of mines and technical surveys.

4. Veterans Affairs Minister Col. A. J. Brooks will be acting minister of national health and welfare.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Minister How-ard Green, who will be acting minister of mines in Mr. Diefenbaker's absence, will be acting minister of defence production.

Transport Minister George Nowlan will be acting defence minister in Mr. Diefenbaker's absence in London.

TO BUILD HIGHWAY

Mr. Diefenbaker announced the federal government is offering to contribute on a 50-50 basis—up to $1,500,000 a year for four years—with British Columbia in the completion of a highway link between Cassiar and Stewart in northern B.C.

19 Communist MiG Jets Seen Over South Korea

SEOUL (Reuters) — The South Korean government tonight declared a "war alert" after flights of Communist jet planes were reported to have flown south of the military armistice line.

In Korea "war alert" is one degree from martial law.

The defence ministry said an estimated 2,000 North Koreans ordered demonstrations near the Panmunjom military armistice village with huge banners saying "withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea" and "peaceful reunification of Korea."

MiGs VIOLATE ARMISTICE

The ministry said 19 MiG jet fighters flew south of the demilitarized line near Kumha, central Korea, today in violation of the armistice agreement.

No hostile action was taken by the planes.

The MiGs came in three waves, the statement said.

The United Nations command last week accused the Communists in North Korea of "gross and repeated violations" of the Korean armistice and decided to replace outmoded weapons in South Korea because the North Koreans and Chinese had already done so.

On Sunday, 2,000 Korean troops on leave were recalled under an emergency order. A Korean defence ministry spokesman said "the chances of a North Korean attack on South Korea are always high" and that precautionary measures were needed.

SAYS U.S. RESPONSIBLE

Meanwhile, a declaration that China and Communist North Korea would fight to defend the armistice agreement came out of Peiping Sunday.

Recovers Savings

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. A. Fulmer of Stouffville, who said she lost her life savings of $1,713 when she dropped her purse Saturday night at a church picnic in Stouffville, 20 miles northeast of Toronto, got the money back Sunday night.

The purse was found by Sidney Davies, 16, of Eureka, who also attended the picnic.

CAR THROWN OUT OF CONTROL BY GRABBING BRAKES

Donald Dawson, 18, of Desroconto, and an unidentified passenger riding in his heavy model auto, escaped injury near the Slash Road intersection on No. 2 highway near Marysville Sunday afternoon when the car went out of control and rolled over several times.

Dawson was said to have come over a knoll to find a slowly driven car in front of him. He touched the brake with result that one wheel grabbed, throwing the vehicle out of control and causing it to roll.

Three American Fishermen Face Burglary Charge

Fast police work on the part of Police Chief Earl Marvin of Wellington, assisted by provincial police at Picton, Saturday landed three young American fishermen behind the bars charged with breaking and entering and of being in possession of stolen goods.

Arrested while they were fishing on Weller's Bay, on charges of breaking and entering the home of J. A. Treivar, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia at Consecon, are Leonard J. Aquiler, 22, of Angola, N.Y.; Donald Weephal, 22, Woodlawn N.Y. and Frank Carseciola, 32, of Buffalo, N.Y. A fourth man was allowed to go after questioning.

Articles and money stolen to the value of nearly $300 have been recovered.

Shortly before noon on Saturday, Mr. Trelvar, with his wife and child, left home for Trenton and on their return at three o'clock found a window of their home broken and blood on the sill.

He notified Police Chief Marvin of Wellington who, with Mr. Trelvar, entered the home to find dresser unmasked and money, silverware and jewellery missing along with a new model 22 pistol, fishing tackle, a coat and pair of trousers.

With this information Chief Marvin went to Parks Fishing Camp where he found an American car matching the description given by Mr. Cook. Mr. Trelvar identified a fishing reel as one which had been stolen.

Three other men were located fishing on Weller's Bay where the outboard motor and other articles excepting the jewellery were recovered.

Police Blotter

Three minor accidents, theft of a boat, and several incidences of disturbing were reported by city police over the week-end.

Donald Wynne, 232 Coleman Street, complained that his boat had been stolen from where he had it tied up near the Canada Packet Railway bridge at the mouth of the Moira.

A hit and run accident resulted in $50 damage to car owned by Lloyd A. Gregory who had his auto parked outside 72 George St.

John Joseph Cole, Foxboro, was charged with careless driving after his car went out of control on Hillcrest Avenue, and slammed into a tree.

Charles Stewart, 29, no fixed abode, was charged with disorderly after several complaints of shoplifting from department store managers.

Farms Flooded So Leave Given To Shoot Beavers

The dam-building handiwork of a party of beavers may be an engineering masterpiece but at least some time it can hold up production.

Just ask three farmers in the 5th concession of Sidney township who this spring have had fields flooded and have been unable to get back their lanes because of high water, as the result of dam building activity of a family of beavers.

Several fields, comprising a total of more than 15 acr s on the farms of Joe McGrath, Sam Nicolson and Barton Hinchliffe, have been flooded, with water on the Nicolson farm backed almost up to the garden.

Lanes could be navigated only with long rubber boots and even tattle decided the water has been too deep to navigate.

Several times holes were ripped in the beaver dam to allow water away and on one occasion the dam was dynamited. But the next morning the damage was found repaired.

Finally in desperation permission was sought from the Department of Lands and Forests at Tweed to get rid of the beaver and that is just what happened Saturday evening. Two big beavers were shot as they swam in their private swimming pool.

Authorities at Tweed stated that in all likelihood two beavers would comprise the family, although there may be more.

According to Mrs. Nicolson, beavers were first spotted in the 5th concession area last fall but this spring is the first time that dams have caused flooding. A 4th concession farmer has also reported a beaver family, while three years ago a 5th concession farmer caught one in a muskrat trap.

Billy Scero, 14, Drowns in Bay At Deseronto

Despite the efforts of a 13-year-old companion who tried vainly to save him, Billy Scero, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Scero of Deseronto, was drowned in the Bay of Quinte at Deseronto.

The body was recovered an hour later in about 18 feet of water but efforts at resuscitation failed to revive him.

Police chief Stan McTaggart of Deseronto said the Scero boy who was unable to swim, had been floating on a log off the government dock, when he slipped off into deep water.

A companion, Michael John Kirby, 13, also of Deseronto, tried to save him but was unsuccessful after being dragged under on two occasi.ns. An unidentified swimmer dived repeatedly into the murky water but was unable to find the boy.

Provincial police from Napanee detachment, Constables J. Henry and Ron Roberts, recovered the body after dragging for nearly an hour.

Teachers, Board Gather to Honor George Wishart

Recently the staffs of Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School and the Quinte Secondary School, along with the members of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board, gathered to pay tribute to Mr. George Wishart, M.Sc., whose resignation as a board member, effective June 30, 1957, had been accepted at an earlier date.

Mr. Wishart's service dates back to 1942 when he was appointed a member of the Advisory Vocational Committee of the Belleville Board of Education. In 1945 he was elected a member of the board itself and served continuously until January 1953 when the Bay of Quinte District High School Board was formed. He continued service with that body until the present time, acting as chairman of various committees and as chairman of both the Board of Education and the High School Board, with the latter term being in 1954.

The gathering was held in the auditorium and the cafeteria of the Quinte Secondary School and the program in the auditorium was directed by Mr. Jack Sisson, instructor at the Quinte School. It consisted of a sing-song, led by Mr. R. Schroeder, music instructor at Quinte School and accompanied by Mr. Linton Read, and two well arranged but impromptu (for the participants) skits; one depicting a board member and the other a teaching lesson, presided over by the guest of honor, Mr. Wishart. The last item was an arrangement of "This Is Your Life," directed by Messrs. Harold Hoot and Donald C. Stirling. This depicted incidents in the life of the guest of honor with pictures being shown on the school screen. During this program a corsage was presented to Mrs. Wishart by Mrs. Lottie Reid, wife of the principal of the school.

At the conclusion of this part of the proceedings the gathering proceeded to the cafeteria where a buffet lunch was served, arranged by Mrs. Sherwood, the school cafeteria operator. Mr. Wishart was then called forward and Mr. John Hayman, on behalf of the teachers, paid a tribute to Mr. Wishart's years of excellent service and stressed the excellent relationship between board and teachers, towards which Mr. Wishart had played a considerable part. He was then presented with a travelling bag by Mr. W. O. Cochrane. The chairman of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board, Mr. Brooks Allen, then expressed the board's appreciation of Mr. Wishart's assistance and excellent judgment and on behalf of the board a presentation of a casting rod and reel was made by the board's secretary, Mr. R. O. Dulmage.

Mr. Wishart, in accepting the gifts, expressed his appreciation for them and his regret at the necessity, due to business reasons, for severing his connection with the board. He touched on the highlights of various experiences during his years of service.

Several teachers, who had retired during Mr. Wishart's service as a board member were present, as well as his daughter Elspeth (now Mrs. J. Menendez) of Cornwall. Dr. W. S. Turner, resident high school inspector, and Mrs. Turner were also present.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A University of Kentucky professor was killed and the manager of Caulmet Farm was critically injured Saturday when lightning struck their elctric golf cart on the Lexington country club course. Dr. A. B. McEwen, a member of the law faculty, was killed when he was knocked from the cart. Paul Ebel Hardt, manager of the famed thoroughbred horse farm, was injured critically.

Bowling Notes

Eight doubles rinks from this city played in the mixed doubles tournament staged by the Brighton Bowling Club on Saturday but only one rink came home with any of the prizes. There were 24 rinks in the tourney gathered from Kingston, Belleville, Brighton, Trenton, Campbellford, and Havelock and the competition was exceptionally keen for so early in the year. Morley Galt and Mrs. James Rutherford of Kingston had the high score for a three-game win with Mr. and Mrs. Bert Taylor in second place while Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Smith of Belleville took 3rd place and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hiker of Trenton fourth. Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Brennan of Havelock won the two-game high score, while Mr. Ken Pearce and Mrs. Williams won the one-game high.

Those taking part from Belleville were: Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Vince, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Watkin and Mrs. George Watkin, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holland, Mike Holland and Mrs. Grace Clopp, Claude D. Tice and Miss Margaret Fairbairn.

Arrangements are being made for an inter-club jitney with the Brighton Club on Thursday evening in the western village. It is hoped that forty from the Belleville Club will make the journey. Two games will be played after which luncheon will be served and a social hour spent.

A men's doubles tournament will be held at Campbellford on Wednesday afternoon. Two or three rinks from this city will likely make the journey to the northern village. The greens at Campbellford are in excellent condition and a real good time is in prospect for those attending.

Plan to Develop Northern Ontario

TIMMINS (CP)—Works Minister Griesinger said today the Ontario government is considering plans for development of Northern Ontario and is drawing up plans to deal with it.

He mentioned the development of agriculture in the area around Timmins, the development of the municipalities and of educational services in the area.

Mr. Griesinger was interviewed aboard a special train that brought him to Timmins for ceremonies marking the ending of 42 years of service by railway executives on the Ontario Northland Railway, which has converted to diesel operation.

He said he thought it was "feasible" that Premier Frost would appoint a minister for northern affairs.

Safe-Crackers Pry Open Vault At Marmora

Using bars taken from a railway toolshed at nearby Bonarlaw, safe-crackers early Sunday morning pried open a walk-in vault at the F. N. Marett general store at Marmora and made off with an undetermined amount of money and merchandise.

Mr. Marett said the thieves had gotten away with some money but had missed a further sum.

In addition to the money, a quantity of cigarets, a record player and other articles were taken. The store monater was unable nowever, to get a figure as to the value of the goods missing.

The break-in occurred early Sunday morning. Several village people living in the vicinity of the store reported hearing strange noises but failed to report the incident until after the loss was discovered.

Police Chief Dempsey of Marmora, assisted by Cpl. Reg. Backham of the Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville, is investigating.

DROVE FIRST AUTO

RYE, N.Y. (AP)—Charles Brady King, 79, credited with designing and driving the first automobile in Detroit 61 years ago, died Sunday. King completed his first car, powered by a four-cylinde gasoline engine, March 6, 1896, and drove it down Detroit's Woodward Avenue. At about the same time he helped Henry Ford in constructing the first experimental Ford

Eight Injured In Head-on Crash At Mazinaw Lake

Eight persons were injured with seven being admitted to Belleville General Hospital, two of them in serious condition as result of a two-car head-on crash on Highway 41 near Mazinaw Lake late Sunday morning.

In serious condition in hospital at Belleville are Herbert Manley, 39, of 185 Clergy Street, Kingston, and his wife Doris, Mr. Mallory, driver of one of the vehicles, has a fractured hip and pelvis and chest injuries. His wife, also 39, had a femur fracture, broken ankle and possible skull and pelvis fractures.

The couple's daughter Barbara, 20, has fractured facial bones and cuts.

The three other passengers in the Mallory auto were injured. They are Indonesian students living at the Mallory home, Herman Koesnawoedi, and Soewabgi Gordan, who were badly cut, while Carol Quenesell, 22, was treated for cuts.

In the other car were Rheal Larouche, member of the Belleville Senior OHA hockey team last winter, who suffered severe facial cuts, and Florian Grimard of Lorrainville, Quebec, who also received cuts. Larouche was said to be driver of the second auto.

Dr. H. Bateman who attended Mr. and Mrs. Mallory said today they were both in serious condition.

No details as to the cause of the accident were learned. Provincial Constables Evans and Richardsons of Kaladar investigated.

Mouse Raises Quite a Stink With Police

For the past several days police have been pondering the mystery of a peculiar odor apparently emanating from beneath the sergeant's desk at the local police headquarters.

They had their suspicions, but a complete search of desk drawers failed to solve the mystery.

Finally the city public works carpenter was called in to dismantle the desk. Trim was removed piece by piece with the mysterious odor getting stronger by the minute.

Finally as the last paneling was removed the mystery was solved.

The mystery was a dead mouse.

U.S. FOOD CHAIN EXPANDS IN CANADA

GRAND UNION SUPER MARKET

Grand Union, ranking 19th among retail food chains in the U.S., plans to increase its Canadian supermarkets, starting with Ontario and expanding later to other provinces. Its expansion in Ontario includes a $9,000,600 outlay for 10 to 15 new supermarkets in the next 20 months and the formation of Canadian company with stock available for purchase by Canadians. The stores feature hangar-style architecture and self-serve food-o-mat type of display. Here President L. P. Shield and Vice-President Robert de Weere display a painting of their newest store at Willowdale, Ont.

Percy Faith Answers Crosby

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto-born composer Percy Faith has replied to charges by crooner Bing Crosby that United States radio and television stations are airing musical "trash."

In a letter to the U.S. Senate commerce committee, Crosby attributed the situation to "pressure of exerted" by Broadcast Music Incorporated.

Faith, a member of BMI's rival ASCAP—the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers — admitted Sunday that some "trash" is being played. Faith is visiting his parents here.

But BMI members, he said, are mainly amateurs. ASCAP represents the greatest writers.

In the long run ASCAP will win, he said, because radio markets cannot manage without the top writers. There already were signs of better music.

WHERE DO THE LIBERALS GO FROM HERE?

Most political speculation, these last few days, has been centred around the makeup of Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's cabinet. Now the broad outlines of the Conservative command have been sketched, with some gaps to be filled later after the Prime Minister returns from the Commonwealth conference, political commentators might well turn their attention to the future of the Liberal party and its higher echelons.

Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent will take his place at the opening of the next Parliament as the leader of the official opposition, but despite the enthusiastic endorsation given him by a caucus of Liberal members of the House on Friday one may be pardoned for wondering how long he will remain leader of the party.

For several years past there have been rumors that he planned to retire. But the corporation lawyer turned politician, appeared to like his newer role more and more as the years passed and rumors about a change in leadership died down, rather than increasing. Now, though, the Liberals are not the party in power with a veteran leader prepared to turn over the reins of office to a protege at the appropriate moment, but are a party in opposition, with a possible long, hard climb ahead before regaining the heights. Is leadership on such a journey best entrusted to a man of Mr. St. Laurent's age? Many Liberals must be asking themselves that question. Many Liberals, realizing that a change in the party leadership is essential within the next few years, must be wondering whether the best time to change is not now.

Yet, offsetting the valid and powerful reasons why the party should be preparing for the long pull, there is a possibility that the time to get ready for the next test may be very short. If the Conservatives had a safe majority, if it were obvious that the Liberals had to settle down for at least four years in opposition, the possibility of the party calling an early convention to select a new leader would be greatly enhanced. It may well be, though, that either a federal election or necessity the Diefenbaker Government will go to the people within the next few months. If so, would this be any time for the Liberals to be breaking a new leader to harness? The obvious answer is in the negative.

We may expect, then, that little will be heard of a Liberal convention until after Parliament meets and there are some indications of whether the Conservative regime's path is going to be rocky or smooth.

One of the interesting results of the June 10 election is the effect which it may have on the choice of the Liberals when they do select a new leader. There was, at one time, a suggestion that when Mr. St. Laurent retired Hon. C. D. Howe would take over in a sort of "caretaker" role, awaiting the new heir to the mantle of Laurier, King and St. Laurent. That possibility can now be discounted. The Liberals, when they do pick a new chief, are almost certain to endeavor to choose one who, they will hope, will wear as well and serve as long as his predecessors. He must thus be, comparatively speaking, a young man. Three such Liberals had in the past been most prominently mentioned, Hon. Walter Harris, Hon. L. B. Pearson and Hon. Paul Martin.

The defeat of Mr. Harris in his home riding of Grey-Bruce would appear to greatly reduce his chances, although he had earlier been regarded as the favorite. There is scant chance that another election would see him reverse the verdict in a return bout with Eric Winkler, the young mayor of Hanover who defeated him. The people of the riding are not fickle in their political choice. In almost forty years, a great part of the riding has had only two members of Parliament - Miss Agnes Macphail, M.P. for South Grey and then, after redistribution in the thirties, for Grey-Bruce for almost twenty years, and Mr. Harris, who defeated Miss Macphail 17 years ago. Neither Mr. Harris eliminated, the race would appear to be between Mr. Pearson and Mr. Martin with Mr. Pearson being the man with the greatest appeal for most Canadians, but with Mr. Martin quite possibly the more astute politician in the domestic field.

It would not be surprising if these leading contenders for St. Laurent's crown would welcome an early convention, before any new rivals emerge from the ranks, and before any of the lustre of cabinet office wears off.

SPIRIT

What puts twinkles in the eyes? / What's the source of lovelines? / Is it flesh that mortals prize? / Is it fortune, fame or dress? / It stirs two forms may seem, / What seem one and one esteem!

What ignites the friendly smile? / Why one brighter than the rest? / Others may be much worth while / But of all a few are best.

The difference so great, / Causing either love or hate?

There must be an inward spirit / Setting eyes and lips aglow; / Something strange that others merit / In the ones they learn to know. / That it's spirit could it be / Which we sense but cannot see?

Steel Marks Centenary

Cleveland Plain Dealer

Steel got its stamp of approval from Uncle Sam recently. In post offices all over the country commemorative stamps celebrating 100 years of "modern" steelmaking went on sale.

The new stamp bears an eagle in flight and a pouring ladle as a symbol of how America and steel have grown together. In a literal sense, it also suggests that steel is intricately woven through our freedom and "way of life."

This material we accept as so commonplace came about by coincidence.

In 1847, a Kentucky iron puddler, William Kelly, dreamed of steel-making by blowing cold air through molten metal to remove the impurities. While a likely sound idea man, was no businessman. Most of his friends thought him crazy for the notion and he neglected to patent his plan immediately.

Eight years later the Englishman, Henry Bessemer, came up with experiments along identical lines. His "converter", with its pear-shaped, refractory-lined shell embodies steel-making's most familiar notion, was patented in 1856.

The following year, in the centre, the Kelly Patent Office credited Kelly with priority, and a 12-year legal fight ensued which resulted in both men obtaining a share of the royalties. The Englishman probably paid no attention to the lawyers and lawsuits. Before the United America rode west on its rails and dug the prairies with John Deere's steel plow, the first steel wire hemmed in the open ranges of the Far West.

When steel stopped following the ground it took to the air in the Wright brothers' craft, and went up in Chicago in 1885.

Powered by the electric generator, automobiles and all the implements of up-to-date industry—machine tools, labor-saving devices in the lift line, far too many to enumerate. The very strength and vigor of America's economy rides and sometimes bends on steel, in peace or war alike.

Through it all the Bessemer "symbol" has risen and fallen and stands perhaps to rise again. In 1900 two-thirds of our 11,000,000 steel tonnage was Bessemer-made. In 1910 the open-hearth furnace, chemically more efficient and of far greater capacity, had taken over 65% of the load. Today's pictures shows only a 1% fraction of production, 89% open-hearth and 8% by electric furnace. From Europe, though, a way of blowing oxygen through iron in a process much like the Bessemer method has been winning converts.

The revolution in metallurgy begun a century ago plainly not the least. Already the steel industry is full of rumbles over a coming "direct" conversion invention whereby raw iron ore can be made straight into steel.

Our future is reflected in this everyday "wonder" metal. It is ours and freedom's biggest resource, matched only by the ability of man to apply brain power to develop it.

Steel is cheap and in sight to what we owe to steel. It makes us mobile on land and sea; the coming age promises airliners may well be stainless steel.

Our tractors and farm drudgery wells out of steel byproducts—washers, disposals, refrigerators, T.V. Volumes could be quoted to the sociological impact of steel alone.

As the geographical centre of steel-making, Ohio can hardly overlook the role it has played. Here we "chew" on steel. Nature being what it is, and forged upon us via the St. Lawrence Seaway and benefaction of low-grade Lake Superior ore — in order to keep our industrial muscles steel-edged.

OFF THE RECORD

Unprogressive Taxation

Montreal Gazette

A New York financial publication, The Guaranty Survey, has a sound remark in its June issue about what are called "progressive taxes." It says: "The case for progression must stand or fall on its economic desirability, not on the treasury's need for money."

In other words, it must be defensible, for the economy of a nation as a whole, that steeper and steeper taxes should be taken from higher and higher incomes. Only if this can be proved, can the tax be justified. If, on the other hand, progressive taxation is bad for the economy as a whole, then it is bad for everybody.

A few years ago two professors of economics at Chicago University, Prof. Walter J. Blum and Prof. Harry Kalven) wrote an interesting book on "The Uneasy Case for Progressive Taxation."

It was an interesting book, in that it challenged the whole principle of progressive taxation, by suggesting that it is not a principle at all.

It may be very true that a man who earns more should pay more (nobody questions this point). But should he be required to pay progressive rates that jump by percentages that in some point his extra earnings dwindle away?

These two professors, after examining the question, failed to find that progressive taxation, as it is now, can be said to rest upon any objective principle. Nobody, for instance, can give any definite explanation why income above a certain level should be taxed by 20 per cent or 30, 40, 50 or even more.

The percentages of progressive taxation are fixed without reference to any perceptible economic theory. They are often fixed by public clamor, or by the tax collector's idea of how he may obtain the most revenue by agitating the fewest people.

Somewhere, there is supposed to be "an appropriate income," beyond which the taxpayer may tax with a vengeance — but what is an "appropriate income?" There is no standard. What appears to be just to one, it seems to depend upon the average wealth of any country. What appears to be an "appropriate income" in one country, would not appear such in another.

These two Chicago professors estimated that the average rate of income tax reached 25 per cent for a family with three children in the United States at approximately $26,000, in Britain at $8,800, in Eire at $3,000, in the United Kingdom at $4,300, and in Austrie at $1,840.

This means that the poorer a country becomes, the lower its conception of an "appropriate income." But it would seem that if the "progressive" principle of taxation were to be any principle at all, it ought to work the other way. The poorer a country is, the higher the income it should allow, for the greater would be its need for encouraging enterprise and the accumulating of capital.

And in proportion as the level of earning sinks, the more the system of progressive taxation prevents it from rising. In other words, it is an effective level only if it is accepted that a given level is to everybody's advantage — is necessary to justify, in terms of economic progress.

* * * *

It may, of course, be said that taxation should be shifted from those in the higher brackets, because they are best able to absorb it. But this leads to exaggerate the amount of taxation that may be extracted in this way.

Since the end of the war, it has generally been found, in the Canadian statistics, that even the total consolidation of all incomes of $15,000 would not allow for Canada's defence bills for a few months of the year.

It would seem that the idea of progressive taxation is based less upon the idea of solving the need for revenue than upon the vague idea that the individual ought not to be allowed to accumulate capital. But where capital does not accumulate sufficiently, the whole economy of a nation must fail to develop, or must depend upon capital from foreign sources.

It would seem that progressive taxation and economic progress are very far apart from being the one and the same thing. Until experience in taxation can prove that it serves national development, it can scarcely be said to rest upon a really progressive economic principle.

How to Make Beef Stew

Ottawa Journal

One should begin the building of a beef stew in a calm, philosophical state of mind. Too many stews are started in a state too hurriedly. We are not at all prepared for the foods that can be prepared quickly, if we have a needed place, and our food manufacturers have made requests far all they are doing to take drudgery from cooking and to reduce time for the busy housewife. But there comes a time in the affairs of men when, taken at flood, leads on to fame and fortune. Any man or woman who learns to make a delightful beef stew will find fame climbing the steps.

If you would like a basic recipe with which to bring individual experimentation, here is the Countryman's. Use two and a half pounds lean beef in one-half inch cubes. Sear the meat well in small quantity in large spider. Bring a quart of water to a boil in a kettle. Dissolve two beef cubes in one cup of boiling water and add this to the quart of water. Put the seared meat in the kettle.

Add one large bay leaf, one-eighth teaspoon powdered rosemary, one-fourth teaspoon thyme, two teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper cut fine, one medium onion cut fine.

Simmer this mixture for two full hours, and then add six medium potatoes cut in small cubes and five average carrots cut in small cubes. Simmer one hour or more. During the last 30 minutes, stir in three-fourths cup of flour made into a paste. That, gentle readers, is a beef stew. And it is better the second day than the first.

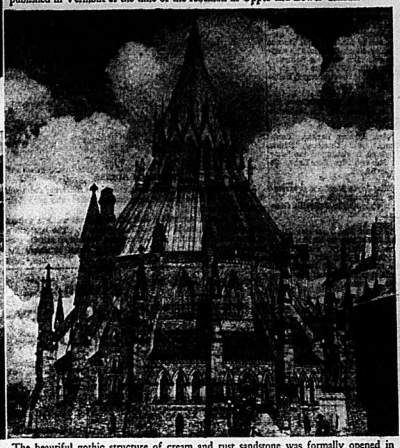
Canada's Library of Parliament

The work of restoring Canada's Parliamentary Library in Ottawa, partially destroyed by fire in 1952, has recently been completed at a cost of $2 million dollars and 4 years of painstaking work. The project was the most elaborate of its kind ever undertaken in Canada. The rebuilt dome, ornately decorated with gold leaf, is an exact replica of its beautiful predecessor.

An up-to-the-minute fire alarm control board has been installed and regular patrols are maintained by alert Commissionaires.

National Film Board of Canada Photos by Chris Lund



The Library's collection comprises half a million books as well as thousands of documens and microfilm editions of early and contemporary newspapers. There is a complete set, believed to be the only one in existence, of The North American, a paper published in Vermont at the time of the rebellion in Upper and Lower Canada.

Primarily a reference and research library for members of Parliament, the Library possesses the largest collection in Canada of books dealing with government and politics. In addition it has the finest collection of Canadiana in the world. The panelling and shelves are of white pine, intricately hand-carved.

The beautiful gothic structure of cream and rust sandstone was formally opened in 1876. Its octagonal shape is supported by flying buttresses, capped with a dome and lantern. Boys Confess To Slaying Man For Revenge

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Three boys Sunday confessed the murder of the father of one of them.

Police identified the son of a man who died in the Pennsylvania electric chair two years ago as the member of the trio who pulled the rifle trigger and killed 35-year-old Martin Daniels as he sat on the stoop of his home Saturday night.

"It was a pretty cold operation—just like professional killers," said homicide Capt. David H. Roberts.

VIOLENT QUARREL

Roberts said the boys signed a statement declaring that the murder was planned for revenge by Daniels' 16-year-old son, Martin Jr., after a violent quarrel Friday.

In the statement, the boys said the Daniels youth turned over the gun to 16-year-old Curtis Edwards as they and Albert Stolis, 15, lay in ambush in a cemetery across the street from the Daniels home. According to their statement, Daniels told Edwards:

"You'd better fire the shot, because you're a better marksman."

Edwards' father, Grover Cleveland Edwards, was executed in 1955 for the murder of a Philadelphia baker.

Believe Iraq May Aid Jordan

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—Iraq-Jordan financial talks ended today amid speculation that this pro-Western Middle East kingdom will make up the aid lost to her Hashemite neighbor from Egypt and Syria.

It was understood that financially pressed Jordan primarily wanted to know how much Iraq might be able to provide of the $22,000,000 which Syria and Egypt had promised the fellow Arab state.

One source said Iraq's possible contribution would depend on whether Egypt and Syria would refuse officially to pay the promised aid. Syria, which had promised $8,000,000, has as much as done this already.

King Hussein of Jordan and his cousin, King Faisal of Iraq, opened the talks Sunday.

Although declining to disclose details of the talks, a government spokesman in Amman said Jordan "is greatly pleased with the result."

Holloway Street United Church W.A. was hostess to the members of the Evening W.A. on Thursday evening, at the church.

Mrs. N. Brown, president, presided.

The devotional was in charge of Mrs. C. W. Coleman, whose theme was, "In Christ There Is No East or West." To the Christian there should be no distinction of race or color. Suitable hymns were used and prayer concluded the meditation.

Mrs. A. Daniels sang, "I Sought the Lord," with Mrs. F. M. Hubbs accompanying.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. J. F. Wilson introduced the guest speaker, Harriet Stevens, and presented her with a corsage of roses from Mrs. Wilson's garden. Harriet Stevens spoke on her trip to the United Nations in New York and told of some interviews she had had with international leaders employed there: Mrs. Tennyson Woods, head of commission on the status of women; Miss Isabel Keenleyside, chief buyer for U.N.I.C.E.F.; Miss Margaret Fielder, C.B.C. liaison agent to United Nations.

The speaker closed with an appeal to women to learn more of the functioning of the United Nations through study groups.

Mrs. T. E. Poste expressed the thanks of the audience to Harriet Stevens for her informative address.

Mrs. T. F. Townsend, delegate, gave a concise and interesting report of the Belleville Presbytery W. A. held in Trenton, recently.

The W.A. was unanimous in granting a donation of $35 toward the purchase of drinks for the vacation Bible School to be held in Holloway Street United Church every Tuesday during the months of July and August.

SEPTEMBER MEETING

Arrangements were made for the September meeting, when a dessert luncheon will be served and Mrs. J. Marsh will be guest speaker.

Plans were made for the redecoration of the Sunday School auditorium.

Mrs. Brown wished all a happy holiday season and the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Delicious strawberry shortcake was served by Mrs. O. Outingdyke and the members of her group, and a social time enjoyed.

On behalf of the Evening W.A., Mrs. Lee Bigley expressed thanks and appreciation for the inspiration received and fellowship enjoyed.

Bathing Beauty

By TRACY ADRIAN

For beauty on the beach here is a figure flattering swim suit that is also a style that is approved by ladies who take their aquatics seriously.

It is a one-piece model and golden threads make a pattern of sparkling stripes in the woolknit fabric. The suit has a sculptured skirt front. Built-in features include an artfully contrived cuffed bra top, and broad knitted straps to accent the smooth fitted lines.

Women's Activities

ST. PETER'S PRESBYTERIAN W. M. S.

MADOC — Mrs. Russell Lewis was hostess for the June meeting of St. Peter's W. M. S.

The president, Miss Vankleek conducted the business period. Mrs. Johnson reviewed the highlights of the W. M. S. Rally held at Stirling.

Mrs. Blakely was in charge of the program.

The Scripture Lesson, Mark 9: 33-50 was read by Mrs. Alvey. A meditation on the First Commandment, "Thou Shalt have no other gods before me" was given by Mrs. Bailey followed by prayer by Mrs. Blakely.

The topic for the month, "The Church in Taiwan," was taken by Mrs. Blakely. Here the church is young, comparatively small in membership, inadequately staffed, and surrounded by almost overwhelming tasks of evangelism in a society that is nearly 99 per cent non Christian. Yet this church is conscious of its own missionary obligation to the mass of the island's population, of the need of deepening and strengthening its own spiritual life. They are conscious of belonging to the world Christian community where each must help the other in fulfilling the great task in which Christ has called His people.

Mrs. Alvey and Mrs. Lewis sang a beautiful duet, "How Great Thou Art."

Mrs. Blakely and Mrs. Bailey, in dialogue form, enumerated the problems confronting the Church in Taiwan, stressing the need for Christian men and women, strong in their faith to train as Church leaders. These Christian people are preparing for the day when they might be called on to be independent of the Mother Church.

The president asked for special prayers, during the month. Mrs. Alvey and Mrs. McKintosh were to leave on a trip to Scotland, were presented with a small gift.

A social time was enjoyed, following the close of the meeting.

Kingston G.C. Entertained by Quinte G.C.

The ladies section of the Bay of Quinte Country Club entertained two out-of-town clubs on Thursday, when members from Cataraqui and Glen Lawrence Golf Clubs of Kingston, were guests.

After an 18-hole competition a delicious turkey dinner was served in the dining room. Tables were arranged in a "U" shape with an attractive yellow floral centrepiece. Miss Helen Lee, the ladies president, welcomed the guests and the following prizes were presented by Mrs. J. L. Acton, ladies captain.

The team prize was won by Belleville, composed of the following members: Mrs. J. B. Corke, Mrs. G. L. Bradford, Mrs. J. W. St. John, Mrs. Jack Diamond, Mrs. D. Bowerman and Mrs. McLean.

Other prizes were awarded as follows: 1st low gross (97), Mrs. J. W. St. John; 1st low net (80) Mrs. Jack Diamond; 2nd low gross (104), Mrs. G. L. Bradford; 2nd low net (80), Mrs. D. Bowerman; 1st low net (Cataraqui), (89), Mrs. Devlin; 1st low net (Glen Lawrence) (83), Mrs. Dymock; putting prize (Glen Lawrence), Mrs. Burar; hidden hole, Mrs. Saint (Glen Lawrence).

Kiwanis L.A. Holds Enjoyable Pot-Luck Supper

The regular meeting of the Kiwanis Ladies Auxiliary was held last Tuesday in the form of a pot-luck supper.

In pleasant weather, about 15 ladies accompanied by their husbands, gathered in the beautiful garden of the home of Lorne and Doris McDougall. Tables were arranged with a centre of a most colorful and scented floral arrangement.

Everyone enjoyed a most delectable and appetizing repast made up of a great variety of savory dishes and dessert.

After having sampled the work of the different cooks, all wandered in the lovely gardens and admired the flowers and landscaping.

Later, while the menfolk were enjoying a game of softball, the ladies held a short business meeting.

In the absence of president Elsie Punchard, who is accompanying her husband to the Kiwanis International convention at Atlantic City, second president Chris Logan conducted the meeting.

The treasurer's report showed a bank balance of $228.51.

Chris welcomed the new member, Kay Burton, and called on Alice Burkett who thanked all the ladies for helping with the spring tea, especially president Elsie for the use of her lovely home.

Ruby McConnell thanked Alice Burkett for her splendid job as convener for the spring tea, and Alice Burkett thanked Lorne and Doris McDougall for their use of their beautiful grounds for the evening's supper party.

Past president Chris thanked Nancy Pozzard and her group who were in charge of serving the supper.

FUND-RAISING DISCUSSION

A discussion followed about raising more funds. As a result, the following motion was made by Doris McDougall: that a mixed bridge and euchre party be held early in October, and friends to be invited and that a fee will be charged.

It was further moved that those planning to attend bring along a box lunch and that beverage be served by the group in charge, also that members bring card tables.

Ella Trepanier moved that the meeting be adjourned.

The approach of darkness and the lovely temperature drove the ball players and ladies into the charming home and around the delightful evening open fire, lighted especially by the gracious hostess.

On this pleasant note the evening closed to the accompaniment of lively round the room discussion on the evening's facts.

Tabernacle United B.B. Holds 1st Meet

The initial Baby Band meeting of Tabernacle United Church was held recently in the church school auditorium with 28 mothers and children in attendance.

Superintendent of Mrs. Morris Smith, opened the meeting with all singing, "Jesus Loves Me". Miss Ethel Horton presided at the piano.

Following prayer, the gift boxes were gathered.

Mrs. Ray Rowley introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. William Wilkins from Stirling. Mrs. Wilkins, Presbytery secretary of Baby Bands, gave an inspiring talk in the purpose and function of the Band.

Mrs. John Babiak showed flannelgraphs to the children, while Mrs. Wilkins spoke to the mothers.

Mrs. Smith expressed thanks to the speaker stating all had gained much from her address.

The children joined the mothers and a social hour followed. Members of the Evening Auxiliary of the W.M.S., sponsors of the Baby Show, served refreshments.

Lady Golfers Win Awards At Cobourg

Bay of Quinte Country Club lady golfers acquitted themselves creditably at the annual field day of the Cobourg Golf Club, Ladies' Division on Saturday.

Approximately ten of the Quinte distaff club swingers played in the tournament, four bringing back awards.

In the first flight Mrs. G. A. Bradford won the second low gross with a 95; while in the second flight, Mrs. J. L. Acton took second low gross with a 98 with Mrs. J. M. McLean winning first low net with a neat 72 card. Mrs. Jack Diamond won the door prize.

Upwards of 70 lady golfers from the district played in the tournament. Peterborough was represented by two clubs. Other clubs were Belleville, Picton, Kingsmere, Trenton and Port Hope.

The Cobourg ladies hosted their guests at a buffet dinner following the play when the var-

NEW CREAMS RESTORE AGING SKIN TISSUES

for the vast couple of years we been hearing more and more potency of royal jelly as retaining youthful skin ture and correcting skins which already begin to show sign age. Royal jelly, as you may may not know, cannot be manufactured by man. It is produced ely by young bees and, second- to scientists, it contains the best concentration of proteins, nerals and vitamins found in ture. Man, however, has taken e substance and blended it into ams, lotions and other cos- ic products for women, as well including it in prescription cap- ies and other preparations to be en internally for various all- ents.

t first introduced to women in e creams only, royal jelly has proven its efficacy as a skin ditioner that it is now an im- rtant ingredient of a number of illenge creams, two of which 'd like to discuss today. One is for the eye area, the she- er a cream for the neck. As most of us realize, the area round the eyes is so delicate and tissues so thin that it is one the first areas where telltale ns of age appear. The tissues re tend to sag more quickly ere there is no guarding bone ucture. Which is why, no mat- her age, every woman should ard against eye crinkles, puff- ss, lines and sagging. And, ver forget, squinting, laughing, igue and the years themselves take their toll. Special care, , is needed to counteract all e and, to provide it, there are ecial eye creams on the market. e new one, however, enriched h royal jelly, encourages the althy cell function which is so portant to this area. A few ps of cotton a week are said to be ficient for this stepped-up ncy cream with its startling ening effect.

balanced, flabby and or creepy kline is another tell-tale sign age. And the same cosmetician who produces the eye cream with yal jelly has also formulated a ecial neck and contour blend of ams enriched with the jelly. It not only encourages natural cell uction here, too, but promotes rculation and offers the ne's rich lubrication needed to ep the neckline youthfully ooth and firm.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MUST THEY ASK FOR EVERY CENT?

"I am sick and tired of having to ask my husband for every cent I need," writes a disgusted wife. "He makes plenty of money and there is no reason in the world why he shouldn't give me a definite sum, every week or every month, to buy food for our family of four, clothes for myself and the two children, and any other expenses that come up in connection with running the home. Also, it seems to me it would be fair for me to have something to spend on myself now and then.

"But no! Any time I need any money I have to ask for it. It's true he always gives it to me. But I have to specify the exact amount I need so that he knows just where every penny goes.

"I think he wants to keep me reminded that it's his money, because he makes it, and that I'm wholly dependent on him. It is just meanness that makes him act this way."

Well, I wouldn't say that it's always meanness, exactly, that makes a man like to keep on his wife financially. In many cases, he's perfectly willing to have her spend as much as she likes. But I think this wife has put her finger on the catch in the situation, which is that such men usually do have the desire, of which they may be entirely unaware, to dominate their homes completely; to be absolute lord of the manor.

Most such husbands simply cannot understand why it should upset their wives to have to ask for every dollar they need.

One husband who wrote me, talking up this subject from his point of view, asked just that question: Why was his wife always complaining about not having money of her own when she could go to any store in town, buy anything she liked and charge it to him?

"Why should she care," he asked, "as long as she gets what she wants?"

It's easy to answer that question, but I doubt if husbands of the type that want to control all the money will be able to understand it.

The reason a woman wants money in her own purse is because she prefers to feel like a self-respecting human being instead of a kept woman; like a working partner in the enterprise of marriage instead of a victim of forced labor. And how can the home partner do her job efficiently, and with satisfaction and pride in the job, without knowing from moment to moment how much money is at her disposal, and without the freedom to apportion that money as seems wisest to her?

Anybody want a list of such books?

VERSATILE WOOL COAT

By GRACE THORNCLIFF

The full-length coat seems to be doing better than ever this season. It's sure to be around all summer in silks and in light-weight woolens. This one, basketweave woolen in white, yellow or navy, is crisply smart and new. It has three tucks at front that extend from the pockets. Sleeves are raglan-push-up style. A good coat for sports or dress-up. Its a nice choice for the traveler.

Wives who find themselves in just this dilemma, including the woman who wrote the letter quoted in the beginning, rarely need to stay in it if they have imagination and initiative. Some of them go out and get jobs. Others, tied down at home by small children, turn to some special skill that they have and put it to work to earn money without going outside their own four walls.

There are a number of good books on the subject of making money at home, many of which tell the personal experiences of women who used their heads and their hands in their own kitchens, sewing rooms, basement workshops, or elsewhere around the house with very satisfactory financial returns.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHEAM

TODAY'S PRONUNCIATION TIP . . . FIANCE AND FIANCEE . .

Fiance and fiancee . . . always two wondrously important words! A man who is engaged is a fiance; a woman who is engaged is a fiancee (two s's). Fiance and fiancee are pronounced alike. Pronounce the first syllable . . . fee. Pronounce the second syllable . . . ahn, a bit nasally. The third syllable . . . say. Don't accent any of the three syllables. So there you are . . . fee-ahn-say.

SUGGESTIONS FOR HOUSEWARMING INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

How do I go about inviting our relatives, friends and neighbors to the Housewarming my husband and I are planning to give soon? — W.

There are several ways, proper and convenient, to give these invitations.

(1) Today many new households are ordering the extremely convenient informals (fold-over cards) with their name (for example Mr. and Mrs. John Allen) engraved or printed in the center of the first page, and with the new address in the lower right corner. Then the housewarming invitations may be written on the inside pages (perhaps including the new telephone number). Or the names and new address may be hand-written on the first page, instead of engraved or printed.

(2) If you have "Mr. and Mrs." cards, the invitation may be written on them, like a tea-invitation.

(3) The invitations may be written on letter-paper, medium-size or semi-note size.

(4) Today there are several excellent, simply- designed Housewarming invitation-cards, very convenient to use.

(5) You may buy the semi-engraved cards and fill in the details of the invitation.

(6) You may invite relatives and intimate friends verbally or by telephone, and write cards or notes of invitation to those who do not live nearby.

"Half My Husband's Pay on Food"

By Mary Moore

Marjorie S. writes: . . . I would like economical recipes and tips on budgeting . . . we spend approximately $50.00 to $28.00 per week on food for 6 children, husband and self, oldest child 8, husband earns nearly half of my husband's pay . . . Hubby can't eat tomato recipes . . .

As most of us know, and doubtless Marjorie does too, half of weekly wage is too much to spend on food. This budget is not properly proportioned. But I know perfectly well that a family of 8 has to be fed, regardless of budget theories and I think that Marjorie is doing well to keep within $35. weekly. That works out to less than $4.50 each per week or less than 21c for each meal for each member.

However, even in these days of high food prices there are plenty of ways to buy and to provide economically but they must be closely studied for enticing advertisements and beautiful packages are hard to resist. For instance on a strict budget the buyer cannot purchase the expensively packaged foods, 2. food in small quantities, 3. out-of-season fresh foods, 4. unnecessary luxuries such as candy or bottled pop, 5. packaged cake and cookie mixes, 6. ready-sliced meats, bread and cheese, 7. tender cuts of meat, 8. meat with high fat content (side bacon).

Dinner Menus

MONDAY

Ham and Asparagus Rolls (see note), New Peas with Green Onions in Cream Sauce, Combination Salad, Strawberry Chiffon Pie, Coffee. (Note: to make the Ham and Asparagus Rolls make very thin pancakes 6 or 8-inches in diameter. While hot cover each one with slice of ham and 3 stalks hot cooked asparagus and roll up. Place in warm oven, covered, to heat through before serving.)

The buyer on a strict budget should become expert at 1. selecting inexpensive cuts of meat less stewing beef, a fresh medium oxtail, a breast, potatoes, 1 kg. flour, salt, pepper, green dumplings. Cut meat into 1-inch cubes. Dredge with ¼ cup flour to which the salt and pepper have been added. In a large heavy kettle or frying pan melt about 4 tablespoons good dripplings and brown dredged meat in it on all sides. Cover with water and add bay leaf, put on lid, simmer for 2½ to 3 hours or until meat is almost tender. Add vegetables, adding water if needed, cook for 25 minutes, then add dumplings, cover and cook 12 minutes without peeking. If desired, about 3 each cubed onions and carrots may be substituted for other amounts of vegetables, dumplings omitted and stew served on a bed of noodles.

More economical ideas for Marjorie and other strict budgeters will be given next week.

Jam time again
Get set for Strawberries!

When strawberries are at their red-ripe peak — that's the time to buy them and make your jam! No need to tell you that the beautiful jam you make yourself will please your family and friends so much more than the kind you buy.

You're sure of successful jam every time, too, when you rely on the quick, easy Certo recipes.

Why CERTO gives you failure-proof jam

Certo is natural fruit pectin. Pectin is the jelling substance found in all fruits in varying amounts. Some fruits have so little they must be boiled and boiled and boiled. Other fruits, with good amounts, must be boiled 20 to 30 minutes before they will jell. But even then you can never be sure of results.

When you use Certo, there's absolutely no guesswork. You boil your fruit hard 1 minute only. You keep the true color and flavor and you get up to 50% more jam because you don't boil the juice away.

You'll be proud to serve the lovely jam you make so quickly, easily and successfully with Certo.

Strawberry Jam

Yield: about 10 medium glasses (5 lbs. jam)

3½ cups prepared fruit (about 2 quarts fully ripe berries)
¼ cup lemon juice
7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar
1½ bottle Certo Fruit Pectin

First, prepare the fruit. Crush completely, one layer at a time, about 2 quarts fully ripe berries. (If desired, sieve half of pulp to remove some of the seeds.) Measure 3½ cups into a very large saucepan. Add lemon juice. Then make the jam. To the measured fruit in saucepan, add sugar and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; at once stir in Certo. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle into glasses. Cover at once with ⅛ inch hot paraffin.

SUNDAY MESSAGE

JOHNSTOWN — Sunday school and church were held at Johnstown on Sunday afternoon. The Rev. G. A. Puttenham's lesson was found in the 3rd and 4th chapters of Exodus; the text was "And behold the bush burned with fire and the bush was not consumed."

"Moses lived 120 years in three periods of 40 years each. The first forty years were spent at the court of Pharoah where he had been brought, when a baby, and adopted by the king's daughter. This gave him a chance to be educated better than most boys for his future life work which God had picked out for him.

"Moses was forced to flee from Pharoah, so he went to the country of the Midians and was welcomed into the family of a priest. This family lived morally better than those in the king's palace so Moses began to have a higher ideal of things. He married into this family, and Jethro his father-in-law, had him to watch his sheep. It was while going that that Moses saw a burning bush and yet the fire did not seem to burn it. He also heard God's voice come out of this bush.

"The result of Moses' wanderings brought to him a greater faith. God making himself known to Moses through the burning bush, kindled a flame in his heart. The burning bush stands for the secret, continuous life of the church, against apathy from within and opposition from without. The church stands against it all, for the Holy Spirit illumines it.

"Many have been called to serve in the church; people from humble homes or it may be on the road God's voice is heard in varied circumstances and it comes as a mystery, something the world does not understand. This is the work of the Holy Spirit. It made Moses distrust himself and trust more in God, making it possible to prepare himself for his last 40 years or great work the Lord had entrusted to him, bringing the Israelites out of Egypt into the promised land. Moses told God if He would not go with them they could not go without Him.

"Messengers of the church are needed today that the world might know of Him. Money and men are two great needs of our church but a much more important need is the Holy Spirit in our lives and the life of the church.

"God blesses those who try to serve Him in His way we each seek our burning bush."

JOHNSTOWN —Mr. and Mrs. Junior Brooks were callers of Mr. and Mrs. Will Black, of York Road, Trenton, on Monday evening.

Mrs. Grace Blackman and Will of Wellington, were supper guests of the former's daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Hart on Sunday evening.

Morons in Need Are Fed From Large Storehouses

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Members of the Latter-Day Saints Church take seriously a biblical injunction not to take care of their own is to be worse than an infidel.

Through the church welfare plan, they have carried the idea a long about as far as it will go.

The result: A Mormon in need, armed only with authorization from a church official, can get—without paying a cent—food and clothing from one of the 140 bishops' storehouses scattered across the continent. But he must work for what he gets.

To keep the bishops' storehouses loaded, the church owns a coal mine, more than 66,000 acres of farmland, citrus orchards, 30 canneries that turn out more than 1,500,000 cans a year, poultry farms, dairies and feed lots. Assets of the plan are estimated at more than $17,000,000. Expenditures during 1956 were almost $5,000,000.

JOBS PROVIDED

The aim of the plan is to give assistance to the needy and to provide jobs for those who couldn't get work elsewhere.

The welfare plan evolved from the painful early days of the Mormons. In 1844 the leader of the church, Joseph Smith, and his brother Hyrum were slain by a mob in Carthage, Ill. The Mormons fled the midwest and found sanctuary in the unsettled Salt Lake valley, arriving here July 24, 1847.

Crickets attacked the first crop planted by the Mormons. Only the appearance — hundreds of miles from the ocean—of seagulls which devoured the crickets saved the Mormons from famine.

FOOD STORAGE PLAN

Brigham Young, who took over leadership of the church upon the death of Joseph Smith, began a grain - saving movement in 1876 after recognizing the importance of having an adequate food supply available in an isolated country. In 1936, during the depression, the church gathered into one agency the various relief and welfare organizations and set up the welfare plan as it is now known.

All Mormons of good standing participate in one way or another, giving or receiving according to their abilities or needs.

One of the ways they participate is through fast offerings. Each member is asked to fast for two meals on the first Sunday in each month. They contribute the equivalent of the cost of the meals to the church for use in the plan.

TOUGH CEMENT

Portland cement, patented in England in 1824, was first produced in the United States in 1871.

"Cash from Citizens meant a new range for us"

"We'd needed a new range and 'frig for a long time but we were short of money.

"Then we found just what we wanted —at a very reasonable price—in the classified ads, but the owners naturally wanted cash."

"I'd still be making do with the old stove and 'frig if a neighbour hadn't advised us to see Citizens Finance. We did, and the same day the Loan Manager had arranged everything. We got the cash—and on easy monthly terms."

Mrs. Andrews' followed the example of a great many people by coming to Citizens Finance when she wanted ready cash. We can help you too, with cash loans up to $2500. Just give us a call or drop in.

SPEED PIPELINE EAST AT RATE OF MILE PER DAY

This welder, above, is one of 4,000 men who are working seven days a week, from sunrise to dusk, in a race to beat Nature's natural goal to Winnipeg by the fall deadline and to the Lakehead by winter. For 746 miles between Regina and Port Arthur, residents can see part of the 2,294-mile trans-Canada pipeline take shape as more than a mile of the 34-inch pipe is laid per day. While work is progressing swiftly and simultaneously across Southern Saskatchewan and Manitoba farmlands, contracting crews face their toughest job in Northern Ontario's solid granite rock, Engineers must direct dynamiting and drilling operations for miles across the Canadian shield. Barring long spells of rainy weather, Trans-Canada Pipe Line officials are confident they will meet their fall deadline. Last summer 230 miles of pipe was laid from the Alberta-Saskatchewan bord

STAGES ONE-MAN DEMONSTRATION

The Las Vegas, Nev., field office of the atomic energy commission is picketed by Ammon Hennacy, associate editor of the New York Catholic Worker, who is sitting on the window sill with his sign as Lt-Col. Proposed Overhaul of U.S. Anti-Subversive Programs Met by Praise and Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP)—Proposals for overhauling United States government anti-subversive programs won praise today in some quarters, but there was strong criticism of a recommendation for criminal penalties for publishing "secret" information.

Coming in for praise was a joint Democrat-Republican commission's proposal for a sweeping revision of the Eisenhower administration's loyalty-security program and for scaling American defences against subversion. The commission said its recommendations also are designed to offer "increased safeguards for the rights of individuals."

A target of criticism was the proposed law under which a newspaper man could be fined $10,000 and sent to prison for five years for publishing secret information.

Some congressmen also assailed a commission proposal to legalize the use of wire-tap evidence in court cases involving national security.

IN A REPORT

The 12-man commission, set up by Congress, made its recommendations Saturday in a report to Congress and President Eisenhower.

The commission's chairman, Lloyd Wright, told a press conference that it was groping sought to "cure those things that have been woefully lacking" in government security programs. Wright is a former president of the American Bar Association.

However, there is little prospect of any action by Congress in the remaining weeks of the present session. As a practical matter, many say, too little time is left.

The administration's controversial loyalty-security program for federal employees was set up by Eisenhower in 1953 and has been the subject of a number of congressional investigations.

Under commission proposals for revising this program, (1) Loyalty cases would be separated from those involving employees regarded as security risks only because of undesirable personal habits; (2) A limited right to confront accusers would be granted, and (3) A new agency would be created in an effort to assure improved administration of the program.

SEE ONE DANGER

The commission said dangers to national security arise from oversecrecy which "retards scientific and technological progress."

However, it also called for a bill to make it unlawful for "any person" who obtained "secret" or "top secret" information in atomic or other fields "to communicate any part thereof" to anyone else not authorized to receive such information.

This would apply to reporters or other private citizens, even if they had no intention to harm national security. At present, the law bars only government employees from disclosing such information.

St. Paul's WMS Sponsors Afternoon Tea

STIRLING — The supply department of St. Paul's W.M.S. Stirling, held an afternoon tea in the United Church parlors Friday afternoon.

Mrs. George Carlisle, president of the W.M.S., welcomed the guests as they arrived. The treasurers were, Mrs. W. C. Brown and Mrs. Dave Leury.

During the afternoon, Mrs. Russell Stapley contributed soft piano music and a group of W.M.S. members served refreshments to the guests, seated at quartet tables.

Mrs. Roy Tucker sold home-made candy for the Baby Band and Mrs. Carleton Wright sold greeting cards for the Mission Band.

A large array of aprons was displayed and sold by Mrs. Morley Aychart and other WMS members.

The home cooking booth was convened by Mrs. Frank Wood, Mrs. Oliver Stapley and Mrs. Volney Richardson. The affair was a decided success.

GENERAL RUDE, REDS SAY

BERLIN (AP) — British army headquarters announced Friday the Soviet Union had demanded withdrawal of Brig. Charles Wynn-Pope as head of the British military liaison mission in Soviet-occupied East Germany. Gen. Sir Dudley Ward, commander-in-chief of British forces in Germany, called the Soviet request "petty and absurd." Informed sources said Wynn-Pope was accused by the Russians of violating road traffic regulations and "being rude to the people in the German democratic republic."

Little Benny's Notebook

Today in school Miss Kitty was telling us about intelligents, saying I've heard it said that only people have intelligents while other living creetures merely have instinct, but this morning on my way to school I saw a little baby sparrow struggling to flutter up the trunk of a tree to get back to its nest, and every time it had to stop from exhawstion its mother flew down and gave it new strength by popping another werm into its beek. I'm sure that was a proof of real intelligents. Who can give me another example from their own observation? she said.

Which Skinny Martin did, saying, It's impossible to get every fee off of a dog by washing it because anybody that ever tried to do it knows it cant be done.

Surely that doesn't prove dogs are intelligent, Miss Kitty said, and Skinny said, No mam, it approves that fleez are. I bet the most intelligent people in the werld couldn't save their life by dodging that mutch soapy water in proportion to their size, he said.

Perhaps not, but let us confine ourselves to the animal kingdom, Miss Kitty said.

Meaning to skip insects, and Sid Hunt said, Once I saw a junk waggon horse slip on the ice and fall down in the street, and if it had just used its instinct it would of got right up again, but it used its intelligents instead and kept on laying there as flat as it could get, because it knew it wouldn't have to start werking again till it got back on ile legs.

Oh dear, I know some boys who would make the same use of their intelligents if they got the chance, Miss Kitty said.

Being the sorcastic end of the subject.

Young Dancing Teacher of 'Diment School of Dance' Presents Recital

SHANNONVILLE — After a year of intensive, enjoyable training, pupils of the youngest dancing instructor in Belleville and vicinity, Miss Gail Juby, and her choreographer, Miss Barbara Diment of Belleville, recently presented an exciting show of several different, fascinating numbers before an appreciative audience at the Orange hall, in Shannonville.

The program arranged and directed by Gail and her teacher, Barbara, was one of the finest ever offered, topping that of last year's. This consisted of all types of dance, ensembles and skits, showing a fine performance by each and everyone in the large cast.

Costumes consisted of bug, bunny, Irish, Scotch forms of dress to several classes of formal dress. Also the lovely baskets of flowers added delight and sparkle to the stage. The flowers were donated by Mrs. Kenneth Juby.

"TIMMY"

One of the many highlights from strobo lighting, roller-skates, bugs, bunnies and waltzes was that of Eastern Ontario's "Timmy" (Terry Stoliker), of Shannonville, for Easter Seals. Timmy presented a fine display of courage and intelligence in his two numbers, using only his crutches, without the aid of his braces. He showed that through the past year, proud and patient training had been given him by his teacher.

Providing the different musical arrangements at the piano were Mrs. Warham and Miss Barbara Diment, both of Belleville.

Following the "Finale" and preceding God Save the Queen, Gail was given sincere congratulations for her fine and pleasing display of talent on the part of the students. To show the pupils appreciation, Larry Pascoe presented Gail with personal gifts on behalf of the student body. As she accepted the gifts in her pleasant way, Gail thanked the master of ceremonies, Mr. Kenneth Vivian, the mothers, her choreographer, Barbara Diment, and all those who participated in her second annual recital.

The make - up artist for the second year was Miss Helen Vivian, Shannonville. Many thanks are tendered Helen.

Mrs. Warham was also presented with a gift on behalf of the pupils by Miss Carolyn Howard.

The master of ceremonies, Mr. Kenneth Vivian, was presented with a token of appreciation by Cheryl Juby, on the part of Gail and Barbara.

Bride-Elect Presented With Chime Clock

SHANNONVILLE — On Monday evening, Mrs. K. R. Vivian and daughters, Miss Helen Vivian, and Mrs. Frank Love, entertained at the Vivian home a number of guests to honor Miss Dorothy Dowdell on her approaching marriage.

Pink and white peonies, wedding bells and balloons were used for decorating.

A pleasant evening was spent and all enjoyed games and a social time together.

Flash pictures were taken of the honored guest and also group pictures.

On behalf of those present, and with fitting remarks, Mrs. Harrington presented a lovely Westminster chime clock to the bride - elect, who graciously thanked the givers for the gift.

Lois Harrington, Jean Rump, and Doris Johnson assisted the hostesses in serving refreshments, culminating a most enjoyable evening.

Strong Shelters Play Vital Part in Surviving A-Attack

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—What can you do to survive a massive atomic attack?

Would you be safer fleeing from densely - populated areas, away your best bet be to take your life on a scientifically-designed shelter system?

Researchers at the naval radiological defence laboratory here have come up with a carefully-integrated survival system in which strong shelters play a vital part. They have studied the problem for years and say that theirs is the "only workable approach."

They call it the "radiological recovery system."

NO ALTERNATIVE

"All of our study has left us no alternative but this," said Capt. Richard S. Mandelkorn, naval officer in charge of the laboratory. "And national planners seem to be coming around to our way of thinking."

Since 1946, when the U.S. Navy established the laboratory to find out how to decontaminate ships used in the H-bomb test at Bikini, its staff of 200 scientists, aided by as many technicians, administrative and military personnel, has spent about $5,000,000 a year studying the effects of nuclear devices. Much of the research is secret.

It has grown to take in the whole problem of radiological defence and is the only laboratory in the U.S. attacking all aspects of the problem.

NO POINT IN RUNNING

"We know what must be done to meet successfully a mass atomic attack," Mandelkorn said.

"The old run and hide in the hills idea is out. As far as this laboratory is concerned, evacuations are of little or no value because, in a mass attack, nobody can predict fallout-free locations in which to take refuge."

"At a cost of around $3,000,000,000, spent over a period of four or five years, 100,000,000 persons could be assured of a good chance of survival.

"And by investing $30,000,000,000 over a period of years in the shelter system, practically the entire population of the country could be protected."
